Plaque Dedicated At Sheldon Grist Mill

Sunday afternoon, May 8, the Elk Grove Parlor of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West dedicated a marker at the site of the Sheldon Grist Mill built in 1846-47 by Jared Dixon Sheldon on the banks of the Cosumnes river near Sloughhouse. The marker was placed along side of the county road from Sloughhouse to Wilson near the W. R. Pierson ranch.

It was the first mill built in the Sacramento Valley, and General Sutter is known to have had grain milled there in the winter of 1848-1849.

Officials of the Native Sons and Daughters were present, including Grand President Walter Bailey; Doris M. Gerrish, Grand Inside Sentinel; and Henrietta Toothaker, Grand Vice-President of the Native Daughters. Invited guests included state officials as well as city and county officers.

Through the courtesy of the Elk Grove Union High School, T. R. Smedberg principal, and the band, under the direction of Mr. Kirkman, provided the music for the event. The Art department, Mrs. Betty Baker, instructor made appropriate covers for the programs.

The plaque, 32x34 inches, is being donated by the California Centennials Commission of which PGP Joseph R. Knowland is chairman.

Committees in charge of the arrangements were: Liberty Parlor No. 213 NDGW; Muriel Blodgett, Fay Ledbetter and Doris M. Gerrish. Elk Grove Parlor No. 41, NSGW; A. S. Gibbens, Harvey Blodgett and William Blawat.

Polio Victim

The sympathy of the entire Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West goes out to Blaine Driscoll, Sr., secretary of University Parlor, Los Angeles, in the recent passing of his son, Blaine Driscoll, Jr. Blaine wishes to acknowledge the wonderful help of the March of Dimes in his son's long battle against polio. This organization stood all the terrific expenses, even from the inception. Few people realize the cost of polio. Were it not for the March of Dimes, Blaine would have been faced with at least $50.00 per day expense over a period of many months. This should be borne in mind when the next national campaign for this worthy organization occurs.

IN MEMORIAM

To the Officers and Members of Marguerite Parlor No. 12, NDGW:

We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of love and respect to the memory of our departed Sister Bertha Reeg, respectfully submit the following:

WHEREAS, the ties of love and fraternity have again been severed by the Angel of Death, it is our desire to pay loving tribute to the memory of our dear Sister. She was a daughter of the pioneers, and inherited their sturdy independence of thought and action. She became a member of our Order on September 2, 1896, served as its presiding officer, was appointed District Deputy Grand President on July 1, 1905 by Grand President Ariana W. Sterling, and again in 1941 was appointed Supervising District Deputy. In the absence of officers she was frequently called upon to fill the various chairs, repeating the ritualistic work almost perfectly from memory. She was often a delegate to Grand Parlor and when not a delegate she often attended because of her interest in our Order. Her keen mind and accurate memory made her one of our most outstanding members. More than any of the older members of the Parlor she continued to be interested in its affairs, and sometimes attended when she was really too ill to do so. We all deeply feel the loss of one who has so long been a guide and mentor of our Parlor. We will always remember her many generous acts of friendship, and in our sorrow we are also mindful of the greater loss to her bereaved husband and sisters.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that we extend our deepest sympathy to her bereaved family, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family, and a copy be spread in full upon the minutes of the Parlor.

"There is no Death—the stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forevermore."

Respectfully submitted,

BEVERLY M. COLA

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By LEONARD SCHWACOFR

The opinions expressed are those of the editor and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

How do you like the new lay-out of the Grizzly Bear? We have had it under consideration for some time and it was brought about by the demands of many of our advertisers to be included on the pages where the news of their particular locality is run. Accordingly, as sufficient advertising from other sections is built up to carry the page, additional pages will be added. Separate pages will carry the Grand Parlor News of both Orders.

The idea is not new with the Grizzly Bear.
It was used for a number of years by the late
Clarence Hunt with considerable success.

Write in and tell us whether you like it or don't like it.

We notice by the parlor bulletins that a number of parlors are investigating plans for acquiring their own meeting halls. If such a project can be soundly financed, the parlor is probably better off in having a meeting place of its own. Many parlors have been kicked from meeting place to meeting place during the past few month, whereas the lodges or other fraternal orders own their own halls.
For the Native Sons and Daughters to have their own hall will do much to increase their prestige in their respective communities.

Napa Parlor is to be congratulated on going Sea Scout Ship and upon their boys ball team. The Native Sons set out two years ago to develop projects in boys work. Many parlors have talked about what they are going to do. Judging from the reports that we get here at the Grizzly Bear office, most of the parlor never got beyond the talking stage. Hats off to Napa. May other parlors follow in your footsteps.

San Jose Prepares For Big Admission Day Celebration

With the slogan "Celebrate Admission Day in San Jose," the committee of 100 members representing all nine Native Son and Daughter parlors in Santa Clara County serving under the general chairmanship of Brother H. Irving Lee of Observatory Parlor No. 177, has been busily planning for a gala parade on September 9 which will mark the ninety-ninth year of California statehood.

All sub-committees have been formed and are functioning. Housing Chairman Bud Gallichotte reports that the hotels are filling up their reservations lists rapidly, and the motels, auto courts, and rooming houses in many cases will take up the overflow which the downtown area cannot absorb. He says that there will be much more space available in September than can be committed now by the trade and he urges that reservations be made early.

Serving under direction of Grand Marshal Eugene Cerqui, Parade Chairman Edward M. Fellows, Santa Clara Parlor No. 100, is preparing a large scale map of the parade route. He said that tentative plans call for the first division to start on the historic La Alameda, a section of El Camino Real, near the city limits of neighboring Santa Clara and move southward into the downtown area of San Jose. Elaborate plans for conducting the parade are being formulated. Brother Fellows has had considerable experience with parade organization having for many years been president of the California Horsemen's Association and he states that there will be mounted units from many sections of California. He plans to send a detailed map of the parade route to all participating units showing their street of assembly, course, and disassembly point. Plans also include several spots along the route of march where senior members may drop out of the line of march and mount a bus to finish out the parade.

Brother Fellows said that all old-timers who wanted to enter for a short distance could do so and thus be accommodated.

The tree shaded side streets and the mostly shaded La Alameda will offer a beautiful setting for the numerous floats, drill teams, drum corps, bands, and marching units entered in the San Jose parade. The nine Santa Clara County parlors have decided to combine into one unit and their dress theme will be '49'er costume with each member dressed from what he can find in the attic or basement and that promises some catchy combinations. Prizes will be awarded for the various classes.

Three of the original willow trees planted by Indian neophytes from the Santa Clara Mission in 1799 to mark the road from Santa Clara to the Pueblo de San Jose de Guadalupe will stand today beside this wide highway.

Brother Fellows has enlisted the aid of many very experienced parade marshals to assist him and he said that he was especially anxious that the affair run off smoothly and on schedule.

Drill team and drum corps competition will be held on the evening of September 8th, in the Municipal Baseball park according to chairman Lawrence Paradiso and assistant Harold Semichy and many large cash prizes are offered. Competition will get underway early in the evening.

A bowling tournament is scheduled but at this early writing the details are not completed. Chairman is Al Berryessa of San Jose Parlor No. 22.

For Native Sons and Daughters and their guests, the recreation grounds at the Fredricksburg Brewery will be a hilarious meeting place on the evenings of September 8th and 9th with the refreshments being provided by the management and the local parlors.

Selection of San Jose for this great occasion during the centennial years is indeed fortunate for much of the early California romantic history was made in this fertile valley. From its inception as the first civil settlement in the state, the fledgling Pueblo de San Jose de Guadalupe had a major role in the development of this great commonwealth of the West. It was here that the first state legislature convened in December 1849, naming San Jose the first state capital, the state house location which has only recently been designated for posterity with an historical marker. Referred to as the legislature of "1000" drinks and profuse wrangling, its members could not raise the money to fully pay the contractor who constructed the first state house of framing and adobe but the painter with a smaller bill is reputed to have collected his pay. On May 1, 1851 the capital was permanently removed from San Jose and about two years later the state house was destroyed by fire. A replica built some years later was also destroyed by fire and today the Santa Clara County Centennials Committee has plans to re-construct the original state house in or near the Plaza which may then be donated to the City of San Jose for use as a museum.

Los Angeles County Conducts Annual Flag Day Ceremonies

On the program in the office of Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz were representatives of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, the American Legion and county leaders.

Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand Marshal of the Native Daughters, was mistress of ceremonies after being presented by John Schmolle, president of the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee.

The American Flag was presented to Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer by Eugenia Smith, Grand Outside Sentinel, while the Bear Flag was presented by Grand Outside Sentinel Walter Brandt to James Downey, commander of Star Post of the American Legion. After both flags were presented to Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, a color guard raised them in front of the Hall of Justice.

OUR COVER

In keeping with the mammoth Gold Rush Celebration to be held in Columbia State Park July 15, 16, 17, in commemoration of the Centennial of the Days of '49, we present this month the old Wells Fargo Express office at Columbia. Now a museum in Columbia State Park, Tuolumne County, the building contains gold scales, account ledgers and other relics of the hectic gold rush days that brought to California one of the greatest migrations of people that the world has ever seen. It is reported that some $55,000,000 in gold was shipped through this office.

Columbia at one time was a close second in the election for the state capitol of California, losing out to Sacramento by the narrow margin of two votes.

There are many old buildings in Columbia, most of them in use as museums and stores visited by the thousands who come to see this town of the Gold Rush Days preserved for posterity.

The picture was taken by George M. Spears of Anaheim, well-known for his pictures and lectures on historical California.

"OH GLITTERING PROMISE"

Some interesting facts about Anne Fisher, author of one of the latest books on early California.

By ANITA ABBY CHURCH

Past President, Junipero Parlor, NDGW

With the publication of her latest historical novel, "Oh Glittering Promise," author Anne Fisher has not only added new laurels to her crown as the writer of significant California books, but also has contributed luster to Junipero Parlor, 141, as the "adopted" daughter of that organization.

It was shortly after "Cathedral in the Sun," her first California book, made its appearance and was hailed as the first authentic story of Carmel Mission told from the viewpoint of Serra's converted Indians, that members of Junipero Parlor (taking it for granted that the author so inspired must be a native Californian) clamored to bring her into the parlor. Unfortunately, Colorado-born Anne Fisher was obviously not eligible, so the next best thing was to adopt her.

Since that time she has contributed to the Parlor's success at historical pilgrimages, and when one of the stories of her children's book "Bears, Pirates, and Silver Lace" was dramatized as the highlight of a reception for Grand Trustee Elmarie H. Dyke, Mrs. Fisher presented the parlor with a royalty check to aid in the Homeless Children project.

Anne Fisher has had an amazing career. Born Anne Benson, in Denver, Colorado, she was graduated as a nurse in 1918, and being too young for overseas service, took up bacteriology and worked in the Government Bureau of Animal Industry, replacing a man who had gone to war. Her experiences in that profession formed the background for "Wide Road Ahead," one of her earlier novels.

Coming to California for her health, she started the first clinical laboratory for doctors between San Jose and Santa Barbara.

In 1922 she was married to Dr. Walter K. Fisher, who was then Director of the Hopkins Marine Station of Stanford University, located at Pacific Grove. Since Dr. Fisher's retirement, he has devoted himself to his hobby of painting in oils and contributed his talents in the illustrating of his wife's book, "The Salinas," one of the rivers of America Series, published in 1945, and also the "California Edition" of "Cathedral in the Sun."

Mrs. Fisher's success in combining a highly successful literary career with being the wife of an internationally known scientist prompted her to write the common-sense and hilarious "Live With a Man and Love It," in 1937, in answer to Marjorie Hillis' "Live Alone and Like It." It became a national best seller overnight.

Delightful vignettes of life in old Monterey, which the author told for the enjoyment of the children in the Monterey schools, were gathered together by popular request and published in 1944 under the title "Bears, Pirates, and Silver Lace" and revealed still another side of Mrs. Fisher's skill as a story-teller.

In 1946 she wrote "No More A Stranger," a tender and compassionate recreation of Robert Louis Stevenson's stay at Monterey, where he successfully continued his courtship of Fanny Osbourne, whom he had followed "half way around the globe." They were later married.

In "Oh Glittering Promise," which is the story of the pursuit of gold in the California gold fields, and the gathering of greed, Mrs. Fisher has written her story around the women of the period—the legal wife of the Pennsylvania gold-seeker, his "California Wife," the "Fancy Women," and the mothers, whose world was uprooted by the mad trek west.

There are many members of Junipero Parlor who have shared the rich experience with the author of bringing to life once more the colorful characters who made history in Monterey, by delving into the treasure chests of memory to contribute tattered scraps of life in the old days, which Mrs. Fisher has so skillfully woven into her glowing tapestry.

1500 Attend Presentation Of Rancho Huasna Marker

An estimated 1500 people attended the presentation of a bronze marker at Casa del Rancho Huasna near Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo County, Sunday, June 5, the affair being sponsored by the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Presentation of the tablet was by Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peraca, Los Angeles attorney Inter-Parlor Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. The plaque was unveiled by Webster Jessup. Acceptance of the tablet was by Los Angeles Supervisor Roger W. Jessup and Mrs. Jessup, who own the Huasna ranch now.

The ceremonies followed an elaborate barbecue dinner under giant oak trees. Members of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West came from Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Santa Maria, Arroyo Grande and San Luis Obispo drove to Huasna ranch to attend the event.

A special bus left the Los Angeles area Sunday morning, loaded with Native Sons and Daughters.

The ceremony was under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Ella Steinbeck, with Paul G. Sweetser of Santa Barbara, serving as master of ceremonies. The Arroyo Grande High School band entertained the dinner crowd.

The Morro Bay Union Elementary School folk dancers entertained, under the direction of Wilmar N. Tognazzini, Mrs. Leo Lassonde of San Luis Obispo offered vocal numbers.

The Santa Barbara parlor, Reina del Mar, Native Daughters of the Golden West, presented their "Las Fiesteras" numbers, composed of authentic early California dances.

Ceremonies at the adobe ranchhouse were started at 3:30 p.m., with John B. Schmolle, president of the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor committee, officiating as master of ceremonies.

Invocation was by Rev. Robert L. Bonhall, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Santa Maria. The color guard was presented by the Arroyo Grande Boy Scout Troop 13, sponsored by the First Methodist Church of Arroyo Grande with, Rev. Carl Wahlquist, leader.

Grand Marshal Anna T. Schiebusch, ND-GW, spoke on our "Primal Object" and Judge Walter H. Odemar, Junior Past Grand President, NSGW, spoke on the "Native Sons Part in Recording History."

The story of "Casa del Rancho Huasna," and Capt. Isaac J. Sparks, founder of the Huasna Rancho, was narrated by Leo Marcus Harloe, a great grandson of Capt. Sparks and a teacher in a Los Angeles City high school, whose thesis on the historic rancho is now being published.

Capt. Sparks first received the Huasna and the Pismo Rancho as land grants from the Mexican Government, Harloe said. This was about 1831, and it was in that year that he built the original adobe house which, in recent years, has been restored and enlarged. He sold off the Pismo grant but retained the Huasna, a large portion of which is still in the hands of his descendants.

Contemporary of William Foxen, who guided Gen. John C. Fremont through San Marcos Pass in 1846 to escape a Mexican ambush in Gaviota Pass, Capt. Sparks became a storekeeper in Santa Barbara. Later he hunted otter off the coast of what is now San Luis Obispo County.

Mrs. Roger Jessu was presented with a beautiful guest book signed by the people present. Phil McNaney, Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, Los Angeles, spoke of his experiences 56 years ago when he taught school in Huasna Valley. Some of his former pupils were present.

All descendants of Isaac J. Sparks present were introduced, it was Hamilton Parks, who once owned the adobe but put the tin roof on which saved it for posterity.

Master of ceremonies for the program at the barbecue was Paul G. Sweetser of Santa Barbara Parlor, Honorary Vice Consul of the Republic of Mexico for Santa Barbara, Ventura and San Luis Obispo counties.

The ranch is now owned by Supervisor Roger W. Jessup of Los Angeles County, who was host to the crowds attending the event.

Columbia Gold Rush Celebration Near

A pulsating, prosperous page out of California's fabulous past will be relived for three spectacle-filled days when a mammoth Gold Rush Celebration is held next July 15th, 16th and 17th, at Columbia State Park.

Interest in the gigantic three-day celebration, co-sponsored by the California Centennials Commission and the Tuolumne County Gold Centennial Committee, has stimulated the imagination of the entire Mother Lode Country populace. That area is now a well-spring of activity as final plans are being formulated for the celebration which will be unequaled in magnitude and splendor for colorful pageantry, exciting entertainment, and exhibits of memorable historical significance.

Major attraction of the festivities will be the presentation of a '49er pageant-extravaganza in an enormous natural outdoor amphitheater, seating an estimated eight to ten thousand persons.

The pageant, titled "A Golden Century," and authored by Fred Gray, former San Francisco newspaperman, reveals myriad vital incidents that occurred during the glittering, glorious Gold Rush days.

Casting for the pageant begins this month, and lead roles will be selected from top Northern California talent.

Attention-compelling will be a huge costume parade stretching out over three and a half miles in length. It will include mounted horsemen, stage coaches, service units, and colorfully garbed participants representing renowned characters of the early 'fifties and 'sixties.

Other featured spectacles will include the Pony Express reenacting the famed "change of horses"; and a mock, but realistic stagecoach hold-up.

Native Sons

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

By PETER T. CONMY
Grand President, NSGW

During the month of July, 1949, Native Sons and Daughters are preparing for the coming centennial of the California Constitution.

A hundred years ago this month our pioneer ancestors were preparing for the making of the Constitution. It was on June 3, 1849, that the military governor, General Bennett Riley, issued his famous proclamation declaring that as Congress had failed to establish a government for California, the people should organize a state government. He set August 1 as the date for holding a special election in the several districts for choosing delegates to the Constitutional Convention which, he decreed, should convene in Monterey commencing on September 1. The area was divided into ten districts for election purposes. These were San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, San Jose, San Francisco, Sonoma, Sacramento, and San Joaquin. The convention was composed of thirty-seven delegates. San Diego, Santa Barbara, and San Luis Obispo each elected two delegates, Los Angeles, Sonoma, Sacramento, and San Joaquin, four; and Monterey, San Jose, and San Francisco, five.

From the democratic events of a century ago, we draw inspiration for the work of this summer. As they prepared to select wise men to frame an organic document on which statehood was to be based, so we pause to relive the spirit and drink of the sentiments of that mighty movement.

The Convention met at Colton Hall in Monterey on the appointed day. The work proceeded with despatch and the Constitution was completed on October 13. A month later, it was adopted by the people and by an overwhelming vote. It became effective on December 20.

The first California Constitution gave California many things.

First, it adopted in Article I all of the fundamental liberties guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

Second, it established a state government for the vast area.

Third, it provided liberally for a state educational system.

Fourth, it prohibited slavery in California.

Fifth, it defined the boundaries of the State of California, which boundaries have remained unchanged for an entire century.

Within the vast area, so sparsely peopled then, and so heavily populated now, men and women hail with pride the exploits of our pioneer fathers who provided us with the blessings of constitutional state government.

Native Sons look forward to Admission Day this year in San Jose, a combined celebration of the 99th anniversary of California's statehood and the centennial of the first constitution.

Grand Parlor Hi-Lites

By HAROLD J. REGAN

The Seventy-Second Grand Parlor convened in the grand old Mother Lode town of Sonoma in Tuolumne County, on Monday, May 16, 1949. The session was a splendid one and the people of Tuolumne County proved most hospitable, which made the session one of the finest ever held. The committees of Tuolumne Parlor No. 144 and Columbia Parlor No. 258, under the able leadership of R. W. "Hi" Muller, had every detail well planned and were ably assisted by the local Native Daughters. The weather was overcast most of the time and it rained on Wednesday and Thursday of Grand Parlor week.

Resolution No. 7, which calls for a protest to the Federal Authorities in Washington, D. C., relative to the disputed murals in the Rincon Annex Post Office Building in San Francisco, was adopted.

Resolution No. 10, providing for a $100.00 first prize in the annual Public Speaking Contest was adopted.

Later in the session a resolution was also adopted calling for a $50.00 second prize and a $25.00 third prize.

Resolution No. 13, was adopted, providing for a 5 cents per capita tax for a float in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Resolution No. 14 was adopted, which provides for a "Budget, Finance and Policy Committee" in each subordinate Parlor, consisting of the President, the three Vice Presidents and the Jr. Past President.

Resolution No. 21 was adopted, naming the City of Vallejo for the 1952 Admission Day celebration. Resolution No. 22, was adopted providing for the Chairman of the Public Speaking Committee to have a seat in the Grand Parlor. Resolution No. 23 was adopted honoring former Grand Treasurer John Colotto, who served as such for 18 years, by naming him Grand Treasurer Emeritus, with all the privileges of a member of the Grand Parlor.

Participating were Mrs. Anita Maria Thompson and Mrs. Rafaela Quintero McReynolds.

Las Fiestas, 24 members strong, reviewed their planned dance program, appearing in costume with their technical director, Mrs. Teresa Janssens. Mrs. Henry Griffiths and Miss Edna Sharpe represented the History committee; Mrs. George A. Tackabery, landmarks; Mrs. R. J. Schuld, pioneer roster; Mrs. William Russell, Las Fiestas; Mrs. Ambert Phillips and Mrs. Glenn Hillebrand, education; Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, press and public relations; Mrs. Josephine P. Bookman, advisory; Mrs. Raymond La Pointe and Miss Ellen Hayward, secretaries.

Fruitvale Juniors Celebrate First Birthday Anniversary

Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, NDGW, celebrated their first birthday on the evening of May 21. A lovely turkey dinner with all the trimmings was prepared by the advisory board.

The tables were beautifully decorated in spring flowers, pastel covered bows and streamers, by a junior committee headed by Georgina Williams, Marilyn Seabury, Sheila Emact, Clara Valcovich, Peggy and Helen Thein.

A large birthday cake with one candle was lighted by Mrs. Esther Ragon mother of the Unit. Mrs. Ragon told the girls how very proud she was of them, and their year of progress, and wished them many more happy birthdays.

Many friends joined the girls later in the evening, and games, and dancing followed.

Annual Crestline Barbecue Put On By Arrowhead Parlor

Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, held its annual Native Sons Barbecue Sunday, July 3, at the parlor's Crestline clubhouse. The affair, one of the outstanding events in Native Son circles each year, was attended by Native Sons from far and wide. Lloyd E. Burcham was general chairman. Barbecue supervision and cooking were under the able direction of Howard Kaltenborn and Ed Poppett. Burton Meyers was in charge of serving; Tony Freits, table setting; Fred Fass, outside refreshments.

Arrowhead Parlor's famed baseball team had a busy schedule during June. Monday, June 6, they played Highland; Thursday, June 16, Citizen's National Bank; Thursday, June 23, Inland District; Thursday, June 30, Elgin and Fagin.

On Tuesday, May 10, at Department 1 of the Superior Court of San Bernardino County, Judge Martin J. Coughlin of Arrowhead Parlor, presented Bear Flag sets to Judge Archie D. Mitchell, Sheriff Jim Stocker and Constable Charlie Hancock, all Native Sons, in an impressive ceremony. Also present at this presentation was Judge Russell Goodwin who declared his wish to become a member of the Order and was promptly handed an application blank.

Progress Is Being Made On William B. Ide State Park

Prospects for early acquisition of the proposed William B. Ide Adobe state park are excellent, members of the Red Bluff Rotary Club were told recently by Rawlins Coffman of William B. Ide Parlor No. 302. The Native Sons of Red Bluff have been working on this project for the past two years.

A title report to the approximately four acres on the west bank of the Sacramento river has been sent to Sacramento, and Coffman said he has been informed that condemnation proceedings can be commenced within three weeks of the report's receipt.

The historic building, consisting of three adobe rooms, three frame rooms and surrounded by magnificent oaks, was the residence of General William B. Ide, first and only president of the Bear Flag Republic.

Coffman reviewed efforts for establishment of the park, which date back nearly 15 years, and noted efforts on behalf of the park by former Senator D. Jack Metzger and Senator Louis G. Sutton.

The state park commission in 1945 reviewed all possible park sites in the state and classified them as of state wide significance, of recreational value, or of only local significance.

They classified the Ide Adobe as of state-wide significance, and of great recreational value, the speaker said.

Acquisition of the land will be on a 50-50 matching basis with city and county funds participating with those of the state. To date there is in the kitty $9860, and it is believed that an additional $5000 will be needed, of which half must be raised locally.

It is contemplated that once the park is completed and in operation, that the historical objects in the Ide Museum, adjacent to the Red Bluff police department headquarters, can be moved to the Adobe, and the museum site used for expansion of the department.

The city and county must maintain the park for a period of 20 years, although the state retains title, Coffman revealed.

As for restoration money, Coffman said that the sponsors of the park may seek an appropriation from the legislature, plus assistance from the state architect's office, for the project.

Simple and natural landscaping is contemplated, to lessen the burden of maintenance, he added.

First place in the women's division for the best fraternal organization's entry for civic participation in the recent Long Beach Centennial Parade was won by Wilmington Parlor No. 278, NDGW, of which Dorothy Fansler is president. The local entry was a gaily be-decked horse and buggy with Everett (Fuzzy) May at the reins, Ann Menconi as the "Mother," Betty Reuter and Pat Brengan as her obstreperous children. In picture, from left to right: Ann Menconi, Betty Reuter, Everett May and Pat Brengan.

Whittier Dances Are Well Attended By Natives

Whittier Parlor, Los Angeles County, put on their big Jamboree in the Legion Hall at El Monte, Friday night, June 5, which was a "bang up" affair, according to all who attended. The dance was engineered by Bob Allen of Whittier Parlor. Jim Dyer, recording secretary of the parlor, called some square dances and the people did not want him to stop. Jim has acquired a fine reputation throughout Southern California, with the general public, for his skill in teaching and calling for old-fashioned dances, which are so popular these Centennial years.

On Wednesday evening, June 22, Whittier Parlor again put on a dance and supper at York field, Whittier, which was well attended, at which the recording secretary was again the caller for the square dances.

Popular Pasadena President Forsakes Bachelor Roll

Joseph V. Phelps, president of Pasadena Parlor No. 296, was married in May to the very charming Ana May Cook "Joe," who is also president of the Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon Club, is receiving the congratulations and best wishes of his many friends in the Order.

Pasadena Parlor came out recently with a new parlor bulletin. Following the general style of many other parlor bulletins, the heading and ads are printed ahead of time for a given period. The news of the parlor is mimeographed. Pasadena has a newsy and interesting little sheet, which should do much to build parlor interest.

Mourning is the passing of C. Oscar Mathewson, charter member of Pasadena Parlor. He was born at Etina and was called to the Grand Parlor on High at Palmdale, where he spent his last few months.

Pasadena Parlor also feels the loss of Art Hansen, member of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, who was a frequent visitor to the parlor.

Pasadena Native Daughters Take Part in Dedications

Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW, has presented two California Bear Flags thus far this year. On February 27, President Frances Vail presented a Bear Flag at the dedication of the Pasadena Boys Club before a crowd of 450 people. The Boy's Club buildings are entirely debt free, having been built and furnished by various civic organizations.

On May 15, the president again presented a Bear Flag at the dedication of the East Pasadena Youth Center, a civic built building, debt free, built by the citizens and organizations in East Pasadena as a meeting place for all character education groups such as Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cubs, Boy Scouts, East Pasadena Girls Club and East Pasadena Boys Club.

Pasadena Parlor has two members on the board of directors of the Girls Club, Lucile Irwin and Hazel Bailey. Hazel Bailey is also the afternoon instructor.

62nd Birthday Anniversary Is Celebrated By Bonita

Members of Bonita Parlor No. 10, Redwood City NDGW, gathered recently to celebrate the 62nd year of the Parlors institution. Charter member Mamie Glenn was presented

Other distinguished guests were Past State with a gift by the parlor in honor of her service. Mrs. Glenn presented Mrs. Robert Brown with a 25-year pin.

A delegation from Redwood Parlor No. 66 NSGW also was present and presented a birthday cake to the members of the NDGW in honor of the occasion.

A May theme was used for the decorations and miniature May poles with streamers marking each place.

Mrs. Bernasque was chairman of arrangements committee assisted by Evelyn Hubbard, Eva Rose, Margaret Locatelli and Thelma Locatelli.

Some 125 members and guests attended the party given recently by Bonita Parlor No. 10, honoring Mothers' Day. Mrs. Mary Winter, the oldest mother and Mrs. McClure the youngest mother present were presented with corsage and a gift. Mamie Glenn, charter member, received a corsage and gift as "mother of the parlor." Mrs. Ulrica O'Sullivan, Bonita Parlors Gold Star Mother, was introduced and presented with a corsage.

Pioneers Honored At Tea Held In Colusa

The Pioneer Tea given by the Colusa Parlor, Native Daughters in the Christian Church social hall on May 5, proved to be a most successful affair. Ladies 70 years of age or above were honored.

Mrs. Anna Frye welcomed the ladies and Mrs. Sarah Allgaier responded for the group. Minutes of the previous year were read by Kate Pickett, the secretary. Eighty-one invitations were sent to the tea and 25 responded to roll call.

Mrs. Frank Azevedo, accompanied by Lola English, sang "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," and "Memories."

Mrs. Ida Vann sang "Under His Wings," accompanied by Lola English, and Mrs. Charles Seaver read a verse she had written about the Native Daughters and the Pioneer Tea. Each lady was presented with a gift.

The tables were beautifully decorated by Doris Temple and Alice Bradshaw. The centerpiece was a schoolhouse and yard with children, made from clothes pins, dressed in pink crepe paper. They were dancing around a Maypole and playing in the school yard.

The committee in charge of the tea was Palmyra Abreu, Ethel Landerman, Bernice Ask, Zora Troughton, Hazel Nordyke, Lillian Anderson, Thelma Azevedo, Bertha Foutch, Ann Biggs, Doris Temple, Alice Bradshaw and Edna Stokes.

Grand President Honored By Santa Maria Parlor

More than 200 members and guests attended the elaborately arranged meeting in Odd Fellows Hall to witness the initiation of 24 candidates in honor of Grand President Margaret M. Farnsworth, April 19. Distinguished guests included Supervising District Deputy Grand President Lydia Ross and Deputy Grand President Christina McCrea of Reina del Mar Parlor, Santa Barbara.

A dinner in Swiss Chalet was given in compliment to the Grand President before the meeting was called to order by President Emily Roderick in IOOF Hall. The Grand President was escorted into the hall by the drill team, all in white formals. In a striking exemplification of floor work, after she was introduced, the hall was plunged in darkness as the team appeared carrying flower muffs with fluorescent letters which spelled the greeting "Our W. G. P. Margaret." Gift to the visitor was presented on behalf of the parlor by Carrie Boyd. Gilded walnut shells with coins concealed inside were hung on a miniature "money tree" of a gilded branch of manzanita. Blanche Boardman sang "Rosewood Spinner" during the presentation. After the final prayer Ruth DeRosa sang Malotte's arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer."

A period of silence was observed as the charter was draped in memory of a beloved charter member and valley pioneer, Nelle Blosser Baker, who passed away suddenly on Easter morning.

James Lick Members Wish Couple Pleasant Summer

After meeting on June 1, the officers and members of James Lick Parlor, NDGW, and many friends gathered for the purpose of wishing Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bishop, both Natives of San Francisco a pleasant summer in Chicago. Harry, one of the winners in the Cable Car Bell Whopping contest will be one of the three gripmen who will man the Powell and Mason Street Cable Car at the Railroad Exposition in Chicago from June 25 to October 5.

Harry with his thirty-three years experience on the Cable cars can certainly explain their workings to the many people who will ride "free" as the guests of the Western Pacific Railroad, the sponsors of the whole affair.

Edna is going along just for the "buggy ride" but the members of James Lick Parlor feel she has earned a rest, for a few months, from her duties as Recording Secretary, the office she has held for more than twenty years. The part that pleases us is that, not only are they representing our city by the Golden Gate, but can proudly say they are members of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

San Francisco Holds Gold Rush Centennial Luncheon

By ALICE BARICHIEVICH

The Gold Rush Centennial luncheon held on June 4 in the Gold Room of the Palace Hotel in honor of Margaret Farnsworth, Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, will long be remembered by the 500 members and their friends who attended it, as not only a beautiful affair, but as a very individual one—particularly, because it emphasized both the material and spiritual accomplishments of the early California pioneers and the atmosphere of the large assembly who had gathered to pay tribute to our charming Grand President, Margaret Farnsworth, was symbolic and expressive of the principles of our Order.

This memorable affair was sponsored by the Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County, and directed by SDDGP Vera Thompson of Keith Parlor No. 137, who was assisted by General Chairman, Margaret Barrett, DGP. Among the many distinguished guests present, were state grand officers of both the Native Sons and the Native Daughters, together with city and county officials.

The program included opening remarks by DGP Margaret Barrett, followed by the Invocation by former SDDGP Nan Kelly, former SDDGP Jessie Ormond led in the salute and pledge to the flag, and the entire assembly joined in the Star-Spangled Banner. A most gracious welcome was extended by SDDGP Vera Thompson, who introduced all the honored guests at the speakers table, including her entourage of Deputy Grand Presidents. Our own Mayor of San Francisco, the Honorable Elmer E. Robinson, extended greetings, and invited everyone to partake in the Centennial Celebrations to be held in our fair city in 1950. Grand President Margaret Farnsworth delivered a most inspiring address to the group. Also sharing honors with their exhorting speeches were Grand President Peter T. Conmy of the Native Sons, and Grand Trustee Jewel McSweeney, NDGW, who gave a stirring talk on the early history of San Francisco which brought many a chuckle from the audience. City attorney Dion Holm spoke of next year's Centennial, and Past SDDGP Ann S. Dippel recited her own original poem, "My San Francisco." Keith Parlor's sole remaining charter member, Mae Frugoli, made a presentation to SDDGP Vera Thompson.

Music befitting the theme of the occasion was provided by the Franciscan Trio, with Frances Simas of Oro Fino Parlor No. 9, as the piano accompanist, and the noted Irish Tenor, Frank McCormack's rendition of several beautiful vocal selections, was greatly enjoyed by all.

The tastefully decorated tables represented a picture out of the past, the favors were miniature replicas of the early miners' pans filled with nuggets, together with crossed picks and shovels. The centers of the tables were the scene of a procession of prairie schooners, and to the people viewing it, it represented a galaxy of our California pioneers in their march of hope over the years, into the present full fillments which existed in the hearts of all in that room that peaceful afternoon.

Copa de Oro Parlor Has Interesting Party

Copa de Oro Parlor, NDGW, Hollister, enjoyed a well attended pal revealing Party on May 18. Members appeared in garb of early California. A tasty dinner of home-cooked chicken pie, tossed salads, relishes, and hot rolls, lemon pie and coffee was served at tables, down which rolled covered wagons drawn by tired horses over dusty roads.

HUNTINGTON PARK PARLOR
NATIVE SONS

Huntington Park Parlor No. 294 spent a busy week April 20-25, operating a Tacos concession at the Huntington Park Community Fair. The entire Tacos project, from making the tacos to installing the booth, was the work of Huntington Park members, a total of 28 working in shifts four hours a night and eight hours on Saturday and Sunday, to dispense 80 dozen tacos, 30 cases of soft drinks and an uncalculated amount of publicity for the Native Sons of the Golden West. Chairman of the project was Third Vice-President Fred Allday. Junior Past President Charles Gelpi was in charge of making and cooking the tacos. The signs on the booth were the handiwork of Second Vice-President Robert Carbonell. Standing behind the counter, left to right, Chairman Fred Allday, Past President Vern Wallin, Jr. Past President Charles Gelpi, Treasurer Earl Anderson and Al Campbell. Seated at rear of booth is Mrs. C. Gelpi making tacos. Standing in front are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hoard and their Native Son.

The Americanism Committee of the parlor also presented a Bear Flag to the Glendale High School.

With Mrs. Maude Molen as chairman, a rummage sale was held by the parlor on May 11, while May 26 a bride luncheon was held at the home of President Ethel Hopkins.

Native Daughter Home Notes

By PAST GRAND PRESIDENT MAE B. WILKEN
Grand Historian, NDGW

The Holiday season and subsequent months have been very active at the Native Daughters home in San Francisco.

The reception for Grand Trustee Ruth Truesdale, to be followed shortly thereafter by Buena Vista Parlor with a Christmas party for the guests residing there, set the pace for a number of events which have kept that residence alive with interesting episodes ever since.

The Home Committee entertained Grand President Margaret Farnsworth, at a dinner in December, and in January the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the first Home on O'Farrell street, and the twentieth anniversary of the occupancy of the present building at 555 Baker street, was celebrated with a surprise luncheon prepared by members of the Home Committee in honor of Dr. Mariana Bertola, Chairman of Home Committee. Anna Thuesen, Vice Chairman was assisted by Committee members Louise Benedetti, Alice Lane and Esther Ragon, with the golden theme beautifully executed in the table decorations.

Early in January the Alameda County Deputies revived the popular Sunday morning breakfasts, which the war period interrupted, to be followed in February with another by the San Francisco County Deputies.

In February Yerba Buena Parlor prepared and served a most delightful luncheon in the home dining room for some seventy of their members, and having as special guests those residing therein.

There have been a number of out of town members who have availed themselves of overnight accommodations, some of whom have spent several days. Mrs. Madeline Rhodes of Luisita Parlor, Mrs. Nellie Lombardi and Mrs. Annie Lombardi Voitch, and Jack, of Ruby Parlor, all of whom have been frequent visitors, Mildred Baird of Santa Cruz Parlor, accompanied by a friend has repeated an overnight stay, as has Miss Craig and Mrs. Adams of Ivy Parlor, while Selma Smith of Copa de Oro Parlor spent several days.

The Holiday dinners at the Home were the motive for friendly gestures—a five dollar check from Mrs. Harry Alexander through Yerba Buena Parlor, while the annual ten dollars from the Past Presidents No. 1 for the Thanksgiving turkey came to hand promptly, did a five dollar check from Rio Honda Parlor and another of the same amount from Yerba Buena Parlor. Placerita Parlor expressed its Christmas good wishes with a fifteen dollar check, as did Toluca Parlor with one of ten dollars.

For the carpet fund, ten dollars from San Francisco Parlor, plus another from San Gabriel Valley Parlor for a like amount, and the Litvale Junior Unit remembered the Home with five dollars as a Christmas greeting. There also came one for twenty-five dollars from Reina del Mar Parlor for the same purpose.

Christmas brought a most generous shower of gifts, both for practical and adornmental use in the Home and many remembrances from the Parlors for the individual guests.

On the practical side, household linens, groceries, jams, jellies and canned goods. From Victory Parlor, household linen, Norman Abel, Orinda Parlor, an electric clock and egg poacher, Lulu Goodman, Buena Vista Parlor, egg timer, Ivy Parlor, jams, jellies and cracked nuts, Ursula Parlor, 134 packages groceries, and from Marimta Parlor two cartons of the same.

Four boxes of holiday candies and cookies were received from Santa Maria Parlor along with a box of apples. From Santa Cruz Parlor 25 jars jams, jellies and fruit accompanied by a delicious angel cake from Ruby Bowen Jams, jellies and dish towels from Joaquin Parlor, while Nataqua Parlor sent a sugar bowl and creamer, dish towels, and individual packages, containing bath towels, wash cloths, soap and talcum for the guests. From Pasadena Parlor there came a lovely wool blanket, household linens, stationery, jams, jellies and groceries.

Household linen from Ida A. Grahl, Mary Bell Parlor, and from Compton Parlor fancy coasthangers as birthday remembrances for the guests who celebrated during the holiday season. From Past Grand President Mary Bell ten pounds walnuts, and household linen from Victory Parlor.

On the occasion of the visit of Grand President Margaret Farnsworth Rudecinda Parlor presented to her for the Home, an electric cooker, twelve bed pads, and case of tuna, and that electric cooker is the pride of the kitchen. On this same occasion District No. 36, Long Beach, Rudecinda, Compton, Wilmington and Rio Honda sent $26.30 the result of their "penny march."

Strings of Christmas tree lights from Past Grand Presidents Anna Thuesen and Orinda Giannini the latter included a Carol Music box.

From Eugenia Smith, Long Beach Parlor, jams and jellies and from Mrs. G. Guidotti of Coachella, member Sea Point Parlor came her usual delightful box of California dates, while Mrs. Frances Dwyer of San Jose a case of grapefruit juice.

Justice Louis C. Drapeau Honored By Cabrillo Parlor

Some 75 members of Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, Ventura, and their ladies recently honored Justice Louis C. Drapeau, past president, at a dinner June 21 in the Ted Russell clubhouse, reports the Cabrillo Log.

Justice Drapeau was in his usual good form and after being introduced by Judge Charles F. Blackstock, made a real Native Son talk.

Mrs. J. G. Cardona was in charge of the dinner, making 300 tortillas. Real tortillas, among other things. Entertainment was provided by pupils of Bro. Frank Umbro. Miss Viola Daane, a Reynold Tillis pupil, offered two dance selections, Spanish Tango Tap and a Fast Tap number. Buddy and Betty Gibson, students of Ted Russell, offered song selections and a Tap Cane Dance and Finale. Miss Clare Mount, of Trenton, New Jersey, favored the group with two vocal selections, "Now Is the Hour" and "Cruising Down the River," accompanied by Mrs. Anita Daane. Spanish music was played throughout the evening by Native Sons Orchestra: Bros. William Flores, George Pacheco, Jr., Pete Rodriguez and Maurice Burdick.

An initiatory team from Los Angeles County, headed by Earl Magee of Ramona Parlor No. 109, initiated a class of candidates for Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, Ventura, on Tuesday evening, June 28, at the local Elks Temple.

Native Sons of the Golden West at their Days of '49 Grand Parlor Session in Sonora, Tuolumne County in May, had a great deal of fun in addition to attending to the serious business of the Order. Picture shows the old-fashioned horse trough installed on the main street of Sonora for the benefit of the Native Sons. The man in the tub is Clarence Dondero, Deputy Grand President of Tuolumne County. Who is the fellow peaking over the top of the sign?

en West, that can be placed at the entrances to each city. The sign also has a place for the time and place of meeting of the Parlor erecting the sign.

Resolution No. 37 was adopted, naming the city of Chico in Butte County as the site for the 1950 Grand Parlor session. Resolution No. 40 was adopted. The resolution was a memorial to our late Brother, Charles A. Roberts of Stanford Parlor.

The Officers elected for the ensuing term were:

The Finance Committee submitted a budget of the estimated expenses for operating the Grand Parlor for the fiscal year in the amount of $37,650.00. (This amount includes operating expenses, history fellowships, organization expense, etc.) To this amount the Grand Parlor voted to add a five cents per capita for the 1949 Admission Day Parade in San Jose and a five cents per capita for the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Float. To take care of this amount, a per capita tax of $1.85 was voted, which is divided into four quarterly payments.

The entertainment provided by the Grand Parlor Committee was excellent. There was something doing for the ladies at all time and the delegates were kept busy during all the time the Grand Parlor was not in session. The entertainment included dancing, an outing and barbecue, the Grand Ball, an old fashioned tug of war, dedication of the 29th District Agricultural Fair Association Building the Grand Parlor Banquet, tour of the point of interest, etc.

For the ladies, special tours, the ladies' banquet, card games, etc. A special feature of the Grand Parlor Session was the 49'er Parade in which the Grand Officers and delegates were invited to participate. The feature of the parade was the turnout of all of the Grammar School Kiddies, dressed in the clothes of their grandparents. It was a sight to behold. The "Grizzly Bear Social Hall" was opened every day of the convention and was kept open by the local committee as long as anybody was on hand.

A stage coach was on the streets at the disposal of the delegates for transportation purposes. The people of Tuolumne County were most hospitable and all the delegates and guests were made to feel right at home. Even the parking meters around the main hotel were marked "For Native Sons Use Only" and it was not necessary to deposit coins. We done "Hi" Muller and your wonderful committees.

State Mourns Passing Last Month of A. P. Giannini

A P Giannini, head of the Bank of America, passed away at his home in San Mateo, Friday, June 3, at the age of 79, and final rites were held Monday morning at 10 a.m., at a solemn requiem mass at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco.

Included in the 70 honorary attendants were Governor Earl Warren, Mayor Earl Robinson of San Francisco, board members of the huge bank and Transamerica Corporation, and Giannini's former fellow regents of the University of California. Ten Bank of America executives served as active pallbearers, and Archbishop John J. Mitty presided at the mass, being assisted by ten priests.

Giannini was born in San Jose, and spent practically all his life in San Francisco, where he went to work at 14 in the commission business of his stepfather, and was a full partner at the age of 19. Later he opened the first Bank of Italy in San Francisco's Italian colony and when the earthquake and fire of 1906 came he sent word to depositors to draw on their accounts at will, and set up a desk on a north beach dock and offered unsecured loans to anyone who desired to rebuild. Mr. Giannini proved, in his lifetime, that it is possible to rise from the humblest beginnings to international stature as head of the world's largest bank, composed of 520 branches.

Open On Own Fairgrounds

This year, the 1949 Orange County Fair will join the circuit of other big-time California fairs and expositions when the event is presented on new fairgrounds site, located on former Santa Ana Army Air Base, August 19-21, inclusive.

The coming event will be staged on a 45-acre portion of recently acquired 175-acre area. Total acreage contains 126 former army buildings, of which 14, having a total area of 85,000 square feet, will be used to house exhibits this year. Other exhibits will be temporarily housed in nearly 35,000 square feet of big-top tents. Two hundred box stalls, erected near the huge arena seating nearly 5000, will stable thoroughbred horses appearing in the four-day horse show.

Nearly $65,000 will be spent in staging the 1949 Orange County Fair, according to Manager L. A. (Dan) Patch, and a total of approximately $36,000 will be offered in premium awards to exhibitors.

Improvements being arranged as a convenience to exhibitors and visitors will include excellent room and dormitory sleeping accommodations for exhibitors who furnish their own bedding, many clean and attended rest rooms, scores of drinking fountains, plenty of benches for visitors, a rest lounge for mothers with a free nursery and play area staffed with supervising personnel for tiny tots, free picnic area, and parking for thousands of cars in addition to other features.

Besides hundreds of exhibits, a gala array of entertainment, including the four-day horse show with matinee and evening performances, is being provided visitors. Special headline entertainment features are also being included on the program in addition to a big carnival, a circus for children and many special stunts and contests.

Author Says El Cuartel Not Sole Relic of Presidio

Clarence Cullimore, author of "Santa Barbara Adobes," has challenged the statement that El Cuartel is the only remaining portion of Santa Barbara's Spanish Presidio Real.

The author said the old adobe recently remodeled to serve as the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Whittaker, north and across the street from El Cuartel, is also a part of the old Spanish Presidio and perhaps even a few days older than El Cuartel.

He said both houses were originally a part of the Spanish Presidio which was begun in the Spring of 1782 at a corner equally distant from both houses. As the work of construction progressed uniformly in both directions the adobes may have had their foundations laid at practically the same time.

The discussion, in a friendly spirit, stemmed from statements made at the recent luncheon meeting of Santa Barbara's Historical Society while entertaining a delegation from Southern California's historical Society.

The question of which house is older is merely a technical point, Cullimore said, and has nothing to do with the splendid manner in which the historically-minded Santa Barbarans have preserved and restored both the edifices.

OUR COVER

As the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West prepare for the big Admission Day Celebration in San Jose to celebrate the Ninety-ninth Anniversary of California's Admission to the Sisterhood of States, we believe that our cover this month is especially appropriate.

Featuring the largest California Bear Flag in the state, owned by Stockton Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, it shows members of that parlor stepping briskly down the street in the warm September sun at the Long Beach Admission Day Parade in 1947.

We hope that Stockton again carries this splendid flag in the Admission Day Parade this year in San Jose. It is a grand sight and one that will be appreciated by the thousands of spectators who will gather along the line of march for this great event put on each year at some point in California by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. From all indications the parade at San Jose will be one of the finest in many years.

California Market quotations of August, 1874, showed a low cost of living, as compared with prices today. Green peas were selling at 3c a pound, string beans 2c, cabbage 1c, tomatoes 1c, rhubarb 2c; chickens 50c each; potatoes $1.15 and onions 75c a cental; green corn 1c a cob; beef cattle 6c, mutton 4c and pork 6c a pound. Butter from Iowa was obtainable at 22c a pound, while California eggs were 20c and Eastern eggs 11c a dozen.

Vasquez, the captured bandit, was now confined in the San Jose jail. A change of venue had been granted and he was to be tried in Santa Clara County at a future date. The first day he was in the San Jose jail he was visited by 673 people. He is described as a small man five feet six inches in height and weighing 140 pounds. He began a career of crime when in his teens. He made an appeal to the public for funds to procure a defense he otherwise would not pay for.

A rich strike of quartz vein made at Bully Choon, Trinity County, was reported. George Grover put some specimens in his pockets. Rubbing against each other caused dust to accumulate. At Weaverville, emptying his pockets into a pan, he washed the dirt and obtained $3.20 in gold. Some of the dust got into his boots and from that he panned $1.90. About 150 pounds was put into sacks, and sent out on a packmule. The dust in the sacks, caused by friction of the pieces, panned $9.10 in gold. The ore was more than half gold and the richest ever found in that section.

Rich oil discoveries were reported made on Sespe Creek, Ventura County, about twenty miles inland. Over 100 springs oozing oil were located and in the creek there were pools of oil formed from the flow. It was estimated the springs flowed fifty barrels of oil a day. The locality was a difficult one to reach.

A Yreka, Siskiyou County, man patented an invention to protect cornfields from the depredation of crows. He made a torpedo of size and shape of a kernel of corn. On being pecked by a crow it exploded and blew the crow's head off.

A man named Glenn was fined $85 by a Shasta County court for starting a forest fire. This was the first conviction on record for such an offense.

The boys of Calistoga, Napa County, were having a feast of hazel nuts, thousands of trees on the near-by hills being loaded. The same thing existed at Grass Valley and Nevada City in Nevada County.

Home of Peter H. Burnett at 441 North First Street in San Jose. This house was first erected by Burnett at Alviso in the year 1850 at which time he was the first governor of the fledgling state of California. Then in 1854 with the help of his two sons John and Armistead, and a Sacramento carpenter, the house was dismantled piece by piece and moved to San Jose, where it was reassembled on its present site. Some time after Peter H. Burnett moved to San Francisco the house passed to new ownership and today it is occupied by a small job printing shop. The San Jose Historical Society has erected an appropriate marker at this site.—Photo courtesy Clyde Arbuckle, San Jose city historian.

It's San Jose For Big Admission Day Event

THE PARADE committee under Chairman M. Fellows has sent the official entry blanks to all parlors of the Native Sons and Daughters so now its in the discretion of each parlor to "join the parade" to celebrate Admission Day in San Jose on September 8, 9, and 10, and give this grand old State of ours a whopping big birthday party, for we are going to be 99 years old come the "9th." We are expecting more than 250,000 people to jam this little old town to see this spectacle and watch the Sons and Daughters let some of their hair down.

Right after the parade (for those who may be a little thirsty) we're going to open up the Fredricksburg Brewery (John Wieland's) and wet your whistle. The management of this firm has very graciously donated the use of their grounds and refreshments to the Natives of California on this great occasion.

Our parade route will follow the historic El Camino Real and every effort will be made to hold the length of march down to a reasonable minimum to save some of your zip for the post-parade festivities.

Chairman Fellows is still huddling with the Chief of Police and Highway Patrol to work out the traffic problem so the starting point won't be settled until all entries are in and the parade planned out on paper.

Ways and Means Committee Chairman Tim Sullivan and his crew have been working overtime to raise funds to provide prize awards and the costs incidental to this parade and at this early writing they need only about one thousand more iron men which Tim thinks will be in the till before too long.

A last minute rush for housing accommodations is expected to develop according to Chairman Bud Gallichotte. To date many parlors have their problem solved but for late comers every effort will be made to handle all requests as they arrive but needless to say the sooner you get your rooms the better for all of us.

The bowling program will start Thursday afternoon in the Jose Bowl. Chairman Al Berryessa is in charge of the details in that department.

Drill competition will get under way also on Thursday the 8th, at the Municipal Baseball Park with accredited judges in charge. Chairman Lawrence Paradiso and assistant Harold Semichy are responsible for the arrangements.

Several troops of Boy Scouts will be on hand to aid in distribution of the parade program and to assist the police department in traffic control. The parade itself will be radio controlled via the San Jose City Police radio station and inter-car communication. Auto traffic to and from the parade line will be controlled by the County Sheriff's aero patrol plane and the State Highway Patrol force.

Patrolmen will be rapidly spotted as directed from the plane.

All nine Santa Clara County Sons and Daughters parlors will have their headquarters in the Elks Building which is the regular meeting hall for Observatory No. 177 and San Jose No. 22. They will march as one county unit in '4'er garb and not be in competition for any parade prizes.

Prizes and other awards have not been fixed yet. The committee will meet in July to draw up its slate and then will notify all participating units.

H. Irving Lee of Observatory No. 177 is general chairman and John R. Sullivan of San Jose No. 22 is secretary. The entire committee numbers 100 members.

The Chief of Police (Brother) Ray Blackmore has requested that no horses be ridden into San Jose Cocktail lounges, reason? he says the health department objects because its unsanitary. But seriously, if you want to have fun be sure to "Celebrate Admission Day in San Jose."

Early San Jose

DURING its State Capital days, San Jose was regarded as a lawyer's paradise. Lawyers came here from all over the country. They came in covered wagons across the Great Plains, they came by the Isthmus of Panama, and they made the long voyage around Cape Horn. Some came to live and practice here permanently, others just to plead occasional cases. It was a brand new country and the pickings were good for every body.

Beginners, with little or no competition, garnered fat fees for their amateurish talent while gaining experience necessary to round out their legal educations. The politically minded managed to obtain public office that may have been denied them at home. And those who really possessed superior legal ability laid the foundations of huge fortunes in the field of land title litigation. Things were made to order for this group when the National government at Washington failed to abide by the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, which guaranteed to native Californians the titles to lands on which they and their ancestors had lived for generations.

One of the early judges in San Jose, and noted for his informalities in court, was Joshua Winn Redmon, judge of our first County Court, which was held in half-adobe, half frame building on the west side of First street. Redmon first studied for ministry, then tackled law and medicine. People said he had been a surgeon in Jackson's forces at the Battle of New Orleans. He knew his law, but he was a man of such peculiar likes and dislikes that cases tried in his court are best remembered for their procedural aberrations. Old timers still chuckle over his refusing to stop a certain fist fight that broke out in his court mainly because one of the combatants, whom he detested, was getting the worse of it.

On August 26, 1850, William B. Almond Hampden-Sydney classicist and greatest practical joker in California court history, was admitted to the Santa Clara County Bar. He came from Platte County, Missouri, and was an Argonaut in every sense of the word. His sole purpose in California was "to make his wad" and go home. By the spring of 1851 he had done both. While here, however, he masqueraded as a hillbilly judge of a San Francisco court of first instance and literally dumped that city on its legal ear from October 1849 to May, 1850. His brief San Jose career spotlighted him in the more dignified role of founder and first Master of San Jose Lodge No. 10, F. & A. M.

Centennial of River Transportation

By PETER T. CONMY
Grand President, NSGW

The month of August 1949 will witness the centennial of inland water transportation in California. Early settlers, and Indians, of course, used the rivers as a means of transportation before 1849, but August of that year saw the inauguration of formal, organized efforts as against the irregular and personal uses of the waters earlier in the state history.

Organized transportation is dependent upon three factors. First, there must be users; second, there must be populated points to be connected commercially; and third, there must be an intermediate area offering products to be carried. The years 1848 and 1849 saw these factors emerging in the Sacramento River valley of California. The discovery of gold at Coloma on January 24, 1848 brought within a short period of time a sizeable population to California. Three cities were developing; namely, San Francisco at the entrance to the great bay; Sacramento at the junction of the Sacramento and American Rivers, and Benecia midway between the two, in the northeastern section of the bay just a few miles from where the Sacramento River empties into the bay.

At the close of a century San Francisco stands out as a metropolis and Sacramento as a thriving state capital, whereas Benecia is of lesser importance. A hundred years ago there was a possibility that Benecia would outdistance the other two in growth and development. Writing in 1850, Walter Colton said:

"This town on the straits of the Carquenas has the advantages of a bold shore, a quiet anchorage, and depth of water for ships of any size. Even without being a port of entry, it must become in time a large commercial depot. The small craft which float the waters of the Suisun, Sacramento and San Joaquin, and which are ill-suited to the rough bay below, will here deposit their cargoes."

It appeared for a time that Benecia would become the great port on San Francisco Bay. Indeed, in 1850 the Pacific Mail Steamship Company established their headquarters in Benecia. It is not surprising, therefore, that shipbuilding began there.

The first steamer to ply between Benecia and Sacramento was launched at Benecia on August 9, 1849. The vessel was a side-wheeler, 80 feet by 18, had a twelve-horse power engine, and drew twenty inches. The vessel reached Sacramento on her maiden voyage on August 17, 1849, on which date river boat service on the Sacramento may be said to have been established. There has been some confusion as to the name of the boat. She has been referred to as the Washington, the George Washington, the Pioneer, and the Lady Washington. She has been reported also to have run up the Sacramento as far as Colusa, and up the American as far as Coloma. It was on one of her early return trips from Coloma that she hit a snag on the American River and sank, but was recovered, repaired and used for many years thereafter under style of The Ohio. Records after 1868 fail to show her name.

The fact that the early river boats were built so as to sail far up the river and its tributaries, is indicative of the importance of water transportation a hundred years ago. Ruination of the river channels by hydraulic mining and the coming of the automobile and California's highway system, have detracted from the earlier importance of her rivers as arterials of traffic and trade.

The centennial of regular river boat service on the Sacramento will not be celebrated with the pomp and ceremony and pageantry that has characterized other centennials. Nevertheless, it remains as a step in the history of progress here in California.

Crowds Attend Dedication Of Portsmouth Square

Because of the tremendous public response to the ceremonies which officially opened San Francisco's Gold Rush Centennial Center, held during the July 1st-4th "Americarnival," a repeat performance of the attraction was held the following week end.

Keen interest in the Centennial Center buildings, replicas of '49 structures, was evidenced by the constant flow of visitors. The replicas, constructed by the San Francisco Gold Rush Centennial Committee in cooperation with the California Centennials Commission and the San Francisco Park Commission are:

The Mexican-California Custom House restored on its original site, California's first public school, also on original site, and Dr. "Yankee" Robinson's Dramatic Museum.

Dr. Peter Conmy, Historian and President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, gave the main address. Among the other honored guests and speakers were Joseph R. Knowland, Chairman of the California Centennials Commission; Superior Judge William Sweigert, representing Governor Earl Warren; Dr. Jose E. Aybar, Dean of the Consular Corps; and Edward D. Keil, President of the Society of Pioneers and newly elected Chairman of the San Francisco Gold Rush Centennials Committee.

SAN JOSE (Sahn Hob-say) Originally called El Pueblo de San Jose de Guadalupe—The Town of St. Joseph of Guadalupe—San Jose founded November 29, 1777, is California's oldest civil settlement. It was also the first capital of the State of California. But its life as capital was short lived, from December 15, 1849, when the first legislature convened here, till May 1, 1851, when it was permanently removed. At the time of the city's incorporation on March 27, 1850, the first statehouse stood on the east side of the Plaza, on what is now the east side of South Market Street's "100 Block." And though this statehouse was destroyed by fire in 1853, and other buildings were erected on its site, a vacant lot now marks the spot where it stood. It is now used as an off-street parking lot. At the present time the Santa Clara County Centennial Committee is considering plans to build a replica of the original house, probably on the Plaza lawn in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of its existence next December 15th. It would then be donated to the city of San Jose for use as a museum.—Photo courtesy Clyde Arbuckle, San Jose city historian.

Old Miner's Week

By ELINOR WIRTH

Bustles and bows, the gaudy and virile trappings of the old frontiersman, roving cowboy troubadours, the old-style dance hall girl, tight-bodied and full-skirted, red-shirted miners and sharpshooters, the creaking stage coach and the lamp-lit bar—all will be resurrected in Big Bear Valley, San Bernardino County, where a century ago the motley adventurers came in mad and reckless search for gold. The village streets will be filled with gold, the patient burro, trademark of the old miner, will trudge in slow procession, but only the burrow will be slow. Fast moving and fun-filled events are being carefully planned for every one of the ten days between September 3 to 13 by Big Bear Valley's Old Miner's Week Association.

Culminating Big Bear's list of summer activities, Old Miner's Week is an annual event which will be even more colorful and hilarious this year than in times past because of California's Centennial Celebration. To be staged against an authentic setting, Old Miner's Week is of genuine historic interest.

In the year 1859 prospecting for gold began in the then remote Bear Valley high in the San Bernardino mountains, but with poor results. The first "pay dirt" was struck by Jack Martin and W. F. Holcomb. When the word spread that gold had been found in the valley, a rush followed and soon a large number of men were panning dirt, their number backed by the usual gamblers, saloon-keepers, and dance hall girls of the era. On May 5, 1860, W. F. Holcomb and Ben Ware located the first claims in Holcomb Valley five miles beyond Bear Valley. For two or three years these two valleys formed a typical mining camp. Men trekked in from all parts of the country, settlements were formed and stores, hotels, and restaurants flourished.

Large amounts of gold were taken out and, at one time, British interests invested heavily in the valley. "Lucky" Baldwin was one of the owners of the Gold Mountain property, but it is a matter of record that he never won his nickname in that area.

A picturesque parade, to be the opening event, is being planned by the Old Miner's Association, as hardy a group of cowpokes as ever sunk a spur into a pony. Big Bear Valley's 20-30 Club have scheduled four events of interest, chief among them an old muzzle loader shoot which will evidence much interest among the southland's nimrods.

Burro races, log-sawing contests, greased poles, pseudo-sheriffs and jails into which the unoffending visitor will be dragged, public hangings and gun-toting desperados, all will add their individual note to the general hilarity. Shop-keepers will be adorned by a variety of whisker styling, ranging from mutton-chop to helter-skelter, the ladies will wear demure poke bonnets and sweeping skirts or the buckskin of Calamity Jane.

Costumed or not, be-whiskered or smooth-puss, the Big Bear Valley Old Miner's Association extends a cordial invitation to all Californians. Come to this high mountain valley on September 3 to 13 and be greeted by frontier style hospitality, simple, warm, and friendly. Share the fun.

Big Bear Notes

By HAR LAR

It must have been because Bob and Elizabeth Evans of Pine Knoll Lodge, Big Bear Lake, San Bernardino County, were both camera artists that they chose to build their resort in that particular grove of majestic pine. Modern kitchens, hot showers, soft luxurious beds, fireplaces, living rooms and screens on the windows are indeed a revelation from the so-called vacation trip of by-gone days. Indoors and out the Evans make you feel like a regal guest at all times.

Over at Wawona Lodge, guests are literally going off the deep end with a gratifying splash in their brand new, tiled, warmed water, electric lighted plunge. The Eastmans will bed you up in wall-to-wall carpeted hotel rooms or housekeeping cottages as desired.

Andrews Lodge is owned and managed by Alice and Dan McClain. They and their five children fell in love with the five-acre playground resort located on the lake shore and nothing would do but they buy it from Stacy and Laura Carr. It is a friendly place with a special playground for the youngsters. Big kids can enjoy games of their own choosing from horseshoes to croquet.

Indian Lodge was located at Big Bear Lake long before the village came into being. Rustic and picturesque, these cabins are modern but the most unusual thing about them is the fact that they are quietly secluded and exclusively remote from traffic noise even though located in the very heart of the village.

Perched at the foot of Red Ant Hill and overlooking Big Bear Lake is Relic Lodge. Without doubt, Proprietor Lee Evans possesses some of the most intriguing historical mementos as ever graced a museum. A student of early California and American history, he can spin authentic yarns dating away back to Revolutionary War days when his ancestor, Lt. Joseph Evans, served as a minute man.

Ask Lee to hand down the Tennessee rifle carried by a Fremont scout on the "Pathfinder's" first map-making exploration that nearly ended in disaster in California's towering snow covered Sierra Nevadas.

Adams Motel in the Metcalf Bay section of Big Bear Lake, is one of the newer camps having been completed last summer. Shorty and Pauline Adams are putting forth considerable effort to develop their resort into a quiet, homey spot that every guest may depart with a feeling of having enjoyed his vacation to the fullest. In summer, there's a stone barbecue and an inviting patio. Their most attractively controlled floor furnaces and snug cabins assure winter visitors of cozy comfort.

The GRIZZLY BEA

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The opinions expressed are those of the editor and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

As we go to press action is being taken to save the historic Lugo House and other buildings in the Los Angeles Plaza, which seemed doomed by the new Hollywood Freeway now being built. Representatives of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, the Southern California Historical Society and other vitally interested groups appeared before the Los Angeles City Council Monday, July 25, to protest the destruction.

The Native Sons already had a plan of operation outlined for the Lugo House, which was put forth by Ray Howard of Ramona Parlor No. 10. Past Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar made a stirring appeal to save these structures which are the heart of Los Angeles' early history.

The City Council concurred with the citizens group that something should be done to preserve and beautify the Plaza, and plans are being worked out towards that end. It was imperative that action be taken immediately, as the State, building the freeway, was prepared to start plans for razing the Lugo House within a few weeks.

Noteworthy was the splendid news coverage given the Native Daughters Grand Parlor session at San Jose in June. The San Jose daily press devoted a great deal of front page space to each day's sessions, as well as running feature articles elsewhere. It shows that the press of California has its eyes upon what the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West are doing. And it is up to us to keep them informed.

Which reminds us. To all, except possibly the big daily papers, the news of installation of new officers is something that should be reported to your local paper. This applies specially to the weekly press. Preferably, type your report out plainly, double-space. Be sure all names are spelled correctly. If it is necessary for you to write the report by hand, be doubly careful that everything is spelled out so that one unfamiliar with your handwriting can read it.

Keep in mind the fact that there are only one or two installations of officers by your group a year in your community, therefore it is news to your local editor, and may be written out more fully than if you were sending in to this magazine, where, because of some 100 installations at a given period throughout the State, it ceases to have any outstanding news value.

the grounds. There's even an ice house where lucky fishermen may ice their catch.

Pop and Joe Haygood at their Lakeshore fishing report fishing is picking up. In fact "Pop" demonstrated with a specially treated tip of red chamois of his own making how to catch crappie. Biggest trout reported weighed 7½ lbs.

According to Charley Tayles at Boulder Bay fishing lucky anglers are bringing in the rainbows. In order to encourage the catching of bigger and better fish, Charley is offering an Evinrude Zephyr 5½ horse outboard motor for the biggest trout caught this season. Naturally the fishing has to be done out of a Boulder Bay Boat Landing boat or a private boat docked there.

Girl of the Golden West Contest Under Way

Statewide search for the 1950 "Girl of the Golden West" begins. This contest is very unique in that there are hundreds of Native Sons and Daughters parlors participating to sponsor a girl that will be outstanding and typify true western beauty.

After each of the parlors has found a winner through their local contest the second stage will take place known as the district contest. From the district contest to the regional contest. It is from the regional contest that five winners are selected. Out of these five winners the "Girl of the Golden West" will be chosen the four girls will become her court, and will be known as the California Girls for 1950.

These five girls will be formally awarded their titles in a ceremony that will be open to the public. The date will be publicly announced later this year.

Native Sons and Daughters Adoption Agency To Close

More than four decades of service uniting adoptable children with foster parents soon will come to an end when the adoption agency of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West cease to function.

In explaining the move, Mrs. Hazel Hansen, president of the agency's board of directors, declared:

"The Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West at their Grand Parlors held this year voted to proceed with the liquidation of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency Inc.

"Abandonment of the project which began in 1910 was decided upon to avoid duplication of the same work which now can be carried on by adoption agencies of the various county governments."

"It was felt," she went on to say, "that as the legislature has authorized counties to operate their own adoption agencies, there was not need for a fraternal organization to conduct a parallel public service.

"To complete adoption placements and other obligations which have been started and are under way, the work must be carried on by the Native Sons and Native Daughters for at least 18 months."

She concluded: "During its 39 years of operation, the agency placed more than 7,000 children in good American homes. As the Native Sons and Native Daughters always will be interested and active in the care of children, it is anticipated that a welfare program in behalf of California children will be announced at an early date."

Editor's Note: The above news item was released last month to California newspapers. Full details of the actions of the Grand Parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters can be had from parlor delegates. Members are also urged to take note of messages sent to parlor secretaries by the Grand Presidents of both Orders.

On January 2, 1950 these girls will make their second formal appearance as the Girl of the Golden West and her court when they will ride upon a beautiful floral float, in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena. During their year the Girls of the Golden West will be featured at many special occasions. Fame awaits the winner.

In keeping with the Parade theme set forth by the Tournament of Roses "Our American Heritage," the Native Sons and Daughters float will be "Abundance," and promises to be very beautiful.

The requirements for those girls seeking this coveted title are: between the ages of 18 to 25 inclusive; be a Native born, single and to have had a high school education or equivalent. Not an actress by profession. They may contact any Native Son or Daughter parlor in their community. The local contest will close September 30 so all applicants should be registered not later than August 30.

This year Jim Ritchey, State Chairman has stated that he will welcome participation of any Junior Chamber of Commerce in communities where there is located a Native Son or Native Daughter Parlor. It will add to the fun and interest. Their girl will be accorded the same status as the girl sponsored by Native Sons and Daughters parlors, and go direct into the district run-off.

INSTRUCTIONS TO PARLOR ROSE PARADE CHAIRMAN

1. Each parlor to appoint its Chairman Send to the General Committee not later than August 1, 1949 his name and address.

2. Chairman to provide some suitable container marked Float Kitty, and see that it is displayed conspicuously at each parlor meeting. GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

By HENRIETTA TOOTHAKER
Grand President, NDGW

Delivered at the Sixty-third Grand Parlor in San Jose.

This is a very happy moment in my life. As I stand before the delegation of our Sixty-third Grand Parlor, I feel very proud. Proud of the fact that I am a Native Daughter of the Golden West. Proud of the heritage left me by my pioneer forebears. Proud that you have seen fit to place me at the head of this great organization founded upon those noble principles, Love of home; Devotion to the flag; Veneration of the pioneers; Abiding faith in the existence of God. We have only to accept those principles as our pattern of life and if we truly live up to them, we cannot help but be stronger and better citizens of this great nation. Mixed with my pride is a feeling of deep humility, as I realize the great responsibility that is mine and my own human limitations, when it comes to fulfilling your expectations. However, I hereby pledge myself to you that I shall endeavor to do all I can to fulfill this obligation to the best of my ability. I hope and pray that a year from now we will be able to look back upon a year of work well done for our Order, State and Country. This can be done with the help of every member.

We, on this western shore, hold a unique position in the exciting story of our nation. How few people realize the age of our civilization. Yet if we look behind the curtain of history we find some interesting facts. In 1521, 87 years before the English made their first settlement in Virginia, Hernando Cortez, marching northward from Mexico, saw this wonderful land of ours and named it California, for the fabulous queen, Calafia.

Sir Francis Drake, sailing through the Golden Gate, although he did not see this wondrous portal to a great land, sailed on into Drake's Bay, planted a brass plate on Marin County's shore and claimed the land for good Queen Elizabeth of England. His ship's chaplain offered up a prayer and for the first time a religious service in English was held on American soil and it was in California.

In 1602 Viscaino, seeking a port of call between Manila and Mexico, visited San Diego, Santa Catalina Islands and Monterey. He even explored the northern shores of our state as far as Mendocino. Here his warm Spanish food chilled by the cold, foggy weather, caused him to turn around and sail south again. Still, at this time, the east coast was not yet fully known.

In 1768, which as you well know, was during the troubled times of pre-Revolutionary days, Vicente Villa and Don Gaspar de Portola made their famous trek to San Diego, which marked the beginning of the romantic military period in our state.

Gentle Father Junipero Serra, accompanying Portola and giving his life for an idea, the christianization of the Indians, left behind him as a rosary to his memory, a chain of twenty-one missions. The first mission was begun in 1776, the year in which the Declaration of Independence was signed in Philadelphia.

So one could go on and on—but time does not permit. During these Centennial years we are well aware of the Golden Era in our State, which to most people marked its beginning, but I say we must also pay due homage to those pioneers for their daring and strength, which opened up this feral land for our culture of today. I feel that the history of our State must be preserved and taught to our youth. Historic places should be carefully preserved that the Californians of tomorrow may be more fully cognizant of the California of yesterday.

*"The faithful dog oft roams at night,
The strongest iron will rust,
The cooing dove is not so bright,
The good earth's also dust.
Thorns mar the sweetly scented rose,
A stinger has the bee.
So with this little thought I close:
Don't ask too much of me!"*

May I ask you to remember this little poem through the year. There is an old saying "To err is human—to forgive is divine" and if I make mistakes, as undoubtedly I will, just show the divine part of your natures and forgive me.

The Los Angeles Police Department sponsors a youth organization, "The Deputy Auxiliary Police," known everywhere as the DAPS; The DAPS band needed a Grizzly Bear flag just the size of their American flag for use in parades. Californiana Parlor welcomed the opportunity to provide the band with the flag and to share in the work of promoting this worthwhile organization of young people of Los Angeles. Four of the boys from the band came with their other three flags, and the parlor warmly welcomed them. Mrs. Steckel, president, presented the Grizzly Bear flag. To Celebrate Golden Days At Santa Monica Climaxing more than six months of elaborate preparation by citizen groups, civic leaders, business and industrial organizations, the City of Santa Monica has announced plans for one of the most impressive and formidable centennial celebrations yet to be staged in Southern California.

The celebration, called "Dias de Oro," in tribute to the city's "golden days," will be held from August 13th through August 21st under the joint auspices of the Santa Monica Festival Association, a civic, nonprofit organization, the City of Santa Monica, and the California Centennials Commission.

A highlight of the nine-day celebration will be a spectacular "Parade of History" which will recapture the romance and color of Santa Monica's rich historical tradition. The historic advance will be depicted by floats, mounted units and costumed figures.

Another major attraction will be an outdoor pageant to be presented in the open air Greek Theater of Santa Monica High School on the evenings of August 19th and 20th. A cast of 300 actors, dancers and singers, will appear in "Saga of Santa Monica," an original extravaganza in three acts portraying epochs in the settlement of Santa Monica. The scenes will include the Spanish Exploration, Life on the Rancheros and the founding of the City of Santa Monica by Colonel R. W. Baker in 1872.

The celebration will open on August 13th with a gay floral parade on the boardwalk. Flower-designed scenes of Gold Rush days, mounted on more than a score of floats, will pass in review from Santa Monica pier to Ocean pier.

The climaxing event of "Dias de Oro" will be a grand costume ball at which a pioneer Santa Monica couple will be selected and honored at impressive coronation ceremonies.

Santa Monica Bay Plans To Revive Famous Barbecue

Plans are under way for a revival of the famous barbecue that has given Santa Monica Bay Parlor 267, NSGW, a fine reputation for such events in the past.

A tentative date has been set for some time in September, and further details will be given in the next edition of the Grizzly Bear magazine.

The barbecue will be under the direction of the Eisenhart brothers, Milton and Ralph, who have always prepared a wonderful repast in the past for the many similar events held by the parlor.

This event will be in Santa Monica SOON ... so watch for details!

Centennial Event To Be Presented At Santa Monica

On August 13-21, the city of Santa Monica is presenting "Dias de Oro" for their portion of the Centennial program of the state. Since this is a local event, many members of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, are planning to attend and participate.

There will be a marching unit, possibly a float or car entered and sponsored by the Parlor, and the Drum Corps of the Parlor with its drum major and drum majorettes, which have been attracting much favorable comment in recent events in which they have taken part.

Aloha Proud of Member

Morada Parlor Takes Part In Centennial Events

Intensive activities with a Centennial theme did not end in March when the three Stanislaus County Parlors met in Modesto to receive Grand President Margaret Farnsworth on her official visit.

Recognized as the first event of the week for the Stanislaus County Centennial Celebrations, was the annual Pioneer Dinner sponsored by Morada Parlor for the men and women of the community, who were born in California or came to the State before 1870. Out of the 200 in attendance at the affair held in the auditorium of the new Orville Wright school, May 16, Ada Carroll, Civic chairman, introduced 39 as Pioneers and guests of honor.

Dressed in Pioneer costumes the Morada Parlor Native Daughters served as waitresses for the outstanding civic event May 16th, a banquet honoring Fire Chief George Wallace. Born in Modesto, Mr. Wallace retired after 40 years of distinguished service in the fire department, 39 as the Chief.

Three entries in the annual Relays Parade of Songs featured the Gold Nugget Baby, George Rogers, Jr., riding in a gold colored car with his mother, Winifred Rogers and President Condit. The gold sprayed covered wagon drawn by 6 prize winning horses, received honorable mention in awards. Estella Service and Kate Gillette rode on the wagon. Members crowded into a trailmobile for the modern covered wagon entry.

During all the festivity members sold popcorn and soda pop at a booth around the corner from the church in the Centennial Village constructed of bark covered pine slabs at the Court House Park. Ways and Means chairman, Bettie Peck was assisted by Gertrude Schroeder on the Centennial Committee group.

Memorial books for Morada members who have passed away have been presented to the McHenry Public Library, with an appropriate plaque inscribed and placed on the front of each of the Californiana books of history.

Twenty-five year pins were presented to Ann Michael and Agnes Packard on behalf of the Parlor by Past Grand President Ethel Hos, at roll call of the Past Presidents, June 16.

A car decorated in the colors of the Order received honorable mention in the Modesto Fourth of July Parade.

The annual picnic, with Forrest Hemminger, chairman, is scheduled for August 17 in the region Park.

Menlo Juniors Entertain

The Menlo Junior NDGW recently entertained their mothers at a tea and program. Invitations, dancing, vocal and piano selections were presented by the members. Dainty white organdy aprons, trimmed in pastel colored braid and made by the Juniors were the gifts given to the mothers.

At the recent Native Daughters of the Golden West convention, a group of the Baby Unit, San Jose No. 23, made an appearance at Grand Parlor and presented a gift to Grand President Margaret M. Farnsworth. This unit was instituted May 6 with 30 Charter members and is sponsored by San Jose Parlor No. 8 NDGW and Vendome Parlor No. 100, NDGW.

Mrs. Carlson has again been appointed as chairman of the Junior Native Daughters.

Grand Parlor Hi-Lites

According to reports the 63rd Annual Grand Parlor Session of the Native Daughters at San Jose in June was one of the most outstanding in recent years, with the newspapers crediting the attendance at the business sessions at 800 to 1000 Native Daughters.

News coverage of the event was splendid with the daily newspapers of San Jose devoting a generous amount of front page space, as well as running feature articles elsewhere.

These were some of the items that made the headlines:

Noteworthy was the stand taken by the Native Daughters on several pieces of legislation vitally affecting the welfare of the State of California. Hardly had the session opened before a resolution was passed asking the California Legislature to devote the unexpended balance of the State's 1948-49 Centennial budget to the statewide Centennial celebrations.

The Grand Parlor reaffirmed positions favoring repeal of Proposition 4, purchase of Butano forest as a State Park, and support of the "wife's pay check bill." The Native Daughters also put their stamp of approval on "I Love You, California," as the official State song. Some 20 songs were reported by Miss Grace Stoermer, Past Grand President and State Legislation Chairman, as being considered by the legislature.

Support of the Tenny Bill requiring the loyalty oath of all public officials and of all legislation prohibiting the teaching of Communism in schools and colleges was voiced at the concluding sessions in the San Jose Civic Auditorium.

Andrew Ferreira of San Francisco State College won the public speaking contest. Estelle Berkin, College of Los Angeles, was second.

Scholarships which will be used at the University of California at Los Angeles were awarded to Sally MacDonald, Fullerton Junior College student, and Catherine Crumley, Santa Ana. The Native Daughters have maintained a scholarship program for 35 years.

Georgina Williams of the Fruitvale Junior Unit, Oakland, won the essay contest on "Why I joined the Junior Native Daughters of the Golden West." The Argonaut Cubs of Oakland won first prize for their scrapbook.

For details regarding the action of the Grand Parlor on the Homeless Children Work and other matters pertaining to the fraternal affairs of the Order, see your Grand Parlor delegates. Reference is also made to messages sent to the recording secretaries from the Grand President.

Dolores Drill Team Takes First Place In Parades

First prize at the Druids' State Convention in Ukiah recently was won by the Drill Team of Dolores Parlor No. 169, NDGW, San Francisco. The team also won first place at the parade opening the YLI and YMI State Convention in San Jose.

New advisors of the team appointed recently are: Past Grand President Evelyn Carlson, Ida Corrigan and Audrey Cohn. Alfred Franchi of the California Grays and a former sergeant of the United States Infantry, is coach.

The Dolores Drill Team paraded on July 28 in San Francisco in honor of rodeo star, Gene Autry. The famous western star helped the Union Square Optimist Club start its campaign to raise $750,000 to finance the establishment of a national foundation for boys in the San Francisco Bay Area. The project is similar to the well-known Boystown, Nebraska, founded by the late Father Flanagan.

La Bandera Parlor Celebrates Its Golden Anniversary

On Friday evening, July 13, La Bandera No. 110, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Sacramento, one of the leading parlors in the State in membership, celebrated the Golden Anniversary of its institution. A special guest was Mrs. Cora B. Sittord, Ventura, Past Grand President, and also known as the Mother of La Bandera, for it was she who instituted La Bandera Parlor on July 5, 1899.

A dinner was served in the Tuesday Club House at 6:30 p.m., followed by a reception in the beautiful gardens of Sutter's Fort. Miss Lucille Knapp and her trio played soft music during the reception and Miss Mary Ann Sharp sang several selections.

This happy occasion also marked the first official visit of Grand President Henrietta Toothaker, Woodland, Woodland Parlor No. 50. Grand President Toothaker stressed California History during her tenure of office and it was appropriate that her first official visit was to one of the most historical sites in California—Sutter's Fort.

Another special guest was Mrs. Clara Weldon, only living charter member of La Bandera Parlor. Mrs. Weldon has served as the parlor's recording secretary for the past 49½ years. The Grand President presented Mrs. Weldon with a 50-year pin.

The American Flag used in the Parlor since July 5, 1899 was retired and a new flag dedicated. Mrs. Edna B. Briggs, Past Grand President and a member of La Bandera Parlor, was in charge of the flag ceremony, assisted by the newly-formed team of the parlor.

Mrs. Lorraine Helen Davis, President, presided at the business session.

Mesdames Flora A. Schmittgen and Genevieve Dideon were co-chairmen of the affair. Other committee chairmen were:

Welcome Address, Mrs. Edna B. Briggs, Past Grand President; Invitations, Mesdames Elsie O'Brien and Ethel Miller; reception, Mesdames Eva Mordecai and May Sydenstricker; escort, Mesdames Mildred Lee and Ann Crosby; favors, Miss Ruth E. Peterson; publicity, Mrs. Thelma Smith; dinner reservations, Mrs. Eloise Wright; buffet refreshments, Mrs. Eva Mordecai; decorations, Mrs. Lucille Huntoon; serving, Miss Marion Lund; general committee Mesdames Barbara Stewart, Jane Vick, Maude L. Young, Blanche Perret, Virginia Vienna, Freida Dalton and Misses Ada Peterson and Lucille Samuels.

RESOLUTIONS

AMADEO P. GIANNINI

The achievements of Amadeo P. Giannini entitle him to a place in California's Hall of Fame and his name should be inscribed on our Honor Roll. Great leaders are developed in every business and profession, whose achievements, industry and guidance help to bring prosperity for the people and lasting benefits to the state. Such a man was Amadeo P. Giannini.

For many years he was our associate on the Board of Directors of the Hall Association, Native Sons of the Golden West, and we have had the privilege of knowing him intimately and sharing in the benefit of his guidance and experience. In the death of Brother Giannini the nation has lost a really great citizen and California lost one of its most able and respected Native Sons. It is appropriate that there should be inscribed on our records a memorial in honor of the memory of our fellow director, Amadeo P. Giannini.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of the Hall Association Native Sons of the Golden West:

That we express our appreciation of the ideals of service and splendid accomplishments of Amadeo P. Giannini during his lifetime.

That our sincere sympathy be conveyed to the members of the family of Brother Giannini.

That this resolution be inscribed in the records of our Association and copies thereof be sent to the members of the family of Brother Giannini and to the Grizzly Bear Magazine.

Hall Association,
Native Sons of the Golden West.

ANITA JUCH HEACOCK

San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW:

God in His wisdom has called to her Heavenly Rest, our sister, Anita Juch Heacock, a daughter of a great pioneer family. She exemplified divine motherhood in all its sweet and tender devotion; loyal friendship in all sincerity, its kindness and its unselfishness. Surely such an influence for good will live on and prove a guiding star to all.

RESOLUTION

Reina del Mar Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, in regular meeting assembled July 27, 1949 recognizes with deep regret the recent passing of Bernhard Hoffman at his summer home in Stockbridge, Massachusetts with unanimous Membership approval, we hereby enact our feeling as follows:

WHEREAS: As a resident, student of conditions, Bernhard Hoffman for thirty years contributed of his talents his personal resources and forceful individualism to making Santa Barbara a better community for pleasant living. With recognition of talent values, he helped develop community assets by drawing upon his professional training. We Native Daughters recognize particularly the creation of El Paseo and the preservation of the De la Guerra Mansion.

Bronze Plaque Placed At Fallen Leaf

The start of the Nature Guiding program in the National Parks of our country is recalled by a bronze plaque which has been dedicated at Fallen Leaf Lake, California, in honor of W. W. Price, of Palo Alto, who launched this movement there in midsummer, 1919.

When W. W. Price, who was a biology graduate of Stanford University, learned of the nature guiding movement carried over from Europe by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Goethe, of Sacramento, he induced a group of proprietors of Lake Tahoe resorts to participate in the interpretive program. Stephen T. Maher, at that time Director of the National Park Service, observed the value and popularity of the nature guiding at Fallen Leaf and requested its introduction into Yosemite in 1920.

This was the beginning of the National Parks Ranger-Naturalist interpretive program. Newton B. Drury, present Director of the National Park Service, says, "The nature interpretation program, of which W. W. Price was a pioneer with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Goethe and Stephen T. Maher, has assumed great importance in the National Park system."

In the California State Parks, including the extensive Redwood Parks, nature guiding has been developed in recent years, along the lines set in 1919 at Fallen Leaf Lake by the original staff of scientists, Dr. Harold C. Bryant and Dr. Loye Miller.

Ancient House Site Is Unearthed At Little Lake

What is believed to be one of the earliest house sites on the North American continent has just been unearthed by a party of archaeologists of the Southwest Museum, Los Angeles.

Headed by M. R. Harrington, museum curator, the group has continued excavating a Pinto culture site for the second season this summer on the Mojave desert at Little Lake in the southern end of Owens valley.

According to Harrington, this new discovery is at least 3000 years old as evidenced by only Pinto points being found in the diggings. In other excavations at the site, both Silver Lake and Lake Mojave points have been found, as well as implements of later Indian desert dwellers.

The house site was uncovered by a party of volunteer workers headed by Mr. and Mrs. B. E. McCown, San Diego, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Peck, Santa Monica, amateur archaeologists who have been digging at the site for several days. Twenty-two post-holes, some four inches in diameter were uncovered, bearing the site of a round house with a doorway facing the east. Roughly two feet below the present desert surface, the house site is approximately 12 feet in diameter. Another house site in rectangular form was discovered east of the new site last season.

Inasmuch as the oldest dwellings of the North American Indian, so far discovered have been in caves, Harrington stresses the theory that this new discovery will throw further light on ancient life on this continent.

OUR COVER

Many will recognize this old mill. It has been "shot" hundreds of times by Hollywood cinematographers. On the flickering celluloid it has been pictured in snow-covered Alaska, in Tennessee hills, or the Colorado Rockies.

In reality the old mill is located above San Bernardino, a short hike from Big Bear Lake. Privately owned, it is a man-made lake, open to the public at a nominal fee. It is a favorite retreat for picnickers and camera fans. On the map it is known as Cedar Lake.

Today, water power drives the great modern generators that supply the electricity to run factories many miles away and light homes in town and countryside. Time was when the factory was situated beside the river, the power supplied by the mill wheel. But the picturesque mill wheel by the millstream, which figures so prominently in our good old songs, has all but disappeared from the American scene.

CALIFORNIA 75 YEARS AGO

As Compiled from the Files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine.

SEPTEMBER, 1874

Pioneer Associations of California gathered in San Francisco, September 9, 1874, to celebrate Admission Day, the twenty-fourth anniversary of California's admittance into the Sisterhood of States.

There was a parade, starting from Pioneer Hall, with General John Heuston, Jr., as grand marshal and escorted by three regiments of the California National Guard. The marchers paraded the principal streets, and picnicked at Woodward's Gardens, where J. B. D. Stillman delivered an oration and Mrs. Neall read a poem.

The celebration was a three-day affair. On the 10th an excursion around San Francisco Bay on the steamer "Great Republic" was free to Pioneers and their friends. Owing to a misunderstanding, over 4,000 came, when only 2,000 excursionists could be accommodated, hence great disappointment and dissatisfaction ensued.

The annual State Fair opened at Sacramento September 21 and continued a week. M. M. Estee delivered the oration. The receipts were $23,219, the largest of any State Fair to date.

A mountain of gold-bearing quartz, near Holcombe Valley, San Bernardino county, was reported found and nine claims on it of 1,500 feet each were located. The ledge was 35 feet high above the surface, 400 feet wide in places, and was traced for two miles. It stood up in many places like the Chinese Wall. Assays of $40 a ton were made.

The Carter claim was considered the richest, being near the center. A large force of men were tunneling the mountain and a new town was building. The find was accidentally discovered by a prospector who, riding along a seldom-used trail, caught the glint of a gold streak from a detached quartz boulder lying above the trail on the side of the hill.

The Calistoga silver mine in Napa county was being worked with a force of thirty men, and sixty tone of ore assaying $100 a ton was being crushed in a mill just erected. A score of teams were employed hauling ore from the mine to the mill. Two more silver veins were found west of Calistoga and investors and prospectors numbering hundreds, were making things hum in that section.

There was a quicksilver mining excitement on the Coast Range adjacent to the Napa Valley. Over 300 locations were recorded this month at Calistoga and hundreds of prospectors were in the hills looking for cinnabar veins.

Senators Jones and Stewart of the State of Nevada, who had heavily invested in the Panamint mines, sent a large equipment of horses and wagons to Los Angeles to establish teaming operations between there and Panamint.

Senator John P. Jones was also endeavoring to get the citizens of Los Angeles to build the Los Angeles and Independence railroad to Inyo county and thereby aid in developing the Panamint mines. He offered to subscribe half a million. Civil Engineer Crawford and Captain Moore started to survey a route.

A coal vein found near Half Moon Bay caused an excitement in San Mateo county.

Grasshoppers in San Luis Obispo county in myriads were reported as being killed after tackling the castor-oil bean plant.

Going out of the Golden Gate the first week of this month were twenty-seven vessels, loaded with grain for England.

Salmon and fresh trout brought by rail to Eastern cities from California were between thirty and forty cents a pound.

It was estimated that 600 people had arrived in Los Angeles from Eastern cities looking for homes.

Bricklayers were so scarce in San Francisco the Palace Hotel contractor brought seventy-five of them from Chicago to work at $1.00 a day.

Don Stearns flour mill in Los Angeles was burned September 13, with a $9,000 loss.

A saloon in Sacramento had a large oil painting behind the bar which a thirst-quenching stranger looked at while standing at the bar, and informed the proprietor it was a Rubens and was of great value. The astonished owner sent it to San Francisco, where artists who knew identified it as the genuine "Diene and Her Nymphs," painted by the great artist Rubens. It was attracting much attention.

A change in fashion in women's dresses was very pleasing to the railroad men. Formerly a woman wearing hoops occupied nearly a whole seat. Now, with narrow skirts, two women could comfortably sit in a coach seat where only one could sit before.

News The Grizzly Wants

The editor wants stories and photographs descriptive of charitable activities, historical markings, parades, civic affairs participated in by the parlor, high honors attained by members of the Orders, aid to veterans and other patriotic activities, participation in athletics, boys and girls work, important events participated in by the Grand President and Grand Officers.

REQUIREMENTS.

Keep news brief but include all essential details. Spell clearly. Send only clear, glossy photographs, clearly identified, packed flat with backing. Do not send mats. All material for a given issue must be in the Magazine Office by the 15th of the preceding month.

YOUR MAGAZINE CAN NOT PRINT

The editor finds it necessary to decline material relative to the following subjects, because it would be unfair to discriminate and, considering the number of parlors, it would be impossible to give coverage to such activities in all parlors.

Routine parlor sessions, material descriptive of mandatory ceremonies, installations and like events participated in by most of the parlors. These events could not be covered for all the parlors in a magazine of our size.

The editor reserves the right to edit all material submitted and to pass on its acceptance for publication.

Native Sons

ATHLETICS

To all Grand Parlor Athletic Committee Chairmen and to all Sub-Ordinate Parlor Athletic Committee Chairmen:

It has been proven that an active athletic program by the order of the Native Sons of the Golden West has resulted in inducing young men to join our Order. With this in mind, we are striving this year to present a program to embrace all phases of athletic activity and to promote it to the fullest extent possible, with wide-spread publicity. To do this successfully, we must have the fullest co-operation of all chairmen.

District Chairmen as listed below, are authorized to appoint co-chairmen of various types of sports activities, embracing baseball, soft ball, basket ball, bowling, golf, hand ball, swimming and boxing, and are urged to select such chairmen, who in their estimation, are qualified to act in this capacity and who will give it their support. The District Chairmen are as follows:

Monte Flores—East Bay; Walter Mazza—Marin and North Bay counties; William Pavioni—Redwood Empire; Al Berryessa—San Jose area; Martin Machado—Central Coast; Eucian Griffin—Los Angeles area; George Walsh—San Diego area; Dale Hall—San Joaquin valley; Frank Terrell—Chico and Upper valley; Ed. E. Huston—Sacramento area.

The above named chairmen are responsible for the success of the program, and will report to the State Chairman, Peter Butti, through the Grand Secretary's office, 414 Mason Street, San Francisco, of the progress that is being made. For suggestions or assistance, you are urged to contact your State Chairman, who will be glad to furnish any desired information or further detail.

To stimulate interest in sports participation, we suggest you use your Parlor Bulletin, the Grizzly Bear magazine, and your local newspapers for publicity concerning events that will take place. We believe a well publicized sports program will be effective in interesting young men in our organization and could be the means of increasing our membership.

Sincerely and Fraternally yours,

Peter Butti, State Chairman,
Athletic Committee, NSGW.

Native Daughters

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

By HENRIETTA TOOTHAKER
Grand President, NDGW

To the Officers and Members of the Subordinate Parlors, Native Daughters of the Golden West. Saludos Amigos, Howdy Pardners, Ahoy Mates, Hi Neighbors, Dear Sisters:

It make no difference where you live in this great State of ours, nor what type of salutation you prefer. From the blue Pacific shores to the Sierras, from Mount Shasta to the Mexican border, I greet you heartily.

As your Grand President I am looking forward to a happy and, I hope, successful year; successful in carrying forward our many projects, instituting new parlors, enlarging membership of established parlors and thus strengthening our position as a social and patriotic organization in this glorious State. Your whole-hearted support and cooperation are solicited.

These objectives cannot be fulfilled by a few persons. Each member must feel herself a part of the whole organization and realize that she can add something to the success of the program by doing her bit, be it great or small.

Did you ever watch a nest of ants when danger threatens? The queen and her immediate helpers do not attempt to save the ant hill alone. Every ant has a job to do and does it. There is a great danger threatening our organization through the dangers menacing our State and Nation, and it is up to us to do all in our power to mitigate this threat. Some one has said that men think in terms of steel, stone and economics, but women think in terms of human values. Surely, if nearly twenty thousand women exercise their thinking along constructive lines and let others know how we feel, we will be able to exert a strong influence throughout the State of California.

Due to the action taken at Grand Parlor in San Jose, the Board of Directors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency voted to proceed with the liquidation of their work insofar as adoptions are concerned. In order to complete all adoptions, placements and other obligations, the work must be carried on for at least eighteen months. We must not fail this final obligation to our Homeless children. All monies previously collected for this purpose must be turned over to the Adoption Agency. This is as legal as well as a moral trust and such funds cannot be used for any purpose other than the one for which they were collected. If you have such funds, kindly send them in as soon as possible.

At the Grand Parlor meeting in San Jose, action was taken restricting joint official visits to two Parlors "except when Parlors desire to meet in larger groups." In many cases it would be easier to work out the itinerary if I could include three Parlors. Will you consider this matter and, if asked to do so, comply with such a request? This would be greatly appreciated by me.

As the recipient of the high honor bestowed upon me, I am deeply appreciative to those who made this honor possible and to all of you I extend my sincere thanks. I shall do all in my power to endeavor to prove myself worthy of this responsibility.

San Diego Parlor No. 208, Native Daughters of the Golden West, recently sponsored the Palomar Unit No. 24, Junior Native Daughters of the Golden West. Grand Trustee Emily Welsh instituted the Unit on July 29, 1949, with 25 Juniors present. Four other Juniors were initiated July 18, 1949, bringing the Charter list up to 29.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA NEWS

By EDWIN A. COX, II.

San Francisco Extension Of Order Plans Big Picnic

Receiving the bad news that the boys in Sacramento didn't want to have any more Centennials and thus slicing the funds, didn't stop the San Francisco Extension of the Order from continuing their plans for 1950. Yes, they are sponsoring a joint picnic for the benefit of both orders. It promises to be one of the greatest picnics ever held in San Francisco. All twenty parlors of San Francisco (NSGW) and twenty parlors of the (NDGW) are participating through their delegates to the Extension of the Order Committee.

The picnic is to be held Sunday, September 25th, 1949 at Skippers Park in Portola Valley. The admission is to be 25c. There will be door prizes as well as surprises and fun for young and old alike. The program of the day will consist of dancing, drinking, games, the kind that makes it worth your while, and EATS galore.

So come one, Come all, the more there are the merrier.

There will be buses for those without cars. Don't forget Sunday, September 25th, 1949, at Skippers Park.

Testimonial Dinner Held For Frank Marini

Through the joint efforts of San Francisco Parlor No. 49, NSGW, and San Francisco Parlor, NDGW, a testimonial dinner was given in honor of Frank Marini, charter member of San Francisco Parlor No. 49. The scene was the fabulous hotel Fairmont, of interest to all visitors to San Francisco. The Fairmont hotel atop Nob Hill. Toastmaster of the evening was Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Peter T. Conmy, who delivered a marvelous Eulogy.

California Parlor Member Appointed Municipal Judge

Brother Carl Allen of California Parlor was recently honored by our good brother Governor Earl Warren of Fruitvale Parlor, with his appointment as Municipal Judge of San Francisco. This appointment was in keeping with the usual policy of non-partisan appointments.

Brother Carl Allen is 42 years old and received his law education the hard way, attending night sessions. He served in the Army, entering as a private and coming out as a Lieutenant. Prior to his appointment, he was an assistant district attorney, and former district deputy Grand Parlor of our order. We are proud of him for he upholds our highest ideals being of service to his Community, as well as our order.

San Francisco To Be Well Represented Admission Day

Now that most parlors have had their installation of officers the members are turning their interests to the September 9th, 1949 celebration at San Jose.

San Francisco is again on the parade lineup as a single division with California Parlor No. 1 in their usual place at the helm. The San Francisco Parade Committee under the able direction of Harry Romick and Beatrice Nishkian have turned out their usual best for the celebration at San Jose. With all details in hand and plans completed, it promises to be a great parade in San Jose with San Francisco's huge division of 20 parlors participating (NSGW).

We'll be seeing you at San Jose for the biggest celebration prior to California's 100th Anniversary in 1950.

The Grizzly Bear Club

The Native Son building in San Francisco is an eight story structure and on the 8th floor you'll find one of the most popular meeting places in San Francisco, the Grizzly Bear Club. All members have the privileges of the Club. The old time Bartender that greets you with his friendly smile is Virgil Orenge, the oldest living past Governor General of Past Presidents General Assembly. His affable nature and knowledge keeps the members posted of various affairs and events of the Order.

Stanford Parlor Has Active Program

Since the passing of their good brother Charles Roberts, Stanford has worked hard to maintain the pace he used to set. As one of their major accomplishments, Stanford Parlor went to the Old Hearst Ranch in Pleasanton with all their friends for a day of fun. There were races for the kiddies, games for the adults, besides dancing and eating, not to mention the slight drinking of water, that is for chasing purposes. Art Poheim is to be highly congratulated along with his corps of able Committee workers.

REMEMBER the 1948 Tournament of Roses Float of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West? When this beautiful entry rolled down Colorado Street, Pasadena, on that New Year's morning the heart of every Native Son and Daughter along the parade route swelled with pride and joy. It was estimated that nearly a million people viewed the Tournament of Roses Parade that year. One of the major radio networks outbid its rival, paying $250,000 for the privilege of broadcasting the coming 1950 parade. The Native Sons and Daughters will again have a float in the parade this New Year's Day and local contests are being conducted all over the State in the preliminaries to select the "Girl of the Golden West," who with her court, add grace and charm to the event. Address of the Native Sons and Native Daughters General Float Committee is P. O. Box 922, Pasadena 20.

Through efforts of brother Richard Laventhal, 2nd vice-president, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, will have a float entered in the September 9th parade in San Jose this year.

Brother Laven-

parade grounds, and the parlor will gain some valuable publicity from their entry. The group working on the float will arrive in San Jose some days ahead of the scheduled parade and will complete the float before the remainder of those attending from this southland parlor arrive. Those who wish will enter as a marching unit to accompany the float, and if possible, a decorated car will also be used as the entry of Santa Monica Bay Parlor. If enough members of the Drum Corps are able to attend the convention, the Drum Corps of the parlor will march as a unit.

Santa Monica Bay To Hold Big Barbecue September 25

Plans for the reviving of the famous barbecues of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, are now nearing the completion stage. This event, long an annual and famous activity of the parlor, will be under the direction this year of the Eisenhart brothers, Ralph and Milton, who have established an enviable record as chefs in this event. Many members will remember the barbecues given by the parlor and prepared by these same brothers in past years.

The Hall Association of the parlor, which is sponsoring the event, announces that it will be held in Saxonia Park, Newhall, on Sunday, September 25, 1949. Tickets for the event are $1.50 for adults and 75c for children under 12.

There will be free ice cream, and games and entertainment have been provided with plans for dancing, etc., all to take place during the afternoon.

Serving of the barbecue will be from 12 noon until 3 p.m., but all members and friends are urged to come early and stay late, as there will be lots of fun for everyone, and everyone will have a chance to meet old friends and make many new ones during the day.

Posters will be placed on the highways giving directions to the celebration, and directions will be given in detail of the route to follow in an early edition of the "Grizzly Bear" magazine.

Take Active Part In Santa Monica Celebration

Collaborating with the city of Santa Monica in their annual "Dias de Oro" celebration, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW entered their drum corps and two cars in the parade held Saturday, August 20.

In the cars were local and NSGW celebrities, and riding one of the auto entries was Miss Barbara Feliz, Santa Monica Bay Parlor's entry in the state-wide "Girl of the Golden West" contest.

With the generosity of the Bruin Motor Co., Westwood Village Pontiac dealer, and Chet Houseley, West Los Angeles Hudson Motor Car Co., two fine 1949 cars were furnished for the Parlor's use in the parade.

Dr. R. C. Eshelman, a trustee of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, entered a mounted entry in the parade and was seen in company with some other 1500 horsemen in the line of march.

Placards on the sides of the cars gave the Parlor, the Centennial Commission, the "Girl of the Golden West" contest, and the orders in general, some fine publicity before some 15,000 people who witnessed the parade.

Schedule Initiation

Among many events scheduled for the near future by Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, is a county-wide initiation to be held on December 2.

This event will have the Grand Officers present as an initiatory team, and will be held in the new home of the Parlor, at 819 Ocean Park Blvd., Santa Monica.

Walter Brandt, Grand Outside Sentinel, and a member of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, will be the official host on that night.

Sue Dyck, charter president of Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW, wears bouquet of dollar bills as a chapeau, presented to her by the parlor on the last meeting of her term. The presentation was made by Matilda Talbott, inside sentinel.

THE LETTER BOX

ROGER W. JESSUP

5431 San Fernando Road West
Glendale, California
July 27, 1949.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Mrs. Jessup and I wish to thank you most sincerely for the marking by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West of Casa del Rancho Huasna on June 5, 1949.

The man of the ranch and citizens of San Luis Obispo have told me that never before have they seen such a group of fine people. The program, the plaque and the number of guests so far exceeded our expectations that we find it difficult to express in words how greatly honored we feel. We can only say that while not Natives of California ourselves, we are indeed happy that through choice of residence our one Native Daughter, four Native sons, and their families are citizens of such a State.

We have always been proud to be owners of a Ranch that was a part of early California history. Now, through your endeavors you have made it especially dear to us.

Thanking you again,

Most Cordially yours,

ROGER W. JESSUP.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY INTER-PARLOR COMMITTEE

Native Sons and Daughters of Golden West
August 4, 1949.

Honorable Roger W. Jessup

501 Hall of Records
Los Angeles 12, California

Dear Sir:

Your letter to the Native Sons and Native Daughters, in care of the writer, was most welcome. Your commendation of our efforts was most heartwarming.

We know that no building can withstand the pressure exerted by time and endure without the proper foundation, nor can a republic such as ours long endure without the sacrifices made by our pioneer mothers and fathers who, by their efforts have given us the foundation of an everlasting land of freedom.

It is for this reason that we Native Sons and Native Daughters take so much pride in marking for posterity, the signs of the handiwork of those brave men and women, who won for these United States this western outpost which, in the past one hundred years, has proven herself to be one of the richest and strongest states in the Union.

The marking of Casa del Rancho Huasna was, in my opinion, the most outstanding historical marking by our two orders for many years. It was made so through the outstanding hospitality shown by you and the gracious Mrs. Jessup.

As you yourself have pointed out, neither you nor Mrs. Jessup is a Native of this state. However, no early California Don and his lady could have made us more welcome.

With the compliments of the Los Angeles County Interparlor Committee and with my kindest personal regards to you both,

Sincerely yours,

JOHN B. SCHMOLLE,
President.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Californiana Parlor No. 217, Los Angeles carried out the theme of the Grand President, Henrietta Toothaker, in emphasizing the Californiana missions in the installation of their new president, Blanche Oeshel. Her Great-grandfather, Don Jose Chapman, was one of the builders of the Santa Barbara Mission, an interesting historical background for the mission theme.

The Reverend Maynard, of the Santa Barbara Mission spoke on Junipero Serra. He has made a wide study of the great founder of the missions and said that this year of 1949 was the 200th anniversary of Serra's decision to become a missionary to the Indians. Thus, it is fitting to celebrate the Centennial of California '49's with the thought of the man who pioneered first in this great state.

East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, Montebello, reports that Tessie Wooster is taking over the reins as their new president.

Installation ceremonies of Aloha Parlor No. 06, Oakland, took place at Alco Elect Hall with Vivian Harris receiving the gavel from Kathleen Dombbrink of Piedmont Parlor No. 7. Deputy Grand President and installing officer. Highlights of the evening included the presentation of a past president's pin to Jennie Bieden by Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary.

Many active members of Orinda Parlor No. 6, San Francisco, are taking part in the Admission Day Celebration at San Jose, and are preparing for their Anniversary Banquet at the Montclair restaurant on September 13. Needles have been flying for months and members have many new plans and ideas for successful Fall Festival to be held soon.

Whittier Parlor No. 298 not only held its installation of officers, but at the same time celebrated its first birthday. Lucille Parsons, incoming president, was presented with a spray of gorgeous American Beauty roses with the best wishes of the newly elected officers. Grand officers present for the event were Grace Stoermer, PGP; Mary Noernberg, PGP; Seda Sullivan, Grand Organist; and Phyllis Hirst, Grand Trustee.

Mrs. Edna L. Kretcher, State President of the Past Presidents Assembly of Native Daughters of the Golden West, and a member of Association No. 4 of Sacramento, made her official visit to Association No. 2 in Oakland recently with a dinner in her honor being held at Hotel Lakehurst. State officers present were: State Marshal Myrtle Bottini of San Francisco; State Inside Sentinel Isobel Snedigar of Oakland; Past State Presidents, Alice Roll of San Jose, Beda Pacheco, Winifred Buckingham and Emily Lawson of Oakland, and Grand Trustee Ruth Trousdale of San Francisco. On July 22nd she visited the Nevada County Association at Grass Valley with a dinner on the patio of Beatrice George in her honor. Her State officers were: Past State Presidents Juliet Bliss of Vallejo, Edna Sampson of Grass Valley, State Organist Louise Wales of Grass Valley, and State Director Elvena Woodard of Vallejo. August 24, Association No. 3 observed its silver anniversary, with a luncheon at the "Red Coach," and the State President was again honored guest.

Santa Barbara Natives Play Important Part In Fiesta

When Santa Barbara revived and revitalized its famed Old Spanish Days Fiesta, August 3-6, Reina del Mar Parlor, NDGW, under presidency of Miss Josephine Pagliotti, played a major role of participation and coordination. Channel City citizenry were determined to recapture the original purpose of La Fiesta with accent on historical authenticity both in pagentry and costuming.

The Native Daughters sponsored a pre-fiesta tea at De la Guerra gardens, an afternoon for one thousand guests, with Paul Sweetser, past president of Santa Barbara parlor Native Sons, presiding and with Rev. Joseph M. Thompson, O.F.M. coming from Los Angeles as speaker of the day.

The Native Daughters, as in earlier years, were privileged to select a young member to portray Saint Barbara. Miss Phyllis Moore served gracefully, making her first formal appearance at the opening ceremonies on the grounds of the Old Mission, serving as escort to Mrs. Earl Warren on her visit to the Sacred Garden of the Mission the following day and riding on the Saint Barbara float of the parlor in the Historic parade of August 4.

Las Fiesteras, the parlor's dancing group, participated in evening programs of "El Fandango" in the Sunken Gardens of the courthouse.

Reina del Mar's Fiesta participation was sparked by Mrs. Ambert Phillips, Education committee; Mrs. Henry Griffiths and Miss Edna Sharpe, History committee; Mrs. George A. Tackaberry, Landmarks; Mrs. R. J. Schulz, Pioneer Roster; Mrs. William Russell, Las Fiesteras, and Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Public Relations.

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The opinions expressed are those of the editor and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

There is food for thought in the report that a San Francisco girl was refused a job simply because she was born in California and the prospective employer had come here from another part of the United States.

Seldom is this narrow-minded attitude taken, but this magazine knows from bitter experience that sometimes that is the case, particularly where men are sent here from other parts of the United States to take positions of high authority in California concerns.

However, it is the exception, rather than the rule. Generally, people coming to us from other states are eager to be classed as Californians. They are proud to raise sons and daughters, who can rightfully claim that they were born in this great State.

The fact is, that many of the strongest supporters of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, people who are always willing and will go out of their way to support us, came from other states.

Probably the incident cited is not something to "get up in the air" about, but nevertheless, it is a warning that we must ever be vigilant in our responsibilities as Native Sons and Daughters.

Welcome news is the announcement that Past Grand President Walter N. Bailey has been appointed Administrative Assistant by Grand President Peter T. Conmy. He has been assigned to organization work and will devote his full time to the Native Sons of the Golden West. He will be assisting parlors in organization work and surveying the field for new parlors. Parlors wishing his service should write to the Grand President.

The Native Sons will soon come of age. On Saturday evening, July 9, California No. 1 San Francisco, organized by General Andrew Mayer Winn, celebrated its 74th birthday. Golden Gate Parlor No. 29, San Francisco, recently celebrated its 65th birthday. The father of Grand President Peter T. Conmy was a charter member of Golden Gate and had been a member continuously for 49 years at the time of his death. Excelsior No. 31 and Long No. 33 celebrated their 65th Anniversaries at a joint banquet August 11 in the Native Son Hall at Jackson. Fruitvale Parlor, Oakland recently celebrated its 39th birthday.

The July issue of The Pony Express, published monthly at Placerville, gives the wording on many of the commemorative plaques in the Mother Lode. It is well to note that a large percentage of these were placed by the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. In some sections of the State the Natives have done a fine job of marking the spots of historic interest. In other parts we haven't done so well.

The placing of plaques not only carries out the purpose for which the Orders were founded, but focuses the attention of the public on what we are doing. The plaque is there through the years to tell all who pass that we were there and took recognition of the part the particular landmark played in the development of California.

Cappy Ricks of Mount Diablor Parlor NSGW, Martinez, sends us the following United Press dispatch from the Martinez Gazette of September 19, under date line of San Jose:

"Sweet-talking Mayor Fred Watson knows how to make a hit with the ladies.

"He was talking to about 1000 of the Native Daughters of the Golden West when he pawed one foot in the dirt and bellowed 'You California women are the most beautiful in the entire nation'."

The girls just sat there and beamed. And then Watson really warmed up to his subject. He gave them all a wink and said:

"I'm delighted, simply delighted to find myself the only male in this room—with the doors closed!"

"The ladies liked that too. Then, still giggling, they finally got down to conference business."

The newspapers of California carried this United Press dispatch:

"SARAFENTO, Sept. 9.—(UP)—California's 99th anniversary to the Union slipped by without official notice from the state fair today.

"In fact, Fred Heitfeld, director of special events at the fair, said he didn't even know today was Admission Day.

"I forgot all about it," he said."

1948-1949-1950

There were heavy storms in California, October 2 and 25, 1874, giving a rainfall for the month of 1.40 inches. It was sufficient to start the grass growing and plows moving and to encourage the farmers and stockmen.

Seven fires were started by incendiaries October 25 at Oakland in efforts to burn the city. A number of houses and barns were destroyed.

H. M. Larue, on Putah reek, Yolo County, from seventy acres threshed 2,380 sacks of grain. The land yielded seventy bushels to the acre, and grain was worth 90c a bushel.

Herbison, an apiarist of San Diego County, sold this season and shipped East $25,000 worth of honey.

Fresno County produced 100 tons of cotton this season.

A grower at Bodega, Sonoma County, produced on three acres of land eighty tons of cabbages, which he sold in San Francisco for $4,000.

Thomas W. Moore was given a wharf franchise on the Goleta rancho, Santa Barbara County. He was to build a wharf to load vessels and ship asphaltum from the beds in that vicinity.

An auction sale of horses in Santa Barbara October 2 brought bids ranging from 10c to $10. A 10-year-old lad was the successful ten-cent bidder, and took away his purchase with a rope double the value of the horse.

G. W. Simmons caught a shark with a hook and line near South Vallejo, Solano County, that was seven feet long.

Two whales were harpooned and killed in Monterey Bay this month.

A disease called "false tongue" was prevalent in Tulare County. The afflicted first had an itching at the base of the tongue, from which came a fungus growth resembling a tongue, that soon filled the mouth and protruded from it, causing death from suffocation in a few days. It grew two inches an hour. Physicians were burning it with caustic and thereby effecting some cures.

Natives Seek Ways To Finance County Museum

By ART VOLKERTS
Santa Rosa Press Democrat

Pleased with response to the Sonoma county museum proposal, Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West met Wednesday night, Sept. 7, to discuss ways of financing the project.

It was decided to have the museum committee contact civic, fraternal, patriotic and veterans organizations in the county, asking each to name one or two delegates to a general county museum committee.

A meeting of the county committee would be called early in October at the Native Sons hall in Santa Rosa to plan the financing of the museum. The public would also be invited to attend.

A plan was suggested to help sustain the museum. This plan would have an offering box placed near the proposed museum's exit to receive contributions.

Dr. W. C. Shipley, chairman of the NSGW museum committee, said Miss Martha Hahman and her niece, Miss Mildred Turner, managers of the Hahman Estate, have agreed to the use of the old Cabrillo Adobe as the central unit of the museum, providing the adobe was replaced with a structure suitable for the housing of farm machinery.

The adobe, Santa Rosa valley's oldest permanent structure, was built in 1855. It would have to be moved brick by brick from its present location off Montgomery drive to the Sonoma County Fairgrounds.

Albert Willson, president of the NSGW, and Mrs. Regina Reeves, president of NDGW, said their organizations were anxious to house and preserve our most outstanding historical treasures as well as restore and preserve that grand old adobe for posterity."

News The Grizzly Wants

The editor wants stories and photographs descriptive of charitable activities, historical markings, parades, civic affairs participated in by the parlors, high honors attained by members of the Orders, aid to veterans and other patriotic activities, participation in athletics, boys and girls work, important events participated in by the Grand President and Grand Officers.

REQUIREMENTS.

Keep news brief but include all essential details. Spell clearly. Send only clear, glossy photographs, clearly identified, packed flat with backing. Do not send mats. All material for a given issue must be in the Magazine Office by the 15th of the preceding month.

YOUR MAGAZINE CAN NOT PRINT

The editor finds it necessary to decline material relative to the following subjects, because it would be unfair to discriminate and, considering the number of parlors, it would be impossible to give coverage to such activities in all parlors.

Routine parlor sessions, material descriptive of mandatory ceremonies, installations and like events participated in by most of the parlors. These events could not be covered for all the parlors in a magazine of our size.

The editor reserves the right to edit all material submitted and to pass on its acceptance for publication.

Mother Lode Trek

This is the fifth of a series of the Trek of the Mother Lode which includes most of the important places in Nevada County.

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

DURING these California Centennial years there is a nationwide interest in the Mother Lode of California. Outstanding of course, in this region are the old mining towns and Ghost towns which cause this part of California to possess a charm all its own.

These towns have been called the "Argonaut" towns and shall always be known as such for it was argonauts of '49 that found most of them.

High up in the pine forest of Nevada county where colors of green and blue mingle with an historic atmosphere many "Argonaut" towns are found isolated from the main highway No. 49.

A route taken by the writer some time ago offers an outstanding scenic and historic trip through the west central section of Nevada county. Grass Valley on highway 49 is one of the largest cities in the northern mines; coniferous forests cover the hills which surround this historic place. According to Hubert H. Bancroft's History of California Vol. VI page 472 "Oregonians appear to have begun mining in 1848 at Grass Valley, but the first cabin is attributed early in 1849 to Saunders, Taylor, and Broughton, and the first store in December to J. Rosiere; yet Morey claims the first store in Grass Valley proper, in the summer of 1850. The main pioneer settlement rose in Boston Ravine."

Upon the discovery of quartz in 1850 a stamp mill was erected on gold hill and in 1852 schools and churches were founded. A conflagration swept the city in 1855 destroying most of the business section. Grass Valley is one of the "Argonaut" cities which grew through the years to become one of the largest in northeastern California.

On the summit of Gold Hill, on the southern outskirts of the city, is a monument surrounded by pines which reads as follows:

"This tablet commemorates the discovery of gold-bearing quartz and the beginning of quartz mining in California. The discovery was made on Gold Hill by George Knight October 1850. The occurrence of gold-bearing quartz was undoubtedly noted here and elsewhere about the same time or previously but the above discovery created the great excitement that started the development of quartz mining into a great industry. The Gold Hill mine, 1850-1857, is credited with a total production of $4,000,000.00. This monument dedicated by Quartz Parlor N.S.G.W., and Manzanita Parlor, N.D.G.W., October 20, 1929. Some of the large quartz mines in Grass Valley are the Idaho Maryland, the Empire State and North Star. Millions in gold have been taken out of Grass Valley's quartz mines.

One of the interesting streets in the city is Church street on which is seen the Methodist church organized in 1852, the Episcopal church in 1855 (the present building was erected in 1858). The Congregational church erected in 1853. On the south end of Church street is the site of old St. Patrick's Catholic church alongside the present church.

The home of Lotta Crabtree was located on Mill street. She was a world famed actress who was born in New York in 1847 and came to Grass Valley about 1853. It is said that she, as a little girl here, spent days with Lola Montez learning dance steps and songs.

The home of Lola Montez, Countess of Landsfeld, Bavaria, is located on the corner of Mill and Walsh streets. Lola Montez, also a famous actress, was born in Ireland in 1818 and after a celebrated career in Europe and America went to Grass Valley in 1852 during which year the booming city of Boston Ravine was at its height in the gold rush era.

A tablet in memory of Josiah Royce is seen in the public library. Josiah Royce who was a philosopher, historian and professor at Harvard College was born in Grass Valley in 1855. He was the author of "California from the conquest in 1846 to the Second Vigilance Committee in San Francisco."

About four miles north of Grass Valley is Nevada City. According to Bancroft's History of California Vol. VI page 471—"The first cabin near the site of Nevada is attributed to J. Pennington, T. Cross, and W. McCaig, in September, 1849. In the following month A. B. Caldwell erected a log store." Another paragraph which sounds interesting and gives the reader an idea of the size and activity of this city during the gold rush days states Bancroft: "A rush of gold-seekers ensued in the spring, until the number at one time gathered within a circuit of seven miles was estimated at from 15,000 to 35,000, with 150 stores, 14 hotels, 2 hospitals, church and school, and a city population equalling that of Sacramento." Nevada City was settled in 1849 first known as "Deer Creek Dry Diggings," "Caldwells Upper Store" this was christened "Nevada" in 1850. It was incorporated as "The city of Nevada" in 1853. The name of Nevada was applied from the snowy range above and to the east of the place. Among some of the mines in this locale are the Murchie, Champion and Providence and among the interesting old buildings in Nevada City is the old Fire house with its picturesque balcony which is now a museum conducted by the Nevada County Historical Society; the old assayer's office on Commercial street was established in 1853. The Native Sons of the Golden West together with the Wells Fargo Bank have placed a plaque on the site of the early express office established in 1853.

About four miles west of Grass Valley on highway No. 20 is Rough and Ready another argonaut town settled in September 1849 under the leadership of Capt. Townsend who had served with General Zachary Taylor (old Rough and Ready). In October 1850 it polled 1,000 votes and it was here that Lotta Crabtree danced on the anvil of the blacksmith shop and sang before a crowd of miners. The old Rough and Ready hotel which once served as a post office and store was built in 1853 but is no longer to be seen. It was a long two story structure with a balcony on the front facing the road. The writer visited the old hotel in 1934 and at that time it still retained the old atmosphere as in the early days of Rough and Ready.

Turning north off highway No. 20 is Moon-eye Flat with its old hotel still standing. A two story building erected about 1869. This

A Tribute To California

By WALDO F. POSTEL
Past President Stanford No. 76

W E Californians are in the midst of three great centennial celebrations. Last year we celebrated the centennial of the discovery of gold; in 1949 the centennial of the arrival of the pioneers and in 1950 the centennial of the admission of California into the Union. It is highly in order that we briefly, and with pardonable pride, reflect upon the highlights of our colorful history. It was gold, of course, for which California was first renowned.

A mere 100 years ago California was a simple Indian paradise, a garden of Eden, a place of sunshine, fruit and flowers. Think of the romance, the courage, the sweat and blood and the pageantry it took to transform this sylvan scene into the great and powerful State of California it is today. In barely 100 years, of the 48 States of the Union, California has achieved many diversified and unexpected firsts. She is first in agricultural products, first in airplane manufacture, first in gold mining and first in the number of University graduates. She has achieved commercial supremacy without sacrificing her academic education.

California has the highest standard of living and the highest and lowest points in the United States, namely Mt. Whitney, about 15,000 feet above sea level, and Death Valley, 276 feet below sea level. California teems with natural gifts of mountains, valleys, forests and streams. What a splendid inheritance! It also contains the richest country in the whole United States of America—Los Angeles.

In the year 1535, the greatest of all the Spanish conquistadors, Hernando Cortez, while searching for the seven golden cities, reached Lower California. From here on we have three centuries of Spanish and Mexican rule. It was during this period that the 21 missions strung along El Camino Real, even as exquisitely carved beads of a Rosary, were established from San Diego to Sonoma. This was the romantic and easy going period which preceded the tumultuous events which led to the birth of our State. What a contrast are these lovely missions and their pastoral settings with the tremendous vigor and power of the present age, with its monumental dikes and dams, its magnificent farms and orchards, its oil wells, its ship building, its huge power houses, factories and docks, and its thriving cities bustling with human energy.

In 1848 and 1849 came the great migration of the hardy pioneers seeking gold. They came 2,000 miles by land or 19,000 miles by sea, either way under terrific hardships. Then came the admission of California into the Union. This admission has been poetically said to have been without territorial childhood. California never was a territory. She entered the Union a full fledged State.

Following the admission of California came the Comstocks and the silver Bonanzas of Nevada, all owned in California and which produced millions upon millions of wealth. It was the gold of California and the silver of the Comstocks that financed the Civil War for the North and contributed so much to the success of the Union forces and the preservation of the Republic.

With the development of the railroads and other means of communication, California rapidly developed in every direction. From here in our own day and time, were sent the great fleets by sea and by air and the great armies which defeated Japan and saved Asia, we hope

Huge San Jose Parade Marks Admission Day

By EDWIN A. COX, II

Some 75,000 citizens jammed the sidewalks of San Jose to watch one of the biggest, brightest parades in 25 years to celebrate California's 99th anniversary of its admission to the Union.

Four hours of floats, marching units, drill teams, bands—marched down two miles of downtown streets. Many cheers went to a huge delegation from San Francisco which took two hours to pass the reviewing stand.

The Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West took Admission Day as their own and made up the greater part of the spectacle.

Number-one crowd pleaser among the youngsters was the 84-piece Huntington Park band, who, with typical Southern California exuberance, jiggered along in tune to "Darktown Strutters Ball."

It was hard to pick a standout from among the drillers and drummers of Golden West parlors from all over the State. Tricky drill steps were the order of the day.

On the reviewing stand were Governor Earl Warren, Lt. Governor Goodwin Knight, various state dignitaries, as well as Grand Officers of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Side Lites On Parade

California's 99th Admission Day parade in San Jose set many precedents for the extension of the orders of the Native Sons and Daughters for which commendations are due General Chairman H. Irving Lee and his committee.

Thanks to the response from parlors throughout the State the spectacle was eight miles in length, requiring four hours to pass a given point. However, a split-second assembly schedule arranged for Parade Chairman Edward M. Fellow's experienced committee made it possible to funnel the parade smoothly into a two-mile line of march, along which more than 75,000 spectators were gathered. Directors were Louis A. Rossi, A. L. Schultenbourg, W. M. Wheeler and Charles Kesterson, who as San Jose's "four horsemen" have arranged parades here since 1921.

In advance of the parade, two troops of Boy Scouts distributed 25,000 free souvenir programs. These contained spirited historical articles on the significance of Admission Day and of the Native Sons and Daughters orders.

Enlistment of enthusiasm of the community as a whole in what has traditionally been Native Sons and Daughters observance was accomplished in several ways. Two hundred business firms and a hundred individuals financed the programs, with due acknowledgments therein. Parade entries from other organizations and civic groups were encouraged. This brought added variety to the parade and widened participative interest in the State's birthday.

There was much favorable comment on the orderliness and dignity of the celebration and most of the churches of the community made special mention of its significance in Sunday services following the holiday. These observances were part of the policy of community enlistment by which other events of the week end were tied into the general program.

All expenses were borne by a NSGW per capita tax which raised $1100, in addition to outlays by the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, the City of San Jose, the Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara County, and more than $5000 by public subscription. Total cost of the three-day celebration is estimated at around $20,000.

Portion of 8-mile parade put on by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, Admission Day, September 9th, passing down South Second Street in San Jose.

Monterey Parlor No. 75, Native Sons of the Golden West, commemorating the California Constitutional Centennial Celebration in Monterey dedicated a plaque Sunday, September 4, to Juan Bautista Alvarado, early Mexican governor. A number of Governor Alvarado's descendants were present. The tablet was placed on the house where he lived at the corner of Alvarado and Pearl Streets in Monterey. Above Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland, chairman of the California Centennials Commission, is shown dedicating the plaque. To his left is Governor Earl Warren; directly behind is Judge Monty Hellam, president of Monterey Parlor, NSGW.

Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West played an important part in the recent Constitutional Convention Centennial Celebration and are given credit for contributing much to the success of the celebration, one of the largest yet held in the Centennial years. On Sunday, September 4, the Native Daughters of the Golden West, with Grand Trustee Elmarie H. Dyke of Junipero Parlor, in charge, dedicated a monument to the intrepid Spanish explorer, Juan Bautista de Anza in El Estero Park, Monterey.

Membership Contest Will Be Conducted

To All Officers and Members of Subordinate Parlor, NSGW:

Re: Membership Contest

Dear Brothers:

The Membership Committee of the Grand Parlor, with the permission of Grand President Peter T. Conmy, has decided to conduct a Membership Contest between October 1st, 1949 and December 31st, 1949. The rules of this Contest are extremely simple, but it is hoped that each Parlor will study them carefully and then endeavor to qualify.

The rules are:

1. A $25.00 Bond is offered to every Parlor that initiates at least five candidates and shows a net gain in membership between October 1st and December 31st.

2. A $100.00 Bond is offered to the Parlor having the greatest net gain in membership.

3. A $100.00 Bond is offered to the Parlor having the greatest percentage gain in membership.

4. Notices of gains made during this period reported to the Grand Secretary's office after January 31st, 1950, will not qualify.

We believe that the rules above make it possible for every Parlor to receive something. The large Parlors may have the advantage under offer No. 2 above, but the small Parlors will have the advantage under offer No. 3.

May we urge that every Parlor undertake qualification at once.

Very Fraternal, yours,
EDWARD J. WREN, Chairman.
PETER T. CONMY, Grand President.
J. Walter Kamb, Louis E. Pellandini,
David W. Stuart, Edward T. Schnarr,
Philip C. Wilkins, Lewis A. Giegerich,
Membership Committee, NSGW.

Tribute To Frank Marini Distinguished Native Son

The Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco, was the setting Saturday, August 27, for a testimonial dinner in tribute to Frank Marini, distinguished Native Son, the occasion marking his 87th birthday. Over 1000 guests were in attendance at the dinner. Sending congratulatory telegrams, but unable to attend, were Governor Earl Warren and Mayor Elmer Robinson of San Francisco.

The guest of honor was presented a bronze bust of himself by the Italian-American Communities of California. He was also awarded a medal by Commander Benedetto D'Acunzo, Consul General of Italy, who spoke of Italy's pride in his accomplishments.

Master of ceremonies was Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy, NSGW. John B. Molinari, Judge of the San Francisco Municipal Court, spoke of Frank Marini's feats.

In size Frank Marini is not a large man, but the combination of a great heart and a keen business sense equipped him to cope with life "better than even terms."

In the earthquake of 1906 his home and business were destroyed, but Frank came back just like the city after whose patron saint he was named. For his successes he has shown unstinting gratitude, some of which can be measured in philanthropies totaling thousands of dollars. He aided greatly in the building of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in North Beach.

Today, Frank Marini has every right to look back with the greatest of satisfaction over the 87 successful years of living just completed. It is a satisfaction shared by numberless friends.

Frank Marini is the oldest treasurer of any parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, being a charter member of San Francisco Parlor No. 49, which he took great pride in helping to found.

Another distinguished guest was Father Riccardo Lombardi, the crusading priest from Rome, who spoke a few words in Italian.

The Native Daughters Home seems to be providing an excellent outlet for a number of worthwhile activities for some of the members of various Parlors, judging by the many favors bestowed upon it during the past few months.

Many of the earlier day members of the Order will remember that very active Grand Trustee of years gone by, Dora Zmudowski of El Pajaro Parlor No. 35, Watsonville, no longer here, but all will appreciate her good fellowship and interest in the welfare of her fellow members, when they learn she directed that a thousand dollars from her estate be presented to the Home in memory of her mother. Mrs. Zmudowski. Her sister Mary Zmudowski a recent caller at the home, executed the commission.

The Home has been the recipient too, of another thousand dollars from the estate of Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey of Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26.

Los Angeles No. 45 To Celebrate 65th Birthday

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW, will celebrate its 65th Anniversary with a dinner and program Thursday evening, November 17, at 6:30, at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.
The affair will honor Grand Trustee Alfred
R. Peracca, member of the parlor.

The evening's theme will be the "Cable Car and Culture of Los Angeles." Now long forgotten, the first cable cars were installed in Los Angeles in 1884, the year that Los Angeles No. 45 was instituted. Los Angeles' first opera house was also built in the same year.

Price of the dinner, for which reservations must be made in advance, is $2.50 per plate.
Ladies and friends of the parlor are invited.

Topanga Native Daughters Active In Veterans Work

Dorothy Kinney, president of Topanga No.
269, NDGW, Canoga Park, announces that the parlor has unanimously voted to adopt an entire ward of 36 men at the San Fernando Veterans hospital. Jennie Wooley, veteran chairman and her committee consisting of Frances Jenkins, Betty Jensen, Ruth Jackman, Emmy Lou Eckroyd and Eleanor Bishop, will formulate plans for carrying out this project.

Topanga Parlor has designated the last meeting of every month as a time for honoring birthdays of the members. Mary Phillips presented the parlor with a charming, large, pink piggy bank. Each member having a birthday during the month will deposit a penny in the bank for each year she is young.

Correction

The listing in last month's directory for Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 is incorrect. Gilbert Anderson is president. The parlor meets at 1089 North Oxford on the second Thursday of each month.

Tribute To California

for democracy. How strange it is that this, the youngest West, boldly facing the oldest East, is now the dominant power in the Pacific.

You and I know our California of today. We know what man has done. The gigantic works he has built and the progress he has made. We are also aware of the tremendous influx of population, the dominant part that California now plays in our national economy and her importance to our national defense. But are we not all too prone to overlook or even to forget the tremendous resources and the marvelous topography which we have inherited which made this success possible? Without our mighty mountains, the fertile valleys of the Sacramento and the San Joaquin, our magnificent coast line, our tremendous stands of timber, our glorious sunshine and kindly climate, we could never have done the things we have done. There is a destiny involved in all these gifts of nature and we should be worthy of that destiny. We should match our mountains. We should have the courage of the early Spanish conquerors, the faith of the ancient Padres and the fortitude of the hardy pioneers. California's sons and daughters, native and adopted, should be true to her and to the spirit of her great destiny.

On occasion I like to pass by our romantic and historic development and think of our own California as she is and was from the beginning. I like to look at the map of the Western Hemisphere and then at a geographical globe and there see California as she has been given to us in that unsurpassed setting, the unfathomable and mysterious Pacific on one side and the deserts in which ancient civilizations are buried on the other. This truly is a beautiful strip of country from Shasta to San Diego and from Tahoe to the Pacific!

Beautiful century-old costumes, heritages from past generations and prized by Sacramento families, were worn by Native Daughters of the Golden West who took part in pioneer sequences of "Golden Melody Parade of 1949," large musical show given at the California State Fair in Sacramento last month. Miss Lillian Simpson in black, beaded shawl and black taffeta dress, a true Centennial piece of attire. The gown is being admired by, left, Mrs. Georgetta Roush, and right, Mrs. Gailord Orr.

Ventura County Parlors Hold Joint Dinner Meet

A hundred Native Sons and Daughters met at the Elks Building, Ventura, September 27, to make short work of four turkeys at the first joint dinner meeting of Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, NSGW, Ventura and Las Tres Vistas Parlor No. 302, NDGW.

The Native Sons orchestra furnished music during the dinner, which was followed by a splendid talk by Mathew English, who wishes that he was a Native Californian. J. G. Cardona served as entertainment chairman, providing some fine vocal and instrumental selections from local talent. J. A. Peters of Cabrillo Parlor brought a family delegation of six, every one of them a Native Son or Native Daughter.

On August 23 Cabrillo Parlor held its annual barbecue at Kenny Park, Fillmore. The Fillmore members did themselves proud and $58.80 was cleared towards new uniforms for the parlor orchestra, which is in constant demand for local affairs.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Miss Lydia Rinehart of Fresno Parlor 187, made her official visit to Charter Oak Parlor No. 292, Visalia. The escort team conducted the distinguished guest to the worthy president of the parlor, Mrs. Vernon Henry, and presented a corsage to the honored guest. At the close of the business meeting, a special Admission Day program was presented.

Yellow, white and red roses carried out the official colors of the parlor, and formed a background for the evenings entertainment. Large baskets of zinnias were placed at the officers stations. Mrs. Laura Denman was decoration chairman for the evening.

Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288, Lancaster, are making plans for their autumn steak fry, out in the great Mojave Desert, at the colorful and picturesque home of Mrs. Florence Lowe "Pancho" Barnes, the Rancho Oro Verde. After the steak fry dancing will be enjoyed out under the stars to the music of the Moonliters. The evening is exclusive to Native Sons and their families.

Recently a lovely social evening was enjoyed in the beautiful patio gardens of Irene Audros, Lancaster. It was a member and husband's night and there was a good turn out of sixty-five. Out-of-town guests were Ethelwynne Fraiser, DGP to Joshua Tree and Verna Doster of San Fernando Mission Parlor No. 280.

Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, Oakland, recently held their public installation with Past President Georginia Williams as installing officer, assisted by Shirley Martin, Helen Theim and Clair Valcovich. President Eileen McInnis wearing a pretty Alice Blue Formal, was escorted to her station by an escort team, of sixteen girls carrying gold baskets filled with flowers, while Pat Rathke sang "My Sweet Alice Blue Gown." Georginia Williams was presented with her past presidents pin by Mrs. Ragon, Mother of the unit. A motion picture entitled, "California's Golden Beginning" was shown by Mr. Fred Rettig. The girls served dainty refreshments to over 150 guests.

Plans are well under way for the annual fall bazaar, according to co-chairmen, Martha Decker and Margaret Horwath of Aloha Parlor No. 106, Oakland.

Aloha Parlor was well represented at the Admission Day Parade, which was held at San Jose, Friday, September 9. The members wore basque fitting old fashioned print dresses with bonnets to match.

September 27, the parlor held its Past Deputy Grand Presidents' Party. Invitations were sent out to 20 deputies who faithfully served Aloha in the past. Margaret Horwath was the chairman of the evening and was ably assisted by Kate Maloney, Jennie Peterson, Adrienne Mitchell, Irma Murray and Eda Steuer.

With district deputy grand presidents, Bernice Dignan and Lee Answorth presiding, the new officers of Sequoia Parlor No. 272 and Berkeley Parlor No. 210 were installed into their respective offices.

Grand marshals were Maryellen Broadway and Ray Burks. Nellis Homewood heads Sequoia as its new president. Officers carried

In September, the Green Patrol Drill Team composed of members of Sequoia Parlor No. 22 and Argonaut Parlor No. 166, won first prize in the Drill Team contests held during Admission Day celebrations in San Jose.

In preparation for an all day bazaar to be held November 10, a tea towel shower was given. Vera Giordano was chairman of the affair.

October 1, Sequoia was co-host with Berkeley Parlor No. 210 of the Sons at the second dance of the season.

On Saturday, September 21, East Los Angeles Native Daughters held a barbecue dinner at the home of Pauline Pappas.

Grace Parlor, NDGW, Fullerton, held its annual Admission Day pot-luck supper in La Palma Park, Anaheim, September 9, with the families of the members and members of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW, joining with them on the occasion.

SOMETHING NEW

By HAR LAR

There's an old game made new that is rapidly becoming popular throughout both the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas. It's the age old Chinese game of the spinning top, a fascinating test of skill that intrigues both young and old. Developed upon the principle of centrifugal force, the faster the top spins the better is the operator's control. It is a game of exercised muscle coordination. In fact, three veteran hospitals are testing the use of the top for promoting wrist action and the coordination of eye and hand.

From Chico to Corona the game has spread. Y. F. Hammatt, a popular Los Angeles playground director, is manufacturing a modernized product known as the X. L. top made of rubber. Youngsters of all ages can learn to use the top in ten minutes time. After proficiency is acquired, boys from the Los Angeles playground have chosen teams which play the game much as volley ball is played but without a net. The spinning tops are tossed high in the air to be caught and returned by the opposite side. The known world's record for throwing and catching the top is 467 times and is held by a twelve year old Los Angeles schoolboy.

History tells us it's an old Chinese custom. The spinning top is perhaps the world's oldest game. Chinese children were playing it in the days of Marco Polo. It came to California with the Gold Rush and was taught to our pioneer ancestors by Chinese coolies around the campfires along the mother lode. Nearly half a century later it became the craze of the French Riviera and was called "Diablo." A million Frenchmen couldn't be wrong and the age old game soon became popular throughout western Europe. The youth of England, Netherlands and the Scandinavian countries are still avid addicts of the art of the spinning top.

There are a thousand tricks the accomplished operator may learn to perform. If your youngsters were yo-yo fans, they'll be crazy about the XL top.

This year he served in a similar capacity for the parade put on by the Native Sons and Daughters of Long Beach in conjunction with that city's Centennial celebration.

There will be a dinner and dancing in the evening. All members and friends are welcome to attend. For reservations call: Bea Nance, chairman, Long Beach Torrey 71-875; Ann Barton, Long Beach 69-5429; or, June Bengston, Topaz 27-395.

A Good Appointment

From the Cabrillo Log

We understand that Grand President Conmy NSGW, has appointed Junior Past Grand President Walter Bailey as his administrative assistant to work with Subordinate Parlors in matters of organization, reorganizations, etc., and from what we know of Brother Bailey he is the man for the job. However, Walter Bailey cannot do the job alone; we don't care how good he is. He should have the unqualified support of the visiting Grand Officer, Supervising Deputy, District Deputy and every officer of every Parlor.

If these officials support Brother Bailey in his work, the "lay" members of the Order will learn the necessity of backing their officers and (though perhaps not in one short year) it will not be long before Native Sons of the Golden West will increase its membership and its standing in the civic and fraternal life of California.

We do not believe that a Grand Organizer is either necessary to or good for the Order. The plan has been tried and has failed. We do believe that a man like Walter Bailey can, by meeting and advising with the above named officers, be of help to all Parlors be they weak or strong. The Parlors can help by electing to office only those men who WILL WORK and who will devote a fair measure of their time to Parlor affairs.

It is the opinion of the writer that District and Parlor officers should meet, say every other month, to talk matters over and plan for Parlor extensions and improvements, such plans to be presented to Brother Bailey for his approval and suggestions. It's worth trying, isn't it? And if Walter can attend these meetings, so much the better.

Redwood Parlor Building Camp For Boy Scout Troop

Boy Scout Troop No. 113, sponsored by Redwood Parlor No. 66, Redwood City, for the past 22 years, is building a camp for the troop at Redwood Parlor's Bear Lodge Park, a 75-acre Redwood grove.

Redwood Parlor's softball team ended up in the top bracket and the bowling teams are starting their winter season after a successful summer tournament. The Mounted Patrol is building up its membership with about 25 in the posse at press time.

To top everything the parlor's drum corps won first place for drum corps at San Jose, September 9. The drum corps was organized less than a year ago. Besides winning the San Jose event, the corps has won three seconds in other parades.

Redwood Parlor also has something in the manner of a record in its recording secretary, A. S. (Fonzy) Liguori, who has held this position for 12 years.

San Francisco Bowling Season Gets Under Way

San Francisco Native Sons Bowling League got off to their winter season on September 19 and 21. The season will run for 27 weeks with 16 teams bowling on Mondays and 10 teams bowling on Wednesday evenings.

Special Award Won At Parade By Laura Loma

Members of Laura Loma Parlor No. 182, NDGW, Niles, are justly proud of the special award won at the Admission Day celebration in San Jose. Irene Bales and Mary Fields, enthusiastic members of this little parlor, arranged for the entry in the parade. Procuring an automobile of old-time vintage, they persuaded Mary's brother, Jimmy Daman, to act as chauffeur and with Mary Fields, Mary Barnard, Mae Moore, Nora Rogers and Erleene Zimmerman, all dressed in beautiful old fashioned gowns, they were ready for anything.

They received much applause along the line of parade and were thrilled at receiving the award, which was officially presented to the parlor Tuesday evening, September 20, by the committee consisting of Irene Bales and Mary Fields. It was accepted in behalf of the parlor by President Dorothea Rose.

Old San Rafael Days Fiesta Big Success

Native Sons and Daughters of San Rafael know how to put on a Fiesta and Parade. An estimated 20,000 viewed the display of drums, bugles, floats and majorettes in the big parade which climaxed the three day celebration in August of Old San Rafael Days Fiesta, grown in the last 15 years into a Marin County tradition.

This being one of California's Centennial years, everyone depicted olden-day characters. The parade was led off by city officials, including Mayor Robert Hustin, Grand Officers and parade chairmen of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. Marinita No. 198, NDGW and Mount Tamalpais No. 64, NSGW, were the sponsors of the Fiesta.

Responsible for the grand success of this year's Fiesta were the hard working men and women of the Native Sons and Daughters Board, including: Mrs. William Faber, Mrs. Emma Lararoni, Mrs. Eleanor Fitz, Mrs. Georgiana Gabb (chairman), Lawrence Garatti, Mrs. Chester Bonfiglio, Walter Mazza, Dave Shields, Mrs. Edward Tyrrell, Mrs. Ambrose Chase, Mrs. Russell Hannis, Francis Kelly, George Silvera, Chester Bonfiglio, Mrs. Walter Mazza, Roy O'Fields (Spanish Market chairman), Ann Martignoli (competitive drill chairman), Joseph Howell, honorary treasurer and Harold Haley, attorney for the board.

area was known for its placer diggings. According to the Nevada County Mining and Business Directory of 1895, the general merchandise store was operated by James J. Rowen, hotel operated by George Schmidt, Retail liquor dealer—B. Frazier and some of the mines were the Excellsior, Buttercup and Mt. Zion claim.

Continuing north on the same road is the Anthony House and then Bridgeport where a covered bridge is located on the south fork of the Yuba river.

The next place of historic interest is French Corral situated in the San Juan ridge. It is so called because the first settler was a frenchman who built a corral for his mules in 1849. French Corral is also one of the argonaut towns and for a time thrived during the hydraulic mining days on the San Juan channel. In 1854 French Corral had a population of about two thousand people. The brick building which is still standing was the office of the Milton Mining and Water Company, in which one terminus, it is said, was the first long distance telephone. The Wells Fargo building built in the fifties still remains as well as several other old buildings.

Leaving French Corral the next place is Birchville about two miles east. According to the Nevada County Business and Mining Directory of 1895 this was named in honor of L. Birch Adait a prominent citizen. First public school opened in 1863 in a miner's cabin. The first prospecting was done by David Johnson in 1851 and known as Johnson's Diggings. In 1853 a large number of miners located here and named it Birchville. The church still stands on a hill and the writer was informed that this building was used as an arsenal during the Civil War.

The next place on this route is Sweetland located one mile east of Peterson Corners. According to Thompson and West's History of Nevada County 1880, H. P. Sweetland, from whom the town derived its name, settled here in 1850. It was noted, on the San Juan ridge, as a trading post. In 1880 it had two hotels, four stores and other places of business.

Nothing much remains of Sebastopol, a residential district for miners about one mile south of North San Juan.

North San Juan on Highway No. 49 was one of the largest mining towns in the Northern Mines. It was also known as a stage stop on the way to and from the mining camps high in the hills. The I.O.O.F. building still remains which was built in 1860 and along Main street there are many brick buildings with iron doors. The Stidger building—now a stone frame was once the printing office of the Hydraulic Press and the San Juan Times. Several old Chinese stores, west of Main street can be seen.

Four miles east of North San Juan is Tyler formerly known as Cherokee. It derived its original name from some Cherokee Indians who moved here in 1850. From 1856-65 the town enjoyed the height of its prosperity. A few scattered buildings remain. Tyler is south of the well known Badger Hill; famous gold mining area.

East on the same route is North Columbia. At Columbia Hill are the huge hydraulic diggings which can be seen south of the road and just south of Columbia Hill is the site of Lake City. This once thriving city was located on the ridge between Columbia Hill and North Bloomfield. According to Thompson and West's History of Nevada County 1880, "First cabin was built in 1853 by a man named Joiner. In 1855 John H. Helwig and others mined here and formed a mining company, first known as the Dutch Hill Company. When the Eureka ditch was completed in 1857 the town was laid out and called Lake City."

North Bloomfield first known as "Humburg" is a few miles east of Lake City and was once the location of the office of the Malakoff Mining company. The settlement was established in the winter of 1851-52 and was on the line of the Ridge Telephone Company. The North Bloomfield Light Company and the Weiss Valentine Brewery were once established here. The old hotel has since disappeared and the one store was closed, at the time of my visit in October 1947, and there were about twelve families residing here. The Catholic church was seen near the road at the west end of town.

About fourteen miles east of North Bloomfield is Graniteville. Its original name was Eureka South. A post office was established in 1877. Gold was mined in 1850. According to Rensch and Hoover's—Historic Spots in California Valley and Sierra Counties: "Graniteville, a town of two hundred and six inhabitants, on the line of the old Ridge Telephone Company, lies in a beautiful forested region near the summit of the mountains twenty miles from Nevada City." Since 1883 its existence has depended upon quartz mining.

Thirteen miles east of Nevada City on highway 20 a road leads four miles north to the town of Washington another gold rush town.

Among some of the ghost towns of Nevada County are Selby Flat, Red Dog, You Be Relief Hill, Little York, Alpha, Omega, Bra Wire Bar, the latter was located opposite the town of Washington.

To the reader it may be interesting to know how a mining town of considerable size dwindled through the years into a ghost town where no longer buildings remain. According to the "Nevada County Mining and Business Directory, 1895, Red Dog was a thriving city. Prospecting done here in 1851 by three men from Nevada City. Townsite selected in 1852 at which time it had two hotels, four stores, several saloons and about fifty dwelling houses. In 1866 it had a Masonic Hall and I.O.O.F. building. Red Dog was also known as Brooklyn. On January 13, 1859 it suffered severely by fire. Today Red Dog is a ghost town.

Grand Officers Dedicate New School at Martinez

Grand Officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West Sunday afternoon, September 11 formally dedicated Martinez' new Montecito Elementary school at impressive exercises attended by over 350 persons.

"This building is dedicated to Truth, Liberty and Toleration by the Native Sons of the Golden West, Sept. 11, 1949," reads the inscription on a bronze plaque presented to the school by the Native Sons.

The plaque was placed in concrete, symbolically made of sands from each of the state's counties, cement from various state cement manufacturers, and water from each of the early California missions.

The exercises were held under the auspices of Mt. Diablo Parlor No. 101, NSGW, and Las Juntas Parlor No. 221, NDGW. Officers of both organizations were present.

The ceremony marked the opening of a school plant which ranks among the most modern and unique in the nation.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was James D. Ryan, clerk of the elementary school district board of trustees.

Lauding the American way of life, Ryan told the audience that "Americans are a competent people, and they are competent because they are free and educated."

C. A. "Cappy" Ricks, past president of Mt. Diablo Parlor, NSGW, explained the part the Native Sons played in the dedication of all new California schools.

Referring to John Swett, early Californian, as "father of California public school system," Ricks briefly outlined Swett's early achievements and the progress that has been made in the state's education in decades since.

Ricks added his praise of the school board for its farsightedness, as did Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

A school teacher by profession, Miss Toothaker described the new building "as near perfect a school plant as I have ever seen."

In his address, Dr. Conmy said that the ceremony came at the culmination of a century of educational progress in the state.

He said he took pride in the dedication because it marked the perpetuation of the American civilization, culture and system of government.

Special presentation to the school of five shrubs in honor of Miss Aga D. Lander, a teacher in Martinez elementary schools from 1901 to 1938, was made by Las Juntas Parlor, Native Daughters.

Miss Lander was present at the ceremony. Presentation of the shrubs, encased in red-wood boxes and bearing inscribed brass plates, was made to the board of trustees by Mrs. Lola Viera, of Las Juntas Parlor.

Forrest Routt, superintendent of Martinez schools, paid tribute to the school board, the Montecito staff and the Native Sons of the Golden West, directing particular praise to Robert Gemetti for his work in organizing the dedication.

A United States flag and a California flag were presented from the Native Sons to the school by Francis R. Hewitson, president of Mt. Diablo Parlor. They were accepted by Principal Forry.

Grand Officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West, look with pride on plaque dedicating new Montecito Elementary School. The plaque reads: "This building is dedicated to Truth, Liberty and Toleration by the Native Sons of the Golden West, September 11, 1949." Standing, left to right, are Grand Trustee David W. Stuart, San Bernardino; Grand Trustee Armen M. Nishkian, San Francisco; Past Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Martinez; Grand President Henrietta Toothaker, Woodland; Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy, Oakland; Grand Second Vice President J. Walter Kamb, Berkeley; Grand Trustee Alfred R. Perracca, Los Angeles; Grand Secretary John T. Regan, San Francisco. Kneeling, left, Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich, San Francisco and right, Grand Trustee Philip C. Wilkins, Sacramento.

Napa's Sea Scout Ship

Editor's Note: Sponsoring of youth activities is one of the projects of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Some parlors have entered into this program with a zeal to accomplish things, while others have taken little or no action. Napa Parlor No. 62, NSGW, has been one of the most active parlors in the entire Order in sponsoring various activities for the boys of its community. Sea Scout Ship No. 90 is an outstanding example of this. We present the following story from the Napa Groul with the hope that it will serve as an inspiration to others.

FROM time to time you have no doubt noticed the Napa Parlor is sponsoring Sea Scout Ship No. 90. We would like to familiarize you with this group.

In February, 1948, Napa Parlor took over the sponsorship of Ship 90 from the 40 and 8 through the efforts of Ed Glos. It was and still is a well organized group of boys ranging in age from 14 to 18 years of age, headed by a skipper and three mates.

Presently there are 27 'teen age boys on the roster with a very high percentage of active scouts engaged in learning fundamental seamanship and how to be better citizens.

Ship 90 possesses a 50-foot twin engined Trimmer Ship donated to them by the United States Navy. They intend to attend their annual regatta at Stockton and to take their yearly cruise in this boat. Their destination this year is the upper reaches of the Sacramento River. They intend to make the journey in a leisurely fashion, in order that they may enjoy the scenery of this famous inland waterway.

They also have a barge which is moored just below the Third Street bridge. It has been converted into a nifty little work shop and is used as a float to moor the boat.

The skipper, Brother Pete Lande, and the two mates, Brothers Clarence Haynes and Fred Brown, direct the boys in the upkeep and repair of their equipment, outline the various activities and projects; and pass them on their requirements to gain the rates of Sea Scouting. The boys all start as apprentice and advance to ordinary and able seaman. If a boy is real diligent, he may attain the highest rate of quartermaster.

This is one of the most outstanding youth movements in the community of Napa.

At present the group meets at our hall and also aboard their ship, but soon they will have their own meeting place, a 30 by 90 building that is being erected by the 90 and 4 Association with entirely donated labor from the membership of the Napa Legion Post and Napa Parlor No. 62. This activity is under the leadership of the third mate of Ship 90 also a brother of the Parlor.

We should indeed be proud of this activity and any brother is cordially invited to take an active interest in "Grown Up" scouting. Brother Ed Bloss is our institutional representative to the Silverado Area Council and also chairman of the Sea Scout Committee.

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The opinions expressed are those of the editor and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

The Grizzly Bear will be glad to send to any parlor, Native Sons or Daughters, free copies of the magazine for distribution to prospective members. We can not guarantee that these copies will be of the very latest issue, but they will serve to give the candidate an idea of the breadth and scope of the work of the Orders. Several parlors have already availed themselves of this opportunity and we will be most happy to cooperate with others.

We went out to a meeting of Riverside Native Sons recently, at which every officer was present. It is remarkable for a small but growing parlor.

Co., C. H. Robinson, owner, is advertising in this issue for the third consecutive year.

This might well be the year of dedications, from the number participated in during the past few months by both the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. Not only is this a worthwhile project, but it serves to focus the attention of the public on live and growing organizations. In each case where the Orders took part in a dedication the result was many news stories and pictures in the press of that particular community.

It is not too early to start planning for the 100th Anniversary of California's Admission to the Union, which will be celebrated September 9th, 1950, in San Francisco, under auspices of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West and the California Centennials Commission.

There is no excuse for any county of California not to be represented in this big event that comes once in a life-time. The California Centennials Commission is reported to have made arrangements whereby $500 can be allotted to each county for a float in the parade. This money must be spent on the float and not on transportation expenses, etc. Native Sons and Daughters throughout the State should get busy and see that their respective counties are represented at San Francisco.

San Francisco's biggest parade in history was the one celebrating the Diamond Jubilee in 1925. This parade started at the Ferry Building at 10 o'clock in the morning and the last entry passed the city hall at 6 o'clock that night. They plan an even bigger event September 9th, 1950.

California 75 Years Ago

As Compiled from the Files of the

NOVEMBER, 1874

California was visited during November, 1874 by three heavy rainstorms. The heaviest began the 22nd and lasted several days.

The Feather and Yuba rivers rose to high-water mark and Marysville, Yuba County, was partially inundated. The stable there of L. B. Ayers fell from the effects of the flood, killing Thomas Hammell. The building and equipment contained therein were totally wrecked, causing $10,000 damages.

Thursday, November 26, was, by proclamation, declared Thanksgiving Day. Dinner supplies were cheap then, compared with prices since the war. Turkeys were 25c a pound, roosters and ducks 50c each, eggs 60c a dozen for California and 25c for Eastern, butter 45c a pound, green peas 4c, cabbage and tomatoes 1 1/2c, potatoes 1 1/2c a pound, pineapple $5 a dozen and apples $1 a box.

The town of Silverado was established near Calistoga, Napa County, as a result of the silver mine development on Mount St. Helena. A new ledge of silver ore, assaying $3,000 a ton, was discovered there during the month.

The development of the Panamint mines was so big it was expected they would rival the Comstock Lode in extent and richness. There were nearly 1,000 miners employed, and about as many saloonkeepers, gamblers and other gentry were there engaged in separating them from their money. A visitor reported frequently seeing jack-pots in which over $2,000 was bet. Stage lines from Los Angeles and Bakersfield were operating to capacity; $40 was charged for the three day trip.

The new mint in San Francisco was completed and accepted by the Federal Government November 1.

E. Sherwood donated to the town of Salinas, Monterey County, sixty acres of land for a public park and racetrack.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Petaluma, Sonoma County, November 3 to inaugurate the building of a railroad from Petaluma to the bay of San Quentin. It was to be called the Sonoma and Marin Railroad Company. A committee to solicit and receive subscriptions to stock was appointed.

The clipper "Three Brothers" sailed for Havre from San Francisco October 24, 1873 and returned November 8, 1874, making the round trip in 380 days. It was considered the best clipper on the seas.

November 11 the steamboat "Sacramento," plying between Vallejo and San Francisco, caught fire from an exploded coal-oil lamp and burned at its wharf. There was a $20,000 loss.

The Los Angeles Water Co., sued the Herald Publishing Co., for $25,000 damages for publication of a statement that the water furnished was impure and unwholesome.

John Shine's stage, from Sonora, Tuolumne County, to Milton, Calaveras County, was stopped by six highwaymen November 2 near Salt Spring Valley. They demanded the express box which Shine did not carry. They ordered him to drive on and waited for Miller's stage. This they stopped and took from it the express box. They did not molest the passengers.

The Shasta County stage that ran from Shasta to Redding was stopped November 21 by masked highwaymen two miles from the latter place. They took the express box, with about $5,000 in it. Passengers were not molested. Sheriff Philbrook, of Trinity County, was aboard, but was unable to assert his authority.

George Goodman killed a grizzly bear weighing 900 pounds near Big Geysers Springs, Lake County. The bear was known as "club foot," from the shape of its tracks, and the county had offered $1,000 for its removal.

Monument Dedicated To William B. Ide

ONE hundred three years after the founding of the Bear Flag Party, a monument was dedicated Sunday, October 9, to its organizer, William B. Ide, the first and only president of the "California Republic."

Some 400 persons gathered at the monument, located four miles north of Ord, Glenn County, a short distance east of what was once Monroeville, the county seat of the original Colusa County.

The Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West dedicated this monument to Ide in fitting ceremonies under clear, autumn skies.

R. G. Power, Colusa postmaster and Past Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, was the master of ceremonies, introducing Charles F. Lambert of Willows, a follower of and authority on Colusa and Glenn county history.

Lambert said Ide was one of the few men who crossed the plains with a background of school teaching and good education. Ide had taught in Massachusetts. Lambert said Ide first settled at Deer Creek, in Lassen County, and later joined up with General Fremont.

Lambert went on to describe how Ide's Bear Flag Revolt group defeated the Mexican garrison at Sonoma; told of the famous proclamation which established the Republic of California, of which Ide was elected president, and of his one objective—to see that California attained statehood and a protective type of government.

It was Ide, Lambert said, who built the first house in Colusa County; Ide, who as a "pioneer citizen of the first order" conducted himself as a gentleman at all times, serving with honor and distinction as justice of the peace, deputy clerk, associate justice, treasurer and judge from 1846 to 1852.

Arthur Hodgson, past president of Colusa Parlor, NSGW, after Miss Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland, grand president of the NDGW, had spoken briefly concerning the dedication, traced the history of the building of the monument. He said this dated back to 1932 when the Native Sons sent a committee out to gather authentic information concerning Ide.

It was not until 1937 that work of actually preparing the monument was started, stone being obtained from the old Sites quarry and gravel from Stony Creek, Hodgson said.

By 1941 not too much progress had been made. Then came the war and other projects. The monument project was sidetracked.

In 1947, work was begun in earnest and in the spring of 1948, the stone was set and anchored. Lettering for the plaque was postponed until 1949. Finally, two bronze plaques 10 by 40 inches, were completed and so was the monument. A dedication date was set, but had to be postponed because the Grand President of the NSGW could not be there.

The date of Sunday, October 9, was set for the dedication—and it was duly held—17 years after the monument to Ide was first proposed.

The plaque's inscription records that William B. Ide was born March 26, 1786, in Rutland, Mass., and that he died December 20, 1852, presumably of yellow fever. He was buried in an unlocated grave in a field approximately 800 yards east of the monument, which Power referred to as a joint project of the Native Sons and Daughters of Colusa.

Speaking about Ide, Peter T. Conmy, NSW Grand President, said he brought to the west the New England traditions of liberty, democracy, business and education and lent his efforts to freeing California from the tyranny of the Mexican government.

Past Grand President Power and Eldon Clement, Mrs. W. G. Davison and Miss Freda Yopp deserve credit for making trips throughout Northern California obtaining authentic information about Ide. Clement was unable to attend the dedication yesterday.

Power named Clement, Dale Lucchesi, Art Hodgson and the late Julius Ferraiuolo and Albert Dokken as the five Native Sons who made the foundation for the monument. Len Mannee, Leland Taylor and Ray Taylor the base and plaque. He also credited "Chub" Spurgeon with preparing the deed to the property; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Terrill, former owners, deeding 50 square feet of land for the monument; James and John Kelly of Chico, the present owners, with donating the land and wound up by giving credit to the Colusa and Glenn County Title Companies, Surveyor Gus Hoever and others for their help.

At the close William B. Ide, 80-year-old grandson of the Bear Flag Republic founder, spoke. He said nobody actually knows where his grandfather was buried; that the monument does not rest over the grave; that perhaps this was best because it gave it a wider meaning—a common man from common ground. He likened the situation to that of the tomb of the unknown soldier.

The dedication ceremony and unveiling of the monument followed. Taking part were Grand President Conmy, Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich, Edward J. Wren, grand first vice president; J. Walter Kamb, grand second vice president; and John T. Regan, grand secretary.

Leland Taylor on behalf of Colusa Parlor presented the deed to John Pike, Glenn County Supervisor, in the absence of Marshall Lane of Orland, chairman of the Glenn County Board, who could not be present. Pike thanked the Native Sons and Daughters for the deed and assured the group that the property would be well maintained.

How Captain Jensen Won His Bride

By VEOLA JENSEN PITTAM

Did I ever tell you how Grandfather and Grandmother met and married? First I'll tell you who they were and where they lived. In 1848 at the beginning of the gold rush Captain Jensen reached San Francisco in his boat to exchange cargo. He had come from China with coffee, ammunitions, calico and silk to exchange for tallow and hides. The gold excitement was at it's height, the bay was dotted with hundreds of vessels from which the crews had deserted, to seek their fortunes in the mines. Captain Jensen fared no better than the owners of other sailing vessels. His crew deserted and he finally gave up his ship and went to the mines of Sutter County, where he opened a store and traded in miner's supplies.

It was there he made the acquaintance of Ygnacio Palomares and Ygnacio Alvarado. These men were pleased with his honest manner and sound business methods and urged him to come with them to Southern California. In 1853 Captain Jensen started a general store in Los Angeles where his good business methods soon enriched him. But, he was lonely, he had left his first loves; the sea and his boat and had reached the age of 38, without a relative except in old Denmark.

When he was only twelve years old his father had remarried, giving Cornelius a stepmother who could not take his own mother's place, so he left home, and as Denmark was necessarily a seafaring country the opportunity came to board a ship. He loved the sea and soon worked up to Captaincy on his own boat. And, I wish I could tell you all the stories Grandfather could tell about his trips to strange ports.

But, I started to tell about how Grandfather and Grandmother met.

On a lovely spring morning Grandfather remarked to his very good friend Ygnacio Alvarado, "I have decided to settle down and I wish to be introduced to a respectable family with several girls where I might select a wife! Ygnacio remembered his friend Francisco Alvarado, who lived at Los Cuernos (now Compton). Anyway, Francisco owned a big ranch. He was stately and correct, very dignified and courteous, in fact, everything that a wealthy Californian should be. He managed the ranch through his Indian and Mexican workmen. And, watched the conduct of the women folk.

Ygnacio introduced Don Francisco and the Captain in the ranch office one early morning and Grandfather stated his wish to his future father-in-law. After discussing the idea and after Grandfather presented his credentials, which were vouched for by Ygnacio, Francisco took the men through his home.

I don't suppose you can even visualize the scene, but I feel as if I walked along beside these men that morning. Can you see a long adobe house, single story, with a patio and flowers and a fountain? The porch running the full length, where small red birds sang in cages? I remember they had peppers tied in strings and hanging on the wall where they were drying.

This early morning the daughters of Francisco were doing the work of the household, as all good girls were taught. To be a good wife was the one aim in life, a career. Rosario, the youngest was churning with a tall crock and a dasher. Refugia was in the kitchen cooking and baking with the aid of Indian women. Susanna, I believe was weaving, while Dolores made some fancy drawn work. The boys, Ignacio the eldest child and Alberto the youngest were out in the vineyard. Each girl was introduced to the Captain as she worked. They talked a moment in the presence of their father, and then he met Mercedes.

Mercedes was the eldest, only eighteen, five feet one inch tall, straight black hair, beautiful large dark eyes set wide in her fine white high forehead. She never had any color in her cheeks, just as white as a flower.

Now, I remember that, on this morning, Grandmother had a cloth tied around her face hiding a part of it, because she had a toothache! But, the sweetness of her couldn't be hidden.

She was making the beds and if you didn't live in those days you wouldn't know that the mattresses in their beds were filled with wool. Wool becomes hard and in small lumps, unless you pound it and make it fluffy. That is what she was doing. Pounding the mattress with a long stick. After a few words were exchanged, the men returned to the office. Captain Jensen said immediately, "I wish to marry the one who was pounding the wool." Mercedes was called into the office and her father told her that Captain Jensen wished to marry her. "Very well," was her answer. Do not believe she was ordered to marry. If she had demurred—had refused, she would not have had to marry. And there are letters in the family archives, covering a period of almost a year, that were received by Mercedes during her courtship.

They were married in the Mission at San Gabriel. Grandmother's veil and orange blossoms framed her beautiful oval face. Her dress was heavy tan silk, with a double row of Gold California dollars the full length of her dress from throat to hem line. Her tiny white slippers, embroidered with gold on satin and brought from China by Grandfather, have been treasured all these years. I have touched them. They seem almost sacred.

Centennial Of First Constitutional Meet

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

THE Constitutional Convention Centennial Celebration was held in Monterey, the first capital of old California, August 29 to September 5.

The eight-day celebration, under co-sponsorship of the California Centennials Commission and the Monterey Constitutional Convention, Centennial Committee, marked the 100th anniversary of the drafting of California's first constitution under which the State was admitted to the Union on September 9, 1850.

One hundred years ago the argonauts on their way to California were heading west along the Humboldt river in Nevada, others on Clipper ships and steamers sailed through the Golden Gate while some traveled by the Gila route since the Gold Discovery had attracted thousands to California in 1849 and the Gold Rush was on. The population grew rapidly and mining camps were springing up throughout the gold fields. Most of the large towns and cities along the coastal area became almost depopulated but there were some enterprising pioneers who remained to carry on the work at home.

California then was a territory under the jurisdiction of a military governor. On April 12, 1849, Brigadier General Bennett Riley arrived at Monterey on the ship "Iowa." The General had instructions to assume the administration of civil affairs in California. He issued a proclamation recommending the formation of a State constitution or plan of a territorial government. In pursuance of Governor Riley's proclamation forty eight delegates were elected to the first Constitutional Convention to be held at Colton Hall, in Monterey. Dr. Robert Semple of Benecia was chosen president of the convention which assembled on September 1, 1849.

According to Hubert H. Bancroft's Pioneer Register: "Robert Semple was a native of Kentucky and came overland with the Hastings' party. He was a printer and dentist by trade. In 45-46 was engaged in farming with Johnson and Keyser, first becoming prominent in the Bear revolt." "Early in 1847" Semple, obtaining from Vallejo a large tract of land on Carquines Strait, devoted his energies, in company with Larkin, to the building of a great city at Benecia."

The election of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention occurred without any disturbance. The delegates were chosen from various districts from the mining region south to San Diego. Six of the delegates were native Californians while others were born in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio and other eastern and southern states. Eleven were from New York, four from Maryland, one from Maine. These delegates met in Monterey to form a state out of unorganized territory. J. Ross Browne was selected as a reporter of the Convention and a secretary was also chosen. The delegates, it is said, proceeded harmoniously with their work in drafting the provisions.

William E. Shannon, a lawyer from Sacramento, introduced that section in the bill of rights which made California a free state. Hubert H. Bancroft's History of California, Vol. VI, page 290 states: "To the surprise of northern men, no objection was made by the southerners to that section in the bill of rights which declared that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, should ever be tolerated in the state."

The question of the state's boundary involved a series of debates as some of the delegates for various reasons differed in their opinions due to political and other reasons. After a time the debates seemed to unravel the question from difficulties. The forty-three-year-old Robert Semple was in favor of the Sierra Nevada as the eastern boundary though others wanted to extend the boundary further east. A compromise offered by James M. Jones from San Joaquin was adopted placing the eastern boundary on the 120th meridian from the Oregon line to the 39th parallel running to the Colorado river in a straight line and the southern boundary remained as established by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo.

Never before had men gathered from different parts to undertake such a position calling for wisdom and sound thinking, but these men were men of ability, outstanding foresight and vision. They recognized the State Constitutions of Iowa and New York which they considered were of the highest wisdom and adopted like provisions. Gwin had foreseen the difficulty and had prepared copies of the Iowa Constitution, printed at his own expense so every delegate would have a copy. Others cited the new Constitution of New York recommending it as a good example while others discussed the Constitutions of several other states. However, to overcome the preliminaries a committee was named to report on this matter. According to Zoeth Skinner Eldredge's History of California, Vol. III, page 293: "The committee organized by electing Myron Norton of San Francisco a chairman, and on the morning after its appointment, was ready with its first report. This was the bill of rights, consisting of sixteen sections, some of which had been copied from the amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and some from the Constitution of Iowa and New York. While the report was under consideration, five new declarations were added to it, making the number twenty-one in all. Several amendments were proposed and rejected—one of these forbade the infliction of the death penalty, and another prohibited the owners of slaves from bringing them to the state for the purpose of setting them free."

The article on Corporations was debated limiting the power of the legislature regarding the creation of Corporations.

The article on Judiciary was settled without much debate. Some difficulty was found in fixing the seat of government as several places were mentioned. The committee reported in favor of San Jose until removed by two-thirds vote of the legislature.

The special committee appointed to prepare a state seal presented a design drawn by Major Robert S. Garnett. Zoeth Skinner Eldredge's History of California, Vol. II states: "It finally presented a design drawn by Major Robert S. Garnett, though credited to Caleb Lyon one of the clerks, which after some objection, was adopted."

The article limiting the state debt to $300,000, was adopted with a provision that in case of war or other immediate emergency the limit could be increased. Other questions were settled as the convention proceeded.

On Saturday morning, October 13, the convention held a short session when it adopted a resolution of thanks to General Bennett Riley. Arrangements were made for the closing ceremony. According to Zoeth Skinner Eldredge's History of California: "Captain Burton, in command at the fort, had prepared to fire a national salute, and when the flag over Colton Hall was displayed, indicating that the signing had begun, the first gun was fired. Captain Sutter, who a moment earlier had been placed in the chair because President Semple was too ill to serve, sprang from his seat and waving his arm over his head, exclaimed, "Gentlemen: this is the happiest day of my life. It makes me glad to hear those cannon." "This is a great day for California." The signing was completed and the convention was adjourned.

The work of the convention was successful beyond its most sanguine expectations. A Constitution remarkable for the wisdom and liberality of its provisions were adopted and afterwards ratified by the people. Printed copies were carried to every town and mining camp in California.

Preparations for a general election were made, according to Winfield J. Davis' History of Political Conventions in California 1849-1892 states: "The first political mass meeting in California assembled at San Francisco, October 25, 1849. It was composed of democrats and was called in view of the election to be held November 13 following to vote on the question of the adoption of the Constitution and for the selection of governor, lieutenant governor, members of Congress and of the legislature. John W. Geary was the presiding officer."

Political campaigns were started, speeches began to multiply and in a short time the people of California were in the midst of a new American government. Peter H. Burnett was the people's choice for the first state Governor. John McDougall was elected Lt. Governor with Edward Gilbert and George W. Wright elected as representatives to Congress.

The first legislature met in January, 1850 and elected W. M. Gwin and John C. Fremont as United States Senators. These men with the representatives left for Washington to request, in the name of the people, that California be admitted to the Union. After a long series of debates in Washington the problem of California was laid before both houses. The struggle was maintained until August 13, when the bill for the admission of California passed the Senate by a vote of 34 to 18. On the 7th of September, the House of Representatives passed the California bill by a vote of 150 to 56. The Act was approved on September 9, 1850, and California was admitted to the Union as the thirty-first state.

Now open and taking reservations for our second winter vacation season. A perfect desert oasis complete in accommodations and amusements.

Native Sons Dedicate New Hall Of Justice

San Bernardino's new hall of justice was officially placed in public service Saturday, October 22, dedicated to Truth, Liberty and Tolerance.

In a ceremony performed by Grand Officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West, a bronze plaque dedicating the edifice to those principles was placed in the lobby floor just inside the building's main entrance on Arrowhead avenue.

This ceremony followed addresses in which Dr. Peter T. Conmy of San Francisco, Grand President of the Native Sons, asked that the building stand for "justice tempered with mercy" and Superior Judge Martin J. Coughlin said it would be "a symbol of the guarantee of liberty."

Dr. Conmy pointed out that the structure is placed in service in a year which marks the close of the first century of the American occupation of California and begins a new century of progress.

Judge Coughlin told the throng which attended the ceremony outside the main entrance of the new building. "This is your city, and this is your edifice. It will be what you make it. Maintain the fundamental concepts of our government."

He cautioned those who work in the structure to remember that it is the duty of a public official to serve the public.

Judge Donald E. Van Luven, former grand trustee of the Native Sons of the Golden West and chairman of the day, explained that the $260,000 building has been occupied since midsummer, but the dedication was delayed until landscaping was completed. He said the hall of justice is the first completed building of a civic center which will eventually also include a city hall, public library and fire station and will encompass the entire block bounded by Arrowhead and Mountain View avenues and fourth and fifth streets.

Mayor James E. Cunningham welcomed those who attended the ceremony at which "we show our justifiable pride in our accomplishments of which this is the first step."

Native Sons Institute New Parlor At Cotati

Another new parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West was instituted at Cotati, Sonoma County, on Tuesday evening, October 8, by the Grand Officers. Known as Cotati No. 308, the new parlor at the time of institution had 50 charter members and promises to become very active. There already is a sister parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at Cotati.

Dedicate Davidson School At San Bernardino

Grand Officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West officially dedicated the new Davidson elementary school in San Bernardino Sunday afternoon, October 23, under auspices of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110. The new school is named for Hiram Davidson, early pioneer of San Bernardino, who nearly 100 years ago hauled supplies from Utah to the California city of National Orange Show fame.

The affair climaxed a busy week-end for the Grand Officers, which began with the public dedication of San Bernardino's new hall of justice Saturday morning, followed by dinner and class initiation of 27 candidates at Crest Line Saturday evening.

An impressive ceremony marked the laying of the plaque dedicating the school to "Truth, Liberty and Tolerance." Judge Donald E. Van Luven was chairman in charge of arrangements. Grand Trustee David W. Stuart was master of ceremonies, introducing the Grand Officers and civic officials taking part.

Annual Lobster Feed Is Scheduled For December 13

On December 13 the 18th annual Lobster Feed of Santa Monica Bay Parlor 267, NSGW, will be held at the Native Sons' hall, 819 Ocean Park Blvd., Santa Monica, at 7 p.m.

This event, which has received wide-spread fame in the past, is under the able direction this year of 3rd VP Richard Laventhal. Brother Laventhal states that serving will start at 7 p.m. sharp to accommodate those brothers who will arrive early, and will continue as long as necessary until all the brothers have been served.

All members of the Parlor are cooperating in this event to make it the outstanding feature of the year, and a fine program of entertainment, food, and refreshments has been arranged.

All members of all Native Sons' parlors are invited, and tickets may be had from any member of the Parlor, or by writing to the secretary, Donald Corey, at the parlor address.

Stockton Natives Take Part In Lodi Festival

Several members of Joaquin Parlor No. 5, NDGW, Stockton, together with other parlors of Stockton, NSGW and NDGW, participated in the parade at the Lodi Grape Festival, September 18. The theme of the entry followed the Centennial trend in both the covered wagon and the costumes of the ladies who assisted the Native Sons in carrying the great Bear Flag of California, which is the largest in the State. The Covered Wagon was authentic in every detail even to the chickens and the goat trailing behind. At the conclusion of the parade, everyone feasted on barbecued beef sandwiches and refreshing cold drinks.

One of the most exciting moments of the day was the announcement that the Native Sons and Daughters unit had won second place in the division and $75.00 prize money. Also cheering warm and tired members was the $24.62 that was collected on the flag. It helped to show there were a lot of loyal and faithful Californians among the spectators.

Institute Large New Parlor At Fairfax

In keeping with his position as Administrative Assistant to the Grand President, Junior Past Grand President Walter N. Bailey, NSGW, gave the Order a boost by instituting Fairfax Parlor No. 307, Fairfax, Marin County, recently. One of the largest parlors ever instituted by the Native Sons there were 93 members on the charter. Of the original 96 signed candidates 93 were initiated.

At the first meeting of the newly instituted parlor 75 members were present. One month later they had 100 members and applications on the desk for more.

Charter officers of the new parlor are: Frank Monte, president; Roy Bunt, 1st vice president; Arthur Hicks, 2nd vice president; Stanley Marincik, 3rd vice president; Walter Stirnley, recording secretary; Edward Fuselli, financial secretary; Kenneth Edgar, treasurer; James O'Connell, marshal; Marvin Hurt, inside sentinel; Lloyd McGlothlin, outside sentinel; Paul Grandjean, trustee (18 mo.); Tony A. John Corotto Honored As Past Grand Treasurer Past Grand Worthy Treasurer, John Corotto, of San Jose Parlor, was honored recently at a meeting in his honor, when Grand Worthy President Peter Conmy presented him with the regalia of Grand Worthy Treasurer Emeritus. This was truly an occasion of deep feeling. Brother Corotto had served the Grand Parlor and the order in general for many years and held the esteemed office for over twenty years. He was always looked up to as a leader of no small mien.

On the evening of September 7, the Grand Worthy President, in the presence of the members of San Jose, Observatory and Santa Clara Parlors, made the honored presentation. A Brother John was called to the altar for the distinction, there was a certain tenseness that filled the room. It was then that Grand Worthy President Conmy made the presentation and commendation to Brother Corotto. This was the signal for the members to arise in one great body and render an ovation that could have been heard in San Francisco.

On the day of the big parade, September 9 Admission Day, John Corotto wore the regalia of Grand Treasurer Emeritus, and was mighty proud of the honors bestowed upon him. He was greeted all along the line of march with tremendous ovations, truly bespeaking the respect to a grand guy.

Californiana Parlor Presents Bear Flag

On Thursday, September 8, Californiana Parlor, NDGW, Los Angeles, represented by its president, Blanche Crabb Oechsel, by Margaret Ann Kerr, district chairman of Americanism and by Mrs. Gertrude H. Rounsaville, president of the women's division of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, had the honor of presenting the State Bear Flag to the Southland's own Company A, 160th Infantry Regiment of the National Guard, on the occasion of the celebration of its first 100 years of service to the State and Nation.

General Dannel H. Hudelson presented the Native Daughters to the men of Company A, and started the brief but impressive ceremony with a short history of the National Guard of California.

While California's First Constitutional Convention was in session at Monterey a century ago, General Hudelson said, the forerunner of the California State Militia, later known as the National Guard, was formulated on September 8, 1849. Thirty-two years afterward, the Eagle Corps was organized in Los Angeles, June 9, 1881. Subsequently, July 22, 1885, it was designated Company A, Seventh Infantry Battalion. At the time of World War 1, it became Company A, 160th Infantry Regiment, and so it remains today.

Since the occasion was also the time of the birthday celebration of the City of Los Angeles, Mrs. Rounsaville, president of the women's division of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which was one of the sponsors of the official celebration, paid tribute to the devotion, loyalty and gallantry of the men of the National Guard in the wars of the past century. She also spoke of birthday gifts to the city brought by many men's and women's organizations. One of the outstanding birthday packages was presented in behalf of the National Guard.

Miss Margaret Ann Kerr presented Company A with a certificate of merit signed by the mayor and the chairman of the celebration, reading: "In appreciation of work accomplished during the year 1949 for the betterment of the community, the California National Guard is awarded this certificate of merit on the occasion of the 168th anniversary of the city's founding."

Mrs. Blanche Crabb Oechsel, president of Californiana Parlor, and a descendant of Joseph Chapman, first American settler in Los Angeles, presented the Bear Flag, symbol of determination of the pioneers to establish the institutions of freedom in this western world.

General Hudelson concluded the ceremony with his acceptance of the flag and to the stirring music of the National Anthem.

Joaquin Parlor No. 5, NDGW, Stockton, was honored by being the first parlor in San Joaquin County to receive the new Grand President, Miss Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland Parlor No. 90. A banquet was held in her honor on the roof garden of the Hotel Wolf and attended by some 65 members, among whom were many distinguished guests and Grand Officers.

Buena Vista Parlor Honors Marching Unit

At their last regular meeting the members of Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, honored their marching unit, who won the second prize (a beautiful gold cup), at the Admission Day parade in San Jose. The costumes of this unit are very unique, being copied from an authentic Lady Gody's book of 1849. Three Can-Can girls lead the group. The unit participated October 9 in the Columbus Day celebration in San Francisco and again participated at the "49'er" celebration in South San Francisco, on October 16.

On Thursday, October 20, the parlor held its Annual Fall Bazaar, at 555 Baker Street. Mrs. Sophie Pendergast was chairman of this only money-making event of the year which finances the worthwhile projects of the Order. Proceeds of this affair go towards the purchase of toys for the children in the tubercular ward of the hospitals and to assist in financing the Christmas party for the veterans at Fort Miley.

Another important date for Buena Vista will be the reception, honoring Grand Trustee Lesley Hicks on Sunday afternoon, November 6.

Darina Parlor Celebrates Its Fiftieth Anniversary

Darina Parlor No. 114, NDGW, San Francisco, celebrated its 50th Birthday, Wednesday, September 28, with a banquet at the Del Mar Restaurant attended by 92 members and friends honoring charter and 50-year members.

Charter members present to receive the 50-year gold pins were Emma Marks, Kathryn McGough and Etta Roberts. Other 50-year members receiving the coveted award were Hornorah Deasy, Bessie Duff, Lottie Heinicke, Mary Randall, Louise Rich, Minnie Rueser, Frieda Schroeder, Elizabeth Tietjen.

East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, Montebello, has voted to adopt a ward of about 80 veteran nurses at Sawtelle. Kitty Coughtry is chairman of the parlor veteran's committee and tending to arrangements.

Bonita Parlor Honors New County Recorder

Bonita Parlor No. 10, NDGW, Redwood City, honored its distinguished member, Miss Ruth Kirste, recently appointed County Recorder by the Supervisors of San Mateo County, at a meeting in September. She is the first woman to be so honored by San Mateo County and members of her parlor are proud of her accomplishments. At the conclusion of the meeting she was presented with a lovely gift on behalf of the parlor by Mrs. Mamie Ojlenan, only surviving charter member, making the presentation.

Bonita Parlor's charter is draped for the loss of a valued and much loved member, Miss Willa MacPherson. She was an active member, not only of the parlor, but also on Bonita's crack drill team. Her loss is keenly felt. The parlor attended her funeral in an official group, assisting in a very beautiful service.

Fruitvale Juniors Take Part In Big Parade

Fruitvale Junior Unit No. 22, NDGW, Oakland, chartered a Peerless Stage to transport members of their new drill team of 22 members to the Admission Day celebration in San Jose, September 9th. They received a big hand along the line of march for their snappy new uniforms of blue and gold satin dresses. A total of 39 members of the unit were in the parade attracting much favorable comment.

This unit is most active. Among their many activities was the presentation of a vaudeville show on Saturday evening, October 29.

Whittier Native Daughters Honor Scholarship Winner

Sally MacDonald, who won a scholarship this year under the Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters scholarship contest, was recently honored at a party by Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW, at which she received many gifts and money to use for incidentals in continuing her college work.

Whittier Parlor has contributed to the Polio Fund for two meetings in a row, one member of the parlor who has been ill for three weeks, Paula Palm, requesting that the parlor use the money, that they would have used to buy flowers for her, for the Polio foundation.

The Whittier Parlor has finally received their official parlor seal, which has a Quaker Maid, symbolic of the city of Whittier, in the center. It was designed by Evalina Yekell.

Wednesday evening, October 19, the Native Daughters held a Halloween party with the Native Sons of Whittier Parlor No. 297 as guests. It was a masqued costume affair with prizes awarded for the outstanding costumes. Dancing and games were enjoyed until a late hour.

ATHLETICS

The Native Sons Bowling League started its new season last month. Most of the 20 parlors in San Francisco are represented. Competition is keen this season. It looks likely that the Guadalupe Broncos and Guadalupe Dons of Guadalupe Parlor No. 231 will be at their best as they were last year.

The golf activities of Guadalupe Parlor have been in keeping the tradition of their active program. A tournament was held October 2 at Crystal Springs Golf Course with outside guests for the first time this year, when Washington Parlor No. 169 of Centerville was represented by A. Silverio and Utopia Parlor No. 270, San Francisco, by Brother Wagner, Bro. Schnieder led with a par 72 for low gross, followed by Quinn with 79, who took low net. Both are from Guadalupe Parlor. The booby prize was taken by Frank Blackburn with a low high score 132. There were prizes for everyone.

San Francisco Extension Of Order Holds Picnic

Under the capable direction of Edwin J. Riegger, secretary and Beatrice Nishkian, picnic chairman, the joint efforts of Native Daughters and Native Sons were successfully rewarded by a big turnout at Skippers Park Sunday, September 25. There were prizes and surprises, races, games, dancing, refreshments and entertainment appealing to young and old.

The profits realized from this picnic came close to $1000. So successful was the affair that the committee is planning another picnic in June of next year.

The Grizzly Bear Visits Napa Parlor

By EDWIN A. COX, II

Napa Parlor No. 62, NSGW, was the scene Saturday, October 8, of an Athletic Banquet to honor all Native Sons teams competing in the past year. Held in the dining hall of Native Sons building more than 200 people were served spaghetti with all the trimmings. The affair was the second annual event sponsored by the Athletic Association of Napa Parlor.

Honored guest of the evening was the great Walter Mails, who, at the present time, is promotional director for all ice hockey on the Pacific coast. He will be remembered as one of the greatest big league pitchers of his time and is well-known throughout the State for his work with youth groups.

Walter Mails spoke on the greatest asset to the communities of California, which is the baseball diamond. State governments, according to Mails, should spend more money on recreational facilities for their youth, rather than pouring millions into reform schools and prisons. He said that Napa Parlor No. 62, through its Athletic Association, is setting the pace as well as example, by promoting its program of helping the youth of the community and alleviating juvenile delinquency.

Notables of the city of Napa were in attendance. Such names as Charles Harney, father of the juvenile handball league of Napa; Joe Greco, city councilman, who has done a great deal for the youngsters on the city playgrounds; Felix Tonascia, Undersheriff of Napa County and Father Ryan, who is keenly interested in the youth movement of Napa, were among the distinguished guests.

Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich and Edwin A. Cox, II, northern California representative of the Grizzly Bear, were also present.

The Athletic Association was formed two years ago as a subordinate function of Napa Parlor to take on major problems confronted in promoting a successful athletic program. Knowing the challenge that was before them, they set out to do the unbelievable, procuring uniforms, athletic equipment and other necessary items for a successful program of this sort without any cost to the parlor.

They sponsor softball, junior and old men's level, and a peanut league in baseball and basketball. Their most recent addition is the Nativettes, a girls' softball team.

The Athletic Association in the last two years has spent $2000 and they are prepared to spend more. They raise their money through dances and other promotional means. They have never asked for money from their parlor at any time, a record that has seldom been equalled by any other parlor.

Another activity of Napa Parlor is its sponsorship of a Sea Scout Ship, an account of which appeared in the October Grizzly Bear. Recently they have undertaken the construction of a Sea Scout meeting house where all Sea Scout activities will be held. There will be a place for docking boats as well.

Napa Parlor No. 62 is to be commended for exemplifying true Native Sonism through the medium of developing the youth of the community, as well as good government and good advertising for the community.

Pacific Parlor Member Is New Superior Court Judge

Judge Edward H. Mohlkenbuhr was recently appointed Superior Judge by Governor Earl Warren to fill a new position in the Superior Court established by the last State Legislature. He is a member of Pacific Parlor No. 10, a graduate of the University of San Francisco Law School and has been active in civic and fraternal affairs.

Grand Presidents Ball Scheduled December 3

Honoring Miss Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland, Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West and Dr. Peter T. Conny of Oakland, Grand President, Native Sons of the Golden West, the second annual Grand Presidents Ball, given by the combined parlors of Los Angeles County, will be held Saturday, December 3, in the Blue Ballroom of the Hotel Biltmore in downtown Los Angeles.

The semi-formal affair will be limited to 600 couples with tickets ($3.60 per couple) being sold through the parlors only. No tickets will be sold at the door.

The title and theme of this year's ball will be the Gold Centennial, with a well-known orchestra being engaged to supply the music for one of the outstanding Native Son and Daughter events of the season in Southern California.

At the Blue Ballroom of the Biltmore there will be no tables encircling the dance floor as was the case at last year's event. This, together with the ticket limitation, will give more room for the Grand March and dancing. For those who desire to watch the affair there are boxes above the floor.

Miss Lucille Rowland, named by Ramona No. 109, NSGW, Los Angeles, as their Girl of the Golden West for entry in the state-wide contest to chose the winner and her court to ride on the Native Sons and Daughters float in the Tournament of Roses Parade at Pasadena New Year's Day. Miss Rowland, a native of Whittier, is a descendant of John Rowland of the Rowland-Workman Party, which came to California in 1841 and settled on La Puente Rancho. Miss Rowland is first vice president of Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW. Both she and her mother are charter members of that parlor, while her step-father, John Anderson, is inside sentinel of Ramona No. 109, NSGW. John B. Schmolle, president of the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee and first vice president of Ramona No. 109, is shown congratulating Miss Rowland.

Pasadena Natives Lose A Valued Member

Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW, recently lost one of its most valued members in the passing to the Grand Parlor on High of Guy L. Kelley. He had attended the dinner meeting of the parlor on Thursday evening, September 23. He succumbed that night to heart failure in his sleep.

Born in Santa Rosa, he had lived in Pasadena for 38 years.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE NATIVE SONS

Guadalupe Parlor No. 231 of San Francisco, has an unique idea for encouraging advertising in their bulletin. After their meeting every Tuesday night the members patronize one of their advertisers for adjournment ceremonies. This is a good idea for other parlors to follow.

Pacific Parlor No. 10, San Francisco, is considering sponsorship of a Boy Scout Troop in a less chance area. This is a move in the right direction. Pacific Parlor is also trying to start an all Native Sons Drum Corps under the capable guidance of Hugh E. Ryan, undefeated drum major of statewide fame. This is a new idea for the San Francisco area, though not new to the State.

National Parlor No. 118, San Francisco, was recently honored with the election of Edwin J. Riegger, a member of that parlor, to the office of secretary of the Extension of the Order. He succeeds Edwin A. Cox, II, representative of the Grizzly Bear, who recently resigned.

Claremont Parlor No. 240 of Oakland, has an active program for securing new members. Their membership committee goes out once a week to solicit members. At the invitation of President Edgar Sturgeon, Jr. Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich and Edwin A. Cox, II, representing the Grizzly Bear, recently paid a visit to this parlor where they were well received.

State Controller Thomas H. Kuchel, member of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW, Anaheim, was the featured speaker at the public officials night of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, Wednesday evening, October 5.

Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 had charge of the formation of the parade for San Bernardino's Covered Wagon Days held last month. The parlor also took one of the coveted trophies for its parade entry.

State Assemblyman John Babbage was the speaker at the October 18 meeting of Riverside Parlor No. 299. Members of the parlor also recently visited Mother Colony Parlor No. 281 at Anaheim.

Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, has a bowling team entered in the local tournament and are bowling every Friday night at Al McCaugh's Bowling Alley.

Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, held a steak barbecue and square dance October 5. A square dance was again an event of Wednesday evening, October 26. These events with Recording Secretary, Jim Dyer, calling, are proving popular with the Natives and their friends.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 held a successful dinner dance Saturday evening, October 1, in the gold room of the Palace Hotel, some 75 members and their ladies attended the affair which is a revival of an annual event. J. Walter Kamb, Grand 2nd Vice President, of Berkeley Parlor, paid his official visit to South San Francisco Parlor on Wednesday evening, October 19.

Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, celebrated its 68th Anniversary on Wednesday evening, November 2. The original institution of the parlor took place on October 29, 1881, with Grand President H. Clay Chipman officiating.

University Parlor No. 272, Los Angeles, held its annual Hallowe'en dance, Saturday, October 29, at the Los Angeles Elks Club. Music was by Bob McManus and His Rhythm Boys. Committee in charge of the big affair was made up of: Lucien Griffin, chairman, Jack Williams, Ben Arguello, Joe Marsalisi, Bob King, Earl Norbry, Chas. DuVernet, Bill Arlen, Manuel Perez, Vic Nelson, Tom Master-son, Stan Orfila, Walter Wells, Ev Harris, Ed Snyder, Blaine Driscoll and Ambassador of Goodwill Harry Davis.

Stephen M. White Parlor No. 263, NSGW, San Pedro, held a family dinner night Friday evening, October 28, for members, their families and guests. Jim Stanley was chairman of the affair.

On Wednesday, October 12, members of Huntington Park Parlor No. 294 visited University Parlor No. 272.

Los Ranchos Parlor No. 283, now meeting in Ontario, had a ham dinner October 13, serving 117 people. "Hi" Moore of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, is deputy to Los Ranchos.

New Past Presidents Assembly Instituted

Compton Parlor No. 273, NSGW, was host Saturday evening, September 24, to a group of past presidents of various surrounding parlors at which time Los Angeles County Assembly No. 4, Past President Association, was instituted, with Walter G. Hopcraft of Compton Parlor as governor.

The new assembly was officially granted a charter at the General Assembly of the Past Presidents at Oakland, Saturday, October 15, which was attended by Charter Governor Hopcraft.

Instituted with about 30 charter members, besides Governor Hopcraft, the following charter officers were elected: Earl Farwell, South Gate, Jr. Past Governor; Capt. Ray Cook, Stephen M. White, 1st vice governor; Albert Tarelton, Compton, 2nd vice governor; Larry Ames, South Gate, 3rd vice governor; W. E. Zuckweiler, Compton, recording secretary; Judge Stanley Sargent, Compton, financial secretary-treasurer; Russell Copley, Compton, marshal; Henry Hankinson, South Gate, inside sentinel. Trustees: William Rueter, Stephen M. White, Ray Olmstead, Compton; Stan Norwalk, South Gate. The office of outside sentinel remains to be filled.

The new assembly is composed of past presidents from Compton, South Gate and Stephen M. White parlors, Native Sons of the Golden West, and is growing daily in membership. All past presidents of Native Son parlors throughout Los Angeles County are invited to participate in this new activity. Parlors in the area will be contacted by mail and in person to furnish more detailed information.

The new past presidents assembly was organized by Joe Augustine of Mission Parlor No. 38, San Francisco, who now resides in this area and is active in all Native Son activities. It is the result of two years work on the necessary legal aspects. The institution ceremonies were conducted by Dr. John A. Schwamm of Long Beach Parlor, new sentinel general of the Past Presidents General Assembly and former trustee general. He was assisted by Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca of Los Angeles No. 45 and Grand Outside Sentinel Walter Brandt of Santa Monica Bay Parlor.

With over 150 persons in attendance, Beverly Hills Parlor No. 280, NDGW, selected their entry for the "Girl of the Golden West" contest on Wednesday evening, October 5. The winner of the statewide contest, with her attendants made up of the winners of the various other district contests, will ride in the parade entry of the Native Sons and Daughters in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day. Miss Betty Mathews, shown as she was crowned "Miss Beverly Hills" by Walter Medine, one of the contest judges, is a 19-year-old U.C.L.A. co-ed, winning the coveted title over 15 other aspirants. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Mathews, the pretty blonde winner is a junior and majoring in apparel merchandising. A member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority, Betty is the chapter's social chairman. A panel of five judges made the choice and the comely winner was escorted into the lodge room by Walter Medine, where she was crowned with a lovely silver jeweled crown and presented with a large bouquet of pink roses. Ironically enough, the winsome Betty was number 13 in the local contest.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Morada Parlor No. 199, Modesto, welcome DGP Mary Haslam of Veritas Parlor, Merced, on her recent visit to Modesto.

The chairman of the Veterans Welfare Committee, Bertha Bewley and co-chairman, Pearl Gordon, furnished embroidered dish towels and a plant which netted $16.00. To this sum the 1200 club added $5.00. This money gift was sent to Veteran Nurse Elizabeth Huff of World War I.

Nearly all of the Past Presidents met at the home of Alice Phoenix for a barbecued chicken dinner in observance of the 9th anniversary of the club.

State President Edna Kretcher, Past Presidents' Association, NDGW was jointly entertained by Associations No. 12 (San Mateo County) and No. 17 (Watsonville) at the San Juan Bautista Adobe recently. Dinner was served at tables appropriately decorated with covered wagons, potted geraniums, antique fruit bowls and fall blossoms.

Social features included an amusing sketch "School Days" by the Watsonville members and films showing Hoover Dam, the Grand Canyon, and Yellowstone National Park, taken by Gladys Jones of Association No. 15. Gifts were presented to State President Kretcher. Other honored guests were Past State President Harriet Corr and State Outside Sentinel Elizabeth Smith.

Installation ceremonies of Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 took place recently at which time Mrs. Betty Gelderman received the president's sash from Deputy Tennie Padilla of Conchita Parlor No. 294, Newport Beach. Highlights of the evening included the unusual bouquet presented to the outgoing president, Olive Hadley, which was made of dollar bills in the shape of flowers. Delegations from many parlors were present, including Native Sons.

The first social event of the new term was delightful authentic western party.

Held in the beautiful patio of President Betty Gelderman, the party was complete with colorful frontier costumes and square dancing. Following a pot-luck supper, the evening of fun and frolic included entertainment by Malcolm Roundtree and Rusty Richards with "Feats of Magic," and music for dancing.

Among future events planned were a bazaar and Halloween party, where supper of enchiladas and many other delightful Spanish foods was to be served.

The Menlo Junior NDGW installed their new officers with an attendance of 170 Native Sons and Daughters, parents and city officials. Mr. Al Grannatti a past president of the local Lions Club and Police Chief LeRoy Hubbard of Atherton (a member of Redwood Parlor NSGW) were the speakers and were loud in their praise of the local Jr. Unit: indeed an asset to the community life of Menlo Park. A large group of Juniors from San Francisco Unit No. 10, Fruitful Unit No. 21 and San Jose Unit No. 22 were present. PGP's, Orinda Giannini and Evelyn I. Carlson and SDDGP of San Mateo County Miss Ermelia Vincenzini were also in attendance.

Barbara Busch was the newly installed Junior President.

Orinda Parlor No. 46 San Francisco, held its annual fall festival bazaar at the Native Daughters home Friday evening, October 28. Many months of preparation went into the successful event with Loretta Trathen as chairman.

Following its regular business meeting Monday evening, October 10, Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, San Francisco, honored past presidents of the parlor. At the same time several members received their 25-year membership pins. Geraldine Pitts and her committee planned the enjoyable event.

Southwest Museum Will Exhibit Indian Paintings

At the Southwest Museum, Los Angeles County, during December there will be exhibited a selection of the paintings by Clarence Ellsworth, noted artist of Western subjects, especially of the Indians before they came under the influence of the Whites. Reared in the Indian country, Mr. Ellsworth was an observer of Indian customs in all their phases from his early youth, and the faithfulness of his pictures has been authoritatively regarded as comparable with that of Charles Russell and other noted artists of their time.

The public is invited to view this special exhibit daily, except Mondays, from 1 to 5 P. M. The Southwest Museum, at Marmion Way and Museum Drive in Highland Park, may be reached by the "W" street car. There is no admission charge.

San Gabriel Parlors Help In Adobe's Preservation

San Gabriel Valley Parlor, NDGW and San Gabriel Archangel Parlor, NSGW, have lent their combined energies to the task of saving the adobe in San Gabriel known as Ramona's Home.

The San Gabriel City Council voted to set aside funds for the restoration of the adobe as a historic landmark for tourists and as a community recreation center. The decision was made almost immediately after a resolution to that effect was read by Milda LaBerge, past president and chairman of the history and landmarks committee of the Native Daughters.

The adobe is situated by the famous century-old San Gabriel grapevine and has been proven to be over a hundred years old itself.

Mrs. LaBerge, along with Maureen Peters, president of the San Gabriel Valley parlor, William Blakeley, president of the Native Sons and Alfred Mata, history and landmarks chairman for the latter parlor, have been appointed to a committee by the city council to help guide the restoration as authentically as possible.

Mrs. Peters underscored to the council the need for utilizing the shrine for cultural purposes so that the precious heritage of the people of California can be preserved forever.

Attention is called to the California Law which requires all public buildings in this State to have the American and Bear Flags before the entrance. Are all public buildings in your city, or county so equipped? A worthy project for all the parlors would be to follow up on this law. Should you care to present flags, the Grand Secretary of the Native Sons has them for sale.

News The Grizzly Wants

The editor wants stories and photographs descriptive of charitable activities, historical markings, parades, civic affairs participated in by the parlors, high honors attained by members of the Orders, aid to veterans and other patriotic activities, participation in athletics, boys and girls work, important events participated in by the Grand President and Grand Officers.

REQUIREMENTS.

Keep news brief but include all essential details. Spell clearly. Send only clear, glossy photographs, clearly identified, packed flat with backing. Do not send mats. All material for a given issue must be in the Magazine Office by the 15th of the preceding month.

YOUR MAGAZINE CAN NOT PRINT

The editor finds it necessary to decline material relative to the following subjects, because it would be unfair to discriminate and, considering the number of parlors, it would be impossible to give coverage to such activities in all parlors.

Routine parlor sessions, material descriptive of mandatory ceremonies, installations and like events participated in by most of the parlors. These events could not be covered for all the parlors in a magazine of our size.

The editor reserves the right to edit all material submitted and to pass on its acceptance for publication.

Beverly Hills Native Sons Have '49'er Roundup

Members of Beverly Hills Parlor No. 306, NSGW, one of the baby parlors of the Native Sons, enjoyed a rip, roarin' gala 49'er Roundup Party in the beautiful Westside Tennis Club in Cheviot Hills, Friday evening, September 30, beating the bushes for new members. Brother Bo C. Roos supplied the wine and beer with the turkey dinner for the affair.

Master of ceremonies was the clever Albert Garney, who plays the part of Simon Sebastian Stoneheart Darkway in the play "Love Rides the Rails, or will the Mail Train Run To-nite?" a comic laugh hit melodram with olio.

Distinguished guests present included: Otto A. Gerth, mayor of Beverly Hills; Judge Walter H. Odemar, Past Grand President, NSGW; Eldred L. Meyer, Past Grand President; John B. Schmolle, president of the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee; Alfred P. Peracca, Grand Trustee, NSGW; Walter Brandt, Grand Outside Sentinel; Judge Lowell R. Mathay and many others.

The big event of the evening came when the Bible, on which he took office as charter president of Beverly Hills parlor, was presented to Junior Past President Judge Charles J. Griffin by Past Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar. Judge Griffin also received the first Past President's medal to be presented by Beverly Hills Parlor.

Members of the cast of "Will the Mail Train Run To-nite" entertained during the dinner hour and following by several vaudeville acts and songs.

Chairman of the successful 49'er Roundup party was Edgar D. Sloat, 1st vice president of the parlor, assisted by Bo C. Roos, Bill Gilholm, Spud Daugherty and John King, who put in a lot of hard work.

Outstanding was the amount of advance publicity and pictures that Beverly Hills Parlor obtained in the daily press of Los Angeles county. Almost all carried stories, which is noteworthy for an event of this kind, either Native Sons or Daughters.

Santa Monica Bay Releases Calendar Of Fall Events

With the latest event of the parlor now past, after setting a fine record for good food and attendance at the barbecue, held in Saxonia Park with over 300 persons attending, plans for the coming months' activities are rapidly taking shape in Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW.

First on the list is the November 5 anniversary party held at the Parlor, 819 Ocean Park Blvd., Santa Monica, on October 25, for the members. Charter members of the parlor were honored guests for the 26th annual party, where food and entertainment predominated for the evening. Special guest of honor this night was Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer. A "Hard Times" dance was held at the Parlor on November 5. At this event, door prizes, a good orchestra for dancing, etc., were presented to the members and guests present.

This event was for the benefit of the drum corps of the parlor, with plans already being made to send the corps to the September 9, 1950, parade in San Francisco.

On November 19, the parlor is sending a delegation of members to join with Huntington Park Parlor in their county-wide initiation at their hall. Grand Inside Sentinel Walter Brandt, of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, as well as other grand officers, will attend this meeting.

Santa Monica Bay Parlor will be the host parlor on December 2 to as many members of all parlors as wish to attend, on the occasion of another county-wide initiation, at which time the Grand Officers will form the ritual team for that night. All parlors are asked to attend and bring with them as many candidates as possible to join with the Santa Monica Bay Parlor in the initiation that night.

Grand Inside Sentinel Brandt will also be official host for that evening, which will also be held at the Santa Monica Native Sons hall.

Grand Parlor On High Calls Jesse H. Miller

Members of both Orders of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West were shocked to learn of the passing to the Grand Parlor on High, October 16, of Past Grand President Jesse H. Miller at his home in San Francisco following a brief illness.

Only 52 at the time of his death, Jesse H. Miller, a prominent San Francisco attorney and member of California Parlor No. 1, NSGW, was extremely active in activities of the Native Sons, taking part in all Grand Parlor sessions. His kindly advice will be missed by all Native Sons, old and young alike.

He was a native of San Francisco, had practiced law there since 1920 and was a member of the firm of Linforth Cannon and Miller.

Last year he was elected chairman of the citizens advisory committee to the Tenney Committee on Un-American Activities. He was a member and leader on the Un-American Activities Committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West. In 1939 he was Grand President of the Native Sons.

He was a member of Islam Temple of the Shrine, the Elks Lodge, B'nai B'rith and the American Bar Association. Surviving are his widow, Rose Miller, a son, Robert Miller and a daughter, Mrs. John Kerner of San Francisco.

The Native Sons of the Golden have lost one of their most valued and esteemed members in the passing to the Grand Parlor on High of Past Grand President Jesse H. Miller.

Corrections

The Grizzly Bear wishes to make a correction in the listing on page 10 of the September issue for La Junta Parlor, NDGW, St. Helena, Napa County. The address of Recording Secretary Barbara Young is Box 105, St. Helena. In error we gave it as Helena, which is in Trinity County.

The correct address of Georgette Soffa, recording secretary of East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, NDGW, is 1043 South Alma Ave., Los Angeles 23.

The correct address of Mildred Hamilton, recording secretary of San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 231, NDGW, is 508 Gerona, San Gabriel.

The new secretary for the Fruitvale Junior Unit No. 22, NDGW, is Clair Valcovich, 1474 33rd Avenue, Oakland.

In the Native Sons Directory under the Board of Grand Officers listing, it should be Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca.

Please make these changes in your directory copy.

Knott's Berry Farm Home Of Famed Arabian Horses

Again Walter Knott out at his Buena Park Berry Place is adding something new that will further delight the thousands of persons who crowd his "Farm" in quest of Mother Knott's delicious mouth-watering southern fried chicken dinners. In back of "ghost town" a huge arena is being built, together with spacious stables, to show and house Mark Smith's famed Arabian horses. Though the project is well underway, the first showing is not scheduled for another sixty days.

To horse lovers there is no need to introduce Mark Smith, owner of the El Cortez stables, until recently located in Van Nuys.
For fourteen years since 1931 Mark trained the world renowned Arabian horses of Kellogg Ranch at Pomona. His horses have taken top honors everywhere. "Farina," an Arabian stock horse, was judged so perfect he was never in all his life in the show ring.

Movie goers will remember Wildfire, one of the many Smith horses to gain recognition on the silver screen. This twelve year old veteran of at least a hundred movies received his share of plaudits acting alongside Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Cummings in "The Bride Wore Boots."

Mark Smith came to California by way of Texas, driving a team of mustangs with his dad back in 1915. He spent his first years breaking farm horses in the Blythe area. Later he followed the sawdust trail where he became head trainer for the Al G. Barnes Circus.

Right now he's in the act of moving his entire stable, lock stock and barrel, down to Knott's Berry Farm. If plans go as slated his horses will perform daily, beginning soon after the New Year. Bareback riders will perform amazing daredevil tricks while they put their beautiful steeds through their paces.
Horsemen standing astride two galloping horses will put their mounts over the hurdles.
In the Liberty Escadrille six snow-white and six jet black animals will do a precision drill under the guidance of Ringmaster Mark Smith.

It is always a pleasure to visit native son
Walter Knott's "Ghost Town." Memories come crowding out of the past as one saunters down its ancient streets. In such a town as this our own forefathers once lived. The shops display those household sundries that grandma used to use. It's all complete from the jail house to fire hall. A mountain and a mine are there. The saloon sells gallons of Knott's Boysenberry juice. There must be fifty buildings in the place to browse about and enter.
In the evenings campfire blazes brightly and you're invited to join the group and sing.

Natives Honor Manager Of Grizzly Bear Club

Virgil Orengo, member of Rincon Parlor, NSGW, San Francisco, and manager of the Grizzly Bear Club, was recently honored with the receipt of his 50-year pin and a testimonial by the Native Sons and Daughters of San Francisco.

Seventeen years ago, when the Grizzly Bear Club opened its doors, Virgil Orengo was there to do the opening and has been there ever since. All Native Sons and Daughters always drop in to pay him a visit and learn the latest gossip about the Order. He is like opening the pages of an encyclopedia, for he knows all about the activities of the Native Sons and Daughters throughout the state. With this in mind, it isn't any wonder that the Native Sons and Daughters paid due respect to this genial Native Son at the testimonial held at the Del Mar Restaurant with some 500 in attendance.

The admiration and respect with which he is regarded was shown by numerous letters and telegrams from throughout the state.

THE LETTER BOX

LOS ANGELES COUNTY INTER-PARLOR COMMITTEE

Native Sons and Daughters of Golden We
Dear Fellow Natives:

Once again Native Sons and Native Daughters band together under the supervision your County Inter-Parlor Committee to entetain at the annual Christmas party, those Veterans who served our Country in time of w and who are now confined in the Sawtel
Veterans' hospital.

This event last year was heartily enjoyed fifteen hundred disabled, non-compensated v erans. Funds donated by Native Sons and N tive Daughters of Los Angeles County d much to brighten their Christmas season for some the only Christmas they knew.

As our two Orders have forgone the charity we maintained for so many years, we mu reach out for some other charitable cause w which to associate the names of our respect Orders. Here is our chance, remembering th it has been said that an organization is or as worthy as the charity it supports.

What program could be more in keepi with our aims and purposes than to hon these veterans who gave so freely of o selves in keeping with the traditions of o Country. They befriended us in our need let us not fail to befriend them now.

The success of this Christmas party is co-pletely dependent upon the generous donati of each individual parlor. You have perfor-
ed well in the past; we know we can count you to do it again. Individual contributi will be more than welcome too. All contributions will be gratefully received and put this humanitarian use by your Inter-Par-Committee.

The Chairmanship of the party has be-turned over to Californiana Parlor. Bear mind that no one Parlor can be successful this program without the hearty cooperation each and every one of us.

Please make all checks payable to the "I Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee" a designate that it is for the Veterans' Christm Party. Checks should be mailed to Mrs. A.
Oechel, 514 North Las Palmas Avenue, I Angeles, California.

As the Christmas Holidays draw near, let examine our hearts and find room to let Native Organizations be proud of the man in which this party is conducted.

Sincerely and fraternally,
JOHN B. SCHMOLLE, President

OUR COVER

The jolly face of the man on our cover serves to remind us that the Christmas season is close upon us, a season when men and women tend to forget the cares of every day and take a greater interest in the welfare of those about them, regardless of race, creed or color.

The ability of people in the business world to put aside petty differences at this season of the year and wish customer, business associate and competitor the best of everything in life, has always been a marvel to us.

The Christmas season in commemoration of the birth of One who was to bring peace and goodwill toward all mankind, often varies from its religious significance. And there are those who believe that it takes on a pagan atmosphere. However, when we look around us, under the tinsel and noise of celebration, we find the gentle spirit of the man, who walked by the sea of Galilee long ago.

And so, for the staff of the Grizzly Bear, we wish you and yours, a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

California 75 Years Ago

As Compiled from the Files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine.

DECEMBER, 1874

Christmas Day, 1874, came on a Thursday. The weather during the week was clear and cold in California and nothing atmospheric interfered with the merry time. Peace and plenty prevailed, and it was one of the best holiday seasons people of the state had yet enjoyed.

One cause, especially in San Francisco, was the development of the great Con. Virginia bonanza on the Comstock Lode and the boom in mining stock prices. Vendors and investors were profiting. Investors, with their sudden and easily-acquired wealth, were liberal spenders and everyone catering to their wants, whether for luxuries or necessities, was benefitting thereby.

A new flock of millionaires and multi-millionaires began to rise above the financial horizon. Mackay and Fair, mining men, Flood, and "Lucky" Baldwin, business men, loomed large in the public eye, and numerous others were transferred from humble pursuits to the capitalist and investor classes as prices of stocks advanced to unprecedented values.

Con. Virginia jumped from $200 to $800, California from $80 to $800, Ophir from $90 to $260 a share and their satellites went up in proportion. California streets swarmed with rich and optimistic investors. Locations several miles from Con. Virginia sold on the stock board at bonanza values. A writer, in a telegraph office in Sacramento, copied the quotations during a board session for a heavy operator sitting by his side, and saw his holdings increase in value 20,000 in less than fifteen minutes.

The railroad from Los Angeles City to Anaheim, Orange County, was completed December 29.

San Bernardino was crowded with transients going to and coming from the Holcombe Valley mines. Hotel guests were compelled to sit up until 2 a.m. awaiting the departure, by stages, of those who had rooms and thereby made beds vacant for them to occupy.

Albert Piedro, a vaquero in San Luis Obispo County, lassoed a grizzly on Steele Brothers' rancho. It weighed 700 pounds after being killed and dressed.

John B. Bescre of Fresno County, bear hunting with a rifle, came upon three grizzlies and killed them with three shots.

A French woman in Oakland decided to have a turkey dinner Christmas Day. Her servant girls was a late arrival from Ireland. Neither had ever cooked a turkey. Together they fixed a gobbler and put it in the oven to roast. It finally exploded, blew off the oven door, and was a wrecked bird. They had neglected to draw it and the gas caused the explosion.

A crowd of good fellows inbibed so much eggnog Christmas Day they gathered on Fourth street, Sacramento, and enjoyed themselves knocking off every "plug" hat from the head of its wearer that attempted to pass. At the close of the afternoon of sport the gutter was filled with dilapidated "stove pipe" hats. They paid the owners for the broken headpieces.

The directors of the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad accepted December 1 the bid of W. F. Beatty to build and equip the road for $500,000 within one year, from Colfax, Placer County, to Nevada City, Nevada County.

The grizzly bear is the symbol of the old and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

As California Grows, So Grows the Nations,"—from the "Roundup," official bulletin of Ramona Parlor No. 100, Los Angeles.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West will institute a new parlor at Santa Barbara, December 10, to be known as Tierra de Oro. This will be the second Native Daughter parlor in Santa Barbara. Its sister parlor, Reina del Mar, of many years standing, has been one of the liveliest parlors in the Order. It is to be hoped that the new parlor will follow in its footsteps. Organizer of the new parlor is Eileen Dismuke, who also organized the recently instituted Las Tres Vistas parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, at Oxnard.

We have been informed that the new parlor will subscribe 100 per cent for the Grizzly Bear for its members, which makes us happy. Reina del Mar also has been on the 100 per cent list for many years.

It is noteworthy, that with few exceptions, all Native Daughters parlors instituted within the past few years have become 100 per cent subscribers.

In this issue the Grizzly Bear Club, Native Sons Bldg., 414 Mason Street, San Francisco, sends Holiday greetings to Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. When in San Francisco, drop in and see Virgil Orenge, manager, a member of Rincon Parlor, NSGW.

We also have back with us Arcy's Delicatessen, located in the Crystal Palace Market, San Francisco, owned by Cosme Arcy, past president of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214.

Walter Knott of the world famous Knott's Berry Farm, Buena Park, Orange county, sends greetings to all Native Sons and Daughters in this issue of the Grizzly Bear. Walter Knott, a member of Mother Colony Parlor, with his ghost town, replica of an old-time mine and covered wagon open-air amphitheatre, is probably doing more than any other Native Son or Daughter to preserve the early history and traditions of California. This monument to the pioneer builders of the west, covering several acres, is visited by countless thousands of people yearly, who come to eat one of Mrs. Knott's fabulous chicken dinners and show their friends around Grost Town.

Another old advertiser back with us is the Union Square Lounge, 177 Maiden Lane, San Francisco. When in San Francisco, drop in there and see Duke Rehfeld of California Parlor No. 1, NSGW.

Among the many new subscribers to the Grizzly Bear this past month are: Victor Vaure, George Cerasi, Glen Brown, Jr., San Francisco; Al Vinther, Emeryville; Frank MacDonald, Hayward and Al Schaden, Sacramento.

Yes, the Grizzly Bear is growing. Northern California representative, Edwin A. Cox, II, of Pacific Parlor No. 10, ably assisted by members in Sacramento, San Jose and other points in the area, is doing a splendid job for your magazine. The address of Edwin A. HISTORICAL MEMORANDUM

The Battle of San Pasqual was the only real issue of arms fought on California soil during our War with Mexico. It opened December 6, 1846, between General Stephen Watts Kearny's First Dragoons, and General Andres Pico's Mounted California Lancers. Twenty Americans were killed and two died later of wounds. Those killed were buried immediately beneath a willow at San Pasqual; one died and was buried at Mule Hill; one at San Diego.

The First Dragoons re-interred all their San Pasqual dead in the Protestant Cemetery at San Diego in 1848. About 1880 the remains were removed to Hill 80 on Point Loma. In 1889 they were again moved to the Post Cemetery at Fort Rosecrans and there were buried as "Unknown Dead." Two officers, Capt. Benj. Moore and Lt. Thos. Hammond, killed at San Pasqual, lie in separate graves adjacent to the others. Capt. Abraham R. Johnson also was killed in the battle. In 1850 the War Department ordered his remains sent to Piqua, Ohio for burial.

In 1922 a boulder from the battlefield was placed here by the Native Sons and Daughters, with a memorial tablet. The present plaque corrects errors in nomenclature discovered in the 1922 plate. Research in original War Department records for this purpose has been conducted by Col. George Rublen, former Post Quartermaster at Fort Rosecrans, for the San Diego Historical Society.

Unending ceremonies for the new plaque were held Saturday, November 5, under auspices of San Diego Native Sons and Daughters and the San Diego Historical Society.

Battle of San Pasqual

By JOSEPH C. KELLEY

STRIFE that had smothered existence between the Americans and Californians or natives, ever since the former began to settle in the country, broke out into open hostility with the war that was declared between the United States and Mexico. Commodore Sloat arrived in Monterey on July 2, 1846. Five days later he took possession of the town and issued a proclamation, declaring California a part of the United States. The following day, Sir George Seymour a British Admiral arrived in port to take possession of the country on the part of England, but he was too late. Commodore Montgomery had taken San Francisco and had raised the United States flag on the Plaza there. Los Angeles had been forced by Commodore Robert F. Stockton to submit to having the stars and stripes replace the Mexican emblem and General Stephen W. Kearney in his march to Southern California had done the same thing at Santa Fe. The scene of action had centered in what is now San Diego county and Don Ondras Pico was in the neighborhood of the Indian pueblo San Pasqual, with a force of eighty men.

Colonel Philip Crosthwaite, who took part in and was the last survivor of the Battle of San Pasqual, gave his version of what actually took place in the fight, in the following reminiscence of a heretofore the most sanguinary battle fought in California history. It has always been an open question whether Pico's flight was an act of cowardice or whether it was a military subterfuge to entrap the Americans. If it was the latter his scheme was most successful. Noting the flight, Captain Moore and Lieutenant Hammond with their fifty dragoons, started in pursuit down the road

Natives Dedicate Plaque At Fort Rosecrans

Under auspices of San Diego Parlor No. 108, NSGW, San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW and the San Diego Historical Society a new marker was unveiled Saturday, November 5, at the Battle of San Pasqual Memorial Tablet in Fort Rosecrans National Cemetery.

The new marker identifies the 18 heroes who lost their lives in the battle which opened December 6, 1846, between General Stephen Watts Kearny's first dragoons and General Andrew Pico's Mounted California Lancers.

The small bronze marker was superimposed on the bronze tablet which was dedicated to the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West July 11, 1922. The original tablet is on a large boulder brought from the battlefield.

Chief speaker was Col. George Rublen, USA, Ret., of the San Diego Historical Society. Other speakers were Capt. C. F. Kearney, superintendent of Fort Rosecrans National Cemetery; De Graff Austin, past president San Diego Parlor No. 108, NSGW; Dorothy Ritter, recording secretary of San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW; Mrs. Emily Welch, Grand Trustee, NDGW; Col. Wade C. Gatche, USA, Ret.

Mrs. Elvera Wittenberg, president, San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW, unveiled the marker. Joseph C. Kelley, past president of San Diego Parlor No. 108, NSGW, was master of ceremonies.

leading to San Bernardino. A short distance from San Pasqual the San Bernardino road divided, one of its arms going up a deep ravine. Reaching this, a portion of Pico's men went up the ravine, while the rest of the army continued on toward San Bernardino. On Captain Moore and his men pell-mell, the best horse leading and the others straggling behind, they were more or less fagged. Rushing around a bend in the road, they were again confronted with the lances of the Californians.

The Americans found that their powder had been soaked by the rain and after a feeble resistance they were at the mercy of the natives. To make the matter worse, their retreat was cut off by the portion of Pico's men that had, as soon as the Americans passed, come down from the branch road. On both sides the Americans were attacked by the most skillful horsemen in the world, armed with their favorite weapons, sabers and lances. For ten minutes the slaughter continued and in some cases the butchery was most horrible. Captain Moore fell with a lance thrust through his body and Lieutenant Hammond, in trying to save Moore, received a thrust that caused his death soon after. Captain Gillespie received three severe lance wounds and was left for dead on the field, and some of the soldiers' ordnances were almost cut to pieces.

At this juncture General Kearney's men appeared and Pico's men retreated, leaving the Americans in possession of the field. It was then learned that eighteen men had been killed and twenty-two wounded. Among the latter were General Kearney, who received three lance thrusts, Lieutenant Warner wounded three times, an interpreter named Rubide

Native Sons Pay Honor To John T. Regan

By EDWIN A. COX, II

On November 9 our genial Grand Secretary for the past 30 years, John T. Regan received his 50-year pin at South San Francisco Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West. There were Natives from as far north as Plumas county and as far south as San Diego present to greet John on this great occasion of his life.

Our Worthy Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy had the honor of putting the 50-year pin on Brother John. But before he did, he took us back a few years to that time when John T. Regan first came into the Order of the Native Sons. The date was August 4, 1899. Yes, just 50 years ago, but look at what he has seen in the fifty years just past.

He has seen the horse and buggy turn into the horseless carriage that it is today. He has seen the advent of radio take its place in our modern society. He's been through two World Wars. He has seen the greatest economic crash of a lifetime. And what he hasn't seen in the day of progress can't fill this space. And so our Grand President presented a very beautiful story of John's life as only he can deliver. You have heard Grand President Peter Conmy speak, you know just what we mean.

The Grand President said of John what few men ever have said about them after long and faithful service, and that was that John T. Regan has yet to be out one cent in his accounting of Grand Parlor business after thirty years of continuous devotion to service. He so said that John hasn't one enemy in the order today or yesterday. After being a member for fifty years that is truly a tribute to anyone.

It was also pointed out that John served his parlor of South San Francisco for forty years of continuous service as its recording secretary.

And, when he retired in 1945, the members of his parlor showed their appreciation for his splendid work by presenting him with a key to a brand new automobile that they had purchased for him. So whether you're a member of South San Francisco Parlor or a member of our great Order in any of its parors, we all admire and respect John T. Regan for what he has meant to the Order, what he has meant and what he will mean in the years to come.

To John T. Regan we say, "God bless you and preserve you for many more years to come."

Directors Of Grizzly Bear Club Give Party

Members of the board of directors of the Grizzly Bear Club, 414 Mason Street, San Francisco, held their annual cocktail party Tuesday evening, November 12, in the club rooms. Many friends, as well as wives and families of the board of directors participated in the festivities. Chairman for the occasion was Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich, ably assisted by Art Poheim, Harry Romick and Charles Stanley. Cocktails were served from until 9, at which time the crowd retired to Lari's Restaurant to enjoy dinner for the remainder of the evening. The board of directors plan to make this a regular affair as it proved a great success.

St. Helena Native Sons Celebrate 50th Birthday

Monday, October 17, was a red-letter day for St. Helena Parlor No. 53, Native Sons of the Golden West, when the members celebrated the 50th anniversary of the granting of its charter, which occurred September 30, 1899.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of 50-year jewels to three charter members, Joseph Galewsky, Julius Goodman and Walter Metzner. Charter Member Galewsky has been a member of the Native Sons for 63 years, having belonged to the original parlor at St. Helena, and when that disbanded, joined Calistoga Parlor, continuing his membership there until a new parlor was instituted in St. Helena.

The celebration started with a fine turkey dinner served at 7 o'clock in the banquet room of the Native Sons' hall. About 80 members and guests enjoyed the dinner, visitors being present from Napa, Calistoga and Vallejo parlor. Among those present was Henry Hoernle, secretary of Napa parlor, who was in attendance at the first meeting of St. Helena Parlor fifty years ago.

A feature of the dinner was the presentation of a large birthday cake from La Junta Parlor, Native Daughters, by Ila Wilson, president, and Millis Greenhow, 1st vice president. The cake was suitably inscribed and had five lighted gold candles surrounded by flowers and tied with a large gold satin bow.

Following the dinner a meeting in the lodge room was conducted by past presidents of the parlor. Presentation of the 50-year jewels was made by Henry Giugni, SDGP, assisted by Grand Inside Sentinel Philip Malloy of Napa.

Walter Metzner, who presided, called on the charter members, as well as others for short talks, many of them bringing back memories of the early days of St. Helena Parlor. Julius Goodman read several items taken from the St. Helena Star of October, 1899, giving accounts of the instituting of the parlor.

ATHLETICS

Judge John B. Molinari has been named chairman of Native Son athletics in San Francisco by State Chairman Peter Butti. He is charged with the responsibility of organizing a new Athletic Association which will raise funds and create competitive leagues for the benefit of all parlors in San Francisco and eventually the entire state. The judge stated that he will make his plans known publicly just as soon as he has finished making appointments to his committee. Looks as if San Francisco is looking to the future.

At the end of the first round of tournament of the Native Sons Bowling Leagues of San Francisco the following is the standing of the three leagues.

Native Daughters

To Institute New Parlor At Santa Barbara Soon

Tierra de Oro Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, a new parlor at Santa Barbara, is in process of organization and the institution date has been set by Grand President Henrietta Toothaker for Saturday evening, December 10th, at 8:00 p.m. at the Native Sons Beach club, Santa Barbara.

The organizer of the new parlor is Eileen Dismuke of Santa Barbara, who also organized the recently instituted Las Tres Vistas parlor in Oxnard, Ventura county, the last parlor to be instituted by Past Grand President Margaret Farnsworth before Grand Parlor this year.

There were over fifty prospective members present at the last meeting of the group, at which time the name of the parlor was chosen, the Native Sons Hall was chosen as the meeting place, and the meeting dates were decided upon as the first and third Mondays of the month. Another meeting scheduled for November 21st will see the nomination and election of charter officers for the new parlor.

At this time committees to carry out the details of the institution will also be appointed, according to the organizer. Large delegations from Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo and Ventura County parlors will be in attendance, in addition to many from other parts of the state which the date will make possible.

Members of Santa Maria, Las Tres Vistas, Canoga Park, Reina del Mar, and San Fernando Mission Parlors are being invited by the organizer to participate in the initiatory work for charter members. Many Grand and Past Grand Officers are expected, and Native Sons parlors in the vicinity have indicated that their parlors will be represented at the institution of the new parlor.

Irv Lee Is Honored By Observatory Parlor

During a recent meeting, and much to his utter surprise and dismay, Irv Lee was gifted by the members of Observatory Parlor No. 177, NSGW, for his outstanding work in the recent 9th of September celebration in San Jose.

It was somewhat of a problem just what to present Irv, for his untiring efforts in heading this gigantic undertaking, but at last an appropriate gift was obtained. A beautiful desk set, consisting of two pens, set in attractive holders with an engraved plate designating the occasion. Brother Herman Mager, in his best eloquence, made the presentation, and Irv, displaying the deep feeling of gratitude and utter surprise, failed to find words enough to even say "howdy." It was truly an inspiring moment. Irv had been taken by great surprise, and his composure was somewhat shaky. The gang then took turns eyeing the beautiful gift, which now graces the mahogany desk in Irv's office, where all may share in his good fortune.

Fruitvale Native Daughters Have Busy Two Months

Fruitvale Parlor No. 1, NDGW, has had a very busy October and November. One of the interesting features of October was the project from the American Grizzlies, the showing of animated pictures regarding this subject.

November 11th, Armistice Day, was celebrated with a very fine program presented by the chairman on Americanism, Ben Fries.

December 6, 1949, was the Parlor celebrating the 40th Anniversary with a dinner and hoping to have five Charter members in attendance. General arrangements are under the direction of Jan Lange and all officers assisting.

and a volunteer named Booker. The Californians had fled, but has never been learned that they lost a single man in the fight.

The Americans, however, were utterly demoralized. They packed their dead on mules' backs and their wounded in litters started to San Diego. These litters were formed of long poles placed life shafts of a wagon, with the ends of the poles dragging on the ground. Between them were woven a bed of willow branches, and in this the wounded were placed. Each litter was dragged by a mule and as it went over the rough ground the wails of the suffering men were heart-rendering. The little army moved on toward San Bernardo intending to go direct to San Diego, but arriving at the former place they feared an attack from the Californians. Lieutenant Edward Beale and an Indian Scout were then sent to San Diego with a statement of the condition of the Americans and asking for relief.

At San Bernardo the sufferings of the Americans were great. For two days they awaited developments and during this time had nothing to eat but mule flesh, without bread or salt. Besides it was ordered that none but the poorest and most broken down mule should be killed for food.

During this time Sergeant John Cox died from wounds received in the battle and his body was buried at San Bernardo. Camp was soon afterwards broken, and the little army moved to San Pasqual, where they were compelled to bury their dead, as it was deemed impossible to bring the bodies to San Diego. Eighteen graves were made under a large willow tree and there they rested unmolested for more than a score of years, when the remains were disinterred and reburied at Old Town and later in the year of 1889, removed to which is now the National Cemetery on Point Loma.

The Army stayed for several days at San Pasqual, until it was finally joined by a portion of Fremont's command that had been left at San Diego. Stockton refused to send reinforcements to the Americans, and it was said at the time that this was because he claimed to be a superior officer to General Kearney and the latter should have reported to him before engaging in the fight. As the men talked the matter over among themselves they became highly incensed at Stockton's action, and there was almost mutiny in camp, but about one hundred and fifty marines and sailors were finally sent out to the relief of the army and under this escort it was brought to San Diego.

After the flag was hoisted, General Kearney went back to Los Angeles, leaving Captain Merritt and a few men in charge of the town. Thus ended the greatest battle ever fought in California—the battle of San Pasqual.

National Safety Council Asks That You Drive Safely

Jim Bishop, President of the Safety Associations of California, and of the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of the National Safety Council, asks all residents of California to observe strict safety rules during the Christmas holidays.

"Each year our death and accident toll on our highways assumes new heights during the holiday season. These accidents are caused by a combination of carelessness and the general holiday spirit which prevails.

"This year all Safety organizations in the State are asking for strict enforcement of all traffic laws, and severe penalties in particular for those who drive while under the influence of alcohol.

Parlor Secretaries write for special money-making deal to Native Sons and Native Daughter Parlors

The mistaken impression seems to prevail among many parlors, particularly in Southern California, that the Grizzly Bear will not run news of parlors unless those parlors make themselves responsible for advertising in the magazine.

This is not true. We have never pursued such a policy. Worthwhile news is always welcome from any parlor of either Order. Further, it makes no difference whether the parlor is a 100 per cent subscriber for its members or not. Taking into consideration our limited space, if the news merits publishing, we will print it. So send your news in. We want accounts of major activities of both Orders from throughout the state.

Naturally, after trying to be fair to all parlors, we are somewhat surprised and hurt to learn that such a false impression prevailed in any parlor. And, we are at a loss to account for it.

Last summer, several members of the Orders and a number of our advertisers, expressed a desire that a page be devoted each month giving the news of a separate town or locality, it was necessary to build up the advertising from that section to a point where we had enough to pay for the page. Accordingly, we worked along those lines with the members of several parlors, with the thought in mind that the eventual result might be a bigger and better magazine for all, as advertising revenue is something that the magazine is badly in need of.

However, the plan was not a success, due to the overhead of constantly trying to re-new small ads each month or two, and failure to obtain worthwhile news each month from the particular sections with which we were working. The result was considerable dissatisfaction among all three parties involved, the parlor, the advertiser and the magazine, and the plan was dropped.

The requirements for obtaining a full page devoted to a town or section, did not at any time, bar any parlor from having suitable news matter accepted. If such an impression was gained, your editor is extremely sorry and asks your cooperation in helping to correct this mistaken belief.

Send in your news, take an active interest in the welfare of your magazine, and let's work together in the glorious Centennial year ahead, to make it a publication that both Orders may rightfully be proud of. For after all, the Grizzly Bear is one of the oldest magazines in California. It should be one of the largest and best, no one having a better claim to such a project than the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The beautiful, winsome lass who graces our cover this month is Shirley Roden, chosen "Girl of the Golden West for 1950" by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. She and her court, Carolyn Crane, Colusa; Janet Cubbison, Long Beach; Nancy Sullivan, San Francisco and Teri Reid, Van Nuys, rode on the Native Sons and Daughters Tournament of Roses float at Pasadena January 2. Sponsored by Los Ranchos Parlor, NSGW, Ontario and Arrowhead Parlor, NSGW, San Bernardino, Shirley Roden was the winner of the statewide contest sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Not only were Shirley and her attendants constantly pictured in the metropolitan press following the announcement that the Girl of the Golden West for 1950 had been chosen, but the various local contests attracted the attention and imagination of the newspapers, resulting in valuable publicity for both Orders.

California 75 Years Ago

As Compiled from the Files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine

JANUARY, 1875

New Year's Day, 1875, was ushered in by one of the coldest New Year's Eves yet experienced in California. The temperature was down to 26 degrees, but the day was clear.

January proved one of the stormiest months the state had experienced. Warm rain-storms began the 7th and, succeeding one another, gave a total rainfall of 8.58 inches for the month. Falling upon the snow of the Sierras, the rain melted it and caused extreme high water.

The Feather and Yuba rivers, at flood height, overtopped the levee at Marysville, Yuba county, January 19 and the city was inundated. The flood was four feet deep in the business section, and people living in one-story houses had to take refuge upon roofs. Joseph Leckley, a 6-year-old lad, fell off a roof and was drowned. The flood, lasting three days, damaged several merchants heavily, and it was estimated that a million dollars' loss was sustained.

This month, 12 inches of rain fell in Los Angeles and everybody was jubilant. A wash-out on the railroad line near San Fernando caused the engine of a train to overturn.

A terrific norther blew January 25 and did much damage to shipping in San Francisco bay. Several barges were sunk, schooners were blown ashore, and two British vessels that were at anchor collided. Buildings were blown down and roofs carried away, their shingles flying around like chaff. Telegraph wires and poles were prostrated all over the state. A snowslide on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevadas buried and killed twenty-eight Chinamen.

Four inches of snow fell in Bakersfield, Kern county, January 26. Donner lake was frozen over during the last week of the month, and Truckee, Nevada county, people were enjoying skating over its icy surface.

Assays of ore from the Panamint mines ranged from $1,500 to $12,000 a ton. The first white child, a girl, was born in the camp this month. Nearly 100 Ox and mule teams were freighting from Spadra, Los Angeles county, to the camp.

Over 100 Chinamen were put to work grading the proposed railroad track from Los Angeles to Independence, Inyo county.

Engineers of the Southern Pacific, building south and north over the Tehachapi mountains located the San Fernando tunnel and began operations there this month.

During 1874 the Central Pacific brought into California 33,769 immigrants, who came second class, riding in the emigrant cars on the rear of freight trains.

Ex-governor Leland Stanford, president, and Mark Hopkins, treasurer of the Central Pacific, began the erection of mansions on the block between Powell, Pine, Mason and California streets, San Francisco, now known as "Nob Hill." Over 100 workmen were employed, and the railroad magnates were preparing to move from Sacramento to San Francisco. As was usual, Sacramento lost its millionaires after they made their wealth there.

Vasquez was tried for murder at San Jose the week of January 5, and on the 9th the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree with the death penalty. His capture and trial had cost the state $30,000. Vasquez had a brother in Monterey county who was trying to raise a fund by subscription to more of them. Chavez, a brother-in-law of Vasquez, sent word to the court at Monterey that he was willing to return Mexico to California with a load of cattle to free Vasquez. Vasquez was released January 11 by Judge Belton to be home March 1.

The chickens roosting in a tree in his yard had been appearing in such numbers that Sheriff B. K. Thaler of San Antonio, Calaveras county, concluded to catch the chicken thief at night. He learned that a Chinaman was the probable culprit. He called A. H. Coulter, a neighbor, along home to a convivial party, concluded to take a short cut to his home and went through the sheriff's premises. He stopped beneath the roosting tree and struck a match to light his cigar. Just then the sheriff took a shot at the supposed chicken thief. His bullet hit the judge's wrist, fracturing the bones and making a painful wound.

Giant Birthday Cake For Centennial Year

By EDWIN A. COX, II

It is reported that the newly appointed citizens committee, headed by Past Grand President Raymond D. Williamson, NSGW, to arrange for the Centennial Celebration of California's 100th birthday as a State to be held in San Francisco this year, is off to a splendid start.

A huge birthday cake commemorating the hundred years of California's Statehood has been erected in the San Francisco city hall plaza. Eighty feet in diameter and three and half stories in height, each layer of the cake has replicas of the periods in the State's history that were outstanding both before and after her entry into the sisterhood of states. This marvelous idea has brought the eyes of the world upon San Francisco and it is hoped that the many ideas that will be employed in the months to come will attract the imagination of all as did the birthday cake.

Plans are already underway for the giant celebration September 1, 1950, through September 10, commemorating the Centennial of California's admission into the Union, which promises to be one of the greatest celebrations this country has ever seen, second to none.

If the theme and color of our one hundred years of glorious statehood is carried out throughout the year the observance can't help but be a success.

As the eyes of the world are focused upon San Francisco this year, let's hope that the publicity will put the Orders of the Native Daughters and Native Sons in national prominence and keep them there. Let us not let up for one minute and let this get out of our reach.

The committee was appointed by Mayor Elmer E. Robinson, Member of California Parlor. He named Past Grand President Raymond D. Williamson as its chairman and Edwin J. Riegger, secretary. The sub-committee has been named and its members are already hard at work on the projects assigned to them.

The Grizzly Bear magazine will keep you informed of the progress and activities in this year of 1950, the year that we have all been waiting for.

Enter 1950 - Mighty Centennial Year

By PETER T. CONMY, Grand President
Native Sons of the Golden West

THE dawn of 1950 brings the one-hundredth year of California's membership in the sisterhood of states, which will be celebrated on September 9th. It marks, also, the seventy-fifth year of existence of the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West, which was organized on July 11, 1875. In addition it heralds the fiftieth year of the Past Presidents' Association, N.S.G.W., which organization dates from January 27, 1900.

The legislature of California authorized and created by the Constitution of 1849, commenced its sessions on December 20, 1849, and the month of January, 1850 found law-making well underway. On February 18th the original twenty-seven counties were established. Cities were incorporated thus legalizing local governments. The first incorporation was that of Sacramento, authorized on February 27th. San Diego, San Jose and Benicia followed on March 27th, Los Angeles on April 4th and San Francisco on April 15th. Freeholders' Charters were not possible in those days. But the emphasis during the year 1850 was on legislation.

The year 1900, however, was characterized by an internal economic growth. One great area of California heretofore undeveloped was being opened up. This was the Imperial Valley. It was on April 3, 1900 that George Chaffey and the California Development Company began the great project of converting a desert into one of the state's most productive agricultural centers. So successful was their work that by 1907 the legislature saw fit to detach the Imperial Valley from San Diego by the establishment of Imperial County.

Reviewing a hundred years by twenty-five year intervals the characteristic factor is progress. In 1850, the progress of the Gold Rush emigrants the founding of a civic policy, 1875, post civil war economic progress, wealth prosperity, the birth of a new organization, 1900, the first year of a new century, material and mechanical progress. 1925, the height of the Coolidge prosperity era. 1950, men and women still coming to California, growth, development, progress on all sides and in all sections of the state.

In addition to the Past Presidents' Association four new parlors of the Native Sons were instituted during 1900. These were Army and Navy No. 209, instituted in San Francisco on March 19th. This parlor consolidated with Mission No. 38 on November 11, 1914.

Dolores Parlor No. 208 was instituted in San Francisco on April 20, 1900. The first secretary of this parlor, Henry Francis Grady, has served as Dean of the College of Commerce of the University of California, Assistant Secretary of State, President of the American Steamship Lines, and Minister to Greece. He is the son of John H. Grady (1852-1931) who was Grand President 1882-83.

Greenwood Parlor No. 209 was instituted at Greenwood (Elk), Mendocino county on September 22, 1900 but has been non-existent for many years.

Berkeley Parlor No. 210 was instituted on October 1, 1900.

The following will celebrate their silver jubilees during 1950:

Stephen M. White No. 263 of San Pedro, instituted on February 25, 1925 as Sepulveda Parlor.

Glendale No. 264 instituted on December 6, 1925.

To each of these four parlors, of the 50 year and 25 year groups, we extend our congratulations on long and faithful performances for the good of the order.

Native Sons of California hail with satisfaction and pride and joy the one-hundredth year of California statehood, and the seventy-fifth anniversary of our foundation.

Double Springs Court House Proceedings of 1850

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

CALIFORNIA'S twenty-seven original counties were created by an act of the first California Legislature on February 18, 1850.

Calaveras was one of the original counties; its territory in 1850 was several times larger than at the present time. It later contributed to the territory of Amador, Mono and Alpine counties.

The first enactment by the State Legislature established the county seat at Pleasant Valley but it is said that it had never been located here. Later, the act was amended establishing the county seat at Double Springs.

Part of the old court house still stands and was recently marked on the highway between Valley Springs and San Andreas by the State Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, Historical Landmark No. 264. The marker reads: "Double Springs founded February 18, 1850, became county seat of Calaveras county old court house, said to be constructed of lumber brought from China, is still standing, but not on the original site."

The proceedings of the Court of Sessions was contributed by J. A. Smith of Calaveras county for the Calaveras Weekly sometime ago. It states in part: "Prior to the establishment of Boards of Supervisors in the several counties of this state the business of the county, now handled by the Supervisors, was vested in the Court of Sessions, composed of the County Judge and two Justices of the Peace, designated Associate Justices of said court. Regular meetings were held quarterly and special meetings when required.

William Fowle Smith, the first County Judge, ordered the first County Clerk, L. A. Collier, to give public notice that the first term of the Court of Sessions for Calaveras county would be held at the county seat (Double Springs) on June 10, 1850.

The clerk gave notice at Mokelumne Hill, Murphy's New Diggings and the Double Springs by posting written notices at each of said places in Calaveras county.

On June 10th, 1850, the first term of the Court of Sessions was held at Double Springs, there being present Hon. William Fowle Smith, County Judge and George H. Wyat and William L. Dudley, Associate Justices.

Wm. L. Martin and Aristide L. Pench were granted the right to maintain a ferry across the Mokelumne river at Middle Bar and the rates fixed.

It was ordered that a poll tax of $5 be levied upon each male inhabitant of the county between the ages of 21 and 50 years, and tax of fifty cents upon each one hundred dollars of taxable property. (This was later amended to twenty-five cents.)

AUGUST 1850 TERM OF COURT OF SESSIONS

The second term of the Court of Sessions was held at the county seat beginning August 12th, 1850. Present were Hon. William Fowle Smith, Judge and George H. Wyat and Wm. L. Dudley, Associate Justices, John Hanson, Sheriff, James Broome Smith, County Attorney and L. A. Collier, clerk.

The Sheriff was ordered to summon 12 good and lawful men to act as jurors, and the following named persons were summoned into court: Geo. H. Davis, Stephen Shove, Nicholas Starke, Sylvester Cummings, John Winslow, Joseph Ashby, Simeon Anthony, Robert Crook, Oliver French, F. M. Tate, George Brightman and C. M. Pease.

They were sworn as jurors and proceeded to hear the case of People v. Alexander A. McElroy, charged with assault and battery. The court set the trial down for the afternoon.

A petition filed by Leonard T. Bill for right to maintain a ferry across the Mokelumne river at Winter's Bar. Objection was filed by William H. Winter and the hearing set for the following day.

John W. Robinson and Stephen Mead were granted the right to operate a ferry across the Stanislado river at a point known as Robinson's Ferry and rates fixed.

In the afternoon the trial of People v. McElroy was had. The Court appointed James I. Trask, Esq. counsel for the defendant. The jury found the defendant guilty of assault and

Death Valley Fete Is Huge Success

A huge crowd, many times larger than had been anticipated, attended the Death Valley Centennial of the Jayhawker Trek, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 2-3-4. One observer reports that he spent hours in a bumper-to-bumper line, inching along the one highway that leads to Desolation Canyon where the pageant was held Saturday afternoon. The '49er pageant and celebration was planned jointly by the California Centennials Commission and the Death Valley '49ers, incorporated, a non-profit organization sponsored by the supervisors of Inyo, Kern, San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties.

So successful was the celebration that many California newspapers and interested parties are urging that the event be made an annual affair. It is pointed out, that while the California Centennials Commission, of course, has no interest beyond this year's pageant, the '49ers corporation could make plans for an annual presentation of this historical drama in the outdoor setting of Desolation Canyon. Although long scheduled affairs held many Native Sons and Daughters in Los Angeles county, the Natives were in there working for the success of the Centennial event as usual.

Among Natives taking part in the festivities were Governor Earl Warren of Fruitvale Parlor, President Joseph R. Knowland, chairman of the California Centennials Commission, Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz of Los Angeles county, member of Santa Monica Bay Parlor and Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer, who represented Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy. The Grizzly Bear magazine was represented by Photographer M. D. Bradshaw.

Shirley Roden, Girl of the Golden West for 1950, together with her court that graced the Native Sons and Daughters float in the Tournament of Roses New Year's Parade January 2 at Pasadena. The gracious and lovely queen was greeted by almost a million people who lined the parade route. Untold millions more saw the beautiful float over television. Lewis Edwards, representative of the Tournament of Roses and one of the Native Sons and Daughters float committee; Nancy Sullivan, San Francisco, district 1.—O'Brien photo.

Girl of The Golden West Contest Closes

Shirley Roden of district 5, was named Girl of the Golden West for 1950 in the state-wide contest conducted by the Native Sons and Native Daughters Tournament of Roses Float Committee, and, with her court, graced the beautiful float of the Native Sons and Daughters at the world-renowned Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena on January 2nd. Impressive ceremonies announcing the winner were a highlight of the Grand Presidents' Ball at the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles, on Saturday evening, December 3, attended by some 700 Native Sons and Daughters, together with their guests.

The winner was sponsored by Los Ranchos Parlor, NSGW, Ontario and Arrowhead Parlor, NSGW, San Bernardino. Other district winners, who made up the queen's court on the float, receiving the title of California Girls for 1950, were: Carolyn Crane, District No. 2, sponsored by Colusa Parlor No. 69, NSGW; Janet Cubbison, district No. 4, sponsored by Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW; Teri Reid, district No. 3, sponsored by Placerita Parlor No. 277, NDGW, Van Nuys, and Nancy Sullivan, district No. 1, sponsored by Keith Parlor No. 137, NDGW, San Francisco.

Members of the committee of judges in the final contest naming the Girl of the Golden West for 1950, were: Sally Forest, M.G.M. Starlet, chairman; Darrel Hickman, M.G.M. motion picture star and Bud Westmore, one of the world's foremost makeup artists.

Grand President Henrietta Toothaker, Native Daughters of the Golden West and Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy, Native Sons of the Golden West, participated in the impressive ceremony at the Biltmore hotel. Grand President Henrietta Toothaker read the certificate proclaiming the Girl of the Golden West for 1950, while Grand President Conmy read the proclamation naming the four California Girls for 1950, who were to make up her court and crowned Shirley Roden as Girl of the Golden West for 1950.

Drummond J. McCunn, president of the Tournament of Roses, in a brief speech presented a beautiful bouquet of red rose buds to the queen. Comment was heard on every side that, though there could be only one Girl of the Golden West for 1950, her court could not have been a more beautiful selection of California Girls for 1950.

The chairmen of the five parlors sponsoring the winners, upon presenting their candidates at the James Ritchey residence in Pasadena at 5 a.m., January 2, in time for the Tournament of Roses parade, were presented with a pair of grand stand tickets for the affair. In addition each received two of the coveted ducats for the famous Rose Bowl game in the afternoon.

The name of the Native Sons and Daughters float in the Tournament of Roses was "Abundance." On each side in flowers appeared "Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West." The float was built by the same contractor who constructed the prize winner of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West for the 1948 Tournament of Roses parade. Its cost was $2800, although normally a float of this caliber would have cost $3200. The saving was due to the contractor's wish to see the Native Sons and Daughters project continued in the Tournament of Roses. Chairman Jim Ritchey is high in his praise for the cooperation received from the float builder. Pictures of the float will appear in an early issue of the Grizzly Bear.

Jim Ritchey, your state chairman, wishes to thank his committee in behalf of both the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, for their ceaseless effort to make the Girl of the Golden West contest and float project a success. These hard workers were: Joseph V. Phelps, Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW and Frances Vail, Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW, coordinating chairmen; Howard J. Butner, Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW, secretary-treasurer.

Also, thanks is given to the Login Printing Company of Pasadena for their contribution of the Award Certificates that were presented to the five state winners.

A vote of thanks also goes to the Pasadena Tournament of Roses and their president Drummond J. McCunn, for his participation in the crowning ceremony and the bouquet of beautiful roses he presented to the Girl of the Golden West for 1950.

Chairman Ritchey's appreciation is also expressed to those popular judges who gave of their valuable time to judge the five girls and to participate in the ceremony, Sally Forrest and Darrel Hickman, M.G.M. stars and Bud Westmore, famous make-up artist.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Grand Presidents' Ball Attended By 700 Natives

By ROSEMARY CONNOR

The Los Angeles County Native Sons and Daughters Grand Presidents' Gold Centennial Ball for 1950 is a memory, but one that will linger happily for those who attended. Over 600 local Natives donned semi-formal attire and flocked to the Biltmore ballroom on Saturday evening, December 3, 1949 where this second annual event to honor the leaders of the two orders, held sway from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

The Grand Officers of both orders were well represented in the persons of Grand President, Miss Henrietta Toothaker, of Woodland, Grand Vice President, Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, of Los Angeles, Grand Secretary, Mrs. Sula R. Thaler, of Oakland, Grand Trustee, Phyllis V. Hirst, of Glendale and Mr. Hirst, Grand Organist, Senaida Sullivan, of Beverly Hills, and Mr. Sullivan, Past Grand President, Grace S. Stoerner, of Los Angeles, Past Grand President Ann Theusen of San Francisco, Past Grand President, Doris Treat Daley, of San Andreas and Mr. Daley, Past Grand President, Mary B. Noerenberg of Los Angeles and Mr. Noerenberg; Grand President Peter T. Conmy of Oakland and Mrs. Conmy; Grand Trustee Lewis Geigerich, of San Francisco, Grand Secretary, John T. Regan, of San Francisco; Grand Trustee, David W. Stuart of San Bernardino and Mrs. Stuart; Grand Trustee, Alfred P. Peracca of Pasadena, and Mrs. Peracca, Grand Outside Sentinel, Walter L. Brandt of Inglewood, and Mrs. Brandt, Grand Historian Emmet Joy of San Francisco.

The committee in charge of the ball was headed by Miss Rosemary Connor, President of Beverly Hills Parlor and Mr. C. Harry Davis Past President, of Huntington Park Parlor, as co-chairmen. Their committee included: Jack C. Williams of University Parlor, Carl R. Martin of University Parlor, Lila Stevenson of La Tijera Parlor, Florence Grass of La Brea Parlor, Juanita Porter of Los Angeles Parlor, and John B. Schmolle of Ramona Parlor.

Miss Toothaker was regal indeed in a floor-length dinner gown of red velvet fashioned in princess style and featuring wrist length sleeves. She wore a chattruse orchid at her wrist and another adorned her hair. Rhinestone jewelry completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Conmy was charming in peacock blue with full skirt and square neckline. Her costume was completed by rhinestone choker and matching bracelet. She wore a large purple orchid.

One of the highlights of the evening was the crowning of the "Girl of the Golden West for 1950" and the proclamation of the "California Girls for 1950" by the two Grand Presidents.

A grand march at eleven o'clock found Miss Toothaker, Grand Trustee Lewis Geigerich, Mrs. Peter T. Conmy and Dr. Conmy in the front rank.

Confidentially, our Henrietta seemed to be the Belle of the Ball by far. They were standing in line for a dance with her and she cut quite a graceful figure on the ballroom floor as she danced every single dance. Not even once for an in-between breather was she given.

The music for the evening was furnished by Bill Donohue and his band.

Everyone seemed to have a gala evening and the local Natives are already anticipating next year's event.

Natives Present Set Of Flags To Judge Cullinan

The San Francisco city hall courtroom of Municipal Judge Eustace Cullinan, Jr., has a new set of silk flags presented by the Native Sons of the Golden West. The flags, one of the Stars and Stripes the other, a California Bear flag, were presented to the judge last month by Stanford Parlor No. 76, NSGW, of which Judge Cullinan has been a member for a number of years.

Designed to adorn the judge's bench, the flags are three feet high, attached to staffs mounted on bases of carved wood imported from Europe and supporting the figure of a California Grizzly bear. Joseph I. McNamara, past president of Stanford Parlor and present district deputy, presided as master of ceremonies, making the formal presentation to Judge Cullinan.

Native Sons Institute New Barstow Parlor

Calico Parlor No. 309, Native Sons of the Golden West, was instituted Monday evening, December 5, by Grand President Peter T. Conmy and his corps of Grand Officers at Barstow, San Bernardino county. This marks an important milestone in the Order, now giving the great county of San Bernardino two Native Son parlors.

The new parlor derives its name from the ghost town of Calico, a short distance northeast of Barstow, once the center of intense mining activity on the Mojave desert.

Meetings of the new parlor will be held on Monday nights. However, the Grizzly Bear did not have the name and address of the meeting hall as we went to press.

A great deal of credit must go to SDDGP Roy B. Finkle of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, for his untiring work on this fine new parlor. He was ably assisted by Grand Trustee David W. Stuart, Judge Donald E. Van Loven and John Irwin.

Television Set Honors Memory of William James

Recently the honorable Mayor of the City of San Francisco, Elmer E. Robinson, on behalf of Mrs. Catherine James, presented to the Grizzly Bear Club in memory of her late husband William H. James, a magnificent $1100 television set. It was accepted by Frank M. Buckley, president of the Grizzly Bear club. It was Mrs. James' wish to give to the club and to the Native Sons of the Golden West, which was so dear to the heart of Brother James, something that would be of use and a fitting tribute to his memory. The splendid set is proving a major attraction at the Grizzly Bear club.

Notice

Los Angeles Past Presidents' Assembly No. 4 is now organized and underway. Our initiatory team is second to none and is available to all Los Angeles County Parlors at any time. All Parlors must feel free to call upon the Past Presidents Assembly to give them assistance when ever necessary.

All Past Presidents are eligible and we would appreciate their membership. Address all enquiries to: W. E. Zuckweiler, Recording Secretary, 1344 East Compton Blvd., Compton 3, California.

ATHLETICS

The three San Francisco Native Sons bowling leagues having just finished the thirteenth week of bowling, are well bunched and are doing a great job of advertising the Order. The league is entering ten teams in the city tournament in February which is the biggest tournament held in San Francisco each year and we hope to have several teams well up in the prize money.

The present standing of the different divisions is as follows:

Monday Night, 7:00 P. M.

Guadalupe Dons	20-13
Guadalupe Bronco	19-14
Pacific	16-17
California Cubs	15-18
Twin Peaks Calv.	15-18
Twin Peaks Grizzly	14-19

Monday Night 9:00 P. M.

Guadalupe Indians	23-10
Guadalupe Vaqueros	17-16
Utopia	17-16
El Carmelo	16-17
National	15-18
Dolores	11-22

Wednesday Night Division

Castro Bears	23-10

The Wednesday night division is the fastest league of the three and are putting up a real fight. Any one of the first six teams have a good chance of coming out on top.

On Saturday night, December 10, Sacramento Parlor is sending two teams down to San Francisco, to take on Guadalupe Parlor and Castro Parlor in a series of games. This will be the start of several inter parlor matches that will be bowled this winter.—E. W. Perry, NSGW Bowling Chairman.

Folk Dancing Classes Started By Two Parlors

Portola Parlor, NDGW and Pacific Parlor, NSGW, San Francisco, have started a class in folk dancing, which from all accounts is growing by leaps and bounds. It is reported that "just like Grant took Richmond" these two parlors are taking the pulse of members of both Orders. It is truly something that the members have been waiting to come along.

Classes are held on every Thursday evening. Recently the two parlors put on an exhibition of this type of lively dancing at the Grizzly Bear club and a lot of other parlors expressed a desire to begin similar classes for their membership.

It has been a long time since we have read or heard anything about the wearing of the Native Son lapel button. Everyone should wear one of these beautiful emblems of our order. In these days of world strife and cold war what more fitting privilege is there than that of wearing of the badge of a Native Son of the Golden West, one of the truly great patriotic fraternal organizations of the United States.

New Parlor Instituted By Native Daughters

Cien Anos (100 years) is the name of the new parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West instituted Thursday evening, December 1, by Grand President Henrietta Toothaker and her corps of Grand Officers, at Norwalk, Los Angeles county. Although foggy weather kept many away, good delegations from many southland Native Daughter parlors were in attendance. Meeting dates, name and address of the meeting hall had not been obtained by the Grizzly as it went to press. The magazine hopes to be able to obtain them, together with the names of the charter officers in time for the next issue.

Fruitvale Native Daughters Celebrate 40th Anniversary

On December 6, 1909, Fruitvale Parlor No. 177, NDGW, was instituted with 21 members. Forty years later on December 6, 1949, 63 members, including six charter members, enjoyed a 40th Anniversary dinner celebration at a local restaurant in Oakland.

Charter members attending the affair were Mrs. Agnes M. Grant of Chico, first past president; Mrs. Gertrude Rossi of Guerneville and Miss May Barthold, presidents who served in 1912; Mrs. Cora I. Clough of Hayward, president in 1913; Nell Crowley, president in 1916 and still active in the parlor, having served many years as treasurer and Mrs. Lena Gill. These charter members were guests of honor at the birthday party.

Mrs. Josephine Palmer, parlor president and Mrs. Mae Leffell of Piedmont Parlor No. 87, deputy grand president, were also guests of honor. Two charter members were unable to attend, Mrs. Theresa Randall, who was first president of Fruitvale Parlor and Mrs. Amelia Blackman.

A huge anniversary cake graced the main table with lighted red candles and candy baskets carrying out the Ruby celebration. General arrangements for the affair were under the direction of Jane Lange and all parlor officers.

Sonoma County Parlors Have District Luncheon

A district luncheon of Sonoma county Parlors, NDGW, was held recently at the Topaz room, Santa Rosa. The luncheon was attended by members from the five Sonoma county parlors: Cotati, Petaluma, Sebastopol, Sonoma and Santa Rosa. Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Grand President and guest of honor gave an address on the restoration of California Missions.

On behalf of Sonoma County parlors, Mrs. Ann Beach, SDD of Sonoma county, presented Miss Toothaker with an oil painting of Sonoma Mission by a local artist. Phillip Becklund, Sonoma county probation officer, was the guest speaker. In addition to Miss Toothaker other Grand officers who attended the affair were: Grand Trustee Ruth Trousdale and Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks from San Francisco, Grand Trustee Doris Gerrish of Elk Grove and deputies of Sonoma county.

San Francisco County Deputies Hold Breakfast

San Francisco county deputies, NDGW, hosted their annual breakfast Sunday, December 11, at the Native Daughters home, 555 Baker Street, San Francisco. This year's breakfast, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Helen Castle, honored Mrs. Grace E. Carpenter, much beloved manager of the home.

The breakfast was attended by presidents and representatives of the 26 San Francisco Native Daughter parlors. Salute to the Flag was led by Grand Marshal Jewel McSweeney, invocation by Past Grand President Loretta Cameron, welcoming address by Dr. Mariana Bertola, Past Grand President and chairman of the home committee. Grand Trustee Leslye A. Hicks paid tribute to Past Grand President Mary E. Bell, who was recently called to the Grand Parlor on High.

Principal address was by Past Grand President Raymond D. Williamson, NSGW, chairman of the San Francisco Committee for the 1950 Centennial celebration.

The assemblage was charmed by the songs of Irene Broulett and the lovely music of Frances Simas, Past Grand Organist. Miss Margaret A. Barrett, SDDGP, spoke for all her deputies in her closing remarks.

The combined parlors of Conchita No. 294, Newport Beach and Silver Sands No. 286 of Huntington Beach NDGW were honored by the official visit of the Grand President Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland Parlor No. 90, with a very impressive ceremony in Huntington Beach Memorial hall, early in December.

Proceeding the official visit officers and members of both parlors honored the Grand President and other Grand Officers with a dinner held at the Huntington Beach inn earlier in the evening.

President Bea Lace from Conchita parlor presided over the opening ceremonies, escort work, balloting and closing ceremonies. President Gwendolyn Talbert from Silver Sands presided over the initiation ceremonies. The Grand President was presented with a lovely orchid from both parlors and also was given a lovely bouquet of yellow roses from SDGP Genevieve Hiskey and DGP Irene Wilson and Mary Kramer. Many Grand Officers were in attendance.

Members of Fruitvale Junior Unit No. 22, NDGW, Oakland held a glamour party on November 26. The girls were instructed in the art of proper make-up and care of the skin by Mrs. Marie Jones and her assistants from the Merle Norman Cosmetic Salon. Kathleen Inkster, Shirley Martin and Joan Verona were the lucky girls selected for facials, while the other members looked on. Thirty-seven members attended the party and each received a gift kit of Merle Norman Cosmetics.

Directory Corrections

The following corrections have been sent to us by parlor secretaries:

Paradise Parlor No. 282, NSGW, Huntington Beach, meets second and fourth Tuesdays at Recreation Center, 1706 Orange Avenue. Please note change in meeting nights as well as meeting hall.

Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW, Anaheim, having lost its meeting hall, is meeting the second Tuesday at the Knights of Columbus hall, 213½ East Center street, until new quarters are secured.

Please make this change in your Native Daughter directory:

Tierra del Rey, No. 300, NDGW, Hermosa Beach—Meets 2nd and 4th Mondays, Women's club house. Eve Neuhart, Rec. Sec., 6609 Esplanade, Playa del Rey.

Annual Christmas party of Yerba Buena Parlor No. 273, NDGW, San Francisco, was also the occasion of the tenth birthday of the parlor. It was celebrated with a luncheon at the Sir Francis Drake hotel, December 14. Mrs. Harmon D. Skillin was the chairman, assisted by Mrs. Vernon R. Durst.

Mrs. James Prince Livingston of Yerba Buena Parlor has been appointed to serve on the Native Daughters Home committee by Grand President Henrietta Toothaker.

The October 5th meeting of Ontario Parlor No. 251, NDGW was a very sad one. The charter was draped for its youngest member Mary Allen, of Lomita Drive, Alta Loma. Mary was killed October 2nd in the railroad crossing crash of a March Field bus. She had been one of the hostesses who had entertained a group of March Field soldiers with a beach picnic for the day. Seventeen were killed in the crash. Her sister, Loretta, is a loyal member and another sister, Evelyn, was a member until she moved away.

Mary was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory S. Allen. Her parents have asked permission to use the NDGW insignia inscribed on her head-stone.

Mary would have been 17 on December 25th. She was an enthusiastic member. She had been a Girl Scout all her life and was very much interested in sports. She will be deeply missed by her many friends.

BRANICE PEGUILLAN
To Genevieve Parlor No. 132,
Native Daughters of the Golden West.
Your Committee on Resolutions sadly reports the loss of our beloved charter member and former recording secretary, Branice Peguillan, who passed on to the Heavenly Parlor on high October 23, 1949.
Whereas: The precious ties of love, friendship and fraternity once again have been suddenly severed and our hearts are filled with sorrow in the loss of our esteemed friend, Branice Peguillan.
Whereas: In God's living providence we have been asked to give up one of earth's rarest gifts. This sudden breaking of golden threads is only another of many mysteries that surround us, but we are assured that for each mystery there is a key and that sometime we will understand.
It is resolved: That we extend to her devoted friend, Catherine Cotter, our sincere sympathy. May she find much comfort in knowing the world was made better by her having lived in it, and the spirit of kindness, she exemplified in her daily walk of life, will stand as a monument time cannot erase.
*Had she not loved so kindly,
Had we not loved so dearly,
Never had we met, nor parted,
We would not have been so broken hearted.*
Be it further resolved: That copies of this solution be sent to the Grizzly Bear magazine and as an expression of love be placed upon the minutes of this meeting and our charter be draped for a period of thirty days.

Respectfully submitted,
MAY POWERS,
NORA SCHEFLIN,
HANNAH TOOHIG,

Arrowhead Parlor No. 100, San Bernardino, held its annual Thanksgiving dinner on Wednesday evening, November 16, a crowd of over 200 turning out to make the affair a success. A great deal of credit must go to Chairman Burton Meyers and his wife who spent so much time in preparing the fine meal and evening's program.

On account of fire in the parlor's meeting hall, Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 had to hold their December 8 meeting at the office of Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca. It is expected that the parlor's regular meeting hall will again be available for the February meeting, but announcement will be made at a later date.

Santa Ana Parlor No. 265 held its annual Christmas dinner, Sunday, December 18, at the Community Center club house.

Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 was host Friday evening, December 2, to a Los Angeles county initiation with Grand Officers, headed by Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy, making up the initiatory team. The ceremonies were preceded by a dinner honoring the Grand Officers at the Macayo restaurant.

One of the largest events of the season was the 18th annual lobster feed of Santa Monica Bay Parlor held in the Native Sons hall on Tuesday evening, December 13. Native Sons from all over the southland attended the affair, although attendance from members in the citrus belt was somewhat cut down due Native Sons among the orange growers having put in three nights in fighting Jack Frost.

Huntington Park Parlor received a good deal of publicity for their entry in the Santa Claus Parade of that city late in November.

Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca paid his official visit to Stephen M. White Parlor, San Pedro, Friday evening, December 16.

A large delegation from Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 attended a recent meeting of San Luis Rey Parlor, Oceanside, upon the occasion of the official visit of Grand Trustee David W. Stuart. Talks on Native Sonism were given by Judge Donald E. Van Luven, SDDGP Roy B. Finkle of Arrowhead Parlor and SDDGP James Willets of San Diego Parlor.

Responsible for the success of the big event this year were SDD Margaret Barrett and SDD William Keene.

James Lick Celebrates 28th Anniversary

James Lick Parlor No. 220, NDGW, San Francisco, celebrated its twenty-eighth birthday, recently with a banquet held in Mount Diablo hall in the Native Sons building. The hall was beautifully decorated with the colors of the Order and with the American and Bear flags at either side of the Presidents station, with the Parlors lovely blue and gold banner standing back between the flags.

The invocation was read by charter member Margaret Kane. A few words of welcome by Parlor president Jaredna Johnson, then dinner was served. Over the coffee cups, the president presented the parlors deputy grand president Florence Conklin of Presidio Parlor. The five charter members present were then introduced with regrets that the others were unable to attend. SPP Tillie Leemann presented fifty-year pins to Josie Schiestel and Mary Costello.

The surprise of the evening was when President Jaredna handed Charter Member Mabel McGown the January, 1922 Grizzly Bear magazine and asked her to read the account of James Lick parlor's institution. A large group of members of San Francisco parlor No. 261 NDGW were given a big hand when presented by their Deputy Grand President Jaredna Johnson. Their president Alice Maas, responded.

Editor's Note: The news item below appeared in the California press under date line of December 20, 1949. Following it is a copy of the letter received in reply to the letter of commendation referred to in the news dispatch.

The Americanism Committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West today congratulated in a letter the Regents of the University of California for their action in discharging Professor Irving David Fox, reportedly a self-admitted Communist.

Eldred L. Meyer, Chairman of the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, said in part: "The good citizens of California have long been disturbed by the knowledge that some of the teachers at the State Universities supported by taxpayers' money, have been giving aid and comfort to the Soviets whose aim is to destroy free and liberal institutions and the democracies of the world. This should prove to be a lesson for those teachers who are giving lip service and promoting foreign ideologies which are inimical to the American way of life, and should hearten the teachers who are striving to inculcate the best American traditions in their students; many of whom have feared that at times they have been in the minority.

California will gain much by this action announcing to the world that Communists will not be tolerated within the faculty of any State University."

ELDRED L. MEYER, Chairman,
Americanism Committee.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS:

Seth Millington, Past Grand President; Waldo F. Postel, Stanford No. 76; Chester F. Cannon, Sacramento No. 3; Thomas P. White, Ramona No. 109; Benjamin C. Los Angeles 13, California.

Dear Mr. Meyer:

On behalf of the Board of Regents of the University of California I want to thank you for your letter commending our action in dismissing a faculty member adjudged to be unworthy of the loyalty standards required by the University of California.

It is encouraging to have action of the character contained in your good letter. The public at large—and, especially such patriotic organizations as the Native Sons of the Golden West—must cooperate in support of action against subversive forces that are bent on infiltration into all educational institution.

Sincerely,

Although the Pasadena Tournament of Roses is over we believe that Native Sons and Daughters throughout the State, who were not privileged to see the Pasadena classic, will be interested in seeing the beautiful float entered by the two Orders. This splendid entry, which brought credit and honor to Natives everywhere, took first place in the Fraternal division.

It is noteworthy that this year there were entries in the "Girl of the Golden West" contest from all parts of the State and that all sections were ably represented in the lovely court of girls who appeared on the float with the "Girl of the Golden West," Shirley Roden of Ontario.

This year's contest for the "Girl of the Golden West" attracted state-wide attention, resulting in hundreds of inches of publicity for both Orders in both metropolitan and weekly papers.

1948-1949-1950

This historically themed exhibit was entered by Orange County in last year's National Orange Show at San Bernardino. This year's edition, from March 9 through 19, will have the motif, "Once Upon a Time Land," recalling the tales dear to the heart of every child. Native Sons and Daughters will have an opportunity to view this famous show during the 11-day run at a date to be announced later. Details for Native Sons and Daughters Day at the National Orange Show are worked out by Judge Donald E. Van Luven and Grand Trustee David W. Stuart.

National Orange Show Dates Are Announced

A brand new post-war setting will be unveiled for San Bernardino's thirty-fifth National Orange Show which will open March 9. It will continue through March 19.

As has been the custom in the past, one day during the 11-day run will be devoted to honoring Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. This phase will be directed by Donald E. Van Luven, assisted by Grand Trustee David Stuart.

They are now working out a special program for the event, the date of which will be announced later.

One of California's oldest fairs, the orange show this year for the first time will be presented entirely in buildings erected since the close of the war.

Latest addition is a $123,800 exhibit building which will house the model orange packing plant, the flower show, art exhibit and by-products displays, as well as some of the beautiful feature exhibits which are the high point of the annual exposition. It will in part replace the display space lost when the old exhibit structure burned during the summer.

Added space for the color-packed, fruit and feature displays will be provided in Swing auditorium which was completed for last year's show. Its stage will again be the center for the twice-daily entertainment programs that are always a feature.

The rapidity with which display space and grounds have been enlarged give added emphasis to the fairy-land atmosphere of the 1950 edition. The theme will be "Once Upon a Time Land," and characters familiar to every child will be reproduced on the fruit and feature displays.

Legislature Centennial Is Held At San Jose

On December 15, 16, and 17, 1949, a celebration of the Centennial of the meeting of the first Legislature and the inauguration of the First Governor in the First Capital of the State of California at San Jose, was held there.

The ceremonies were opened on December 15 at the City Hall Plaza, where there was erected a replica of the first state house, the point of construction being immediately opposite the site of the original first capitol on Market street. This replica is the same dimension as the original and was furnished as near as possible like the original and historical exhibits were on display in rooms in the building.

Among those officiating at the dedicatory ceremonies were former Grand Trustee, John B. Burnett, great grand-son of the first governor; William S. Burke, Supervising District Deputy Grand President for Santa Clara county and Honorable Herbert C. Jones, former State Senator from Santa Clara county. Also City Historian, Clyde Arbuckle, of Observatory Parlor No. 177. John M. Burnett, who is a member of San Jose Parlor No. 22, was the speaker of the day and Senator Jones, who was M.C., and Mr. Arbuckle also spoke on "The Legislature of 1000 drinks." John Burnett's subject was "San Jose's Place in California History."

During the three days, a pageant was held in the municipal auditorium, at which many Native Sons and Daughters took part.

At the last showing of the pageant on Saturday evening, Governor and Mrs. Earl Warren were among the distinguished officials. Present also were Hon. Joseph R. Knowland and Mrs. Knowland, and also as honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Boyd. Mr. Boyd is better known as Hop-along Cassidy.

Each person hoping to get a good seat from which to watch in this five and a half mile theatre along Colorado Blvd., one of the greatest shows on earth soon to be presented. The 61st Tournament of Roses.

A peek into the huge decorating tents at this time of morning finds thousands of workers trickling homeward after two days and nights of pasting on flowers. A few contractors with difficult floral feats to finish are working feverishly with their crews against time to complete their floral pictures.

From out of one large tent comes a simple, yet beautiful float. It is the State of California in a light copper colored mums, angling up into a golden sun, as a back drop. The edges of the state being in deep red cysanthemums resting on a pedestal of white mums, to give the state a third dimension. Completely surrounding the state a border of red rose buds set among maiden-hair ferns. The apron around the float being of deep red mums which make the white letters of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West stand out clear and sharp. Imposed upon the state surface is a large gold pan, several oil derricks, a mission and a cluster of fruit.

At 4:00 A.M. the last float decorators are beginning to relax; they step back more often to study their creation with a pleasant satisfaction. "Our American Heritage" in flowers is nearly ready.

Now the city comes to life with a bang. Alarm clocks can be heard and lights begin to flash on in a ceaseless continuity. The crowd along Colorado Boulevards' blue line, the honor line which can not be passed, is extending like a ribbon five and a half miles already. The tempo of inbound traffic has stepped up to become a constant roar.

At 7:00 A.M. "The Girl of the Golden West" and her court are delivered by the Float Committee to our float, Abundance. Just in time to be assisted onto the float as the judging takes place. Each girl on the float is presented with a beautiful bouquet of red rose buds tied together with a large red satin ribbon and bow. Now photographers are doing their act, the Tournament Officials passing from one float to another for last minute checks. As the girls wait they are made as comfortable as possible. Their hot water bottles are refilled, coffee is secured from some nearby residence.

At 8:00 A.M. the Judges have decided upon the winners. The contractors stand close to hear those words that will mean greater prestige for them, "first prize." And this is what our contractor Project Associates, heard. This year against considerable competition that makes our award more desirable.

9:15 A. M. The trumpet just sounded and without further add the big show starts to move. The crowd becomes momentarily tense with excitement. You seem to feel strained for a short time with a feeling of expectancy. The bands begin to play. Television and motion picture cameras go into action with narrators straining for suitable adjectives to express their feeling and the beautiful spectacle they are attempting to put over to an International as well as National unseen audience. Photographers and motion picture men wind in and out along the line of parade shooting pictures.

Not until the mind can conceive that the millions of flowers have been individually placed on all of the moving floral tapestries that make up the "Our American Heritage," in flowers can you feel that deep appreciation and thrill from the effort it must take. Seventy-two floral floats, interspersed with bands, equestrian units and pretty girls. Thrill after thrill. Imagination, ideas expressed in flowers some serious, humorous, exotic and other straight out of fairyland.

11:00 A. M. As I look down from the reviewing stand I see a float in the fifth division; not too large, not very complicated with detail and not covered with the most expensive flowers. Its theme is "Abundance." The colors stand out with sharp contrast. Simple lines, and with the "Girl of the Golden West" and her court adding their grace and beauty the theme could not have been a better one. It seems to depict very clearly the theme of the parade. As I heard the applause and comment I know that every Native Son and Native Daughter watching must feel proud, to again be a part of such a great show. Again we all did a job. Not half way but all the way. Ask your own conscience, was my small contribution worth it?

Getting our Orders name in approximately 4 million periodicals and papers and books, with an audience of over a million and a half watching the actual parade; 750,000 that viewed the float after the parade, televised and broadcast the nation and even some of the European Nations; with all of the contest publicity prior to the float showing. You answer it.

John A. Corotto Called To Grand Parlor On High

John A. Corotto, 70, of San Jose, Grand Treasurer Emeritus, Native Sons of the Golden West, was called to the Grand Parlor on High Tuesday, January 17. Grand Treasurer of the Native Sons of the Golden West for many years, he retired from that high and responsible position two years ago. He was retiring in his devotion to his Native State and his passing brings sorrow to the hearts of all members of both Native Sons and Daughters throughout the State.

He was a boyhood friend of A. P. Giannini, founder of the Bank of America, and one of the original stockholders of that bank, when it was known as the Bank of Italy.

Funeral services, attended by Grand Officers and members of both Orders were held in San Jose Thursday, January 19.

Chico Preparing For Grand Parlor Session

By PAUL L. ROBERTS

The Grand Parlor Convention, Native Sons will be held in Chico, May 15 to 18, inclusive, with John Bidwell Parlor, No. 292, as the host and with Argonaut Parlor, No. 8, in nearby Oroville, lending assistance.

Supervising Deputy Grand President William H. Metzger, who is serving as general chairman for this, the Centennial Convention, 100 years of statehood for California, reports that plans for the convention and entertainment of the delegates, their families and friends are well advanced.

With so much to see, both new and of pioneer nature in Chico and nearby territory, Metzger points out that delegates and friends may find it worthwhile to come in advance or stay over after the convention to visit such points of interest as the 2,300-acre Bidwell Park, third largest city-owned natural park in the United States; the Sir Joseph Hooker Oak, largest in the world; Richardson Mineral Springs, nearby mining camps including Helltown, Dog Town, Bidwell Bar, the Humboldt Road, Deer Creek and Mineral; and the Feather River Canyon, to mention a few.

Chico has long held a reputation as a convention city and has ample facilities for housing, with numerous hotels, motels, auto camps as well as a fine modern six-story hotel only a few miles out at Richardson Springs.

Bidwell Park, nine miles long, with numerous swimming pools, bath houses, picnic grounds, golf links, playgrounds, all free, draws thousands of visitors and will be at its best in May.

Chico is the home of the first U. S. Plant Introduction Gardens and also the Chico State College, the second state normal school built in California, and is western headquarters for the Diamond Match Company with match factory, lumbering and kindred building supplies.

Chico is the "Almond Capital" of the United States, with rice the second major crop, with stockraising, grain, fruit of all kinds, row crops, melons, berries and walnuts in profusion. Oranges, grapefruit and lemons grow in abundance at nearby Oroville and at Hamilton City where the Mills Orchards Company alone ships over 400 carloads annually from one ranch.

Chico was founded by General John Bidwell, the organizer of the first overland emigrant wagon train to California in 1841. After serving General Johann A. Sutter at New Helvetia for a few years, Bidwell followed the gold rush in 1848 and returned from Bidwell Bar in less than one year with enough gold to purchase a 22,205-acre Spanish grant, stock and improvements for $33,000 and with an iron chest of gold left over with which he developed his holdings into one of the finest ranches in California. This pioneer farm included over 1,800 acres of fruit trees, a cannery, dry yards, vinegar works, flour mill, a large dairy, bee ranch, grain, vegetables and thousands of head of stock.

In 1860, he purchased a townsite from the Edward de Farwell Grant adjoining his Bidwell Rancho and laid out the city of Chico. Always generous and encouraging progress and education, Bidwell donated the land for the Chico State Normal, donated lots for every church, regardless of sect or creed, donated the City Plaza, the Children's Playground, and the famous 2,300-acre Bidwell Park to mention a few samples of his generosity.

Chico is the center of some of the finest fishing and hunting in the state, all within a few minutes drive from the city.

The Native Sons entertainment committee of the John Bidwell Parlor plans to entertain the delegates and guests at this year's Centennial Convention of the Grand Parlor with sight-seeing tours, banquets, grand ball and other amusements.

Placerita Parlor Features Treasure Chest Program

Members of Placerita, NDGW, Van Nuys, Los Angeles county, featured a "Treasure Chest" program at a recent meeting. Family heirlooms were displayed and provided the inspiration for many colorful tales. The Centennial theme was carried out in the garb of those who were present Dorothy Dye, chairman of the History and Landmarks committee, was in charge of the program.

Among the early day treasures which were featured, were a pair of ornamental silvered bubbles from the home of Pio Pico. These are the possession of Mrs. Matty Gara of the pioneer Sepulveda family, whose name is familiar in San Fernando landmarks and Sepulveda Blvd., and Sepulveda dam. Mrs. Gara's sister, Mrs. Teresa Bouttier, donned an early day taffeta frock over a hand-sewn linen petticoat of eight yard's width. The petticoat was loaned by member Betty Gaskill.

Other heirlooms included a valise purse owned by Mrs. Matty Gara; a cream pitcher, 135 years old, and a Seth Thomas Clock, brought by member Mrs. Lois Stevens; antique jewelry owned by member Dr. Ruth Barton; a hand woven woolen spread by member Dorothy Sears; a pewter teapot by Dorothy Dye, and a pickle jar by Mrs. Zilpha Archibald, and many others.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

January 9, the members of La Estrella Parlor No. 89, NDGW, Oakland, presided over by President Minnie Noyes, had a most interesting and enjoyable meeting. The initiation of three members took place first, after which a surprise birthday party was given for one of the members on her 80th birthday.

The parlor was honored by the attendance of their DDGP Anita Craig of Dolores Parlor.

Laura Spitzer was installed as President of Orinda Parlor No. 56, NDGW, San Francisco on January 27, at the Native Daughters Home, 555 Baker St. Mrs. Spitzer is a very active and willing member in Parlor affairs and her charming personality has endeared her to all. Orinda members promise much support and look forward to a very successful and enjoyable year. Marian Allen and her committee presented an impressive ceremony, and Deputy Grand President Camilla Daly of Gabriel Parlor and her corps of officers installed the new Orinda officers.

La Reina Parlor No. 267, Los Angeles, is now meeting at 800 S. Plymouth, Los Angeles. Their new secretary is Miss Jean Frey, 3023 W. 73rd St., Los Angeles, California.

A Christmas luncheon was enjoyed by members of Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, NDGW, preceding their meeting in December. The girls had an exchange of gifts under a pretty tinsel tree, and the usual Christmas candies. Each member was presented with a membership button, this being a surprise to all the girls.

President Eileen McInnis presented Mrs. Ragon, "Mother" of the Unit with a beautiful leather binder, a gift from the Juniors and Advisory board.

The presidential gavel of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW, San Francisco, was taken over by Geraldine Pitts, at installation ceremonies held in the Grizzly Bear club rooms, Native Sons building, January 9, 1950. Deputy Grand President Sabina Lagon of Twin Peaks Parlor presiding. Emma Elias is the retiring president.

East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, NDGW, received many very fine compliments about their Annual Childrens Christmas party. Everyone remarked upon the wonderful behavior of the children; which is a compliment to mama and daddy.

The credit for the success of the party goes to Edna Destovich and her committee; Mary Jarmuz and Pauline Eisenman, and to Castenia Cripe, for leading the little children in their songs, and Vivian Shaw for playing. All in all, everyone was happy and the children were well remembered by Santa and it was labeled a huge success from beginning to end.

January 26, a School of Instruction was held at the Poppy Trail Villa. This meeting was held for all members and officers of District 35, in preparation for the Grand Presidents visit in April.

Californiana Program Honors Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz

Mrs. A. J. Oechsel, president of Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Los Angeles, presided at the opening meeting of 1950, Tuesday, January 10, at 927 S. Menlo Avenue. The meeting was held at 10:30 a.m., and luncheon served at 12:30 o'clock.

With a family heritage rich in the historical background of old California, Mrs. Oechsel wishes to commemorate some era and event important in the growth of our state at each luncheon of the New Year.

Mrs. Herbert Ostrup, program chairman, called the first program, "Californiana Day," honoring one of California's most beloved citizens, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz. Songs, dancing and music depicted the lore of the Spanish era. Those taking part in the entertainment were Dr. David Wallace, soloist; Carol Crisler, author and playwright; Lola Kress, dancer; and Mrs. Francis W. Sullivan, Grand Organist, as accompanist.

the holidays, long enough to be re-instated in Californiana Parlor and will now reside in Washington, D.C., with a very important position in the State Department. She is leaving her mother Mrs. Maude Parks here, to maintain the family residence in Pasadena, hoping that she can eventually return to the "best state of all."—CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles Parlor Is Active In Civic Work

Los Angeles Parlor, NDGW, has adopted a resolution urging the Legislature and Governor Warren to pass even more stringent penalties against sex molesters of children. The resolution also demanded that such criminals be studied by competent authorities in a State Institution to ascertain whether psychiatric psychological or medical treatments might serve as preventive measures.

The parlor is taking part in many civic efforts of both statewide and local natures. It recently presented an American and a California Bear flag to Cub Scout Park No. 671-C in Hawthorne, and soon will give two identical flags to the "ranch-type" home for girls wards of the Los Angeles County Juvenile Court, recently established near Downey.

Mrs. Alvin (Bernice) Setterberg, the parlor's president, made the presentation address to the Hawthorne Cub Scouts, saying the flags represented the finest governments and lands on the face of the earth. Flags for the girls' "ranch home" will be presented sometime this Spring when the establishment of a "ranch home" project, volunteered to furnish the flags with her own funds.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President of the Native Daughters, and Mrs. Jack (Lillian) Stratton, first vice president of Los Angeles Parlor, are on the Los Angeles County Council of Women's Organizations, which campaigned actively more than a year for establishment of the home.

Miss Stoermer is serving as the Council chairman, and Mrs. Stratton is the parlor representative with the coordinated group.

Prior to formation of the Council, Los Angeles Parlor urged opening of the "ranch home" for delinquent girls for four years.

Members of Los Angeles Parlor plan to support a suggestion by Miss Anna T. Schiebusch NDGW Grand Vice President and member of Los Angeles Parlor, that an effort be launched soon to discover and preserve irreplaceable chronicles and diaries of California pioneers believed gathering dust in private homes.

Miss Schiebusch said these should be recovered before they are destroyed or lost in the ordinary course of events. Such relics of being found and acquired, she continued would be placed in the fireproof archives of the Bancroft Library at Berkeley.

The WELLS FARGO HISTORY ROOM, located in the bank's building at 30 Montgomery St., contains relics of pony express and covered wagon days; an original Hangtown stagecoach; early western franks and postmarks, firearms, pictures and documents.

OPEN TO VISITORS 10 TO 3 DAILY,
10 TO 12 SATURDAYS.

ATHLETICS

The following is an open letter from the State Chairman for Athletics of the Grand Parlor.

'All district Chairman Attention! As your State Chairman I request of you to put your best efforts forward in the promotion of all desired sports toward the scheduling of inter parlor competition for the various interests.

And upon the fulfillment of said programs you should communicate with the State committee of the progress that is being made. This will enable the state committee to better prepare for the sports events that are to be staged in San Francisco come September 9, 1950. So it behooves all the responsibility toward the realization that we will have a successful turnout for the 100 year birthday of our admission into the union.

Some of the sports that we have been proposed already are for parlors throughout the state to participate in Golf, Basketball, Hand ball, Boxing, indoor or outdoor horseshoes, Tennis, Hiking, Rod and Gun Clubs, cross country running, Field meets, Swimming, fishing derbys and many others. But there you have it the plan to get your program started to that you may compete with other parlors throughout the state. And remember this that a active mind is a healthy mind just as an active body is a healthy body. Yours for better Athletics.

State Chairman Athletics,
Grand Parlor Native Sons.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE NATIVE SONS

Golden Gate Parlor, San Francisco, has had a temporary recording secretary for about three months and he has done a swell job that has won him the admiration of his brothers. He is Charles Craig. Keep up the good work, the members of your parlor appreciate all that you have done and will do in the future.

Dolores Parlor, Native Daughters, San Francisco, has been doing a wonderful job in exemplifying the lesson in charity to her brothers. This parlor has been sponsoring a blood bank for the past six months and has been successful in helping its members in distress. Both Orders need more parlors like this one to promote the virtues of Brotherly Love.

Manuel Silva, a charter member of Gabriel Parlor No. 132, NSGW, Castroville, died Tuesday, January 3, at the age of eighty-four. He was a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West for sixty-two years.

Dr. John A. Schwamm of Long Beach Parlor, gave members of that parlor an informal talk on Governor Peter Hardeman Burnett at a recent meeting. Dr. Schwamm, member of a pioneer family, has made a considerable study of the life of this illustrious Californian.

Annual dinner dance of Guadalupe Parlor No. 231, NSGW, was held Saturday evening, February 11, in the Gold room of the Palace hotel, San Francisco.

Long Beach Parlor, NSGW, presented the Long Beach Community Players in the comedy "The Women," at the Community hall, Wednesday evening, February 8.

Annual 2001 tournament of Napa Parlor No. 61, NSGW, is scheduled for Sunday, February 12, with Allen Loutford the defending champion for the trophy. Thelma Nelson is chairman of the event and Owen Pearson co-chairman.

Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, made his official visit to Whittier Parlor No. 29, Wednesday evening, January 11.

Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, NSGW, San Bernardino, recently held a History Contest, the prizes offered, being a year's subscription to the Grizzly Bear. Numerous parlors over the state are presenting subscriptions to the Grizzly Bear as awards in different contests, and as gifts to their City Libraries.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW, announces that it will meet at the American Legion Hall, 1412 West 3rd Street, Los Angeles, on the second and fourth Thursdays. Members not receiving the Grizzly Bear are asked to notify Willard F. Allen, parlor secretary.

Angelo Devencenzie Called To Grand Parlor On High

Angelo Devencenzie of Castro Parlor, NS. GW, San Francisco, was called to the Grand Parlor on High last month. One of the best known members of the Order, he had traveled throughout the State with various Grand Officers on their official visits. He was the spark-plug in his own parlor's activities. He headed the Castro Parlor Drum Corps and took it all over the State advertising his parlor in various events. It has been said many times over that he was one of the hardest workers of the Order, always putting his whole heart and soul into the Native Sons, whether it was for his own parlor or for the Order.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

The Native Sons have a right to be proud of some of their oldest members and their accomplishments. Many of them work harder for the good of the Order than the younger members. Hiram H. Moore, known affectionately as "Hi" to thousands of Native Sons and Daughters, is a member of a pioneer San Bernardino family and belongs to Arrowhead Parlor No. 110. Formerly district deputy to Riverside Parlor, he now serves in a like capacity to Los Ranchos Parlor, Ontario, and is largely responsible for the splendid progress made by that parlor during the past few months. He was active in promoting Shirley Roden of Ontario as the "Girl of the Golden West" in the recent contest. He lays claim to being one of the oldest members of the Order.—Larry Kelley Photo.

San Francisco Deputies Honor Grand Presidents

On Saturday evening, January 14, 1950 the San Francisco County Deputy Grand Presidents of the Native Sons of the Golden West and the Native Daughters of the Golden West honored their respective Grand Presidents at a dinner and reception held at the historic Palace hotel, San Francisco.

Grand President Henrietta Toothaker, NDGW and Grand President Peter T. Conny, NSGW were speakers of the day as well as guests of honor.

The decorations were fittingly carried out in the Centennial theme and much credit must be given to the Supervising District Deputy Grand President of San Francisco County, Margaret Barrett, NDGW and William Keane, NSGW for it was through their efforts that the San Francisco deputies of both Orders cooperated so well in sponsoring this event.

Annual Veterans Party Is Given By Inter-Parlor

The surprise feature of the afternoon was the first official presentation of Shirley Roden, "Girl of the Golden West," who reigned over the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West's float in the 1950 Rose parade. Other features were cigarettes, games and refreshments, with a musical program of Christmas carols by Mrs. Francis Sullivan of the Native Daughters and Roger Johnson of the Native Sons. Arrangements were handled by Californiana Parlor of the Native Daughters under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dolly Hoeffling assisted by Mrs. A. J. Oechel and Mr. John B. With the 1950 Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons of the Golden West, scheduled for Chico, May 15 to 18, it is fitting that our cover this month focus attention of all Natives upon the host city.

The scene is The Esplanade, Chico's world-famous highway, a link of the old Oregon Trail, now a part of Highway 99-E. This Esplanade was laid out and donated to Chico by General John Bidwell, founder of the city. It includes six rows of European sycamores, the main drive, two side drives, railroad spur, bicycle and riding path, and sidewalks. The original trees, which were planted by General Bidwell, were honey locusts. Because of their age they were replaced by sycamores 35 years ago.

California 75 Years Ago

As Compiled from the Files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine

The big event in California during March, 1875, was the hanging at San Jose, the 19th, of Tiburcio Vasquez, the bandit. It was the largest attended hanging ever held in the state, all available space in the jail court where the execution took place being filled with more than fifty sheriffs, and undersheriffs, other peace officers, newspaper representatives, priests, friends and invited guests.

For a fortnight previous Vasquez had eaten and slept well, and had a good slumber his last night on earth. At 12:30 p.m. of the execution day he ate heartily of a sumptuous dinner.

At 1:35 p.m. he walked up the steps to the scaffold, smilingly removed his coat and necktie, and after his wrists and ankles were strapped and sheriff Adams had adjusted the noose and prepared to pull the black cap over his head, he nodded adios to some he knew in the crowd. At 1:30 p.m. he was launched into eternity with a drop of six feet and four inches which broke his neck, and thirteen minutes later he was pronounced dead by the doctors in attendance.

Vasquez was born in Monterey, California, in 1837 and was therefore 37 years of age. The years from 1856 to 1870 he spent in San Quentin, being convicted twice of larceny. In 1870 he began his career as a bandit. He was a small man, five feet four inches high, and weighed but 137 pounds. He was broad shouldered and agile, and a splendid horseman. He had a "taking" way, which made him take horses, women and valuables without stint. He claimed he had never killed a man. Although about forty senioritas in different parts of California claimed to be the original Mrs. Vasquez, he said he had never been married. He died a poor man and his relatives buried his body in the Catholic cemetery at Santa Clara.

Chavez, a partner of Vasquez in his marauds, made his appearance in Hollister, San Benito county, the day of the hanging. The officers were absent at San Jose, consequently he made a number of visits to old acquaintances, was discovered by quite a number of citizens but, unmolested, mounted his horse and rode away when he got ready.

Editor's Note: The above, not an eyewitness account of the events at San Jose, is authentic according to the reports of the day. For "California 75 Years Ago" was written 25 years ago under the heading "California 50 Years Ago" for the Grizzly Bear by Thomas R. Jones, one of California's pioneer Native Sons.

At a meeting in Los Angeles March 1 fifty of the leading citizens subscribed largely for stock in the Los Angeles and Independence railroad. The secretary was authorized to telegraph Senator John P. Jones, the head promoter of the enterprise, that the citizens would take $300,000 of stock in the road.

Senator Jones was also interested in building a 1,200-foot wharf at Truxton Beach and a railroad from Santa Monica to Los Angeles. He also had a controlling interest in the Los Angeles Street Railway.

A lawsuit against the Geyser Quicksilver Mining Co., owned by citizens of Calistoga, Napa county, was decided in the company's favor and the result was celebrated in California by a center illumination of the town, firing of an royal salute of 100 guns and a speechfest.

Two states wrote part on the route between San Fernando, Los Angeles county, and the terminus of the Southern Pacific north of Tehachapi, and the stage time shortened to thirteen hours.

The United States Mint began coming 20-cent pieces to supply a supposed public need and stop what was called the "two-bit swindle." One bit was a dime, when two bits was asked and a quarter paid, no change was given. The 20-cent pieces proved to be a phantom idea and more of them were palmed off as quarters than took the places of two-bit transactions. They subsequently became an object of derision. So went another progressive idea.

Editorial . . .

Editor's Note: The following was taken from the Guadalupe News the article was so good that we thought it should be reprinted so that all might appreciate it.

THE FIRST HUNDRED YEARS

This year we Native Sons celebrate the Centennial of California's Statehood. It is our heritage to see that this event is one of the greatest and most glamorous celebrations that this grand State of ours has ever witnessed. The Native Sons will have to take the lead and demonstrate to the millions of people of the world what the Native Sons really stand for. You as a member of this great organization will have to do your part and become Centennial conscious. (Talk it up and become inspired with enthusiasm.)

"San Francisco, the host city for the Centennial, is making elaborate plans to welcome Native Sons from all over the state. Have you noticed Market street lately? All the electric light poles are being refinished in blue and gold. The Extension of the Order Committee of the San Francisco Parlor are active with the Citizens Committee. Each and every county of the State will be represented by a float in the parade that will put all other parades ever held to shame.

Your Parlor is making elaborate plans; besides having a float we intend to have every member of our Parlor in the line of march. Uniforms are available, so get into the swing of things, come up to the Parlor and inquire about uniforms. Help us make this celebration the greatest of them all. The Guadalupe News will keep you informed of all developments as they are made."

To this, we of the Grizzly Staff, would like to bring your attention to the fact that if you read the Grizzly regularly you will keep abreast of what is going on throughout the parlor of the state. It has been noted that the vital news that Natives always claim they haven't been told has always appeared in the Grizzly Bear. Remember Brothers this is your official publication and it behooves all to support it by getting on the mailing list.

Rip Roaring Days of Whiskey Hill Recalled

*Editor's Note: * The following story by Charles K. Houwer, appeared in the Evening Pajaronian, Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, July 26, 1937. It was sent to the Grizzly Bear by Walter Gleason of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino. Gleason was born near what was then called "Whiskey Hill." The article was of great interest to him and he felt that subscribers to the Grizzly Bear might also enjoy it.*

CHOES from the days when giant redwoods still covered most of the Pajaro valley . . . the days when Freedom was still Whiskey Hill . . . days when the knife, the rope, and the six-shooter spoke more eloquently than the law . . . were heard recently in a conversation with J. W. Nistetter of Watsonville, formerly of Whiskey Hill.

Nistetter, born in Gilroy in 1862, a spry oldster at 75, and his wife look forward to celebrating the 54th anniversary of his marriage to Melissa Bradshaw this fall.

It was in 1864 when the Nistetter family came from Gilroy to Whiskey Hill, the first white American family to settle there. It was a year of drought. Flour sold for $50 a barrel. Coal could hardly be had at $50 a hoghead. J. M. Nistetter was a blacksmith. He went without shoes that year in order to pay for coal, the son recalled. With white-hot iron flying all about the shop, it spelled real hardship.

Volupe and Joaquin Castro then lived in the adobe "mansion" which still stands in Larkin Valley. Volupe was the "big boss" to the Mexicans and Indians of the surroundings. They looked to him to feed them and in return performed the chores about the house and far-flung domain, a Spanish grant.

In Whiskey Hill there were a dozen shacks, each of which contained a bar and dispensed firewater, thence the name Whiskey Hill. Teamsters and travelers would stop there and Nistetter, the elder, made a fair living shoeing horses, mules and oxen and providing the tools for the lumberjacks in the redwood groves.

Nistetter, the son, started school at the age of four, in 1866, in the old Roache school. His teacher was Alabam' Tyus, the first white girl born in Pajaro Valley.

He had a good deal of time to himself, and, in constant contact with the Mexicans, Indians and halfbreeds, he acquired a working knowledge of their dialect and a certain tolerance of their ways.

They, in turn, looked up to him who understood their tongue as well as his own. He became a general favorite.

Work was not the forte of the retainers of the Castros and Amestis, the latter holding a grant in the Green Valley district. "Manana" they would say with a wave of the hand, whenever work was mentioned, Nistetter recalls.

In play, however, the Mexicans and Indians found much solace. Not only was every early-day shack in Whiskey Hill a saloon, it was a gambling room as well as a place for the family to be raised, to sleep, cook, and eat. Many a time, when stakes ran high, a knife or six-shooter settled the final score.

Whiskey Hill was spoken of as a "tough" place. It was. Mexicans and half-breeds loitering along its streets took special delight in taking "pot shots" at dogs of strangers riding by. They might all aim at the dog's left hind leg perhaps and howl with glee when a "bull's eye" made the unhappy target yelp with pain. If the stranger happened to object to the "sport," he was likely to be made the target himself.

Each Sunday races were held along Salsipuedes creek, near the Holohan road of today. Indians, Mexicans and Spaniards would vie with one another for a prize which might be a horse, a gold coin, cow hides, but more often a bottle of whiskey.

Bull fights took place frequently in Castro's bull pen, situated where Scott's service station stands now in Freedom. For a long time a bull and a bear, kept there, were made to fight each other on special occasions. An adobe house stood near, across from where Enemark's store is located now, on the Schmidt property.

As Whiskey Hill grew in size, Jose Gutierrez' dancing hall and saloon became favorites. Nistetter recalled one night at a dance there a man was shot through the head, the bullet going in one temple and coming out the other. A serape was thrown over him and he was left to expire in a corner while the dance and merry-making went on.

Gutierrez liked children, Nistetter believed. His five wives bore him 35 of them. He married his last wife when she was 14.

September 16, anniversary date of Mexican Independence, was a red letter day at Whiskey Hill. Besides the usual merry-making there would be a "Goddess of Liberty," impersonated often by Martha Freeman, and all the colorful trimmings of a Mexican fiesta. In the evening Gutierrez and his many sons would shoot up large quantities of fireworks. These early-day pyrotechnical displays were some of the best he ever witnessed, Nistetter declared. They compared favorably even with this year's display in Watsonville.

When the aggressive Yankees came into the district, much friction developed between them and the easy-going Spaniards and their hangers-on. The latter accused the Yanks of sharp practices in obtaining goods and land. The Americans held the others to be an irresponsible, slovenly, and thieving lot.—There was truth on both sides.

An incident of the days recalled by Nistetter—one John Royse, living near the Five-mile house, had a large hog running in pasture on his ranch. One day it disappeared. A Mexican with an unsavory reputation near Corralitos was suspected. Royse and a friend, Lon Aldrich, went to the man's house to question him. He was abed and displayed a surly attitude. He was hauled out of bed and taken to an oak tree in front of his house, where a lariat was placed about his neck and the men started to hoist him on the tree. When the Mexican became blue in the face, he made a sign he wanted to talk. Upon being let down he confessed he knew where the hog was and would tell if released. This was done. The hog was found under the floor of a shack in Whiskey Hill, salted away in a barrel, buried in the ground.

Two owners of the shack were gotten out of bed, marched down to Watsonville, where they received sentences of five years' jail each. They were relieved when the jail door closed on them, they said afterward, for they had lived in great fear of finding themselves decapitating a tree some morning at sunrise.

Horse stealing was a cardinal sin in the days before the horseless buggy. Settlers resorted to vigilante justice in order to cope with this evil. One morning, riding over to Pajaro, Nistetter remembered seeing three men hanging by their necks from the Pajaro bridge.

Another time two Mexicans were found dangling on a high gate across the road from where the reservoir is now. There were reprisals, however. Some time later Bill Roache, prominent rancher after whom the Roache district and school are named, was missing.

He was finally discovered in the bottom of a well.

Most of these crimes were never solved. Men lived and died by the gun, the rope and knife. As the region became settled by families from the East and Middlewest, however, a more responsible element asserted itself.

Through death of the owners, debts, incompetence, but often also by means of sharp practices, the great land grants made by the sovereigns of Spain and Mexico, were divided. The men who cultivated the land owned it and took care of it. The Indian population of the district shrank in numbers. Smallpox, pneumonia and social diseases of the whites took a heavy toll. Others, wont to the free-and-easy life of the Mexicans, took ill to the new settlers businesslike ways and left the region.

Today only one, Frank Reos of the Calabasa district, remains of the hundreds of Indians who populated the Pajaro Valley.

Gone are the days when the Castros, handsomely decked out in velvet and lace, would ride by on their silver caparisoned palominos to be greeted as "tin gods" by the poverty-stricken populace.

Gone are the miles upon miles of yellow mustard blooms which hid horses and riders. Gone also are most of the redwoods.

A new era, one of intensive cultivation of the soil, was ushered in. It brought a romance of its own, less poetic perhaps, but built on more substantial foundations than the preceding one.

Thriving lettuce fields have replaced the wilderness of mustard. Natty homes with profusion of flowers and well-kept lawns have taken the place of the willow huts inhabited by Mexicans and Indians along Salsipuedes creek. The same valley which barely sufficed to support a score of Spaniards and their retainers, furnished gainful employment to many thousands.

Schools became more numerous and compulsory at the beginning of the new era. With the spread of education the necessity for law and order was recognized.

In the late 1870's the name of "Whiskey Hill" had come to be regarded as something of a stigma on the countryside. At a meeting of men of the region, J. M. Nistetter's suggestion to change the name to Freedom was accepted by an overwhelming vote.

Economic conditions were thriving. J. M. Nistetter joined his father in the blacksmith shop which had blossomed out into a small factory including a wood department, where, among other necessities, coffins were made. Dances were held in the spacious woodshed on Sundays. Admittance per couple was $1 and $5, if you please.

On October 24, 1883, Miss Melissa Bradshaw of Corralitos, born and raised the daughter of John H. Bradshaw, pioneer rancher and mill operator, became the bride of the young blacksmith. Now, almost 54 years later they are still happily married.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

A Native Son In Old Sacramento

By FRANK S. CHRISTY

Historian, Sunset Parlor No. 26, NSGW

DUE to the Golden Centennial celebrations, it has recently been brought to light that the oldest living Native Son is Leonard A. (Doc) Kidder, who on the 9th of February was 95 years old. He is the oldest local born citizen in Sacramento and now the oldest member of the Native Sons of the Golden West, belonging to Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento.

Len, as he is known by all his many friends, was born on the site of the city's Plaza Park. The ground was then 20 feet below the present street level. As a boy, Len would run the logs out of their mud hole in back of the state Capitol building, so he and his friends could go wading. Upon arriving home, his father would ask, where he had been. "Oh, I've been playing with some of the boys," never daring to tell his father the truth.

Doc remembers the time when at the age of six, he decided to run away and see the world. After becoming lost in the high weeds that covered the surrounding terrain by his home, his venture took as far as the Columbus Brewery on 16th and K street, a good two miles from his home.

Later in the afternoon his father became worried and called the fire department. All the engine houses rang their bells to summon aid. A search party was immediately formed and fanned out in four directions. After an extensive search, young Len was found.

Doc is the only man alive, who recalls seeing the First Pony Express Rider dash down dusty Jay street to the Express building on that never-to-be-forgotten spring day, April 8, 1860.

He also recalls seeing Capt. John A. Sutter when the Captain came into Sacramento on one of his rare visits to see Captain Ebner on Hock farm.

Len was one of the first boys baptized in the old Congregational church on Sixth street, between J and K. On July 13, 1854, a fire swept this structure away.

The first home that Len lived in had to be moved when John Sutter, Jr., deeded the land to the city. Capt. Nathaniel Kidder, (Len's father) was a widely known business man, who came to Sacramento in January of 1850, and died in 1891. Capt. Kidder operated a general merchandise store opposite the City Plaza.

The Captain piloted his own ship "around the Horn," from Bangor, Maine. He sold it upon his arrival in San Francisco. The elder Kidder was appointed Harbor Master by the city Marshal in 1855 with a salary of $1500. He was reappointed in 1864, '66 and in 1877 held the same office again at the same time that he was ex-officio Health Officer, salary $800 a month.

The Captain often told his son about the delivery of the prison brig, "Strafford," brought from New York in 1850. During the confusion of the celebration the Captain found himself below, interred in the ship's brig. It amused him greatly.

During the flood of 1862 he saved his son's life. The levee at Third and R street broke with the raging waters rushing through the gap, he tied the lad to a make-shift raft of Second and S and set him adrift.

Len remembers hearing the bugle calls on war mornings from Camp Union at Sutterville during the Civil War days. He can recall seeing Mark Twain, of stage coaches being mired in mud so deep it would take an extra team or two to set them free.

When Len was 12 years old he hired out as a swamper and bottle washer for Sweetland's drug store on 6th and K street. In the old days a pharmacist ordinarily slept in his shop with a shotgun by his side, for quite often people would call at all hours of the night for medicine. During the day the druggist mixed paints, cut glass and did various other chores around the shop.

Len has worked for a number of pioneer drug companies, among them was Dr. L. H. McDonald, who marketed "Dr. McDonald's Vinegar Bitters, good for 10 or more known diseases." The miners showed a preference for it and kept Len busy making Dr. McDonald's panacea.

Looking back, he recalls the time he worked for a druggist who hid the day's receipts in the bird seed bin.

"I would measure out seed to a customer and occasionally find a 50 cent piece or smaller change mixed in with it. But I don't believe I ever sold any money by mistake," he chuckled.

Doc Kidder is the dean of apothecaries, being the oldest registered pharmacist in California who carries a card and can still mix a prescription with a steady hand.

On November 8, 1948, Len was admitted into Sunset Parlor No. 26, NSGW. Though he is the oldest living Native Son, Len never belonged to the organization before. It was no fault of his own that the application was lost. Len applied for one in 1888, sent it in with the required amount for initiation fee, and by a queer twist of fate, it was never received. It was 60 years later before the oversight was rectified and the grand old gentleman finally admitted. He has now been made an honorary member of Sunset Parlor.

It was through the untiring efforts of Eugene Hepting (also a Native Son) that this oversight was made known.

Though Len is 95, he hasn't lost his zest for living. His hearing, eyesight and memory are still perfect. And far from being infirm with age, he takes a daily walk of five or six miles.

Len would rather live in the future than in the past and his advice for longevity is simple. "Be moderate in everything you do."

Centennial Plans For San Francisco Progressing

The Centennials Commission in cooperation with the Citizens Committee of San Francisco will sponsor the Centennial Congressional Literature from February 26 thru March 26, it is announced. They will also sponsor the Centennial Caravan that has been traveling throughout the State of California, with this being on exhibition at Portsmouth Square, the center of Centennial activities in San Francisco, from March 26 through April 28. It is anticipated that this will enliven the interest of the general public in the coming events that are planned for the successful celebration of the Centennial of California's Statehood.

It was announced recently that the State Legislature is appropriating more money to carry out the successful completion of this greatest of celebrations, the Centennial of California's Admission to the Union.

The city of San Francisco is reported to be also considering the appropriation of additional funds.

Parlor Secretaries write for special money-making deal to Native Sons and Native Daughter Parlors

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The opinions expressed are those of the editor and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Fred A. Cooke, president of Sebastopol Parlor No. 143, NSGW, writes:

"Every time I look at the Bear Flag I think about the time a Grizzly Bear chased me and came very near having me for his dinner. This happened near the Truckee river, about five miles from Truckee toward Lake Tahoe. I was sixteen then. He came very near succeeding, but remembering what some of the old Pioneers had told me what to do in case a bear chased me, I got away from him.

"I was born in Truckee the same year the Native Sons of the Golden West was founded. Joined Donner Parlor in 1896. Know something about the Donner Party and the Vigilance Committees.

"December 27th, 1949, was a visitor to the institution of 'Valley of the Moon Parlor No. 310' at Boyes Springs and the Grand Officers put on the work in grand style.

"Talking with several of the new members they most all said, the reason they had not joined the Native Sons before is because no one had ever asked them to do so."

We have written to Brother Cooke for his grizzly bear story, which he volunteered to send us, and hope to publish it in an early issue.

W. Harold Peck, a Native Son of Woodland, is conducting a historical research on the "Churches of California." He is attempting to get a brief history of each church ever organized or functioned in the state; and to have a photograph of each church building each church enjoyed.

As an example of what he is doing, he cites the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Sacramento.

"It was organized in 1856 as First Presbyterian Church of Sacramento. Reorganized in 1866 and renamed the Westminster Presbyterian Church. During its time prior to reorganization it had no permanent meeting place, but did so in the State Senate Chamber and in various Sacramento halls. After reorganizing it had three buildings. Its present membership is in excess of 1700 members."

Although we do not have any notice of an official celebration, we note that several parlors are making plans to celebrate the 75th Anniversary of the Founding of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Mother Colony Parlor No. 281 is one of these, having made plans to dedicate its third annual barbecue at La Palma Park, Anaheim, Tuesday, July 11, to this great event.

Argonaut Parlor Dedicates Railroad Marker At Oroville

Argonaut Parlor No. 8, NSGW, Oroville, Butte county, dedicated a marker Saturday, February 11, commemorating the fourth railroad in California, "The California Northern" at the Southern Pacific depot, Oroville. Palace Hotel Scene Of Past Presidents Dance

Annual dinner dance of the past presidents, NSGW, was held recently at the Palace hotel, San Francisco, with some 200 in attendance, who acclaimed it to be the best ever held. Past Presidents from all over the State were present to renew old friendships and make new ones. A notable Native Son in civic life, said he had belonged to 22 organizations and had dropped out of 20 of them. And among the remaining two that he belonged to, the Native Sons was still on his list. So it just goes to prove that affairs that the past presidents hold are remembered and revered by all members, both young and old.

Prof. A. P. Nasatir Wins Fullbright Scholarship

Prof. A. P. Nasatir of San Diego Parlor, NSGW, of the University of California at Berkeley, has been selected as one of the winners of the Fulbright scholarships. Now head of the department of history at the San Diego State College, Professor Nasatir took all of his degrees, including his PH.D., which he received at the age of 20, at the University of California.

This is Nasatir's third trip across the Atlantic, each time in the interest of historic research. Once he went as a Native Sons of the Golden West traveling fellowship; again he went under the Social Research Council's working fellowship, which enabled him to study in Paris, Madrid and London. He brought back 72,000 sheets of transcription to be translated here—a herculean task. The Fulbright scholarship calls for Nasatir's doing further research work in the archives of Paris for a year.

Native Daughters

Why You Should Attend Your Parlor

Editor's Note The following address sent to us, was given recently by Helen Purciarele, marshal of Rio Hondo Parlor, NDGW, Huntington Park, to members of that parlor. We think that it will interest other members of the Order:

Worthy President and all my fellow members of our Rio Hondo Parlor. This morning I was thinking about initiation tonight, our recent pass words and Thanksgiving.

How thankful and fortunate we all should feel to have been born in our grand State of California. We all know people who wish they had been born here, so that they could join our Native Daughters of the Golden West, but they are not as lucky as we are.

Our present pass word, we say it every meeting, but do we stop to think about it? If we would just practice it in all our dealings, we think how much better off we would be. But none of us are perfect; if we were, we wouldn't be on this earth.

We have all heard said many times and in many places, this saying, "That you only get out of any organization or anything, just exactly what you put into it yourself." And it is also true that no group of officers can succeed without the members supporting them. It is not the officers that make a good parlor, but to membership.

The officers are members too, so they should try to attend all meetings as well as the other members. Sometimes you might think, "Oh, well, the officers do all the deciding." But they are not doing anything without the membership's vote of approval or disapproval.

And so, the next time you might be tired and tempted to stay home, please don't think, "Oh, they won't need me or miss me tonight." But remember that you are needed and will be missed. This is your parlor and the bond that unites us is as strong and sacred without as within the parlor.

Joint Ceremonies Held by Fruitvale Parlors

Fruitvale Parlor No. 177, NDGW, and Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, NSGW, held public installation ceremonies on Friday evening, January 27 with Mae Leffel of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 and Robert Gemetti of Martinez, Deputy Grand Presidents, as the Installing Officers. About 175 attended the installation.

Verne Francisconi and Fred Rettig were installed as Presidents of their respective Parlors with the Fruitvale Junior Unit No. 22, tired in formals forming a guard of honor or the escort of these two officers.

Edward T. Schnarr, PGP and Miller Markov, Grand Organizer were present.

Mary Berndt, Junior Past President and Duncan McMeekin, Senior Past President were presented with their Past Presidents Jewel.

The Argonaut Cubs, Junior Unit No. 3, NDGW, Oakland, held a public installation recently with Miss Patricia Garrison as installing officer. The Junior Group of the Native Daughters of the Golden West is an outstanding program of the Order as it creates interest of the younger girls to become members of the Order in the future.

A gesture in good inter-fraternal relations is displayed by the plans of Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, Los Angeles, for a birthday dinner March 31 honoring parlor members who are Past Exalted Rulers of the Benevolent, Protective Order of Elks. This great fraternal order has cooperated in many ways with the Native Sons of the Golden West, particularly with the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee.

The parlor will be divided into three teams under the leadership of the three vice presidents, who will appoint lieutenants on their teams to try and get the members on their teams to attend the meetings. In order to keep an accurate score on the progress of the teams, the chairman of the attendance committee will check the names of those attending each meeting from the attendance book. There will be a prize for the winning team at the expense of the two losing teams.

Annual Jinks Night of Redwood Parlor No. 66, NSGW, was held Saturday evening, January 28, with a large crowd in attendance. Present were delegations from Pebble Beach Parlor of Pescadero and Seaside Parlor of Half Moon Bay, as well as others from nearby cities.

Tierra de Oro Parlor Given Big Project

Santa Barbara's newest Native Daughter Parlor, Tierra de Oro No. 304, has, in its short span of life since its institution last December 10th, been recognized in its community by being asked to assume responsibility in connection with the "March of Dimes" campaign now being conducted on a National scale. Tierra de Oro parlor has been given the responsibility of collecting, banking and reporting all monies collected for this very worthy project in the "Polio Ponies" drive being conducted by the Santa Barbara Junior Chamber of Commerce.

This phase of the drive is comprised of two wooden horses which are used in a race up the main thoroughfare in the "Mile of Dimes," one horse on each side of the street, in a race to see which can get to the end of the mile of dimes first, on the basis of receipts as they progress up State street. Service clubs in Santa Barbara are cooperating with the Junior Chamber of Commerce by manning the horses during the day, and the responsibility of Tierra de Oro Parlor, Native Daughters, is to collect these funds at the end of each day, see that they are banked, and report to the newspaper and radio stations the total amount collected during the day. The committee in charge of this participation is headed by Mrs. C. C. Dismuke, who has been appointed by President Lois Lucking, and serving with Mrs. Dismuke are the following members of the parlor: Sisters Hazel Tingstrom, Rosalie Andrade, Dolly Begg, Marjorie Alderman, Frances Olivera, Rose Kupelian, Irma Berta, Ardis Hendry, Molly O'Mara, Margaret Tripp, Viva Ireland, Claire Noser, Anita Snodgrass and President Lucking.

Parlor members attended the dinner and installation of Santa Barbara Parlor, Native Daughters, at their January installation of officers or 1950, at which an enjoyable time was had by all.

Many of the members of the parlor will also be in attendance at the installation of officers of Reina del Mar Parlor at their January 25th installation of officers, at which Dr. Helen France, Supervising District Deputy, and Catherine Fickert, Deputy Grand President will be installing officers.

Tierra de Oro Parlor has initiated sixteen new members at initiation ceremonies since the institution and initiation of December 10. The following: Sisters Marjorie Alderman, Ernestine Batistini, Dolly Begg, Bessie Colville, Florine Grell, Eileen Jane Gray, Jeanne Hindmarsh, Mabel Jakway, Kathryn Jordano, Bertha Marple, Claire Noser, Fern Oakes, Hazel Osborne, Dora Mitchell, Rose Pottberg and Georgia Mutch.

Another large class was scheduled for initiation before the charter closes on March 10, at which time the membership will run over the 100 mark set by the parlor in commemoration of this year of California's Centennial.

Reina del Mar Parlor Plans For Big Centennial Year

Santa Barbara's Reina del Mar parlor, Native Daughters, under the 1950 administration of Mrs. L. J. Miller, has moved into program action, building upon the accomplishments of the objectives of the Order in 1949 Centennial Year, when Miss Josephine Pagnotti was president.

At Installation ceremonies on January 16, Rev. C. Eugene Sill, Congregational pastor, urged Native Daughters of all parlors to set their sights on "Pioneering."

Every parlor of Native Daughters, for example, has opportunity of opening its organization to members of every race. A receipt of the Order exhorts reverence for the pioneers of California and pioneers are those who go ahead. There are opportunities in many fields besides the social for contemporary pioneering. We must dun everlastingly to achieve results and become true pioneers.

Reina del Mar will continue this year its policy of coordinating the activities of its committees on History, Preservation of Landmarks, Manners and Customs, Education, Extension of the Order and Public Relations. Mrs. Raymond La Pointe continues as secretary.

Natives Receive Trophy At Elaborate Ceremony

Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West received their trophy for first prize won in the fraternal division of the Tournament of Roses Parade at Pasadena in a program presented Monday evening, February 14, before a packed house in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

C. Lewis Edwards, Tournament of Roses staff representative and a member of Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW, presented the trophy to State Chairman Jim Ritchey. Francis Vail, state coordinating chairman, NDGW, Katherine Weaver, Junior past president of Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW, and Hope Ritchey were among guests of the Tournament of Roses Association.

A two-hour program was presented by the Tournament of Roses Association which included the showing of the official 1950 colored, sound picture of the 61st parade.

With the presentation of each trophy a full screen size picture of the award was projected. L. Clifford Kenworthy, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, announced that the show was such a success that it will be made a traditional feature to the already long list of Tournament awards.

Chairman Ritchey states that the prize received by the Native Sons and Daughters will be displayed at both Grand Parlor sessions. It will then be sent to Grand Secretary John T. Regan to hang on his office wall in the Native Sons building. The prize picture of the 1948 float will be displayed in the office of Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

ATHLETICS

The San Diego Parlor "A" team at the end of the fourth month of play, is leading the Native Sons Bowling Tournament of San Diego county, having won a total of 14 games, losing two. They are being followed in hot pursuit by the Natives from San Luis Rey Parlor No. 300 of Oceanside, who have won 11 games and lost five. The San Diego "B" team has finally pulled itself up off the floor and are now out of the cellar position to lead San Miguel Parlor No. 303 of National City and Chula Vista by a one game margin.

San Diego Parlor has also extended an invitation to Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, for a bowling contest, no details of which were available as we went to press.

Plans are also being made for a golf tournament in San Diego parlor.

New Post Office Station Named For Early Pioneer

Postmaster Michael D. Fanning announced today that Foy station of the Los Angeles Post Office was officially opened for business on February 13. He said that the new station serving part of the downtown business section is the tenth station to be added to the Post Angeles postal system during the past twelve month, and is part of an extensive expansion program which call for the addition of 20 new carrier stations before the end of 1950.

Fanning stated that the new station located at 813 South Figueroa street was named after Samuel Foy, early merchant of Los Angeles who in 1871 bought the land on which the station is located. The Foy family for many years prominent in the civic and social life of Los Angeles lived on this site.

Miss Mary Foy, one of the few survivors of the early Los Angeles family and prominent civic and postal officials was present at the dedication ceremonies held for the new Figueroa street postal unit. Among civic officials attending were Harry Morrison, general manager of the Downtown Business Men's Association; Edward R. Roybal, city councilman, and the Right Reverend John M. Krumm, Dean of Saint Paul's Cathedral. Postal officials in attendance at the dedication ceremonies were Postmaster Michael D. Fanning; William A. Riley, Assistant Postmaster; Frank Huber, general superintendent of finance; William H. Green, general superintendent of mails; James E. Wynne, superintendent of carriers and D. A. Pressly, post office inspector.

Among those taking part in the dedication ceremonies were Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand Vice President, Native Daughters of the Golden West; Miss Margaret Kerr, district chairman of Americanism Committee, Native Daughters; Mrs. A. J. Oechsel, president Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters and Mary Noerenberg, Past Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The Postmaster stated that the new building housing the activities of Foy station is one of the most modern stations in the city. It is of modern architecture and contains about 8000 square feet of floor space. Nearly 70 employees will work at the new station and carriers serving 37 routes transferred from Metropolitan and Main Office stations will operate out of the new unit. Erwin C. Bode, formerly superintendent of postal station V has been appointed superintendent of Foy station. He will be assisted by Arvid Maeder.

All postal services with the exception of postal savings will be available and the station will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on week days from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Fanning urged all patrons residing within the boundaries of Foy station to notify their correspondents immediately that their new zone number is 17. He explained that the boundaries of the territory served by Foy station are Burlington Avenue on the west; Third Street on the north, Grand Avenue on the east and Ninth Street on the south.

It is reported that Foy station is the last of the post offices to be named after a person. The dedication was attended by many prominent Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

OUR COVER

Our cover this month pictures the famous Suspension Bridge at Bidwell Bar, east of Oroville on the Feather river, which delegates and visitors to the Grand Parlor Session of the Native Sons of the Golden West at Chico, May 15 to 18, may have an opportunity to see. Nearly 100 years old, this bridge erected in 1856, was shipped around the Horn and assembled at Bidwell Bar. It is reported to have been built by the same company that made the San Francisco Bay Bridge. Constructed along the same principal as the Bay Bridge its cables are four inches in diameter as contrasted with the Bay Bridge's 16-inch cables.

Big Celebration Held At Oroville

On Saturday, February 11, 1950, members of Argonaut Parlor No. 8, NSGW and Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 110, NDGW, of Oroville, sponsored the re-enactment of the celebration held in February 1864, on the completion of the Fourth railroad in California.

This line ran from Marysville to Oroville and was known as the California Northern railroad, later the Northern California railroad, Binney's railroad, the Central Pacific and now a part of the Southern Pacific company.

With the cooperation of the Southern Pacific company, an old time train pulled into the Oroville depot at 2 P.M. The high school Cadets stood at attention as the train came to a stop.

Over 2500 people had gathered at the depot long before the arrival of the train. Groups of Boy Scouts and Cubs, Girl Scouts and Brownies with their leaders led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Selections by the Oroville Grammar school and the Oroville Union high school band were given during the program. Greetings extended by the Presidents of the two parlors of Native Sons and Daughters. Assemblyman Coast of Yuba City represented the city councils of both Marysville and Oroville.

Past Grand President Florence D. Boyle, introduced the speakers at the dedication. The Southern Pacific company was represented by Robert Miller, assistant superintendent of the Sacramento division; Carl Olson, assistant general passenger agent, Oakland; George Holt, district passenger agent of Sacramento; Harold Henshaw, district freight agent of Sacramento; B. F. Pennington, roadmaster of Marysville; Cliff Watson of Marysville, trainmaster; J. C. Brown, station superintendent of Sacramento; William Malone, company photographer of San Francisco; John P. Weir, age 82, retired Southern Pacific conductor;

The California-Nevada railroad Historical Society were represented by Brian Thompson of Oakland and David Myrick of Berkeley.

Grand Trustee Doris Gerrish represented the Grand President of the Native Daughters, while Past Grand President Wayne Millington conducted the dedication ceremonies, as the monument was unveiled by Past Grand President Florence D. Boyle, and Past Governor Frank W. Boyle.

At the dinner following at the Elks hall, Past Grand President, Seth Millington was master of ceremonies. Past Grand President, Grover Powers and Past Grand President Clarice Cook responded. The speaker of the evening was Grand President Peter Conmy.

A dance at the municipal auditorium brought the celebration to a close.

The bronze plaque was placed on a granite boulder brought down from Historic Bald rock by members of Argonaut Parlor No. 8.

Fourth Street entrance to Bidwell Park, 2300 acre natural park, th'rd largest city-owned park in the U. S. A gift from General John Bidwell, founder of the city of Chico. This park, 9 miles long and with a wide variety of valley and mountain scenery, has often been used as background for various motion pictures.—Chas. Jones photo.

Chico is All Ready to Entertain Native Sons

When the delegates to the Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons of the Golden West come to Chico May 15th to 18th, they should arrange to spend a day or so extra visiting historical spots in and around Chico and Oroville.

In Chico they can see the Bidwell Mansion and Bidwell Park, third largest municipally owned park in the United States, nine miles of virgin forest with running streams the year 'round, golf links, swimming pools, playgrounds and picnic grounds; Also Sir. Joseph Hooker Oak, largest in the world. Chico has the first plant introduction garden in the United States, and is the home of Chico State College, second normal school built in California. Chico is the center of the almond district where more than half of the almonds in the United States are produced. Rice, stock raising, fruit, vegetables, grain, lumbering are only a few of the diversified industries found here.

On display here is a replica of the famous Weatherbee Nugget, largest gold nugget ever found in America and which was found about 20 miles east of Chico. There are many old mining sights near here, some still in operation. The famous Cherokee hydraulic mining operations, now a ghost town, is a mecca for thousands every year. Millions in gold were mined here and this place is also famous as the best diamond mine in the United States.

The Humboldt Road, built by General John Bidwell, founder of the city of Chico and the Humbug Road, are two famous state routes of early days, now main arteries into the lumbering, mining, fishing and hunting sections. Fishing in the nearby streams and lakes is said to be the best in the west so delegates should bring along their fishing equipment.

Over at Oroville, the nearby county seat of Butte County are more points of interest, a museum sponsored by the Native Daughters of Gold of Ophir Parlor, as is a museum in Chico, sponsored by the Annie K. Bidwell Parlor here. At Oroville and in the mountains nearby are other mines of note, including the famous Bidwell Bar, now a State Park. Here the Native Sons of Argonaut Parlor, No. 8 of Oroville, have erected markers for the Mother Orange Tree, first planted in Northern California and for the Suspension Bridge, still standing and in service after nearly 100 years.

This bridge, by the way, was made in New York by the same company which made the San Francisco Bay bridge, the cables being 4 inches at Bidwell Bar, the Bay bridge cables being 16 inches. The Bidwell Bar bridge was shipped around the horn and erected at Bidwell Bar. Many points of interest are still there at Bidwell Bar and near here is also a marker where Black Bart, the lone bandit of early days, pulled one of his many stage robberies.

The Honey Run Covered Bridge, five miles from Chico is the second largest covered bridge in California and is surrounded by unusual scenic beauty. It is still in use and has been marked by the Native Daughters of Chico.

The various committees in charge of the reception and entertainment of the grand parlor session in Chico report that everything is in order. The general committee is headed by Wm. H. Metzger and includes Jack McLerran, Karl L. Jezler, Ralph Earle, Alvah Earle, Bert Reed, Earle C. Arbuckle, Gordon H. Casamajor, Harry V. Smith, Elvin B. Shepherd, Lloyd M. La Brecht and Wm. Rapson, Jr.

A parade is planned for "Fun Day" in Chico during the convention and any Parlor wishing to enter a float or other entry should notify Jack Vanella, Parade Chairman, address First and Ivy Streets, Chico, California.

The Budget and Finance Committee is headed by Dwight Carmack; publicity, Paul L. Roberts; Program chairman, Karl L. Jezler; Housing and reservations, Wm. Rapson, Jr.; Registration and Badges, Walter Bammann; Ladies entertainment, Jack McLerran; general entertainment, John P. McMullen; Men's Banquet, Bert Reed; Decoration committee, Bud Doty; the Reception committee is headed by Ted Meriam, Mayor of Chico; the Parade by Jack Vanella and the Barbecue by Lloyd Shepherd of John Bidwell Parlor and Morrow Steadman of Argonaut Parlor of Oroville.

THE LETTER BOX

Mr. Leonard Schwacofer, Managing Editor,
The Grizzly Bear Magazine,
338 West Center Street,
Anaheim, California,
Dear Leonard:

I note on page 5 of the March issue of the Grizzly Bear magazine an article which includes in it the statement that Leonard A. Kidder of Sacramento is the oldest living Native Son of the Golden West. This is an incorrect statement. Leonard A. Kidder was born February 6, 1854, and joined Sunset Parlor No. 26 on November 8, 1948.

John Nash, born on June 7, 1852, joined Columbia Parlor No. 258 on October 25, 1913. Therefore, Brother John Nash is not only older in years, but he is older in membership in the Native Sons of the Golden West.

In order to correct this error, I believe it well to publish in the next issue the facts as above given.

Sincerely and fraternally yours,
JOHN T. REGAN,
Grand Secretary, N.S.G.W.

JOSHUA TREE PARLOR

Last month we read about a Native son (John B. Schmolle) who is serving the Order in a dual capacity. Would like you to know about a Native Daughter who is serving the Order in a tripple capacity. Senior Past President, pretty blonde Ruth Munz Etz is this year officiating as the Recording Secretary of Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288, Lancaster; Deputy Grand President to Placerita Parlor in Van Nuys; and Director on the Board of the Past President's Association, which meets usually in Santa Ana. Its a good thing she likes to travel! Besides all this she, with her sister Phyllis Munz Damann operate the beautiful Munz Lakes resort, near Lake Hughes, where it is anticipated the Annual Native Sons and Daughters statewide picnic will someday be held. At which time it is planned that the pioneer Eli Munz, will be honored by the marking of the original old Munz ranch, and the Fremont Pass which joins the property.

Santa Ana Parlor To Dedicate Marker

Santa Ana Parlor No. 235, Native Daughters, will honor Grand President Henriett Toothaker at a tea Monday afternoon, April 24, at 2:30 o'clock, at Bowers Museum, Santa Ana.

This will be preceded by dedication of marker at 1 p.m. honoring W. H. Spurgeon father of the city of Santa Ana, on the courthouse grounds. All Native Daughters are invited to attend.

Grand President Toothaker will make her official visit that evening to Grace Parlor, Fullerton and Santa Ana Parlor, jointly at the American Legion hall, Buena Park, 8 o'clock. Preceding the meeting, dinner will be served at Knott's Berry Place, Buena Park at 6:30.

Flag Presentation By South Gate Parlor

South Gate Parlor No. 295, NSGW, took pride in presenting a California Bear Flag and Holy Bible to the new South Gate Hall of Justice at the dedication ceremonies conducted March 4 in South Gate.

He introduced a member of Ramona Parlor and Judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles, the Honorable Julius V. Patrosso who was also the first judge to preside in the new justice court. He gave a short talk on the merits of the new building and also on the fine gesture on the part of the South Gate Native Sons in presenting a Holy Bible as well as the Bear Flag. The Bible is to be used in the Police library.

Past President Hankinson also introduced Judge Stanley M. Sargent, P. P. of Compton Parlor and District Deputy to South Gate Parlor, District Deputy and P. South Gate Parlor Carl Hauck; followed by none other than Past Grand President and Judge of Municipal Court of Los Angeles, the Hon. Walter H. Odemar who made the presentation of the Bible and Bear Flag, as well as a speech appropriate for the occasion.

The Bear Flag was received on behalf of the city of South Gate by Mayor Merle Beckley and the Bible by Chief of Police John Gutting. The principal speaker of the day was a member of Santa Monica Parlor Sheriff Gene Biscailuz who lauded the citizens and city council of South Gate for being so fortunate in having such a beautiful edifice and particularly the fact that the new building is already paid for, as well as all other public buildings of South Gate.

Pacific Parlor No. 10, NSGW, recently enjoyed one of the best affairs ever undertaken by a parlor of the Native Sons. They chartered a Greyhound bus, gathered a party of about 50 and took off for the snow. The destination of this fun loving party was the picturesque Donner Pass area. The Beacon Hill lodge served the breakfast and luncheon. There was tobogganing, skiing, and just plain snow fights. Chairman for the affair was Bert Paulineli. It was tabbed a huge success by all who participated. It will be an annual affair of the parlor in subsequent years.

Hollister Daughters Hold Successful Valentine Party

A Valentine birthday party was a happy occasion for Cope de Oro Parlor, NDGW, Hollister, with January, February and March members complimented, at a "share a dish" dinner. Twenty-five birthday celebrants were seated at a long table gay with red tapers and heart and spring blossoms, and with large chocolate hearts as plate favors. Other tables bore a pleasing decor of tapers and daffodils in red bowls. The central feature of a lace-covered buffet table was dainty birthday cake topped with tapers and spring blossoms. A bountiful menu features a large variety of hot dishes, molded salads, relishes, hot rolls, coffee and home-made cakes.

The dinner was followed by an entertaining program of piano selections by a guest artist, vocal numbers by five-year old Eric Wilson, ukelele number and a quiz and magic tricks by two high school boys.

A contribution of $10.00 was voted to the current polio drive and $5.00 to the drive for the iron lung, as well as $10.00 to San Juan Bautista Parlor toward the lighting of the cross on Pagan Hill.

"California's Golden Beginning," the official Centennials Commission color film, was shown to over 250,000 persons in the Western Pacific exhibit at the Chicago Railroad Fair. Gilbert H. Kneiss, assistant to the president of Western Pacific, writes the film was extremely popular.

San Juan Bautista Daughters Celebrate

The Native Daughter Adobe was the scene of a recent festive celebration of the 40th anniversary of the institution of San Juan Bautista Parlor, NDGW. The informal meeting was held in the lounge around a blazing fire with guests present from Hollister, Santa Cruz, Watsonville and Monterey.

The program opened with the singing of "God Bless America," followed by the reading of the institution minutes read by the first secretary, Mayme Avilla. Four charter members were introduced and greeted by DGP Minnie Rippenberg with an originally worded song to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." P. G. P. Bertha Briggs presented the honored members with pins emblematic of their continuous service. Corsages were presented to them and to Eva Rhoades, of Watsonville, organizer of the Parlor—to two Copa de Oro members, Alice Maggini, who acted as Grand Marshal at the institution ceremonies—and to P.G.P. Briggs. Gifts were presented to Grace Cagney on her wedding anniversary and to Adi Wilcox as a birthday remembrance. The parlor was the recipient of many gifts from friends and members.

PLANS ADVANCE FOR "STATEHOOD IN FIFTY"

With the naming of Raymond D. Williamson, Past Grand President, Native Sons of the Golden West to the general chairmanship of a large citizens' committee by Mayor Elmer Robinson, the city and county of San Francisco is now taking an active part in planning for participation in the Statehood Centennial celebration which will climax the three-year program of Centennials observances throughout the state.

Past Grand President Williamson heads a civic group of some 300 men and women who were invited to serve by Mayor Robinson. Two enthusiastic preliminary meetings of this group have been held, and Chairman Williamson has expressed himself as greatly pleased with the interest shown by the general membership.

The official name of this main sponsoring group is Citizens' Committee for the Centennial celebration of California's Admission into the Union. In cooperation with the California Centennials Commission, the citizens' committee will sponsor an ambitious program for 1950, culminating in the main celebration of the year, September 1st to 10th, in San Francisco. This celebration will have the additional sponsorship of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West.

To facilitate business dealings—particularly financial operations—as between the city and county of San Francisco, the California Centennials Commission and the Citizens' Committee, an additional corporate group has been formed. This is known as "The San Francisco Centennial Committee, a Corporation."

Chairman Williamson of the main citizens' committee is also chairman of the corporation committee. The membership consists of John T. Regan, Grand Secretary of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Vice Chairman; Native Son Edwin Riegger, prominent certified public accountant of San Francisco, Secretary; Native Son Frank M. Buckley, a vice president of the Bank of America, Treasurer; Mrs. Henry J. Dippel of the Native Daughters, prominent in San Francisco civic and cultural activities; and Harry Romick and Eugene H. O'Donnell, both long active in Native Sons affairs.

Serving on this corporation committee as advisory consultants will be George Heinz, Executive Secretary of the California Centennials Commission, and Wren Middlebrook, Assistant Controller, city and county of San Francisco.

This corporation committee has held business sessions and already has established cordial and efficient relations with both city and state in the matter of contractual and financial responsibilities.

Under such auspices, plans for "Statehood in Fifty," can be expected to advance rapidly toward culmination on the one-hundredth anniversary of Admission Day, September 9, 1950.

Alameda County September 9th Committee Makes Plans

Monday night, March 6th saw the Alameda County 9th of September Committee meeting in the supervisor's chambers in the court house. With Larry Lafleur as chairman, Katherine Dombink as co-chairman and Maxine Clement as secretary, the committee discussed various possibilities for the centennial celebration, such as; a centennial dinner dance on Saturday night, August 19; a Centennial pageant at the Oaks baseball park during a night game in April, county headquarters to be the Native Sons' building in San Francisco and some discussion of the possible parade line-up for the 9th of September. The meeting adjourned as Chairman Lafleur announced the next meeting would be Monday, March 27th.

Delegates and visitors to the Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons of the Golden West, to be held in Chico, Butte County, May 15-18, will have an opportunity to see the famous Sir Joseph Hooker Oak, reportedly largest oak tree in the world, located in Bidwell Park, four miles from the center of the city. The trunk of this great tree is over 50 feet in circumference and it is estimated that 8000 people can stand in its shade, allowing two square feet per person.

Bidwell Park, where the tree stands, is said to be the third largest municipally owned park in the United States, consisting of nine miles of virgin forest with running streams the year around, golf links, swimming pools, playgrounds and picnic grounds.

Many historic spots of interest are to be found in and around Chico, and at nearby Oroville, county seat of Butte county.

California 75 Years Ago

As Compiled from the Files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine

Picnics and politics occupied the public attention in California during May, 1875. It is singular how quickly the American citizen forms a habit, and this was the great bolting year in politics, independents being numerous.

Since Lake Tahoe's discovery by white men, there had been, up to May 31 of this year, fourteen men drowned there, the last being Captain Richard Baker. The bodies of but two, who perished in shallow water, were ever found.

A Chinese bride, valued at $600, was shipped by express from Colfax, Placer County, to Marysville, Yuba county, May 20. She was gorgeously dressed, and rode in the express car all the way.

The San Francisco Mint melted and coined 50,000 ounces of gold this month. It was a world record.

During the first week of the month the salmon run in the Sacramento river reached its maximum, fishermen catching an average of forty fish a day, and fifty boats were operating between Sacramento and Freepoint. Several carloads of salmon were sent East each week.

A piece of fossil wood was found in the South Fork tunnel near Forest City, Sierra county, in an ancient buried channel 800 feet below the surface, 1,800 feet from its entrance and at an altitude of 4,500 feet above sea level. It was oak, 20 inches long, 14 inches wide, 5 inches thick—a section of a tree that was two feet in diameter. It had been cut into its present shape by a sharp tool and, of course, by the hands of a prehistoric man.

On a sheep ranch at the head of the San Joaquin river May 27, two grizzlies attacked the sheep in their corral. William Reed and William Carpenter, in charge, attempted to protect the sheep, but both were killed by the bears.

Mt. Bally To Restore Historic Spiral Stairs

Native Sons of Mt. Bally Parlor No. 8, Weaverville, plan to restore their Historic Spiral Stairs which were torn down by a lumber truck and trailer on the evening of March 1.

These stairs, the only original Old City Winding Stairs left in Weaverville, were built in 1854 by John Carr, pioneer blacksmith and in later years author of "Pioneer Days in California."

The reason these stairs were built in such a manner, was due to the unique ownership of a two-story building involved. This, now damaged building, was and still is owned by two separate organizations. The Knights of Pythias owning the lower story and the Native Sons of the Golden West the upper story. As the building was built right up to the sidewalk, as a means of gaining entrance to the top story without trespassing on the property of the owners below, these winding stairs were built over the street and sidewalk. There was also involved a written agreement, which has long been the study of legal firms from all over the country, as to whom should maintain various parts of the building. Each day these historic winding stairs are viewed with interest, many taking pictures, by travelers from all parts of the world.

The run-a-way lumber truck that tore down these stairs, and also damaged several other buildings, carried a minimum property damage insurance, so the reimbursement from this source will be little better than nothing. The Native Sons of Mt. Bally parlor find that in order to restore this historic landmark to its original likeness, the parlor will be put to a heavy financial burden for which this parlor has not the finances.

Since these historic stairs are the property of the Native Sons and do not belong to any form of public ownership, the parlor is ineligible to apply to the State Restoration Fund for the restoration of historic monuments. Therefore Mt. Bally parlor is making an appeal to the Native Sons and the general public to raise funds to restore this historic monument of pioneer California.

At a recent meeting of Mt. Bally parlor, a financial committee for the restoration of these stairs was appointed to raise the needed funds. This committee is now asking the people, who wish to contribute to this worthy cause, to send their contributions to the Restoration Fund, Mt. Bally Parlor No. 87, NSGW, Weaverville, California.

Native Sons Grand Parlor Delegates Will See Chico Points of Interest

When the delegates to the Grand Lodge Convention come to Chico in May they should arrange to spend a day or so extra visiting historical spots in and around Chico and Oroville.

In Chico they can see the Bidwell Mansion and Bidwell park, third largest municipally owned park in the United States, nine miles of virgin forest with running streams the year around, golf links, swimming pools, play grounds, and picnic grounds; also Sir Joseph Hooker Oak, largest in the world. Chico has the first Plant Introduction Garden in the U.S. and is the home of Chico State college, second Normal School built in California. Chico is the center of the almond district where more than half the almonds in the U.S. are produced. Rice, stock raising, fruit, vegetables, grain, and lumbering are only a few of the diversified industries found here.

On display here is a replica of the famous Weatherbee Nugget, largest gold nugget ever found in America, and which was found about 20 miles east of Chico. There are many old mining sites near here, some still in operation. The famous Cherokee hydraulic mining operations, now a ghost town, is a mecca for thousands every year. Millions in gold were mined here and this place is also famous as the best diamond mine in the United States.

The Humboldt Road, built by General John Bidwell, founder of the city of Chico, and the Humbug Road, are two famous stage routes of early days, now main arteries into the lumbering, mining, fishing, and hunting sections. Fishing in the nearby streams and lakes is said to be the best in the West, so delegates should bring along their fishing equipment.

Over at Oroville, the nearby county seat of Butte county are more points of interest, a museum sponsored by the Native Daughters Gold of Ophir Parlor, as is a museum sponsored by the Annie E. K. Bidwell Parlor here.

At Oroville, and in the mountains nearby are mines of note, including the famous Bidwell Bar, now a State park. Here the Native Sons of Argonaut Parlor No. 8 of Oroville have erected markers for the Mother Orange tree, first planted in Northern California and for the suspension bridge, still standing after nearly 100 years.

This bridge, by the way, was made in New York by the same company which made the San Francisco Bay bridge, the cables being 4 inches at Bidwell Bar, the Bay bridge cables being 16 inches. The Bidwell Bar bridge was shipped around the Horn and erected at Bidwell Bar. Many points of interest are still there at Bidwell Bar and near here is also a marker where Black Bart, the lone bandit of early days, pulled one of his many stage robberies.

The Honey Run Covered bridge, five miles from Chico, is the second largest covered bridge in California and is surrounded by unusual scenic beauty. It is still in use and has been marked by the Native Daughters of Chico.

The various committees in charge of the reception and entertainment of the Grand Parlor Session in Chico report that everything is in order. The General committee is headed by William H. Metzger and includes Jack McLerran, Karl L. Jezler, Ralph Earle, Alvah F. Earle, Bert E. Reed, Earle C. Arbuckle, Gordon H. Casamajor, Harry V. Smith, Elvin B. Shepherd, Lloyd M. LaBreacht and William E. Rapson, Jr.

A parade is planned for "Fun Day" in Chico during the convention and any parlor wishing to enter a float or drum corp should notify Jack Vanella, parade chairman, address P. O. Box 69, Chico, California.

The Budget and Finance Committee is headed by Dwight Carmack, chairman; Publicity Paul L. Roberts, chairman; Program, Karl L. Jezler, chairman; Housing and Reservations William E. Rapson, Jr.; Transportation and Tours, George L. Adams, chairman; Registration and Badges, Walter Bammann, chairman; Ladies Entertainment, Jack McLerran, chairman; General Entertainment, John P. McMullen, chairman; Men's Banquet, Bert E. Reed, chairman; Decorations, Frank K. Terrell, chairman; Grand Ball, Gordon H. Casamajor, chairman; Parade, Jack F. Vanella, chairman; Barbecue, Lloyd Shepherd of John Bidwell Parlor and Morrow Steadman of Argonaut Parlor. The Reception Committee is headed by Ted Meriam, Mayor of the City of Chico.

Historic Butte County

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian
Native Sons of the Golden West

The Seventy-third Session of the Grand Juror of the Native Sons of the Golden West will be held in Chico, Butte county, on May 5, 16, 17, 18, 1950. The delegates to the Grand Juror Convention will enjoy the scenic and historic aspect of Butte county.

Butte County is flat in its western half, to the east it rises from low foothills to mountains exceeding 6,000 feet in elevation. It is a wonderland where one can see creeks with their sparkling contents rushing impetuously toward the rivers below. Then there is the panorama of old abandoned mining towns, remnants of early gold rush days. There are rice fields of crops yielding fruits and nuts and a well balanced diversity of agricultural products. It is also well known for its history of the miners in the halcyon days of 1849 and 1850. Much of Butte county's history goes back to the days before the discovery of gold.

During the 1820's this region was explored by trappers and hunters and later pioneer settlers started to traverse the area.

In the early days Butte county was inhabited by Indians mostly of the northwestern Maidu tribes and during the Pastoral period in California several Mexican ranchos were granted to Americans in the 1840's.

One of the early pioneers of Butte county was General John Bidwell who came to California as one of the leaders of the first overland train.

According to Rensch and Hoover's Historic Sites in California, Valley and Sierra counties, page 27, "on his arrival Bidwell was employed for a time by John A. Sutter at Sutter's Fort, but in the late '40's he bought Rancho Chico from William Dickey and Edward A. Farwell, the original grantees of Rancho Arroyo Chico (November 18, 1844) and of the Farwell Grant (March 29, 1844), and the first settlers of Butte county. On Rancho Chico Bidwell built the stone mansion which is now used as the Girls' Dormitory of the Chico State Teachers' College. On his ranch General Bidwell founded the town of Chico in 1850, later donating land for public schools, setting aside a plot of ground for each church organization and designating a large section for the Normal school, now the Chico State Teachers' college, established in 1889."

Bancroft's Pioneer Register states that "John Bidwell was a native of New York born in 1819 who went with his parents to Pennsylvania and Ohio, a school teacher in Ohio and Iowa an immigrant from Missouri to California in the Bartleson party. Upon the discovery of gold, he became a pioneer miner on the Feather river, where Bidwell's Bar was named for him. He became one of the most prominent agriculturists of the state. He was chosen as a member of the first legislature of 1849-50. Appointed brigadier-general of Militia in 1863 by Governor Stanford."

According to "California Place Names" by Erwin G. Gudde "When Butte county was named and created, February 18, 1850, the buttes were within its borders. They are now in Sutter county. The cluster name had its origin in the three buttes which are called Sutter Buttes."

This county was one of the original twenty-seven counties into which the state was divided in 1850. Since that time most of the area which comprised the original county has given up a great part to make up parts of Plumas, Lassen, Glenn, Sutter and Tehama counties.

John C. Cole in his Guide to the County of Butte at Chico, California, states: "During the early years the county seat was subject to frequent changes. The original act permitted the voters to choose between Chico and Butte City, the people, however, preferred neither of these places, hence much confusion. In July, 1850, the administrative center was temporarily placed at Chico, only to be moved the next month to Bidwell's Bar, where it remained until Hamilton was made the county seat by a second popular election held in September. The county seat was at Hamilton from October, 1850, to August, 1855, when by legislative act it was again moved to Bidwell's Bar. Here it remained until, by a vote of the people, it was established at Oroville in 1856."

Among the leading cities and towns is Chico. Points of interest include the famous Bidwell Park. Just outside the city stands the Hooker Oak, said to be the largest of all American oaks. It was named in honor of Sir Joseph Hooker, the English botanist who visited here in 1877. There are many other historic landmarks in the vicinity of Chico.

Oroville is the county seat and is situated at the western gateway to the scenic Feather river highway. This city is one of California's oldest mining towns. Many relics of the gold rush days, including the Cherokee hydraulic mining area, is located in the vicinity. The first miners came to Oroville in 1849. They started a mining camp here and called it Ophir City or Gold City but the name was later changed to Oroville.

Among the numerous places in Butte county to visit are Gridley, Biggs, Durham, Bangor, Cherokee, Honcut, Paradise, Clipper Mills, Forbestown and Richvale.

Bidwell's Bar is one of the most historic landmarks. He discovered gold on the river in 1848. Also nearby is an orange tree which has been standing since 1856. The Bidwell Bar suspension bridge, it is said, was placed in service in 1856.

This area shares with the rest of the gold producing counties of California in history. Gold towns flourished and then disappeared while some survived and developed into large cities. Butte county has always been among the leading producers in gold since 1848.

Among some of the early towns are Honcut City which is located between the present towns of Wyandotte and Bangor, Stringtown near Enterprise, French town, above Yankee Hill, and Spanish town near Deadwood.

Other towns long forgotten are Hell Town, which was located near Centerville, Diamondville, from which the Diamondville school district derived its name. Hell Town was outdone by nearby Whiskey Flat. Lynchberg stood on the site of the present Western Pacific roundhouse and a settlement called Sebastopol was located in Morris Ravine, about five miles northeast of Oroville. Table Mountain, which overlooks Oroville, was known in early days as Tancow Mountain. Among some of the mining camps on the North Fork of the Feather river were Kanaka Bar, Huff's Bar, Shore's Bar, and other mining settlements in Butte county include Dogtown, Flea Valley, Rich Gulch and Chub Gulch. These places had the same characteristics as other early California mining camps, the happy days and the rough ones and many have gone out of existence and now live only in history.

Today, Agriculture is the leading basic producing industry in Butte county. The delegates to the Grand Juror can take the roads now bordered by cultivated fields of rice, olive, peach and almond orchards also dairies. A visitor can travel over country in this county and find a never ending landscape of grand and pleasant scenes.

Napa Parlor Celebrates Its 65th Anniversary

Napa Parlor No. 62, NSGW, extended their usual invitation to all the Grand Officers and members of the Order to help them celebrate their recent 65th anniversary. The scene was the Native Sons building in Napa. To start off the affair in fine time, every one enjoyed a tasty chicken dinner, following which every one assembled in the meeting room to witness the initiatory team of the Past Presidents of Napa Parlor put on the work of the Order. They did themselves proud too. Grand 2nd Vice President J. Walter Kamb represented the Grand President who was in the southern part of the state on Native Son business. Others in attendance were Past Grand President Edward Schnarr, Grand Treasurer Al Walcott, Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich, Grand Trustee Armen Nishkian, and Grand Third Vice President Lou Pellandini. There were visiting brothers from all over the State to help celebrate this great occasion. President John Christ gave his words of gratitude to everyone for being present and introduced the entertainment for the evening.

"San Francisco Parlor No. 49, NSGW" recently initiated a class of candidates in honor of the man who is always responsible for getting candidates Frank Martin. It has long been a custom of Frank Martin and San Francisco Parlor No. 49 to take the candidates to dinner before the initiation. When the class of eight, shown above with officers of the parlor, was small it is reported that all are attending regularly since their initiation—Graphic Photo.

Native Daughters Grand Parlor to Convene in Santa Cruz for Annual Session, June 18-22

By ALGIA H. SMITH

The 64th annual convening of the Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will be in Santa Cruz the leisurely fiesta land in northern California where the mighty sea-green ocean restlessly swirls against the peaceful shore and from whose edge towering mountains, studded with age-old redwoods, rise to shelter the thriving tourist, commercial, and residential city of Santa Cruz from inclement weather. Nowhere else in America do beaches and mountains blend into such a perfect harmony of land and sea and nowhere else can industry thrive so vigorously in the midst of the homes of the retired and the hustle and bustle of fun seeking tourists.

The white man's history of Santa Cruz begins with its discovery in 1769 by an expedition under the command of Don Gaspar de Portola. In 1791 Franciscan fathers established the Mission Santa Cruz on the lovely tableland called by its discoverers "holy cross" in recognition of its perfect beauty. The mission was destroyed in 1857 but today, on Mission Hill within the city of Santa Cruz, the visitor can see an accurate replica of that early bastion of western Christianity. In 1797 the villa de Branciforte, a rough, turbulent village of ruffians in constant conflict with the padres, was founded on the east side of the San Lorenzo river. Branciforte Avenue in Santa Cruz was once the race track for the Spanish dandies who settled there. Among the historical structures of Santa Cruz are the old "Neary adobe" built in 1801; the Vasquez barn, hideout of the notorious bandit Tiburcio Vasquez, the several strange covered bridges of the 1870's and the ghost town of "Big Trees" located in the County Big Trees park eight miles north of the city.

Among the most fascinating wonders of lovely Santa Cruz are the enormous redwoods that grow in the enchanted valley of the San Lorenzo. These age-old monsters of the forest have been standing in the Santa Cruz mountains since long before the days when Christ walked the earth. No one standing in the shadow of these regal Sequoias in the Santa Cruz County Big Trees Park, located at Felton, north of Santa Cruz can escape being awed with their splendor.

To the hundreds of thousands of city weary pleasure seekers who each year bask in the friendly rays of the warm Santa Cruz sun on the "beach at Santa Cruz," the "beach" is a cherished memory that haunts their thoughts when winter rains beat down on bleak city streets. All who visit the beach at Santa Cruz, or other fine beaches at nearby Capitola, Sea-cliff State Park, and Rio Del Mar, take away fond memories of carefree days under the carefree California sun, and most return again and again and again.

East and west of the "Beach at Santa Cruz" lie rugged cliffs upon which the restless ocean lashes with timeless fury, wearing away strange forms from the sandstone faces of the ancient walls that Nature has reared to protect the rolling farm land beyond. Here one can spend many exciting hours watching the galloping waves explode upon the rocky coast or in examining the weird natural arches that the sea has formed.

In or near Santa Cruz there is fishing, swimming, hunting, flying, bowling, polo, tennis, merry-go-rounds, yachting, hiking, motor-boating, and motoring, and this, and that, and a dozen other pastimes that only in Santa Cruz can be enjoyed in one place at the same time. As a place to vacation, as a convention city, as a place to live, as a place to work, and as a place to play, Santa Cruz, offers as much as any city and a great deal more than most.

Los Angeles County Honors Grand President

Supervising district deputy grand presidents and deputy grand presidents of Los Angeles county honored Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Woodland, Grand President of the Native Daughters, with a Centennial Civic luncheon commemorating, "One Hundred Years of Statehood," April 22, at Ciro's restaurant, Los Angeles.

Miss Toothaker who is a school teacher by profession, is very interested in preserving the traditions of California. She said, "During these Centennial years we are well aware of the golden era in our state, which to most people marked its beginning. We must pay homage to those pioneers for their daring and strength, which opened up this fertile land for our culture of today. I feel that the history of our State must be preserved and taught to our youth, who are the builders of the future. Through education we hope to stimulate a deeper appreciation of the ideals, privileges and obligations of American citizenship."

Mrs. Lawrence E. Wells, East Los Angeles Parlor, and supervising district deputy grand president, served as general chairman, assisted by Mrs. William L. Frye, Topanga Parlor and Mrs. Alice M. Waldow, Long Beach, supervising the San Fernando and harbor areas. Mrs. Louis S. Hansen, Verdugo Parlor, Glendale, Past Grand President was mistress-of-ceremonies.

Mrs. Lila Stevenson, La Tijera Parlor, Inglewood, program chairman, presented the El Segundo High school string ensemble with James Riewer, director, and the El Segundo high school girls chorus with Miss Marianne Di Noto, director.

The program was as follows: Most Reverend J. Francis A. McIntyre Invocation; honorable Fletcher Bowron, greetings from the city of Los Angeles; Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Grand President spoke on "Our Golden Era"; Mr. Bruce A. Findlay, Associated Superintendent of Los Angeles city schools, spoke on "Your Rugged Constitution"; The Reverend Willsie Martin Minister Emeritus of Wilshire Methodist church gave the benediction.

Marinita Meeting Hall Is Destroyed By Fire

Marinita Parlor No. 198, NDGW, San Rafael, reports that their meeting place, The Portuguese American hall, was recently destroyed by fire. However, due to the courageous work of the fire department, very little of Marinita Parlor's belongings were destroyed.

Outstanding was the fact that the treasure of the parlor,—a 75-year-old flag bearing 46 stars, almost circled by scorched, charred and water soaked walls, was found beautifully clear, without as much as a water spot, when the clubroom doors were unlocked.

Temporary meeting place will be the Carpenters' hall, Tamalpais and Fifth streets, San Rafael on the second and fourth Fridays.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 To Mark Historic Adobe

The de la Osa Adobe marking of Los Angeles Parlor, NDGW, is set for 7:30 p. m., Sunday, May 21. The parlor's history and landmarks committee, headed by Mrs. Evelyn Spaulding, chairman, and Mrs. Jack (Lillian) Stratton, vice-chairman, will be in charge.

Several outstanding California historians will relate the romantic story of the old adobe and the land on which it stands. A colorful musical program of Spanish, Mexican and early California melodies will be presented. Members of old Southern California families, including direct descendants of the de la Osa family, will be special guests.

Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, NDGW Grand Vice President and member of Los Angeles Parlor, will be special guest of honor and will speak. Parlor president, Bernice Setterberg will make the presentation of the plaque.

Mrs. Setterberg said the May 21 event really is a "re-marking" of the venerable site, a previous bronze plaque having been placed there by Los Angeles Parlor in 1937, when Mrs. George (Edna) Neikirk was president.

The Adobe, built in 1849 by Don Vicente de la Osa, stands on land that is a part of the one-square league Rancho El Encino granted in 1845 by Governor Pio Pico to three Indians, Ramon, Francisco, and Roque, whose interests were purchased by Don Vicente. Originally the land was under jurisdiction of Mission San Fernando Rey, founded in 1797.

To attend the marking, Angelenos should drive west on Ventura Blvd., about one and two-thirds miles west of Sepulveda Blvd., in San Fernando valley. At what would be No. 16889, turn right onto Balboa Ave. The Adobe will be plainly seen on the right hand side of the street.

La Tijera Parlor Gives Plaque To New School

A plaque, giving the derivation of the name and historical background of the La Tijera cattle brand, to be placed on the new La Tijera school, was presented by La Tijera Parlor No. 282, NDGW, to the Inglewood city schools, recently. Ceremonies were held in the evening at the regular La Tijera Parent-Teacher Association meeting. The presentation was made by Mrs. May Zimmerman, president, and Mrs. George Eberle, chairman of the California History and Landmarks Committee, to Dr. Robert E. Cralle, Superintendent of schools. Also present were Mrs. Belle Ostrup, first vice-president of Californiana Parlor, and Mrs. Viola Anderson, great granddaughters of Vicente Sanchez, original owner of Rancho Cienega Paso de la Tijera. An extremely interesting addition to the ceremonies was the personal history of the Sanchez family given by Mrs. Ostrup.

The plaque reads, "Rancho Paso de la Tijera derived its name from a pass through the Baldwin Hills to the northeast of this school site. On August 29, 1854, the above cattle-brand was issued to Don Tomas Sanchez, whose cattle grazed in this area." The La Tijera cattlebrand was placed in the upper corner, making an attractive marker.

Lugonia Parlor No. 241, San Bernardino, placed a marker in Pioneer Park, April 26. This marker is to commemorate Don Antonio Lugo. Grand President Toothaker was present at the marking. Lois Knucky did a tremendous amount of work on this and is to be commended for her pride of organization and civic spirit.

County Fire Warden Bert Werder, veteran San Mateo county official, was honored recently when Bonita Parlor No. 10, NDGW, Redwood City, held its annual Arbor Day ceremonies. Above at the Taft school, two trees were planted, one dedicated to Past Grand President Evelyn I. Carlson, NDGW, and the other to Bonita Parlor No. 10. Grand Marshal Eugene Cerqui, NSGW, was the speaker. At City Firehouse No. 1 members of the parlor planted a tree dedicated to the county fire warden, with Supervisor E. R. McDonald as the speaker.

San Diego Parlor No. 208 recently held a reception and tea to honor Grand Trustee Emily Welch. Grand Vice-President Anna T. Schiebusch and the past presidents of San Diego Parlor were in the receiving line and the officers acted as hostesses. Pouring were Rena Churchill, deputy to San Diego Parlor from Lugonia Parlor No. 241, President Elvera Wittenberg and two of San Diego's charter members, Irma Heilbron and Sophia Sharpe.

Laura Spitzer, new president of Orinda Parlor No. 56, San Francisco, plans to go into welfare work on even a larger scale than last year. Last year the parlor remembered 72 children in the tubercular ward of San Francisco hospital with individually wrapped Christmas gifts, gave magazine subscriptions to veterans at Fort Miley hospital, remembered the nurses of World War I at Palo Alto hospital, and also remembered their own Native Daughter home. The parlor contributed to the Guide Dogs for the Blind fund. Plans are now being formulated for active participation in the commemoration of the 100th anniversary of California's statehood.

San Fernando Mission Parlor No. 280, is a good example of an active parlor. From their bulletin, we read that they attended a pot-luck dinner at the Canoga Park Womens Club, for all members of District 37. April 19, they held their annual Spanish dinner, which was open to the public. The parlor celebrated its fifth birthday with a delicious fish and roast beef dinner followed by an evening of entertainment. The Mission City Barber Shop quartet sang, and a skit of old fashioned songs and the costumes of its era was presented by members of the parlor under the capable direction of Vera Gale and music by Kathryn Lennard. Parlor Organizer Matty Gara, presented an American flag to the parlor.

March 10, 1887, Minerva Parlor No. 2, San Francisco, was organized as the first Native Daughter parlor in San Francisco. This anniversary was celebrated March 17, by members of the parlor with president Gladys Nelson and Deputy Grand President Ruby Bried as guests of honor. Domina Zimmer supervised the evening.

The Home Committee of Aloha Parlor No. 106 Oakland, sponsored a silver shower, the proceeds of which were turned over to Sall R. Thaler, State chairman for the building fund for the future new Native Daughter home. After a community sing of old-time Irish tunes, Chairman Alma Lilienthal and her committee served refreshments. The sum $10.00 was sent to the Children's hospital, the East Bay, in memory of Ann Burr's brother and Winifred Gookin's mother.

Having attained its goal of 100 members to commemorate California's Centennial year and with an extra nine for good measure, Terra del Oro Parlor No. 304, Santa Barbara closed its charter in mid-March.

The parlor is entering a contestant in the public speaking contest sponsored by Grand Parlor. This activity is in the hands of M. Marjorie Reidel, education chairman, and M. Ben Dismuke, public speaking contest chairman for the tri-counties.

Shamrocks and harps formed the decorative motif for the formal meeting of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, San Francisco and Mission Parlor No. 227, San Francisco, when Grand President Henrietta Toothaker made her official visit to the two parlors. Mesdames Ma Mahoney and Bertha Henneter were co-chairmen for the evening.

Deputy Grand Presidents of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Alameda county, are planning a civic luncheon to be held at the Lake Merritt hotel on May 1 honoring Grand President Henrietta Toothaker. General arrangements for the affair are under the direction of Minnie Silva, SDDG.

Santa Barbara's Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 on April 20, closed its 49th year with an impressive record of civic accomplishment and consistent adherence to the four cardinal principles of the Order. The parlor, with 10 members, five of whom are charter members and 26 of whom are past-presidents, has taken California Statehood as program theme for its golden jubilee year.

Our Cover

Our cover this month by Gabriel Moulin Studios, San Francisco, features the California redwoods. Because of their great size, it is impossible to adequately portray their beauty and magnificence. Native Daughters attending the 64th Grand Parlor session at Santa Cruz, are urged to see the splendid grove at the Santa Cruz county Big Trees park in the mountains just a few miles above the city. Here are some of the most splendid specimens to be seen anywhere, the tallest having been scaled by transit at 285 feet.

The stand of redwoods in the Santa Cruz mountains is estimated to have supplied ten billion feet of lumber since the gold rush occasioned the first demand for the building of San Francisco.

A visit to the park will always be remembered as one of the highlights of anyone's vacation.

California 75 Years Ago

As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine

June was the great convention month of 1875 in California. The quadrennial election of state officers was being prepared for. Four state tickets were in the field, and there were about 2,000 candidates. For governor, the Republicans nominated Timothy Guy Phelps of San Mateo county, the Independents or "Dolly Vardens" named John Bidwell of Butte county to head their ticket, and the Democrats headed theirs with William Irwin of Siskiyou county. W. E. Lovett was the Temperance party's gubernatorial nominee.

E. J. Baldwin, known better as "Lucky" began preparations this month to build the Baldwin hotel on the corner of Market and Powell streets, San Francisco, at a cost of $800,000.

John Guilletta, erected a wine cellar at Saint Helena, Napa county, with a storage capacity of 150,000 gallons to accommodate this season's vintage, of which 70,000 was expected to be made from his own vineyard.

Los Angeles shipped from its orange crop 5,350,000 oranges and 620,000 lemons to the San Francisco market, which had a demand for as many more and imported them from Mexico and the Sandwich Islands.

The steamer "Orizaba" arrived at Santa Barbara with a large consignment of grouse, pheasants and other gamebirds to stock the adjacent Santa Cruz island.

Over 1,000 men were now employed in putting the finishing touches on the Palace hotel in San Francisco. The 745 rooms were all to be open to sunshine at some time of the day.

A Chinaman fishing in the Feather river at Bidwell's Bar, Butte county, caught a sturgeon weighing 150 pounds June 15.

Flocks of quail were so numerous between Placerville and Coloma, Eldorado county, they had to be driven off the roads by passing vehicles, or be run over.

The Green Mine, in Placer county, after a thirty days' run, cleaned up $7,000. The Saint Patrick mine, not far away, got $5,000 from 300 tons of rock.

The New York Hill mine, in Nevada county, crushed 160 tons of rock and cleaned up $8,360, or over $52 a ton.

The hoisting works of the Murchie mine at Nevada City, Nevada county, burned June 21. There were five White men and a Chinaman in the shaft, 100 feet below John McCourt, Samuel Hecker and Thomas Jenkins were killed by foul air, but Dan O'Donnel, Jackson Stephens and the Chinaman escaped.

Santa Cruz Redwoods

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

In the historic city of Santa Cruz, set like a gem at the mouth of the San Lorenzo river, on Monterey Bay, the 64th Grand Parlor session of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will be held June 18 to 22.

In order to get a pre-view of this beautiful city by the Pacific, with its magnificent backdrop of wooded mountains, where grow the majestic redwoods for which California is famous, a Grizzly Bear scout car last month made the drive down the famous Skyline drive from San Francisco.

In the May issue Algia H. Smith told Grizzly Bear readers something of the history and points of interest around Santa Cruz which are intriguing to every visitor. However, this month we want to enlarge on the story of the giant redwoods just a few miles above the city in the Santa Cruz county Big Trees park. To gain a greater appreciation of the wonder and beauty of California you must see them when you attend the Native Daughter Grand Parlor.

When you visit the park you will be given a folder telling something of the history of the redwoods, the ghost town located in them, and a brief description of the various big trees that have been named. You will treasure this folder as a souvenir of your attendance at the 64th Grand Parlor.

Some of the material in the folder is reprinted below:

California Redwoods are remnants of an ancient species of conifers which once spread over the northern hemisphere in both America and Asia. Their fossil remains have been found in geological strata as far back as the Jurassic period, the age of reptiles, in the earth's development.

Today three surviving species are known, the Sequoia Sempervirens of the north California coast, the Sequoia Gigantea of the west slope of the Sierra Nevada range, and the "dawn redwoods" found in 1947 by a scientific expedition from the United States to the interior of China.

The Sempervirens, such as those in the Santa Cruz county Big Trees Park, a hundred years ago grew along the coast from Monterey county to the Oregon border. The stand in the Santa Cruz mountains is estimated to have supplied ten billion feet of lumber since the gold rush occasioned the first demand for building San Francisco.

Both varieties of California redwoods are strongly resistant to the attack of insects, fungal parasites and to fire because of the presence of tannin and absence of resin and pitch. The coastal variety, the Sempervirens, is tallest of known trees, one specimen in Humboldt county having measured 364 feet. It lacks, however, the girth sometimes attained by the Gigantea.

The tallest tree standing today in the Santa Cruz county Big Trees Park is the Giant, scaled by transit at 285 feet. The large tree at the entrance near the Big Tree Inn is 265 feet high.

Preservation of the stand of Sequoia Sempervirens in the county-owned park is due to Joseph Warren Welch, a native of Boston, who in 1867 bought from Judge Edward Stanley of San Francisco 350 acres—a portion of the Rancho Canada del Rincon, a Mexican grant of 1843 to Pierre Sainsevain.

In 1930 the Santa Cruz county supervisors for $75,000 bought from Joseph W. Welch, a son of Joseph Warren Welch, 120 acres of which forty are now the park dedicated to perpetuation of the finest and oldest stand of coastal redwoods left in existence. To former Lieutenant Governor William T. Jeter, who headed the movement to create the park, a tree has been dedicated with a plaque.

The best authorities agree that the Sequoia Sempervirens frequently attain an age of 2,000 years. Some of those standing in the park had started as seedlings when Christ was born.

California State Picnic Scheduled

Sunday, August 6 has been set as the date for the California state picnic at the famous Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles. The affair is sponsored by the Los Angeles county Native Sons and Daughters Inter-Parlor picnic committee. This picnic to be held where many state picnics are held by those from other states residing in California, is for all Natives of the state, whether members of the Orders or not. A program of games, races, baseball and all that goes with a big picnic is planned. John Schmolle, president of the Inter-Parlor is general chairman of the event.

Parlors To Dedicate Marker At Michigan Bar

Liberty Parlor No. 213, NDGW and Elk Grove Parlor No. 41, NSGW, are planning the formal dedication of the site of Michigan Bar, Sunday, June 25 at 3 p.m. The marker is to be placed on State Highway 16, approximately one mile south of the original town which, in its boom days, had a population of about 1500. There are now three residents.

Of the original buildings, there are but three remaining. The surrounding area shows much evidence of the hydraulic mining that was resorted to when dry and placer methods failed to continue to yield. Dredgers are still being operated in the vicinity. Michigan Bar was the township from the time gold was discovered in 1849 until the 1870's when the population moved elsewhere and gave posterity another "ghost town."

MARK TWAIN'S CABIN

Drawing by Emmett P. Joy when cabin was shaded with a large oak. The oak tree to the right of the picture no longer stands.

A Personal Visit to Mark Twain's Cabin

By EMMETT P. JOY,
Grand Historian N. S. G. W.

THE hills that border the historic Stanislaus river, where highway 49 winds its way, are high and wooded. On the west is Carson hill named for James H. Carson, a soldier who came to California in 1847. In 1848 he discovered gold on this spot and his diggings became known as Carson's creek. The high hill to the east side of the Stanislaus is Jackass hill. It was so called because donkeys were used during the gold rush days to haul miner's supplies up its slopes.

On the summit of Jackass hill is a cabin which is a replica of the original. It is said that it was built by Dick Stoker (who was Dick Baker in Mark Twain's book "Roughing It") in 1850.

During the summer of 1925 the writer visited William R. Gillis at the cabin, known as "Mark Twain's cabin," and spent several hours conversing about the old days and the happenings that took place in the Mother Lode also the days he spent living with Mark Twain on Jackass Hill. (At this time Mr. Gillis was the last living acquaintance of Mark Twain in this region). Mark Twain shared the cabin with him and his brothers while he resided in Tuolumne county. Any one familiar with Mark Twain's works will recall his reference to the "Fighting Gillis Boys." Mr. Gillis was a kindly gentleman and in the course of his conversation of the early days often mentioned the great humorist, Samuel Clemens. As we sat beneath the large oak, which no longer stands, he wrote his name on the back of one of his personal cards and handed it to me as a remembrance of our visit which I treasure very much and added it to my collection as he was among the well known pioneers of California.

Later when I visited the hill the cabin was still there overlooking the rolling Mother Lode country as it had for many years before and is now an historic shrine where many people visit each year. It has been marked with a bronze plaque on highway 49.

While Mark Twain lived on the hill he wrote several of his famous works obtaining the material for the "Jumping Frog of Calaveras" also "The Blue Jay and the Acorn" and others.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 will celebrate its 63rd birthday anniversary Saturday, June 1 with a dinner and entertainment at the Nikob restaurant, 9th and Western, Los Angeles according to the Ramona Roundup.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Native Daughters

Miss Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland Parlor, Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, who will preside over the 64th Grand Parlor Session at Santa Cruz, June 18 to 22.

Our Golden Era

By MISS HENRIETTA TOOTHAKER
Grand President NDGW

The Native Daughters of the Golden West have accomplished much in each community by being interested and participating in every phase of community life. Our interest in education is manifested by the scholarships sponsored by our Order. We stress our loyalty to our flags and our duty to citizenship.

"We must live true to the story symbolized in the red, white and blue of 'Old Glory'.

Our State flag repeats the ideals of courage and patriotism demonstrated by the pioneers who raised the Bear flag in Sonoma over the military fort.

This nation has survived, it has grown and prospered. It will ever remain intact if every American makes these principles the tenets of our own loyalty and patriotism.

We all hold dear the freedom of liberty and independence given to us by our democracy, but it is our responsibility to protect these privileges for future generations of American citizens.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West can be compared to a temple of loyalty, cooperation and service, built on the foundation stones of our Order—"Love of Home, Devotion to Our Flag, Veneration of the Pioneers and an Abiding Faith in God."

There is no State in the United States that has such an interesting pioneer history, so replete with suffering, courage and self sacrifice.

California has passed through many interesting epochs in the development of this great state: Father Junipero Serra and his band of missionaries brought civilization, christianization and colonization to this Great Empire of the West. A chain of twenty-one missions was built extending along the El Camino Real from San Diego to Sonoma.

Though some are in ruins, they stand in majestic beauty paying tribute to a glorious past.

After Marshall's discovery of gold, the great influx of "49'ers" gave to California the distinction of being the only state to enter the sisterhood of states without a territorial form of government.

With the pioneer men came the pioneer wife and mother, who carried on though weary and discouraged.

When she reached her journey's end, in this "Land of Heart's Desire," she helped in creating a new home. She changed the mining camp into a sunny hillside of homes.

We perpetuate in memory the glorious deeds of the pioneer men and women of California. These pioneers, though unconscious of the fact that God had given them a mission, went forth into the wilderness to reclaim the waste places to provide for the coming of civilization, to hew out the paths that are the highways over which countless thousands are traveling in peace, contentment and happiness. So we pay our homage of respect to these great adventurous people who blazed the trails, and laid the foundation of this Great Empire of the West, our California.

Through education we hope to stimulate a deeper appreciation of the ideals, privileges and obligations of American citizenship.

Those citizens, who have a great vision, say that the California of the future will far surpass the California of today. We are builders of this great future, so we must build with loyalty and cooperation so that California will always merit her world-wide reputation of being

The people of Santa Cruz are justly proud of their lovely city hall with its world famous Spanish gardens and of the modern civic auditorium just across the street, in which dozens of conventions are held each year.

The Native Daughters at the Golden West, Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288, Lancaster, prepared and served a potluck picnic luncheon to the members of the "Flying Wheels," National Champion Wheelchair basketball players from Birmingham hospital at Barton Brothers gold mine in Rosamond on Saturday afternoon, April 1st. The novelty of the outing was that the boys were taken on a tour of as much of the mine as could be traversed in their wheelchairs by Dorene Settle, general chairman and daughter of one of the owners of the mine and her husband Glen Settle who explained the intricate workings of the mine.

Laura Hilton food chairman had planned the menu as follows: barbecued lamb, chili beans, potato and green salad, relishes, coffee, punch and cake. Mary Berta marinated the lamb and barbecuing was done through the courtesy of Chris Sherri. After lunch the boys were given gold ore, pans and water to try their hand at mining, followed by pistol practice at the nearby pistol range. This interesting afternoon was followed by the basketball games held at the Antelope Valley Joint Union High School gymnasium.

Dr. Conmy was also very pleasantly surprised upon being presented with a key case by Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler.

The two Junior Units of Alameda County had representatives present to honor Grand President Toothaker.

Under the sponsorship of Lugonia Parlor No. 211, Native Daughters of the Golden West, a plaque was dedicated in Pioneer Park, San Bernardino, April 26, to Don Antonio Lugo. Mrs. Florence Dodson Scheneman, organizer and "mother" of Lugonia parlor, briefly outlined the history of the Lugo family. Mrs. Scheneman and her brother, Carl D. Dodson of San Bernardino, are descendants of Diego Sepulveda, nephew of Don Antonio Lugo, one of the original owners of the grant known as Rancho San Bernardino.

Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West, unveiled the bronze marker, which was accepted by Mayor James E. Cunningham.

Among those present were: Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand Vice President, Mrs. Emily Welch, Grand Trustee, Mrs. Phyllis Hirst, Grand Trustee, Mrs. Hazel B. Hansen, Past Grand President, Mrs. Mary Noerenberg, Past Grand President, Miss Grace Stoerner, Past Grand President, as well as supervising district deputies, deputies, presidents and members of many southland parlors.

Miss Toothaker was honored by a luncheon preceding the dedication, at the home of Mrs. Louise Morrison in Ontario. Wednesday evening, Native Daughters and guests in district 38 gathered at the Woman's clubhouse in Riverside for dinner, followed by initiation of 16 new members into the order, 12 of which were from Lugonia Parlor.

Ceremony Honors Santa Ana Founder

State and local leaders of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Monday, April 24, dedicated a memorial historical marker on the Orange County courthouse grounds, honoring William Henry Spurgeon, who founded the city of Santa Ana in 1869.

With Miss Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland, Grand President of the NDGW, and Mrs. Daniel Gelderman, president of Santa Ana Parlor 235, unveiling the monument and plaque, Supervisor C. M. Featherly accepted the memorial on behalf of Orange county.

Morada Parlor Presents Bear Flags To Schools

Some 200 members and guests of Morada Parlor No. 199, Modesto, met to greet the Grand President Henrietta Toothaker who recently made her official visit there. An unusual feature of the program was the presentation of a corsage to the honored guest by the Gold Nugget Baby, George Rogers. The Grand President spoke on the restoration of the Missions and thanked the parlor for their silver offering, which was donated for this project.

A public speaking contest for Junior College students was held in late April with a good many participating.

At the dedication of the new James Marshall school Morada Parlor president Mary Ann Dias presented a beautiful silk California state flag with appropriate remarks about the man after whom the school was named. Two more elementary schools, John A. Sutter and Tuolumne have been completed. President Dias and First Vice-President Doris Hamilton graciously presented the Bear flags at the dedications.

San Fernando Mission Parlor Receives Records

On April 10th, Assemblyman Julian Beck of the 4th District presented Mrs. Lee Warren, 1st and Mrs. Betty Gifford, president and first vice president of San Fernando Mission Parlor No. 150 NDGW, with records and historical data on the new Placerita State and County Park.

On November 1, 1914 the 40 acres surrounding the Oak of Golden Dream where Don Francisco Lopez discovered gold March 9, 1847, were deeded to the State of California for a State Park.

Plans are underway for the improvement and development of the area. Persons desiring to visit the historical site may see the ancient oak, believed to be over 500 years old, at the east boundary of the Golden Oak ranch in Placerita canyon.

The Native Daughters working with Assemblyman Julian Beck have been instrumental in obtaining this historical area for the benefit of the public.

Eschol Parlor Busy In Veterans Welfare Work

The past year has been a busy and interesting one for Eschol Parlor No. 16, Napa. Outstanding, has been the Veterans Welfare Work at the Veterans Home in Yountville, Napa county, under the able committee chairmanship of Mrs. Bernice I. Hiserman and Mrs. Eileen Lecair.

Members from Eschol Parlor, together with other parlor members from St. Helena, Calistoga, Sonoma, Vallejo, Benica and Middletown make regular visits each month to the Veterans home. They take cigarettes, magazines and various other personal articles to Ward 1 of the Veterans home hospital department.

The patients have received a great deal of happiness from these visits not only from the gifts, but words of encouragement and cheer have gone a long way in building their confidence and heightening their morale for a brighter future.

New Policy Adopted

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Grizzly Bear Publishing Co., held the first part of April, in order to cover more parlors with the limited space available, the editor was asked to hold all stories to the minimum, eliminating all unessential details.

All stories sent in to the editor should be written clearly and briefly, covering the important points of the subject involved. If articles are written by hand, please be sure to spell names correctly and plainly. It is embarrassing to all concerned, if the editor takes an "i" for an "e", or an "o" for an "a" in spelling a hard to read name.

Pictures of markings, civic affairs participated in by Native Sons and Daughters, and other important events, are wanted. However, engravings are expensive and the budget is limited for pictures, so final decision on publication of them, as well as the handling of stories submitted, naturally rests with the editorial staff.

More parlor bulletins are wanted. If your parlor puts out a bulletin, please be sure and check to see that the Grizzly Bear is on your mailing list. That way we hear from you each month, even though you do not find time to sit down and write a story in to us.

Native Sons

Edward J. Wren of National Parlor, San Francisco, installed as Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West at the 73rd Grand Parlor Session held in Chico, Butte County, May 15 to 18.

Happy Birthday To You . . .

The most important event before our Order today is our birthday party September 9, 1950. The preparations have been going on for months and are now in high gear.

As we prepare for this great Centennial of Statehood, we look back on California a century ago. Life in our great state had its sunlight and shadows, but through it all gleams the indomitable spirit of those pioneers who battled the arid wastes and deep snows in quest of a new world. Their toil and courage has been an inspiration to all of us, as down through the years we have celebrated the important events of our state's history.

This year is the most important to our state and our Order. With our great celebrations we awaken a new interest in the history of our State and renew respect and reverence for the memories of those pioneer men and women to whom we owe so much.

With these thoughts in mind, let us all prepare to take part in this celebration of the 100th birthday of California that we may not only inspire our ten million citizens of today, but the millions that will follow, to render a greater service to our state in the second golden century on which we will soon embark.

May I urge every member to do his part to make this the birthday celebration it should be. Those who cannot be in San Francisco for the main celebration, should encourage proper observance in their local communities. Merchants should close their places of business and the State Flag should be displayed everywhere.

This year should also inspire each member to a greater effort to keep our Order in the place it rightfully belongs. With all of us working together and each doing his part, we cannot fail.

EDWARD J. WREN,
Grand President

Honored guests at the proceedings included Past Grand President Eldred Meyer, Grand Outside Sentinel Walter Brandt, DDGP Willard Allen and DDGP Judge Charles Griffin, with a large delegation of officers and members from Beverly Hills parlor.

The parlor has instituted a plan of having a Drum Corps practice each Monday night, an open house each Wednesday night, and at least one social event each month. The dinner mentioned above was the second in such a series planned by the Hall Association. More are scheduled for the near future. Future plans include sending the Drum Corps to San Francisco on Admission Day, and a public installation of officers for the coming term.

Grand Parlor Highlites

From the time that Grand President Peter T. Conmy declared the 73rd Grand Parlor in session Monday morning until the installation of the new officers on Thursday afternoon this year's convocation at Chico ran smoothly with a great deal of legislation being handled by the delegates in attendance.

While no charitable work was adopted for the Order, machinery was set in motion to investigate the various proposals submitted, with the committee in charge to report within 90 days to the new board of Grand Officers, so that appropriate steps can be taken to lay something concrete before the next Grand Parlor.

The Grand Parlor session, after due deliberation, withdrew its history fellowship from the University of California. This fellowship had been maintained for some 35 years.

The Grand Parlor went on record as opposing The World Federalist Movement.

The sum of 6c per member was added to the per capita tax to assist Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West in entering a float in the Tournament of Roses Parade New Year's day at Pasadena.

The sum of $300 was appropriated to cover the expense of preparing and placing a plaque in the display room of the Unknown Soldier as the tribute of the Native Sons of the Golden West to the soldiers of both World Wars.

The Finance committee submitted their report of estimated expenses for the year which with the various resolutions passed by the Grand Parlor called for a per capita tax of $1.90, payable 50 cents in June, 50 cents in September, 50 cents in December and 40 cents in March of 1951. The report of the committee was accepted and their budget adopted.

First prize in the public speaking contest was won by Robert Gordon of Los Angeles, his subject being "Father Junipero Serra." Second place was taken by Alonzo Luzon of Courtland, speaking on "Famous Characters in San Francisco's History." Allen Thompson of Sunnyvale took third with his speech on "The Donner Party." Governor Earl Warren of Fruitvale Parlor, presented the awards.

Past Grand President Raymond D. Williamson, general chairman of the San Francisco Citizens committee for the Centennial celebration of California's Admission into the Union, spoke on plans for that great event. Letters have been sent to all parlor secretaries, together with other pertinent information.

The three year organizational program begun under the term of Grand President Peter T. Conmy, with Past Grand President Walter N. Bailey as Administrative Assistant, will be continued.

There were four bids for the 1951 Grand Parlor, with considerable campaigning done. Hobergs, Martinez, Merced and San Diego asked for the session, with San Diego being selected by vote of the delegates.

The Grand Parlor was adjourned in memory of Fred H. Rettig, president of Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, Oakland, who was called to the Grand Parlor on High while attending the 73rd Grand Parlor.

GREETINGS:

The centennial celebration of California's admission into the Union will be held in San Francisco from September 2 to 9, 1950, under the auspices of a Citizens Committee.

Our day, of course, will be Saturday, September 9, and it is up to us not only to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Statehood, but to depict the colorful history of California in the parade pageant, from the landing of Cabrillo at San Diego in 1542 through the discovery of San Francisco Bay in 1775, the founding of the twenty-one Missions from 1769 to 1823, the raising of the Bear Flag in 1846 followed by the raising of the American Flag, the discovery of gold in 1848, and the many other important events right up to the present time. With the colorful background of our State's history, Parlors should be easily able to select a theme to portray. We want every county represented in this parade.

If you have not already appointed an Admission Day Committee, do so immediately. Name a Parade Committee Chairman and send his or her name and address to me NOW! Remember, some Parlors meet only once a month, but we can always contact the Parade Committee Chairman.

Now is the time to contact your Board of Supervisors or Councilmen to set up a budget item to assist you in developing your theme that your community will be properly represented.

Also, will you take part in the parade pageant? Will you have a Band or Drum Corps? Will you have a Float? With what Parlor of Native Sons, or Native Daughters do you pair up in a parade? This information will help us in future correspondence.

Please do not hesitate to write us for any information you desire.

Sincerely and fraternally yours,
PARADE COMMITTEE.

HARRY ROMICK, Chairman.

HARRY W. GAETJEN, Secretary.

Our Cover

With the eyes of every Native Son and Daughter focused on San Francisco September 2-9 when the Centennial of California's admission to the Union will be celebrated, climaxed by the giant Admission Day parade sponsored by the Orders on Saturday, September 9, it is appropriate that our cover this month features the Golden Gate bridge.

Seen in the background through the bridge's cables is the city of San Francisco, while an outbound vessel passes under the span on its way through the famed Golden Gate.

Springing from the Marin or north shore, the bridge goes on to the Presidio of San Francisco. Beyond the point of the city, left, San Francisco Bay extends southward 30 miles and northward as many more. It has an area of 450 square miles.

The Golden Gate Bridge carries six lanes of automobile traffic and two sidewalks. Its clearance above the water is 220 feet; its towers are 746 feet high; its center span is 4200 feet long — on all counts, the world's greatest bridge.—Photo courtesy of Californians Inc.

California 75 Years Ago

As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine

Fourth of July, 1875 coming on Sunday, the nation's birthday was observed the following day. San Francisco featured a parade, which was participated in by several Native Sons of the Golden West, at the invitation of General A. M. Winn. These natives were called together again July 11 and formed a society which grew into the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Throughout the State, cities and towns celebrated Independence day in the usual patriotic manner. At Sacramento the Society of California Pioneers had its usual collation with addresses by Senator Newton Booth, James McClatchy, A. P. Catlin, Dr. R. W. Murphy and others, and at Los Angeles the entire population participated in the consecration of a new bell for the Catholic church.

At Round Valley, while the orchestra was playing a waltz at the ball, the musicians, one by one, dropped asleep, having been doped by some practical jokers, and the dance was forced to end.

The State of California's biennial report was issued this month. It showed the receipts totaled $7,427,606 and the expenditures $7,112,218. The state was being run within its income.

The Los Angeles school census showed 7,767 school children, but of this number 2,700 did not attend school.

Colton, San Bernardino County, was laid out this month and town lots sold. It was named after D. D. Colton, a director of the Southern Pacific railroad and a man prominent in public affairs.

The San Fernando Oil Co., boring for oil near San Fernando, Los Angeles county, struck a 4,000 barrel-a-day flow of water and was more pleased with it than if oil had been found.

Placer county has twenty-eight sawmills ripping out boards and timbers. They expected to make 25,000,000 feet of lumber this year.

Several California towns were visited by fires. July 6, twenty Tulare buildings were destroyed with a $60,000 loss. Half of Arcata, Humboldt county, went up in smoke July 6 and a $75,000 loss ensued. At Grass Valley, Nevada county, a $30,000 loss was occasioned July 27 by the burning of the Golden Eagle hotel and twelve other buildings. Seven buildings and a warehouse went up in smoke at Merced July 28, causing a $20,000 loss.

San Francisco Prepares for Statehood Centennial

First details of the elaborate program being arranged for the centennial celebration in San Francisco of California's admission into the union were released recently by Raymond D. Williamson, general chairman of the San Francisco Citizens' Committee, and George Heinz, executive secretary to the California Centennials Commission.

The celebration is scheduled to run for eight days, September 2-9.

From every indication, this will be the most ambitious civic observance undertaken in San Francisco since the Panama Pacific Exposition of 1915. Chairman Williamson, Past Grand President of the Native Sons, said: "The caliber of men we have working on our numerous committees, and the enthusiasm and efficiency for their work is guarantee of full success for the project."

"California—a Calvalcade of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is the general theme of the celebration, the committee spokesman revealed. Development and progress of California over the past 100 years—from wilderness to wealthy and heavily populated empire—is to be emphasized. Where previous centennial commemorations have necessarily paid greatest attention to the historic past, this final observance of the three year program will turn the spotlight to an equal extent on the future of the Golden State.

In making their first announcement, the celebration spokesman pointed out that they had purposely withheld revelation of plans until the California Centennials Commission's statewide budget was passed and it was able to assure full financial participation as originally proposed.

The City and County of San Francisco is joining with the Centennials Commission in financing the celebration.

The Citizens Committee for the Centennial Celebration of California's Admission into the Union (official name) consists of some 600 members, appointed by Mayor Elmer Robinson. This committee, under general chairmanship of Raymond D. Williamson, a past grand president of the Native Sons, has been functioning for the past four months, meeting regularly.

An executive committee of seven members, also under Williamson's chairmanship, was created to have control of finances and contractual relations. This is known as "The San Francisco Centennial Committee, a Corporation." George Heinz, executive Secretary of the State Centennials Commission, and Wren Middlebrook, Assistant controller City and County of San Francisco, serve on this committee as advisory consultants.

San Franciscans prominent in the business, professional and civic life of the community have accepted assignment to working committees in connection with the celebration, and are now taking over their assigned phases of the program.

Chairmen of committees who have recently accepted include: Adrien J. Falk, civic participation; R. E. Mittelstaedt, state participation; Postmaster John Fixa, federal participation; Sheriff Daniel Murphy, county participation; Edward Sharkey, fraternal and veterans participation; Judge Carl Allen, municipal participation; Daniel V. Flanagan, labor participation.

Other committee chairmen include Frank M. Buckley, finance; Harry Romick, parade; Louis Chess, transportation; Dan London, accommodations; Grover Tracy, lighting, decoration and costume; Arthur Poheim, ball and public dancing; Joseph R. Knowland, pageant; Leland W. Cutler, foreign participation and Mrs. Hulda McGinn, women's participation committee.

One of the principal features of the celebration will be the elaborate street decoration plan, admittedly the most extensive ever attempted in San Francisco. Market Street, from the Ferry Building to Civic Center, will be given the full treatment. Each light pole will be covered with a colorful decoration embodying an historical character or event. At night these decorations will be spotlighted in color, creating an archway of light breath-taking in beauty.

In Civic Center there will be another unique feature—California's Birthday Cake, with 100 candles. This temporary structure, built in tiers to virtually the height of a three-story building, will be made of material simulating glittering frosting, and will be lighted in spectacular fashion. The "Birthday cake" will be large enough for use as a stage for shows, a reviewing stand, a band or orchestra shell and numerous other purposes in connection with the celebration.

Originally planned for earlier in the year, the Birthday Cake project was postponed so as to have the structure fresh and new for the September 2-9 climax. Major Robinson and the city authorities have granted permission for the erection of the large structure in Civic Center, and the city will bear its proportion of the costs of building.

Two mammoth parades will be staged during Statehood Week under the auspices of the Citizens' Committee and the Centennials Commission. In addition the Labor Day Parade of September 1 will have a Statehood Centennial theme.

The electric parade, scheduled for the night of September 7, will be the most elaborate and ambitious undertaking of the sort in the history of San Francisco. San Franciscans recall the Diamond Jubilee night parade of 1925 as the most beautiful ever staged here. Suffice to say that the Centennial night parade will carry on from where the memorable effort of 1925 left off.

The main parade of the celebration, the Admission Day march on September 9, is to be more than a parade—actually a pageant of California history. The California Centennials Commission is providing 21 key historical floats, depicting various events in the State's stirring past. These will be large floats, elaborately constructed and decorated and the latest in modern mechanization.

In addition there will be scores of floats entered by parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West representing all sections of the state.

A feature of the entertainment program now planned will be an elaborate and spectacular historical calvalcade, staged each of the eight nights of the celebration. The scope of the production will extend from earliest discoveries in the unknown land that was to become California, through Spanish and Mexican days, the gold discovery and gold rush eras, the development of law and order and growth to Statehood and finally to a glimpse of the great future awaiting the Golden State.

The calvalcade, and all accommodations pertaining thereto, will be open to the public free of charge, will all other entertainment under Commission auspices. This is in keeping with Commission policy established from its first meeting.

The exact location of the calvalcade site is yet to be decided upon. When selected it will provide ample free parking and a seating capacity of at least 10,000 for each performance.

The Grand Centennial Ball—free to all, in Civic Auditorium the night of September 9 will be supported by street dancing in the downtown areas and in various neighborhoods.

Some of the supporting events planned for this busy eight-day celebration are:

One hundred years of Fashion; Symphony Orchestra Concert and ballet festival; sports and yachting festival; folk dancing; Centennial church services; reception for civic leaders and foreign dignitaries; a fireworks display on the Marina; Women's Day in Portsmouth Plaza; dedication of a plaque in Portsmouth Plaza, marking the many outstanding historical events that occurred there.

On one point the San Francisco citizens Committee is firmly in accord—"no whiskering" aspects for this Centennial Celebration. San Franciscans will be urged to participate in all the events of the statehood Centennial celebration, and to participate in wardrobe for certain ones, but Beard-growing will not be urged, let alone compulsory.

Native Sons Celebrate Their Diamond Jubilee

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

Editor's Note: This month the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West observes its 75th Anniversary. Founded July 11, 1875, the Diamond Jubilee will be fittingly celebrated with a dinner dance at the Palace Hotel San Francisco, Tuesday evening, July 11, with California Parlor No. 1 as host. The following article was written for the August, 1946, issue of the Grizzly Bear by Emmett P. Joy, Grand Historian, NSGW. We believe that it is appropriate that it be re-published in honor of this memorable occasion.

The year of 1875 in California was a memorable one. It marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the admission of California into the Union. It also witnessed one of the greatest historic events in California. This event well known to all was the founding of the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West by General Albert Maver Winn.

General Albert M. Winn was born in London County, Virginia, on April 27, 1810. When a small boy his family moved to Ohio, where he worked several years on his father's farm. In 1834, when twenty-four years of age, he moved to Vicksburg, Mississippi. While in Mississippi he was commissioned Colonel of the First Regular Mississippi Militia in 1845.

General Winn left Vicksburg for California on February 14, 1849, traveling through Texas and Mexico. He arrived in San Francisco on May 28, 1849, and in Sacramento on June 15 of the same year. After remaining in Sacramento for some time he became the city's first mayor.

Governor Burnett appointed him Brigadier-General and he was re-appointed by Governor Bigler in 1854, taking a great interest in the State's National Guard.

Besides organizing the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West he assisted in organizing the Society of the Sons of Revolutionary Sires, and the first Odd Fellows Lodge in the state.

The history of the founding of the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West dates back as far as 1869, according to an article written by General Winn, he says—"While Grand Marshal in San Francisco for the Fourth of July in 1869, I thought an exhibition of young Californians would be an interesting part of the procession so advertised a time and place of meeting for them. They came in large numbers, but were too young to appreciate organization.

Six years later, in 1875, preparations were being made to celebrate the Fourth of July in San Francisco. General Winn again issued a call and a meeting was held on June 29 in the Twelfth District Police Court Room and a preliminary organization effected. Myles O'Donnell was chosen Chairman and Louis D. Patrick, Secretary. It was resolved to perpetuate the organization under the name of the Native Sons of the Golden State. The Society was formed and resolved to turn out for the parade to be held on July 4th.

A second meeting was held on July 1 in the Twelfth District Court room. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Myles O'Connell. Also present at the meeting was General Winn who stated there were fine prospects for an association of Native Sons. William Spear was chosen to act as Marshal for the 4th. Mr. Spear was said to be one of the first born under the American flag in 1846. J. A. Steinback and G. W. Fenn were elected aids. Mr. McDermott and Mr. Harmon were appointed Standard Bearers.

Other meetings were held in the Twelfth District Court room on July 2 and 4 to complete arrangements for the parade. The celebration was held on Monday, July 5th, the 4th falling on a Sunday. As the parade passed thru the streets of San Francisco no feature attracted greater attention than the small band of Native Sons in the ninth division. Some wore miners costumes depicting the early mining days. They carried a stuffed bear and the American and Bear flags. The enthusiastic young Californians were marshaled by William D. Spear.

On July 11 the newly organized group of Native Sons met and adopted a Constitution and By-laws. The name of "Native Sons of the Golden West" was decided upon. This meeting was held in Anthony's hall on Bush street; and thus the formal organization of the first parlor, and the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

The preface of the first constitution contained a statement of the aims and purposes of the Order. The Order began with twenty-one enrolled members. A much larger number participated in the parade, but many were too young to be accepted as members of a fraternal society.

John A. Steinback was elected President of the Parlor; Jasper Fishbourne, 1st Vice President; G. F. Fenn, 2nd Vice President; S. P. Harmon, 3rd Vice President; C. H. Smith, Recording Secretary, and Wm. L. Jones, Financial Secretary.

General Winn was elected an honorary member of the Order, as founder, under a provision of the original constitution.

The original band of Native Sons voted to call their group a parlor. The first By-laws fixed the dues and made a provision for sick benefits.

General Winn did succeed in the founding of the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West; when he saw the complete organization of the first parlor, he said, "For twenty years my mind had been running on some lasting style of monument to mark and perpetuate the discovery of gold. I could not think of anything that would not perish in the course of time. At last it came to my mind that an order composed of Native Sons of the Pacific Coast would effect the object and be sustained by pride of nativity, while it would be an imperishable memento, an institution that would last through all time."

In 1877 the San Francisco group decided on expansion and on December 17, 1877, calling themselves Charter Parlor No. 1, instituted Oakland Parlor No. 2.

The first Grand Parlor was called by Charter Parlor No. 1 to meet in San Francisco on November 29, 1878. At this time Charter Parlor No. 1 changed its name to California No. 1.

THE LETTER BOX

SALUTATIONS FROM LEW GIEGERICH
(former Grand Trustee, N.S.G.W.)

July 13, 1950

My greetings to the Parlors of the order of the Native Sons of the Golden West, which I have had the privilege of visiting since 1937, the year in which I started active participation in the affairs of our order. My personal thanks are extended to the many friends who assisted me, and the delegates who voted for me, as Grand Trustee, at three Grand Parlor sessions, as well as to those who gave me their support during my candidacy for the office of Grand Third Vice President. While I was not successful in being elected to this coveted office, my interest and active participation in our aims and endeavors will not be lessened in the slightest degree.

To the members of the N.S.G.W. who are lending every effort to promote the growth and welfare of our organization, I wish to extend my best wishes for their every success. Our order cannot continue to live in the past; we should support, 100 percent, the activities in which we are engaged, and see that our aims and projects receive publicity to a far greater extent than we have had in the past. One splendid medium of publicity is our own Grizzly Bear magazine. If you are planning an event, publicize it in the Grizzly Bear, so that other Parlors can learn what is going on throughout the state. It may give them an idea or an incentive to plan something along the same lines. Strive for more publicity in your local newspapers.

California's population is steadily increasing. These newcomers are not eligible for membership in the Native Sons, but their sons, born within the borders of our state, will, in a few years, be potential members, and we should start building now for the time when we can take them into our organization. As we celebrate the Centennial of California's admission into the Union, let us be inspired to send our order to greater numerical strength, not by glorying in past achievements, but by stressing our aims and activities for the future. Our state is growing because of what it has to offer; the NSGW can grow proportionately if we apply ourselves to the furtherance of a sound and constructive program. Adopt a slogan such as "Grow as California Grows" and live up to and work toward that end.

South Gate Parlor Presents Talent Show

Something new Native Son activities was staged Friday evening, May 26, when South Gate Parlor No. 295 staged its first annual youth talent show and contest at the Trianon Ballroom in that city with Dick Lane, popular television artist and announcer, as master of ceremonies.

The show presented 15 talented youngsters from the South Gate schools, chosen from a large number of entries in the elimination rounds. Three of those in the high school division were selected by Horace Heidt representative for auditions on the Youth Opportunity show.

Judges were Art Thorsen, manager of the Horace Heidt Co.; Henry Alper and Dick Schoenfeld of the Music Corp., of America.

After the show there was dancing with the music by the Hi-Laniers, an all youth swing band. Elvin L. Recknor, second vice president of South Gate Parlor, was general chairman.

Fifty per cent of the returns are to be used towards the purchase of a grand piano for the new South Gate Civic Auditorium, which will be dedicated some time in August by the Grand Officers of the Native Sons.

South Gate Parlor is justly proud of its success in this first show and plans are already underway for a bigger and better talent event next year.

Why I Should Wear A Native Son Emblem

To me the Bear Flag emblem is a sign that tells the world that I am a member of a great fraternity composed of thousands of native born Californians who believe in God and the destiny of our great state.

It is an emblem that symbolizes the heroism of our pioneer ancestors, their more than motherly kindness in mining camp and frontier life, where selfishness had no abiding place and where the last drops of water on the burning desert and the last crust of bread in the snow bound canyons were freely shared in portions of our history which stimulates us in our fraternity today.

Whose prime purpose is to spread California's fame and cherish her highest ideals.

It is an emblem that declares my willingness to assist the youth of our great state by education and guidance in reaching our highest ideals, Friendship, Loyalty and Charity, friendship to their fellow men, Loyalty to this great state and Charity to all.

What's New

The General Die Casting Company of Oakland has introduced in this issue of the Grizzly Bear, for the first time, a souvenir belt buckle of the California Centennial. It is a souvenir of this great event which you will be proud to own or buy as a gift for your friends.

This fine souvenir belt buckle is made of high quality zinc in gleaming oxidized copper finish. It is beautifully embossed with the words, California Centennial, and a covered wagon scene. It has the appearance of a buckle that would sell for $2.00 and the amazing low price of $1.00 is a bargain that you cannot afford to pass up. If you desire a genuine leather belt to go with the buckle, you can get one for an additional $1.00.

Look at the ad in this issue for details on where and how to order your souvenir buckle. Be sure to tell your friends about it or get one for them too, as there is no limit to the number you can order. This offer is good indefinitely and we of the Grizzly Bear are proud to be able to bring it to you. Please mention the Grizzly Bear in ordering.

On another page is an ad by the Save-The-Redwoods League, telling where you can get several pamphlets at a nominal cost on the redwoods. Avail yourself of this opportunity and mention the Grizzly Bear in ordering.

Orange County Parlors Sponsor Big Barbecue

To assist in raising funds to place a float in the Centennial Admission Day Parade, September 9th, in San Francisco, members of the Native Sons and Daughters of Orange county sponsored a 1950's Golden Centennial Bar-B-Q in Santa Ana Sunday afternoon and evening, June 25, which was well attended. This marked the first time that all Orange County parlors of both Orders had combined to put on an event of this kind. Glenn Warner of Santa Ana Parlor, NSGW, was general chairman, assisted by representatives of all the parlors.

To Dedicate Original Mother Colony House

In cooperation with the California Centennials Commission, Grace Parlor No. 242, NDGW and Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW, will dedicate a plaque Sunday afternoon, July 16, at two o'clock on the Mother Colony house, 418 North West Street, Anaheim. The first home built in Anaheim, the Mother Colony house is one of a group of early buildings being preserved by the Marie Horstman Rywer foundation in memory of the pioneers of the Mother Colony of Orange county.

Narrator for the occasion is expected to be J. A. Lewis, of one of Anaheim's first families, member of Mother Colony Parlor and Past Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks. Grand President Ann Schiebusch, NDGW, will be the principal speaker. Others appearing on the program will be Past Grand President Grace Stoermer, for whom Grace Parlor, NDGW, is named, S. James Tuffree, charter president of Mother Colony Parlor, NSGW, as well as various city and county officials. It is expected that several Grand Officers of both Orders will be in attendance.

The affair will bring to a climax many weeks of preparations by a joint committee headed by Agnes Pelous, president of Grace Parlor and Harold Ries, president of Mother Colony.

San Francisco Bowlers Prepare For September 9

Clifford Wayman of Pacific Parlor No. 10, was elected president of the San Francisco Native Sons Bowling League at the league's annual banquet recently, with some 80 members in attendance. Jas Lambros of Castro Parlor, will serve as vice president during the coming year. George Perry of Castro Parlor was re-elected secretary-treasurer for the fifth time.

The next event on the bowling schedule will be the 9th of September Native Sons Fifth Annual Bowling Tournament to be held at the Mission Bowl in San Francisco. Local bowlers will roll on the evening of September 7 and out-of-town bowlers the evening of September 8, so as not to interfere with the drum corps competitions.

The committee adopted these dates so that all prizes can be awarded to winners at the grand ball on September 9th. The committee believes that the Grand President should make these presentations at the ball before a much larger gathering than would be at the bowling alley.

In the 1949-50 season ending April 16 the Guadalupe Broncos won the 6 p.m. Monday night try-out after rolling off a tie with the Guadalupe Indians, while the Guadalupe Indians won the 7 p.m. Monday night try-out, leading from start to finish. Castro again won the Wednesday night try-out.

Sunday night, April 16, the three winning teams held the roll-off for the Henry Evans perpetual trophy. After an exciting match the Castro Bears finally won out for the second straight time. However, this year they won by a scant six points over the Guadalupe Broncos. The final scores: Castro Bears, 7-0; Guadalupe Broncos, 15-1; Guadalupe Indians, 10-0. Ernest W. Perry is bowling chairman.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 15 will hold its annual picnic Sunday, August 20, at Marin Town and Country Club, near Fairfax, Marin county. Grand Trustee Robert E. Halving of South San Francisco Parlor, is chairman of the event, assisted by Harold Regan, Russell Carr, Bill Posedel, John M. Reid, Frank Brown, Robert Morris, James McCarthy, Bill Pratt, Robert Lapacher and Tom Keating, together with others whose names were not yet announced as we went to press.

Native Daughters

Centennial Luncheon Honors Grand President

The Native Daughters of the Golden West luncheon held June 3 in the Terrace room of the Fairmont hotel, San Francisco, in honor of Grand President Henrietta Toothaker heralded California's forthcoming Centennial birthday. This gala affair was sponsored by the Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco county, and directed by S. D. D. G. P. Margaret Barrett, who was assisted by General Chairman D. G. P. Edna Erney. Among the many distinguished guests present were grand officers of both the Native Daughters and Native Sons, together with city and state officials.

The program included opening remarks by D. G. P. Edna Erney, the Invocation by Reverend John J. Cunningham, and the salute and pledge to our Flag, led by Grand Marshal of the Native Daughters, Jewel McSweeney. S. D. D. G. P. Margaret Barrett extended a most cordial welcome, and introduced the honored guests and her Deputy Grand Presidents. Among the eloquent speeches were those of Supervisor Dewey Mead who extended congratulations and welcomes on behalf of Mayor Robinson. Guest Speaker Lieut. Governor Goodwin Knight spoke of the good of our Order, and on State matters, and our most gracious Grand President Henrietta Toothaker's discourse covered civic rights. Grand President Edward Wren of the Native Sons spoke of the unity existing between our two Orders, and Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland spoke of the growth of our beloved State during the past 100 years.

At recent dedication of plaque in Freeman Park, Woodland, are, Grand President Henrietta Toothaker, of Woodland and Parlor, NDGW; Mrs. Henry Jacobs, parlor chairman of history and landmarks; Mrs. Earl Tillotson, president of the local parlor and Mrs. Arthur Podd, grand niece of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Freeman, in whose memory the plaque was dedicated.

Dedication Honors Woodland Pioneers

By BARBARA LEE COOK

Now firmly esconced in Freeman Park, Woodland, Yolo county, is a plaque dedicated recently by Woodland Native Daughters, which will retain for posterity the names of Frank S. and Gertrude Freeman, early pioneer residents of that city.

At impressive ceremonies, Miss Henrietta Toothaker, grand president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and Mrs. Arthur Podd, grand niece of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, unveiled the bronze plaque, imbedded in a large stone and flanked by the American and Bear state flags. As the unveiling took place, Buddy Billings played "The Star Spangled Banner" on his trumpet.

Present for the ceremony were close descendants of the distinguished couple: their daughter, Mrs. Lillian Gritzmacher of San Francisco, a great grandson, Barrett Pierce, also of San Francisco; Mrs. Alice Bidwell Snively, niece of the Freemans and Mrs. Podd, both of Woodland.

In her brief speech preceding the unveiling, Miss Toothaker spoke of the Freemans' faith in Woodland's growth, of their constant and consistent efforts to improve the community. Drawn here originally to seek gold, Mr. Freeman became a rancher, merchant, business man and politician, respected throughout the state. His wife, a school teacher, matched his daring and acumen with her adventuresome spirit and intelligent mind. She was instrumental in establishing the OES and a library here.

Freeman was Woodland's first postmaster and his wife gave Woodland its name, inspired by the beautiful oak trees which then filled parts of the valley. The embryo community was originally named Yolo City until the post office was obtained.

Miss Toothaker pointed out that, at the time, a certain segment objected so strenuously to the new name that they obtained permission to set up another post office, Yolo Center, directly across from Woodland post office. The former soon disintegrated since residents preferred to utilize Freeman's post office.

Registering definite approval of a daisy-trimmed spring hat shown at a fashion show and dinner held last month by Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, Native Daughters of the Golden West recently, are, left to right, Mrs. Alvin (Bernice) Setterberg, parlor president; Miss Cheilon Albright, who modeled the hat, and Mrs. Ted (Dorothy) Kautz, fashion show chairman. Fourteen parlor members acted as models at the gay double-event which was attended by approximately 300 persons. Proceeds went to important parlor projects.—Lester Silvera photo.

On opening it, Lucille took out a bouquet of one dollar bills made in the shape of a fan with streamers and all.

A program followed with two young tap dancers and singers, Ginger and Junie Goodman from Orange performing. Two parlor members, Babe Sanders and Ann Villott sang a couple of numbers. Thanks From The Editor And An Explanation

At this time of the year with most of the parlors, both Native Sons and Native Daughters, holding installations, we received many well-written accounts of the ceremonies, which describe the affair down to the last detail. We also receive many pictures of the new corps of officers. At one such period we had 32 installation pictures on our desk. It is obvious that lack of space and a limited budget prohibits us from running all these pictures and stories.
And, in fairness to all, we can not run one without running them all. Therefore, the only exception that we can make, is where a picture and story dealing with such an event contains something newsworthy that sets it out above the rest. In the case of installation stories written up and sent in to us, we have tried to make some mention of them in the limited space available.

We are well aware of the fact that the installation of a new president is an important event in his or her life. Those in charge of the parlor's publicity should see that local papers get a full account of the affair promptly as it is news to them. However, in the case of the Grizzly, because of the large number involved, the story loses its news value to the Orders as a whole.

In sending in stories to the Grizzly pick out those things that your parlor is doing that set it out as being different from other parlors.
We want tried and proven ideas that will help other parlors throughout the state, that will build up attendance and membership in both Orders. Keep your stories short, to the point and be sure that they are plainly written, paying particular attention to the spelling of names. This is especially true in the case of stories written by hand.

May we take this opportunity to thank all of you, those hundreds of members of both
Orders, who regularly send in material to us.
Even though we may have to cut your story down, or it is not published due to lack of space, we want you to know that we greatly appreciate your efforts.

—The Editor.

San Francisco with beauty and charm presides at the Golden Gate. Here the California Statehood Centennial will be celebrated the week of September 2-9 with parade and pageantry, climaxing with the great Admission Day Parade, Saturday, September 9th, put on by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

San Francisco, which began as an outpost of New Spain in 1776, was a town of some 200 people then the Americans took over in 1846. Eighteen months later the discovery of gold in the Sierra-Nevada foothills to the east brought to it swift, dramatic change.

Today San Francisco's towers rise from all its fourteen hills. It has a population of 815,000 while all around the bay live some 2,600,000 people. The Golden Gate is spanned by a monumental bridge, reaching to the north. The other of the world's two largest bridges which span the bay, springs from downtown San Francisco to the East Bay cities.—Photo courtesy Californians Inc.

California 75 Years Ago

As compiled from the files of the Grizzly Bear Magazine.

With bonfires blazing, brass band blaring, partisans parading, speechmakers speculating and candidates carousing, the state during August, 1875, went through one of the most strenuous political campaigns in its history. The Independents, the Republicans and the Democrats had numerous stump speakers working. Many incidents occurred to keep the people interested. The election, September 1, terminated the most bitter and vindictive controversy California journalism ever experienced. Charges and counter-charges of corruption and crime were made. They were sickening to read, and may be better imagined than described.

Major David Jacks of Monterey donated a site for a monster camp-meeting a few miles from that city. Out of it developed Pacific Grove, Monterey County. Such a large number came it was decided to make the camp-meeting an annual affair, and the first sale of town lots, August 27, amounted to $7,000.

Los Angeles reported an assessment value of its property for taxing purposes of $15,088,367.00.

A mortgage was filed in Fresno county by the Southern Pacific on all its property for $48,000,000.00.

The cornerstone of the new Kern county courthouse was laid August 2 at Bakersfield.

James Thompson, a rancher near Pleasanton Alameda County, sold eighty mules for $12,000 to be used in the New Coso mine, in Inyo county.

The Empire mine, at Grass Valley, Nevada county, produced $23,000 in twenty-one days run.

The Dutch Hill company in Plumas county was producing fifty ounces of gold a day and cleaning up nearly $30,000 a month.

The New York Hill mine at Grass Valley, Nevada county, cleaned up $26,000 from 360 tons of ore in twenty-one days.

East Park, a Sacramento pleasure resort, was sold at auction for $450.

The Vaca Valley railroad was completed to Winters, Yolo county, August 26, and the first train run to that town.

Fire at Iowa Hill, Placer county, August 7 burned several buildings, with a $30,000 loss.

At Sacramento August 11 fire destroyed a planing mill and box factories, causing an $85,000 loss. August 18 the Central Pacific's repair shops were damaged to the amount of $40,000.

The bark "Milon," loaded with lumber, burned to the water's edge at San Francisco August 16, causing a $15,000 loss.

Sixty buildings in the Chinatown of Oroville, Butte county, went up in flames August 1, resulting in a $30,000 loss.

A boat going out to meet a steamer at Anaheim Landing, Orange county, was upset August 4 and Jack Westerberg, Tom Lloyd and James Galbreath, boatmen, were drowned.

A band of fourteen Mexicans, said to be under command of the bandit Chavez, raided Sycamore, Fresno county, August 16. They robbed W. H. Pardee's hotel of money and valuables, gathered a band of horses from nearby ranches and then rode off.

H. Wilburn of Sespe, Ventura county, in charge of a flock of sheep August 11, saw his dog chased into camp by a grizzly. In the melee that followed he was thrown about fifteen feet, landing on a pile of rocks. Here he feigned death while the bear mauled him for a half hour and then left.

The above float entered by Verdugo Parlor No. 240, NDGW and Glendale Parlor No. 264, NSGW, in the "Days of the Verdugos" parade recently, won a trophy for the theme prize. Sid Scott of Glendale Parlor, represents President Fillmore sitting at the desk signing the declaration making California the thirty-first state to join the Union. Miss Juanita Scott of Verdugo Parlor, represents the Goddess Minerva in front of the great seal. The side of the float was a map of California done in gold with the letters in bright red. The seal was in the true colors. Native Sons and Native Daughters both participated in the "Days of the Verdugos" celebration. Glendale Parlor, NSGW, sponsored the street dance during the three-day event, while members of Verdugo Parlor, NDGW, were hostesses at the Casa Adobe, one of Glendale's noted landmarks.—Raphael Photo.

Members of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, wearing historical costumes, took part in the dedication of the monument marking the old town of Shasta during the Shasta Centennial Celebration last month. A second plaque was placed on the old courthouse of Shasta. The plaques were placed in cooperation with the California Centennials Commission of which Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland, NSGW, is chairman.

Placerville Parlor Dedicates Plaque to Coloma Pioneer

Placerville Parlor No. 9, Native Sons of the Golden West, recently dedicated a monument and plaque at Coloma honoring the memory of Captain William E. Shannon, first alcalde of Coloma and delegate to the first constitutional convention. The plaque is located in the state park not far from the Gold Discovery site. Captain Shannon had a store on the exact spot where the marker stands.

He was a delegate from the Coloma-Placerville area to the first State Constitutional Convention held in Monterey in 1849 and history records that it was he who insisted that California be admitted to the Union as a free state instead of a slave state. Like most of the others of his time, he was a young man in his late twenties at the time of the convention. He had been a soldier, then became a lawyer, Alcalde, civic leader and storekeeper at Coloma. Letting his heart instead of his head run his business he went broke; then moved to Sacramento where he practiced law. During the smallpox epidemic there, he died at the early age of 29.

Placerville Parlor, NSGW, felt that he was the "forgotten man" and with the co-operation of the El Dorado county Centennial Committee erected the marker in the Gold Discovery park. The plaque reads: "Capt. William E. Shannon, First Alcalde of Coloma, Delegate from This Area to the First State Constitutional Convention at Monterey, September 1849. Dedicated by Placerville Parlor No. 9, N. S. G. W."

Carolyn Williard, daughter of Past Grand Trustee Ellsworth Williard, of Camino, unveiled the monument. Philip C. Wilkins, Grand Third Vice President of the Native Sons of Sacramento, was dedication speaker. Among others participating in the ceremony were State Senator H. E. Dillinger, chairman of the El Dorado county Centennials Committee; Past Grand Trustee Ellsworth Williard and Herbert Scheuner, president of Placerville Parlor.

University Parlor To Honor Sheriff Biscailuz

Jack Williams, president of University Parlor, NSGW, Los Angeles, announces that the annual traditional Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz Night will be held at the parlor's hall, 1329 South Hope street on Wednesday evening, September 13.

This event, honoring one of the grandest Native Sons of our Order, attracts members from all parlors of the Southland. Williams, chairman of the affair, expects the largest gathering of Native Sons in the history of University Parlor.

Special entertainment, food and refreshments in buffet style will round out a gala evening, according to President Williams.

Parlors expecting to participate in the big event honoring "Gene" are requested to contact Recording Secretary Blaine Driscoll, 6729 Marconi St., Huntington Park.

Natives Plan for Celebration of Great Admission Day Centennial

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, N. S. G. W.

A GREAT California centennial celebration will be held in San Francisco from September 2nd to September 9th. The seven day celebration will be held under the co-sponsorship of the California Centennial's Commission, the San Francisco Admission Day Centennial committee, and the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. The calendar of events includes parades, special events and musical programs. The Native Sons of the Golden West and the Native Daughters of the Golden West will turn out from all parts of the state to participate, their uniform groups, drum corps and drill teams will be an outstanding and colorful feature. Historical floats depicting the history of California will add to the most colorful parade ever held in our state's history.

Celebrating the one hundred years of statehood reminds us that celebrating Admission Day dates back to the year 1800 for that year in California, was a most memorable one as it was then that the Golden State of California was admitted into the Union as the thirty-first state.

One hundred years ago argonauts were on their way to the gold fields in California coming by land and sea to seek the golden fleece which was awaiting them in the western hills of the Sierra-Nevada. San Francisco was growing each day and developing into a large city. Sailing vessels which anchored in the cove of the bay changed the scene each day as well as the hills extending to its western shore which were covered with shrubs and Yerba Buena were being cleared for the building of new establishments.

During the time that activity increased in California due to the gold fever more exciting events were occurring in Washington. The people in California were awaiting the news as to whether the golden state had yet been admitted to the Union. The discussion in Washington was whether or not California should be admitted to the Union. Debates were held and the California Constitution calling for the exclusion of slavery met with conflict. The President requested that the California delegates make a joint communication to Congress upon the necessity of admitting California. This request was complied with and the problem was laid before both houses. The struggle continued until August 13 when the bill for the admission passed the Senate by a vote of 34 to 18. On September 7 the House of Representatives passed the California bill by a vote of 150 to 56. The act was approved on September 9, 1850 and California was admitted to the Union.

In 1850 there were no telegraph or telephone lines across the country nor were there any railroads to carry the news of what had occurred in Washington. The news of the passing of the bill had not reached the people of California until the middle of the following month.

Everyone was anxious to know of the outcome and the populace became restless awaiting the arrival of the mail steamer "Oregon." It is interesting to note that the "Oregon" was one of the first three steamers built by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company which was incorporated on April 12, 1848. The "Oregon" was the second steamer to arrive in San Francisco bay. The "California" arrived on February 28, 1848 and the "Oregon" arrived on April 1, 1848. According to H. H. Bennett's history of California, Vol. VI, page 15:

"The Oregon accordingly carried back the first mail, treasure, and passengers. The Oregon was a historic sidewheel steamer for not only did she arrive in the harbor of San Francisco in 1848 as a pioneer ship but because it brought the news of California's admission into the Union to San Francisco in 1850."

According to Ben C. Wright, "San Francisco's Ocean Trade and Future" page 25, "The steamer 'Oregon' was sold in 1862 to a local lumber firm, her machinery removed, and she was then converted into a bark bearing the same name, in which capacity she did service for several years in the lumber carrying trade between Puget Sound and this port, and it was while employed in that trade that she was wrecked."

The most authoritative source on what occurred in San Francisco after the arrival of the steamer "Oregon" on October 18, 1850 in "The Annals of San Francisco" page 23. It states in part "October 21st—This day was set apart to celebrate the admission of California into the Union. When, on the 18th instant, the mail steamer "Oregon" was entering the bay, she fired repeated preconcerted signal guns which warned the citizens of the glorious news." Immediately the whole of the inhabitants were afoot, and grew half wild with excitement until they heard definitely that the tidings were as they had expected. Business of almost every description was instantly suspended, the courts adjourned in the midst of their work, and men rushed from every house into the streets and towards the wharves, to hail the harbinger of the welcomed news. When the steamer rounded Clark's Point and came in front of the city, her masts literally covered with flags and signals, a universal shout arose from ten thousand voices on the wharves, in the streets, upon the hills, house-tops and the world of shipping in the bay."

Preparation for a celebration was started and it included a parade, a display of fireworks from Telegraph Hill and a grand ball at the Union hotel. This celebration was held on the 29th of October because the news came late. The parade marched to the Plaza where the Hon Nathaniel Bennett, of the Supreme Court, delivered an oration and during the day repeated discharges of firearms were heard. In the evening fireworks were exhibited from Telegraph Hill and Rincon Point.

Admission Day has been celebrated each year since 1850 on September 9th. The Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, since the years in which they were founded, have always taken the major part in celebrating this outstanding event, the admission of the golden state of California into the glorious galaxy of states. The Native Sons and Daughters look forward each year to this great historic incident for they are proud of the land of their nativity and take utmost interest in her progress. Their Drill Teams, Drum Corps, Drum and Fife Corps and floats have been most colorful. Parades have been held in the larger cities throughout the state such as: Santa Rosa, Sacramento, San Jose, Stockton, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Oakland and many others. They will turn out again as they have in the past on September 9, 1950 to commemorate the 100 years of California's statehood, a gala celebration to be held in San Francisco.

Natives of the state of California are proud and feel honored that their state has progressed so eloquently in the first century. They will continue in the future to encourage and advance the best interest of their native state. The beautiful state of California with its red woods, its ever waterfalls, high lofty mountain ranges and fertile valleys and wave lashed coasts, is a land of paradise.

A Message From The Grand President

"Time and Tide wait for no man." One-half of our great Centennial Year 1950 has passed as I write this. Soon we will reach the climax of our three years of Centennial Celebrations, the three most important years of the State and Nation and the Native Sons of the Golden West.

We are on the final lap. There never has been a time when our membership campaign has meant so much, or has had the incentive and enthusiasm as this year of 1950.

However, the job can not be done by any one Grand Officer, any one Parlor, much less by any one member. It depends on the personal interest of each member.

We can not let "George do it." If you have become a "Parlor George," now is the time to change and get on the team. Let's add to your Parlor those three, four or five Natives who will appreciate your asking them to join our Order.

The enthusiasm of all our members will awaken in the thousands of loyal Native Californians, the social and fraternal benefits to be derived from membership in our Order.

What have we to offer? What fraternity has devoted more time, energy and funds to perpetuate California's glorious history, the preservation of landmarks and the marking of historical spots? Our part in the promotion of youth activities, Boy Scouts, High School Public Speaking Contest, our participation in civic activities, our athletic and social activities, and fraternal fellowship are just a few of the things we have done and have to offer the prospective member.

We need your help, suggestions and ideas. Let's hear from you.

Now for those who say, what have we to offer? may I mention an event of just a few days ago. The California Centennial Commission presented badges of honor to the oldest Native Son and Native Daughter.

John W. Nash, born in San Jose, June 7, 1852, ninety-eight years old and a Charter member of Columbia Parlor No. 258, was the Native Son honored as the oldest living member of our Order.

What has our Order to offer? John Nash and hundreds of fifty-year members, who are still active in the Native Sons, must have found something down through the years, and experienced a fine inward feeling and self-satisfaction in knowing that they have had a part in the perpetuation of our glorious heritage. You and the thousands of other native born can experience the same feeling and satisfaction in knowing that you have done your part to renew the inspiration of the younger Native Sons to render a greater service to our country and state by becoming members of our Order, that they might help to re-capture the glories of our heritage and transform them into a second Golden Century for the state we love.

Is it too late for "50 in"? No! With the co-operation of each member we can attain our goal, fifty thousand in 1950. Impossible, you say. Wait! One application from each member and we will exceed our quota. Surely this is not asking too much. With your co-operation we can not fail.

Less than one month from now we celebrate our State's birthday—one hundred glorious

On Tuesday afternoon, July 11, John W. Nash, 98, was presented with a badge by the California Centennials Commission, honoring him as the oldest living member of the Native Sons of the Golden West. A charter member of Columbia Parlor No. 258, NSGW, John W. Nash was born in San Jose, June 7, 1852. The presentation was made by Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland, chairman of the California Centennials Commission. Seated, front row, left to right, Grand President Edward J. Wren, John W. Nash, Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland. Standing, left to right, Past Grand President Raymond D. Williamson, chairman of the San Francisco Centennial Committee and Grand Secretary John T. Regan, vice chairman of the San Francisco Centennial Committee. The ceremonies took place in Portsmouth Plaza, San Francisco.

THE LETTER BOX

Editor's Note: The following letter was sent to Governor Earl Warren, Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, and Edward A. Dickson, chairman of the Board of Regents, University of California, from the Americanism committee, Native Sons of the Golden West.

June 30, 1950.

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Americanism Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West, I hasten to congratulate you and the Board of Regents for your forthright stand, taken at the recent Board meeting, when notice was given to certain employees that their employment would be terminated for not complying with the Regents' request for a non-Communist affirmation.

It is hard to imagine how anyone, particularly a man of letters like Dr. Hutchins, could criticize the Board of Regents for this action, in view of the fact that the Regents have leaned over backward to protect academic freedom and the rights of the individuals employed.

There can be little doubt but what a small group of Communist-inspired employees have brought about a condition that must be met by adopting a policy which reflects the wishes of nearly one-hundred per cent of the University employees. To permit a handful of individuals to spread a foreign ideology inimical to the best ideals of the University of California can no longer be tolerated.

We know how vexing this problem has been to you and the Board of Regents, and want you to feel assured that we wholeheartedly support your recent action.

Sincerely yours,
ELDRED L. MEYER, Chairman
Americanism Committee,
Native Sons of the Golden West.

San Francisco County, Native Daughters of the Golden West
June 4, 1950

It is with humility and yet an unflinching sense of loyalty, that we gather, as is our annual custom, on this first Sunday afternoon in June, in memoriam to those members of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West who have passed beyond the Horizon's Rim this year. You have heard read the names of those members of San Francisco county who have answered the Last Call. Gentle and noble women, all. Among them are included our oldest member, 93, one of the Native Daughter Home family; a civic leader, whose life was enriched by that glorious principle of our Order — Devotion to the Flag; many mothers who were enfolded in our Love of Home; a Past Grand President who was born of pioneer parents on a ranch in northern California and who heard the Call in her 81st year. She had given over sixty years of continuous service to her beloved Order and to her state of California.

Here in this green, tranquil valley is a fit compliment to our remembering. Guarded by these ever-living redwood trees and banked at this season of the year with golden, California poppies, our State flower and the blue lupin, they hint of spring and the Resurrection and the promise of a glorious, eternal life.

These departed sisters mounted to the pinnacle of their lives this past year and then journeyed upward, where lo,—they were extended the hand of the Master of Galilee. Is there beyond the silent night, an endless day? Is there beyond death's door a brilliant light?

Who can say, for eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard and no wanderer hath returned. This we truly know, that life and death are a part of an Infinite plan, wholly wise and good.

To the members of the families of our departed sisters, we extend our hearts in sympathy. Joy comes, grief goes, we know not how; but this we know, we walk by faith and not by sight.

They are not lost who pass beyond the clasp of hand, beyond the strong embrace,—they walk softly in our thoughts by day and gently o'er our dream-led paths of sleep.

They are not lost who find the sunset's gate the goal of all their faithful years, for they have journeyed to the summit, far above the clouds and cares of this earthly life.

They are not lost, for they have found the light of sun and stars and God.

Beloved members of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, we shall keep faith with you down through the years. We shall ever remember your faithful services to your Order and your joy in your California heritage. We shall be better Native Daughters for having known and loved you all.

Dear Sisters, may you sleep peacefully and serenely on those Happy, Happy Hills of Rest, with the light of His sunshine ever upon your souls.

Written and delivered by Grand Trustee Leslye A. Hicks who represented Grand President Henrietta Toothaker at the San Francisco Grove of Memory Services.

Tierra de Oro Parlor Takes Fourth of July Prize

Organized just seven months ago as California turned into its Centennial year, Tierra de Oro Parlor No. 304, NDGW, Santa Barbara, enters with confidence and sincerity of purpose upon the second half of this memorable year, having assumed a justly proud place as an active and able factor in the community.

Most recent project was the entry of two floats in the 4th of July parade.

Tierra de Oro won the distinction of being the first local group to set up an account with the new blood bank organized in Santa Barbara just three months ago. President Mrs. Lois Lucking and Vice President Mrs. Cleo M. Foran being first donors.

Another example of civic participation on the part of the parlor is the recent presentation of the Bear flag to the Santa Barbara contingent of Boy Scouts as they departed for their National Jamboree at Valley Forge.

Another effort of the parlor with gratifying results was the aid being given to women patients at Camarillo state hospital, this movement being in line with welfare participation as outlined by Grand Parlor. Commodities already accumulated and delivered to Dr. W. E. McCullough at the hospital have been gratefully received.

Preparation for participation in Santa Barbara's annual Fiesta in late August is the next immediate interest of the parlor.

Native Daughters

Grand President's Installation Address

By ANNA T. SCHIEBUSCH

Grand President

Native Daughters of the Golden West

Worthy Supreme Grand President, honored and distinguished guests, members of the 64th Grand Parlor, visiting sisters, ladies and gentlemen:

It has been said that a thing of beauty is a joy forever—surely the picture painted tonight by the lovely escort team of the Southern area Parlors and the rainbow escort by my own members, will always remain in my memory. My sincere thanks to you, Worthy Supreme Grand President Margaret Farnsworth, for the privilege of being obligated by our Worthy Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer. There has been a deep friendship through the years previous to my affiliation with the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and since she signed my application for membership there was a double meaning in her obligation given this evening. To the members of Los Angeles Parlor, for their loyal support and assistance at all times, my deep appreciation, and to the Parlors of Southern California for their continued enthusiasm and encouragement; to this Grand Body for their trust in me in placing me in this high office.

When the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West was established in the little mining town of Jackson, Amador county, the founders gave us four principles around which to build our Order: Love of Home; Devotion to the Flag; Veneration of the Pioneers, and an Abiding Faith in the Existence of God. In this, our Centennial year, we look back over one hundred years of progress in our golden state. The order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West has played a most important part in this development, even though we are only celebrating our 64th anniversary in September. It is well, therefore, for us to also examine the contribution that we as an Organization have made, and to plan for the future, for no organization can exist on its past accomplishments. We find today that the foundation of our Order was well built and that those principles given to us present a challenge for continued growth and achievement. Therefore, as we turn a new page to rededicate ourselves to these founding principles, let us briefly outline our objectives from this viewpoint.

First, "Love of Home." Our activities are:

Americanism: We, as citizens of this great nation are ever aware of the dangers to our American way of life and, therefore, have set up a Committee in Grand Parlor, to function with the Subordinate Parlors, to be ever on the alert that false ideologies not creep into our American way of life. This year we will appoint District Chairmen so that Parlor Chairmen will have a closer contact with the State Chairman.

CIVIC PARTICIPATION: We, as Native Daughters of the Golden West, are extremely proud of our communities and are, therefore, every ready to assist in all civic affairs presenting themselves. There are so many things that present themselves under this endeavor that time does not permit us to mention them; however, anything that makes for greater beauty, better hospitalization for those who must await discharges of the county hospitals, which are crowded or contagious has had our whole hearted support.

EDUCATION: At Native Daughters of the Golden West we realize that California history should be taught in our schools and that the students should be fully informed as to the background of California. To this end we were instrumental in having California history a part of the school curriculum. Also the committee on education is ever alert to see that books which are not suitable are not placed in our public schools, and if they have inadvertently been placed therein that they are withdrawn.

EXTENSION OF THE ORDER: Being extremely proud of all of our activities, we are ever anxious to increase our membership and, therefore, have a Committee known as Extension of the Order. At each Grand Parlor we leave with high hopes and aspirations for the ensuing year. If each of us would but pledge ourselves to contact the woman we know who is a native born Californian, but not a member of our organization, and invite her to join, our Order could double its membership in one year. It is the responsibility of each of us to invite its women eligible to join our ranks, for surely the Aims and Objects of our Order suffice the needs of every woman. It is our ambitious hope that each member sponsor a member and that we double our membership this year. You heard a most inspiring report of our State Chairman of Extension of the Order today.

JUNIOR NATIVE DAUGHTERS: Realizing that the youth of today is the citizen of tomorrow, Junior Native Daughters between the ages of 12 and 18 were organized. When these young women become 16 years of age they may join the mother parlor. The program for these Juniors is varied and interesting, each unit vying to outdo the other unit in accomplishments. It is our earnest hope that in the not too distant future every Parlor will be interested in a Junior Unit as several parlors together could sponsor a unit.

MUSIC: Music plays an important part in our every day lives, as well as our ritual, and therefore we are conversant of its important place in the home and community.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS HOME: The Native Daughters Home has ever played an important part in the lives of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. This has at all times been our pride and joy. When first the Home was thought of, it was handled by the Board of Relief and in 1919 was formally turned over to the Grand Parlor, under whose supervision it has been since that time. We hope that as the years progress we will have a home that will be able to accommodate all Native Daughters wishing to reside there. Surely we are indebted to those women whose foresight made the Home a reality. It is our pleasure this year to have the privilege of appointing a Committee to look into the possibility, or feasibility, of another Native Daughters Home in another section of our state.

PUBLICITY: This is a most important phase of our work. As an Organization, it is well to publicize the many worthwhile things that we do so that the community and those not belonging to the Order may know of our many activities.

PUBLIC SPEAKING: Realizing the importance of training the young men and women, we have our yearly public speaking contests. This, we feel, not only encourages the student, giving him or her poise which cannot be obtained in any other way, but gives them an added incentive to work for the prizes. We sincerely hope that every section of our State will be represented by a contestant at the next Grand Parlor.

RADIO: Radio is playing a more important part in our lives today than ever before, and it is therefore suggested that you contact your radio chairman for programs to be broadcast over your local stations. You will find that your local stations will be pleased to cooperate and give you time, providing that you have an interesting worthwhile program.

SCHOLARSHIP: Knowing full well the difficulties that beset the young men and women entering the business world, we have at all times encouraged scholarships. We have included young men, as the Annie L. Adair Scholarship is for both boys and girls. We should encourage the use of these scholarships so that they will be working at all times and not lie idle. Applicants should file with the State Chairmen, enclosing an official transcript of their high school record, giving in detail the subjects taken and the scholarship grade in each. They should file, also, written testimonials in their behalf from three responsible persons with whom they have been associated either before or during their attendance at high school and at the university. The evidence as to the financial need is chiefly the applicant's signed statement as to her resources. The judgment of the Committee will be based on these complete records.

SCRAPBOOKS: So that we may maintain a complete resume of our activities for the year, we have our scrapbooks in our Subordinate Parlors which are entered in competition at Grand Parlor. It is our earnest desire that every Parlor in the state enter a scrapbook at the next Grand Parlor.

WELFARE: Our membership has always been sympathetic to those less fortunate than themselves and have ever lent a helping hand to our Community Chest, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the Sister Kenney Foundation, Cancer, Heart, etc., besides the direct welfare work done by individual Parlors. Many Parlors have either helped a member in distress or engaged in other welfare work. It is needless for me to mention the many thousands of garments made by our members for our Homeless Children and are still being made for the unwed mother or destitute families. It is important that work done under "welfare" is not confused with "Veterans' welfare."

YOUNG WOMENS ACTIVITIES: Realizing that the young woman must have an outlet for her energies, a program that would interest these young members has been established. We would by no means say that older members could not enter into the activities of the younger, nor the younger members in the activities of the older members. However, young people seek different entertainment than older people. It is hoped that Parlors will further young women's activities.

Second, "Devotion to the Flag." We, as Native Daughters of the Golden West, are extremely proud of our glorious Flag and take every opportunity to give public expression of this principle. We were the first organization to have the Flag as part of our ritual and, therefore, we are the oldest patriotic women's organization in the State of California; presenting flags to public buildings, schools, etc., and seeing that our Flag is not desecrated.

Under this Principle also comes our Legislative program.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM: We are ever mindful that our legislators are not at all times fully aware of conditions and circumstances that prompt the introduction of bills, and, therefore, our legislative committee is entrusted with the grave responsibility of advising us as to the pitfalls contained therein. It has sometimes been said that the legislative committee is political. We must remember that politics is the science of government and since we are the governed, we must be ever alert to the possibilities of unfavorable legislation.

VETERANS WELFARE: Realizing our great debt to those men and women who have given so much to preserve our American way of life, we have through the years in our small way endeavored to express to them our grateful appreciation. Many Parlors adopt a veteran, sending little remembrances from time to time. As there are so many women of the various branches of the armed services who are now confined to the hospitals, it is now possible to adopt a woman. Some Parlors remember the veterans on "special days," such as birthdays, Easter and Christmas. Many members make bed socks, lap robes and other items which are not on the government list. Some parlors have united their efforts in behalf of the veterans to give gigantic parties to as many as 400 or 500 men at one time. We realize that it is hardly necessary to remind ourselves that we must continue this work since more and more men and women are being confined to the hospitals.

Our third principle "Veneration of the Pioneers." Realizing the importance of preserving the history which includes the legends and romance of California, we have marked various historical spots in our glorious state from the Oregon line to the Mexican border and from Nevada on the east to our great Pacific ocean. We trust and hope that these landmarks will stand through the years so that generations to come will be able to view them and have an accurate knowledge of the founding of California and not have to do so by conjecture alone. It is interesting to note that the State Legislature did not appropriate money for monuments until 1918. We have a chair of history in the College of the Pacific, so that further research may be made in California history. We have compiled a pioneer roster. Much valuable information is contained therein and we know that as historians of the future search these pages, they will have a definite part under this principle, as the Missions were the first to bring christianization to the shores of California.

Last, but by no means least, the principle of "An Abiding Faith in the Existence of God."

Faith in our heavenly Father has been interwoven into the ceremonies of our ritual. We, therefore, look to our heavenly Father at the beginning of our meetings and ask Him for guidance in our deliberations, and at the close thank Him for His gracious assistance. A non-sectarian organization, which respects the faiths of all its members.

In conclusion, I feel deeply the honor and trust you have placed in me and this sentiment is shared by all of your Grand Officers. It is now my happy privilege to introduce to you your Grand Officers for the ensuing term:

We pledge that whatever ability we possess we will use to the utmost.

Reina del Mar Parlor Takes Part in Fiesta Activities

Traditional pre-Fiesta Tea, which raised the curtain on Santa Barbara's world-famed Old Spanish Days Fiesta, August 23-26, was sponsored by Reina del Mar Parlor, NDGW, Santa Barbara, on Sunday afternoon, August 6. The setting was the historic adobe of the De la Guerra family opposite the City Hall Plaza.

Honored at the tea were Santa Barbara county pioneers of the Spanish era, governmental leaders and La Fiesta chairman under El Presidente Francis Price, who is a member of the Native Sons. Speaker of the day was Rev. Maynard Geiger, O. F. M., California Missions historian. Through the courtesy of Senor Jose Perez del Arco, Spanish consul at Los Angeles, talent recently from Spain appeared on the program.

Las Fiesteras, dancing group of 24 Reina del Mar members, under Mrs. Lorraine Hillebrand with Mrs. Teresa Janssens as director, offered costume dancing.

Gifts were presented to the oldest and the youngest mother present. Refreshments were served following the entertainment.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

"Heritage is one thing that cannot be taken away," said Mrs. A. J. Oechsel, as she relinquished the gavel to Mrs. Herbert Ostrup at the formal installation of officers of Californiana Parlor No. 247, Los Angeles NDGW.

Mrs. Jack Morich, Deputy Grand President installed the officers and was assisted by the officers of Beverly Hills Parlor.

Mrs. H. H. Wahrmond was chosen as chairman of the tea following the installation.

Mountain Dawn Parlor No. 120, Sawyers Bar consolidated with Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112, Etna recently with 27 charter members. 50 and 25-year pins were presented.

Ann Plescia was installed as president of Golden Gate Parlor No. 148, NDGW, in the Grizzly Bear Library of the NSGW building. President Plescia recently returned from an extensive tour of Europe.

Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, NDGW, meets regularly during vacation time. Activities for July included a barn dance, and later in the month a moonlight hay ride which was followed by a weiner roast and dancing.

Georgina Williams, Charter Past President won the Jr. essay contest at the Native Daughters convention in Santa Cruz, at which Ann Oliviera and Shirley Price represented the Unit.

Whittier Native Daughters Celebrate Second Birthday

Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW, recently celebrated its second birthday combining it with their installation of officers. A fifth generation Californian and a true "daughter of the Dons," Lucille Rowland was installed as president by Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand President, at her first visit to a parlor following her election at Santa Cruz.

Miss Rowland made a memorable picture as she stood at the altar and pledged herself to the service of the organization. She was conducted from the altar to her position of honor by her mother, Mrs. John (Francisca) Anderson.

Grand Trustees Phyllis Hirst and Eugenia Smith, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna Heartt and Grand Past President Mary B. Noerenberg extended congratulations to Miss Rowland. Mrs. Walter Brandt acted as grand marshal and Mrs. Lila Stevenson of La Tijera Parlor Inglewood, was installing officer.

Native Sons from Ramona Parlor No. 109, Los Angeles, were on hand to congratulate the new president, among them being Grand Inside Sentinel Walter Brandt and Willard (Curly) Allen.

"Lucille" was Ramona Parlor's choice for the "Girl of the Golden West" and while she didn't win, Ramona members still feel that "the judges made a mistake," remarked Frank Collins in his congratulatory speech when he presented Miss Rowland with a beautiful gavel, a gift from the wives of Ramona Parlor members.

Approximately 250 members and their friends attended the colorful ceremony which climaxed the second birthday of Whittier Parlor.

Miss Geneva Switzer was installed as president of Lugonia Parlor No. 241, San Bernardino, in an outdoor ceremony. The installation was held jointly with Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, NSGW.

The Greek theater at San Bernardino Valley college was the setting for the ceremonies with Deputy Grand President Mrs. Marion (Nelson) Van Fleet of Ontario and Mr. David Stewart, Past President of Arrowhead Parlor, conducting the installation ceremonies.

In beautiful and impressive ceremonies the new officers of La Tijera Parlor No. 282, Inglewood, with Miss Ruth Payne as their president, were installed. The officers were imposing in their white formals and striking white lace mantillas held in place with dark pink carnations. They also wore wristlets of the same dark pink carnations.

Honored guest, Grand President Ann Schiebusch, was presented at the altar by an escort team. Many grand officers and city officials were in attendance.

The La Tijera choral group, resplendent in their capes of yellow satin, lined with red, sang two numbers.

Whittier Parlor No. 298 now meets in the Whittier Womens Club, the corner of Bailey and Friend Sts., 8:00 p.m., the first and third Wednesdays.

WILHEMINA BEECROFT

On March 1, 1950 Wilhemina Beecroft at the age of seventy-nine passed on after a long illness.

We, her sisters of South Butte Parlor No. 226 wish to express our loving appreciation of "Mrs. Bee," as she was called by so many of us.

She was a Charter Member of South Butte Parlor, and for nearly twenty-seven years our organization was the better for her faithful work, her quiet wisdom and her gentle kindly spirit.

We knew her to be affectionate, unselfish, sympathetic, sincere, loyal to duty and courageous in right doing, honest and resourceful.

We mourn her passing, yet—
 Shall claim of death cause us to grieve and make our courage faint or fall?

Nay! Let us faith and hope receive,
 The Rose still grows beyond the wall.
 Scattering fragrance far and wide,
 Just as it did in days of yore,
 Just as it did on the other side,
 Just as it will for evermore.

The above was read at our regular meeting April 17, 1950.

Admission Day Parade Story Will Appear Next Month

Past Grand President Raymond D. Williamson, NSGW, was general chairman of the San Francisco Centennial Committee, composed of Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, which engineered the great California Statehood Centennial celebration in San Francisco September 2-9, climaxed by the mammoth and colorful parade Admission Day, September 9th, put on by the Native Sons and Daughters.

Others on the general committee were Elmer E. Robinson, mayor of San Francisco; John T. Regan, vice-chairman; Harry Romick, vice-chairman; Edwin Riegger, secretary; Frank M. Buckley, treasurer; Mrs. Henry J. Dippel and Eugene H. O'Donnell, directors.

Other Centennial celebrations were held in various cities throughout California in observance of California's 100th birthday. However, the main celebration took place in San Francisco. Because of this and the fact that the September 9th parade there was the big event in the history of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, being sponsored by both Orders as a whole, the Grizzly Bear will feature the big parade in the October issue. We are sorry that it is impossible to carry it in the September Grizzly, but we went to press before the great event.

AMERICANISM

August 30, 1950

Harold A. Henry, President
Los Angeles City Council
Los Angeles City Hall
Los Angeles 12, California
Members of the Los Angeles City Council:

The Native Sons of the Golden West, at their recent 75th annual convention, unanimously adopted a resolution to continue a relentless fight against the inroads of Communism. As State Chairman of their Americanism Committee, I wish to place in the Council's record the Native Sons' support in urging the members of the Los Angeles City Council to adopt the proposed ordinance which would make it mandatory for Communists residing within the confines of Los Angeles to register.

I attended the Council meeting on August 29, 1950. When the clerk was requested to read communications urging the adoption of this proposed ordinance, I, hearing none, felt the shame of countless supporters when there were three letters condemning the ordinance. Therefore, on behalf of 20,000 patriotic Native Sons of the Golden West, I take this opportunity to urge each member of the Council to consider that Communists are daily killing our citizens in the armed forces in Korea, and that it has been brought out in sworn testimony that Communists in the United States follow the Stalin Communist Party line, and therefore should be strictly dealt with, especially in times like these.

It would be a difficult situation and a great source of relief for local Communists to find that the Los Angeles City Council had failed to adopt a registration ordinance, especially when the County Board of Supervisors has such a law in preparation.

Very truly yours,

Our Cover

Although the Grizzly Bear went to press before the great Admission Day Parade September 9, in San Francisco, sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West in commemoration of California's Centennial Birthday, scenes such as this were multiplied many fold, as entries from parlors all over the state proudly marched down the streets of the city by the Golden Gate.

Our cover photo shows girls drill team of Dolores Parlor, NDGW, San Francisco, as it marched down Market Street in the 1946 Admission Day parade of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

The annual Admission Day parade and celebration is the biggest joint event of the year for the Native Sons and Daughters. The Centennial Parade, as we went to press, promised to be one of the biggest and grandest ever put on in California by any organization. Further details will appear in the October issue.

California 75 Years Ago

Admission Day, the twenty-fifth anniversary of California's entrance into the Sisterhood of States, was celebrated September 9, 1875, by military parades in San Francisco and Sacramento and by reunions of the Pioneers.

The Native Sons of San Francisco received their first Admission Day mention, being presented by a delegation of native daughters with a beautiful banner. Afterwards they were addressed by R. Guy McClellan.

Lota Crabtree, called the "California Nugget," made her gift of a fountain, at the intersection of Market and Geary streets, to the city of San Francisco. It cost $9,000. Harry Edwards made the presentation address to a crowd that blocked Market street traffic. The first drink from the fountain was given to Mrs. Vernon, Lotta's aunt, and the next to Mayor Otis.

A mammoth grapevine, planted by Indians a half century before, was reported found in the chaparral on Santa Cruz Creek in the San Rafael mountains of Santa Barbara county. Another mammoth grapevine was reported as growing at Carpinteria, Santa Barbara county. It was 14 inches in diameter three feet above the ground and 18 inches at the ground. It covered a space of 10,000 square feet and bore an average of 7,500 bunches of grapes, nearly 12,000 pounds in weight. It was planted by Donna Marcelina de Dominguez sixty years previous to commemorate the birth of a child.

Mount Hamilton, twenty miles from San Jose and 4,448 feet in elevation, was selected by James Lick as the site of the observatory which he gave $800,000 to establish.

A new ferryboat, the "Oakland," considered commodious and elegant, went into service September 4 between San Francisco and Oakland. It was the old steamer "Chrysopolis" made over.

Antelope were reported abundant in Kern county. Several droves were feeding in the valleys, but the animals were so wild as to be unapproachable.

A railroad man while bathing in White-water creek east of San Bernardino, found in the stream, under running water, a peculiar slate-colored stone that is only found in a ledge in British Columbia and from which the Indians there made pipes. It was six inches in diameter, shaped like a saucer, and decorated with engraved leaves and vines with lines running across the disk. It was highly polished and was a relic of an ancient race who must have brought it from the far north.

Merced County's Oldest House

By RALPH L. MILLIKEN

THE oldest house in Merced County is in danger of being destroyed. Surely it behooves the Native Sons and the Native Daughters to take steps for its preservation.

The building is, of course, of adobe construction. It is about forty feet long and perhaps sixteen feet wide. On the south end of the building there is a typically Mexican chimney. The house was constructed in the long, long ago when the whole San Joaquin Valley was a part of the "Gentilidad," meaning in the language of the Spanish, "the land where the heathen Indians roam."

This house is located on what was once the most used trail by which the Indians of this part of the San Joaquin Valley, from time immemorial, were wont to cross the mountains on their visits to the Coast regions.

The building is a fortified adobe and was probably constructed about 1843 or 1844. On each side of every window and door there are port holes through which armed men stationed within the building could fire their muskets and hold off any number of attacking Indians, armed only with bows and arrows.

The old fort stands on the San Joaquin Valley side of the entrance to what is now known as the Pacheco Pass. The building is located beside a never failing source of water discovered June 21st, 1805 by Lieutenant Gabriel Moraga on his first exploring trip into this part of California and named by him the San Luis Gonzaga.

During the ten-year period between the secularization of the California Missions and the American occupation of California in 1846 it is estimated that the Indians of the San Joaquin Valley stole and ran off from the Spanish ranches of the Coast region at least ten thousand head of horses.

The Indians did not steal these for the purpose of riding them. It was for the purpose of butchering and eating them. Wild Indians never have enough to eat and the Indians of the San Joaquin Valley were forever hungry.

The Mission Indians lived on beef, but the Indians of the Tulares soon found when they attempted to make way with the beef cattle of the Missions and the ranches nearby that the cattle in their forced flight to the San Joaquin Mayor George Willson of Huntington Park, greets Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, NDGW, at fifth annual Fiesta Dinner of Huntington Park Native Sons. Looking on are Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca, NSGW, and Fred Allday, president of Huntington Park parlor. Dinner was summer event at home of C. Harry Davis.

At Pre-Fiesta Tea, sponsored by Reina del Mar Parlor, NDGW, Santa Barbara, Sunday, August 13, left to right, Francis Price, El Presidente of Fiesta; Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, NDGW; Lorraine Shaw Hillebrand, "Saint Barbara" of Fiesta; Rev. Maynard Geiger, O. F. M., speaker of the day; John T. Rickard, master of ceremonies.

Valley traveled too slow. It was possible for the Mexicans to overtake the bands and recover them. But with horses it was different. The wild Indians found that they could stampe these swifter animals and have them safely over in the limitless stretches of the San Joaquin Valley even before the Mexican ranchers knew that the raid had taken place.

There were years of warfare between the Mexican government of California and the wild Indians of the San Joaquin Valley. At first detachments of Mexican soldiers and ranchers made foray after foray into the Valley in their efforts to recover these stolen horses and to punish the Indians.

Urges Celebration of Constitution Day

September 17, 1950, is the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States of America. This year that date falls on a Sunday.

Communist threats demand that we impress upon the minds of all of our citizens a true concept of our form of Government, the system of free enterprise which has come out of it, and the rights, liberties and freedom of the American people guaranteed by that Constitution. It is vitally important that the attention of all now be focused upon our Constitution and what it means.

Would it not be a fine thing on Sunday morning, September 17th, in every temple and church in the United States where religious observances are held, regardless of sect or creed, if the sermons from the pulpits be devoted to the Constitution. This is entirely in order as religious organizations are vitally concerned. The Communists would destroy them.

The Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West should support the program for an annual September sermon on the Constitution from every pulpit in the United States. This month is of dual importance to all of us. Be you Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant, you are vitally concerned. Do your part.

Novel Program PresentedBy Sebastopol Parlors

Editor's Note: Here is an idea used by Sebastopol Native Sons and Daughters that did much to aid interest to an evening's program. We give the story in full here that it may be of use to the program chairmen of other parlors.

Joint installation of Sebastopol Parlor No. 265, NDGW, and Sebastopol Parlor No. 143, NSGW, was held August 11th. After the ceremonies, a package was handed to President Fred A. Cooke and the brother presenting same, said it had been mysteriously handed to him to present.

Some one, or group, in the Native Sons had been publishing a bulletin called the "Wicked Eye" that "Sees all—Knows All—Tells Everything." This publication has been a mystery and no one can find out who the editor is. It has been a source of much amusement and everyone has appreciated it, as it has been an inducement to attend meetings.

The "Wicked Eye" has told members of their short-comings and who should be fined for some infraction of the rules, but always winds up by telling why the President should be fined. If a brother misses a meeting, the "Wicked Eye" supposed he was out "chasing" and his wife was left home to think he was attending the Native Sons meeting.

The package was placed on the president's rostrum and the president of the Native Daughters, Mrs. S. W. Carrothers, sitting alongside, noticed airholes in the package, and thought there was something alive in it. When the package was turned, it growled. The audience shouted to open it.

The package was addressed to the president, from the "Wicked Eye." The brothers all had a knowing grin on their faces. He asked the president of the Native Daughters to assist him, and getting a broom from the dining room, asked her to stand ready to swat whatever ran out of the package when opened on the floor.

Opening one end of the package, something ran out that looked like a huge spider. The president called on Mrs. Carrothers to swat at it, but she was too scared, and ran in the other direction. Then Fred Cooke grabbed a paper and after chasing the spider across the room caught it, and it turned out to be a mechanical spider that looked like the real thing.

Going back to the package and turning it upside down, out tumbled a large "teddy bear" that growled if you turned it over.

The "Wicked Eye" had its fun and anything can happen from now on.

The visitors and visiting brothers and sisters from other parlors said it was one of the most interesting and amusing installation ceremonies they ever attended.

Hollywood Bowl Fete Thrills Thousands

BY JOHN T. GOWER

Stephen M. White Parlor No. 263, NSGW

Of all the California Centennial celebrations through the past two years the great pageant at the famed Hollywood Bowl, on September 9th, was the monumental spectacle that climaxed them all. Only in Hollywood could you produce such a vision of brilliance that was directed across the immense stage in a series of more than 30 acts employing 1000 Hollywood trained men, women and children.

The beautiful gold mounted programs assured us that the greatest of care had been taken to assure absolute historical authenticity in the entire production. Your humble reporter without too much research found several items that could have with profit been reviewed by a student of Western history, but this did not prevent the said reporter being thrilled by the entire three hours of the production.

During the evening of September 9th we traveled rapidly through more than 400 years from the time of Columbus to the year 1950. We saw the slaves dancing before the fabled Queen Califa of the island of California, that golden land first conceived in the active mind of the Spanish writer Garcia Ordenez de Montalvo who wrote prophetically in his book "Sergas de Esplandian" of that far off realm saying "On the right hand of the Indies very near the terrestrial Paradise, lies an island called California."

Rapidly scene after scene saw the various episodes in our history; the founding of the Mission, the founding of Los Angeles (El Puebla de Neustra Senora la Reina de Los Angeles de Porciuncula); the raising of the American flag at Monterey, the great wagon trains of the gold rush days and so—for scene after scene that I must leave for another edition.

Our Cover

We feel that our cover picture of the old barracks at Sonoma is fitting as the 1950 Centennial year draws near to a close.

For it was here in Sonoma on the morning of June 14, 1846, that a little group of American settlers, trappers and traders rode into town and informed General Vallejo that "The Independents," as they called themselves, were taking over the rule of California. That very afternoon they raised a new flag that was to be forever famous in California as the Bear flag.

It was in Sonoma, June 14, 15, 16, 1946, that the Bear flag Centennial celebration, sponsored by Sonoma Parlor No. 111, Native Sons of the Golden West, was held, setting the stage of a series of four-year centennial celebrations of the great events in the history of California.

Since then, up and down the breadth of the state, we have celebrated the raising of the American flag at Monterey, the discovery of gold at Coloma, the days of '49, climaxed with the great Admission Day Centennial celebration in San Francisco last month.

In all these events the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West have taken the lead with a record for success that we may all be rightfully proud of.—Photo courtesy Redwood Empire Ass'n.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

San Francisco's financial skies cleared beautifully during October, 1875. On the 11th a crowd congregated at California and Montgomery streets and at 10 a.m. a cannon boomed, announcing the reopening of the doors of the Bank of California. A million dollars, in $20 gold pieces, was exposed to the view of the public. At the close of the day's business the deposits had exceeded the withdrawals by $700,000.

The same day the Bank of Nevada, organized by the "bonanza big four," Mackay, Fair, Flood and O'Brien, opened with a capital of $5,000,000. The Mining Stock Exchange resumed its sessions at the same time.

The Santa Cruz and Felton railroad was opened October 13 with a largely attended celebration at the former city.

Flock of plover gave excellent shooting to sportsmen in Yolo County this month.

October 17 the first train, an excursion one, was run between Santa Monica and Los Angeles.

Eight thousand acres of the Hancock rancho in San Bernardino County was sold this month for $32,000.

Henry White worked three weeks near Oroville, Butte County, wheeling dirt from his claim to the river bank, where he had everything in place to sluice it. One night this month some Chinamen came along and did the sluicing for him. They cleaned up several thousand dollars worth of gold dust and departed before daylight.

The Redington mine in Napa County produced during October 125 flasks of quicksilver, valued at $9,000.

Sonoma County grapes for winery use were selling at $14 a ton for the mission variety, $37 for zinfandels and $25 for muscats.

In Los Angeles County grapes were $7.50 a ton, the lowest price ever known. The supply was far in excess of the demand.

The first refrigerator car loaded with California grapes was sent East October 19. Besides being iced, the car contained a rotary fan, operated by a belt attached to the car axle, to force the circulation of cooled air through the car.

Judge Clark of Anaheim, Orange County, established a precedent this month by fining men $5 for swearing in public.

Believed to be the oldest house in Merced county, this old adobe stands on the San Joaquin Valley side of historic Pacheco Pass and is familiar to many. Note the portholes beside the windows and near the chimney in this west view of the ancient building believed constructed about 1843 or 1844. A dedication plaque of the Native Sons of the Golden West is in the front of the chimney. Now in danger of being destroyed by the march of progress, Ralph L. Milliken of Los Banos, suggests that steps be taken for its preservation for posterity.—Photo by S. M. Young.

Merced County's Oldest House Should Be Saved For Posterity

The Chowchillas, living in what is now the eastern part of Merced County, were the worst horse thieves of all. Many of the Indians of this tribe had been Mission Indians at Mission San Juan Bautista. With the secularization of this Mission in 1835 many of the members of this tribe made their way back to their old hunting grounds in the San Joaquin Valley. But they remembered well each of the Spanish ranches over in the Santa Clara Valley and it was no great effort on their part to cross over into the Mission lands and in the dead of night throw open the well-filled horse corrals. Stamping the horses in the direction of the San Joaquin Valley, by daylight they had them well into the land of safety. By the time the Mexicans had raised a posse and had gotten over the top of the mountains, even if they could see the fleeing band of horses far out on the San Joaquin plains, their courage would usually play out and they would generally abandon the pursuit. The Indians of the Valley were too numerous and the pursuers were too few.

Returning to their homes the ranchers would belabor the weak Mexican government in California with petitions. Finally in 1843 the Indian horse thieves had become so bold that the Mexican Governor in Monterey was goaded into doing something. It was decided that making forays into the San Joaquin was futile and that fortified establishments must be located east of the mountains. There is no doubt but that this oldest house in Merced County was constructed about this time.

The Mexican Governor states, January 26, 1843, that he has ordered a detachment of troops to be sent to the ranch of Francisco Pacheco to ward off the Indians and in April of the same year General Jose Castro writes to his superior that he has been maintaining a force of armed militia in the mountains for the past two months.

The land on which this fortified adobe stands is now a part of the San Luis Gonzaga ranch. This grant had been made originally to a Mexican citizen by the name of Don Francisco Rivera. This was in 1841. But this Rivera practically abandoned his grant, going back to Mexico without building a house on the land. It was one of the requirements in holding a grant that the owner must build a suitable house on it within one year.

During the Indian raids of 1843 two Mexicans of California "jumped the claim" of Rivera and succeeded in getting the grant made over to them. They promised to make the San Luis Gonzaga into a defense against the hostile Indians. These were Captain Jose Maria Mejia and Juan Perez Pacheco, the son of Don Francisco Perez Pacheco, who owned the Ausaymas Grant adjoining the San Luis Gonzaga on the west. A few days after obtaining the grant Captain Mejia transferred his title to his partner, Juan Perez Pacheco. The Pachecos then went ahead and improved the San Luis Gonzaga by erecting corrals and stocking the ranch with cattle. They also built at this time several small houses, one of which may have been this fortified dwelling.

When the Americans took over California they promptly put an end to the Indian raids from the San Joaquin Valley. A band of troops made a wide tour of the Valley, executed a few of the leading horse thief Indians and threw a scare into the remainder that they never got over. Horse stealing raids by way of the Pacheco Pass came to an abrupt end.

But the old fort sitting beside the trail through Pacheco's Pass did not remain long in peace and quietness. Hardly had the American occupation of California been completed than gold was discovered in 1848 and from that time on for several years bands of miners from every part of the world began pouring through the Pacheco Pass on their way to the Mariposa gold fields. The San Luis Gonzaga rancho became a stopping place for miners returning from the mines with their sacks of gold dust. The old fort developed into a notorious gambling place. Many an unlucky miner was murdered during the night and his body buried before daylight in a shallow grave outside the building. Murrieta himself and his outlaws were camped one time just back of the fort and missed capture by the American officers only by slashing their way out of the back of their tent, abandoning their women companions and dashing away on horseback at breakneck speed.

A few years later, in the late fifties. Andy Firebaugh built a toll road through the Pacheco Pass and the very next year the stage of the Butterfield Overland Mail Company running from San Francisco to St. Louis, began speeding past the old fort, blinking beside the road. The San Luis Gonzaga ranch headquarters became a stage station and here the passengers, after having left San Francisco a two o'clock in the morning, would have their supper at the end of their first day of travel.

In 1860 the telegraph line connecting San Francisco with Los Angeles was constructed through the Pass. Later a telegraph operator was stationed at San Luis Gonzaga and a post office established. The old fort that had long since lost its usefulness as a building for defense gradually became the "bodega" or store house for the ranch headquarters.

For years the old adobe existed merely as a store house and the old, original dirt floor of Mexican days gradually wore away. But the building itself was well kept up and a suitable wooden roof maintained over it. This prevented the blidding from "melting," as so many other early Mexican adobe buildings have done.

In 1931 the Native Sons of Merced, Yosemite Parlor No. 24, took notice of the building, to the extent of erecting a bronze plaque in front of it, this being the second landmark to be so designated by them in Merced county.

A few years ago the building was made over into a wayside restaurant. A splendid floor was put in. The walls were cleaned and decorated. The old Mexican fireplace was made over into one of ornate modern design. The port holes were stopped up to keep out the wind. The outside walls were neatly white washed. Once more the old adobe became a building of prominence. Of late the owner have made this well preserved adobe over into a part of their country house.

But the old adobe, the oldest house in Merced County, may soon be "melted." The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation is studying plans for the proposed construction of an immense dam across the mouth of the Pacheco Pass. The old fort may soon be engulfed in a vast lake, the waters of which will be used to irrigate lands along the foothills as far away as Coalinga. It is with a sigh of regret that we realize that all progress is destruction.

What can be done to save this old building?

That is for you to say.

Shall the building be allowed to "melt?"

Perhaps it could be taken down, adobe brick by adobe brick, and the building set up again in a safe place in Los Banos where all who travel through the Pacheco Pass can still gaze upon this landmark that dates back to the time when Merced county and the San Joaquin Valley was a part of the "Gentilidad,"—the land where the heathen Indians roamed.

Admission Day Notes

Keith Parlor No. 137, NDGW, marched on to victory and happiness September 9th in San Francisco's memorable Admission Day parade commemorating California's 100th birthday when it received the first prize of $50.00 for the best decorated car. The prize winning entry was covered with golden poppies and accompanying green adornments, and the Parlor's Marching Unit also carried out the Poppy theme, in that the sisters were beautifully gowned in identical evening length green organdy dresses with marching accessories of poppy corsages and gay parasols, which brought forth many acclamations of admiration and praise.

Albany Parlor No. 260, NDGW, won first prize for the best marching unit in the Admission Day parade in San Francisco. The women were dressed in gold satin gowns with round sequins of gold metallic around the neck and skirt. They represented "Minerva." Small girls carrying the letters "Albany" led the parade entry, with a gold car following with the president and the mother of Albany Parlor.

Santa Monica Bay Parlor, NSGW, reports that its trip to the Admission Day celebration in San Francisco was a big success. Their drum corps unit was in step and tune all the way, and even though the corps did not win a prize in competition with many other groups, nevertheless the group did make an impression with its new uniforms. Some 27 members of the parlor, together with their wives, made the journey. Friday evening, September 8, they celebrated with a dinner party at Lucca's, San Francisco.

Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, Los Angeles, entered a uniformed unit, together with a stage coach in the Admission Day parade at San Francisco, which was an entry to make 109ers proud.

On the night of September 8th the Marinita Drill Team, NDGW, competed in the state competition in San Francisco and placed fourth. The team took part in the September 9th parade and took home first prize in the ladies drill teams.

The Drum and Bugle corps of Mt. Tamalpais Parlor No. 64, NSGW, took first prize in the Admission Day Centennial Parade.

Thousands See Giant Admission Day Parade

By JOSEPH B. SHERIDAN

Courtesy San Francisco News

San Franciscans by the sidewalkfull turned out Admission Day, September 9th, to demonstrate how truly they "love a parade."

Police estimated 300,000 persons turned out to watch the cavalcade.

The paraders repaid them in kind.

The tens of thousands who lined Market street hours before the 10 a.m. starting time knew as the first units passed them, that this was to be a parade indeed.

In size, scope and significance, it proved a cavalcade measuring up to every inch of its enthusiastic advance billing as a dazzling Admission Day climax to the city's week-long Centennial celebration—a fitting salute to California's 100th birthday.

It started up Market street from the Embarcadero to Fulton street, out Fulton to Larkin, out McAllister and then on Hayes to Van Ness avenue for disbanding.

You name it—you stay-at-homes who thought you'd seen everything, you office-bound unfortunates who couldn't see anything—and this parade had it.

That was plain from the beginning. (The end wasn't in sight until mid-afternoon. It was that kind of a parade, too, destined to go down in history of many, many local parades as one of the longest and most elaborate, and perhaps the most significant, of all).

For the kids, best things came first, in the person of Hopalong Cassidy — sometimes known as Bill Boyd but more popularly as Hoppy, champion of justice and scourge of the sidewinders—astride "Topper" at the head of the parade.

Among the tens of thousands along the line of march, there were seemingly 10,000 small fry who'd heeded the advice of the television announcers and turned out properly attired in boots, six-guns and black, duly trade-marked sombrero, blouse and jeans. To those bold enough to break free from their parents to trot briefly alongside Topper, it wasn't Market street at all, but Cloud Eight.

Other young hombres were content just to see in person the great man the encompassing, infectious grin he bestowed on them from on high.

Hoppy had plenty of competition, as it subsequently unfolded in smooth-flowing fashion up Market to the Civic Center reviewing stands.

And probably his greatest competition was from the motorized street sweeper a few paces to the rear of Topper. The crowd gave the street sweeper driver rousing cheers as he drove slowly by, and he gallantly acknowledged them.

The parade's entire first division was given over, appropriately to entries of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, traditional leaders in Admission Day observances; the second division to other fraternal orders and individual entries.

First marching unit up Market street was the Police Department's band, with Chief Michael Mitchell accompanying a troop of mounted police and color guard.

Formalizing the city salute to state, Governor Earl Warren, Lieut. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Mayor Elmer E. Robinson, accompanied by their wives, rode in open cars to the Civic Center. There they mounted the reviewing stand at City Hall to watch the cavalcade.

The official cars followed a decorated auto bearing Walter Carpentier and Elmarie H. Dyke, grand marshals, respectively, of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, and Harry Romick, vice chairman of the San Francisco Citizens Centennial Committee.

With the California Centennials Commission, the two organizations were co-sponsors of the hours long event.

In the first parade division, there were 46 floats, 21 of them elaborate historical entries of the Centennials Commission and 25 provided by parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters.

Decorated cars, high-stepping drum majors and majorettes, comedy marching units, drum and bugle corps in intricate maneuvers, kept the line of march a changing, vibrant pageant of color, form and sound.

Oregon Cavemen, clad as you'd expect them to be, roamed the pavement, up to their old raucous tricks.

Drake's Plate was borne proudly on a Centennials Commission float, as was another depicting the storied Anza expedition of 1774-75. Each of the commission's floats was designed to illustrate one colorful chapter of California's colorful past. The commission's own float, an elaborate creation making its final appearance after three years of participation in Centennial observances throughout the state, was spotted at the very end of the procession.

Floats and entries came to San Francisco from every section of the state, their size and makeup limited only by the imagination of the lodge, community, agency or organization which created them.

From the Mother Lode came stage coaches, quadrille teams and bearded miners wearing six-guns which drew attention even from ardent Hopalong fans. They had eyes and oh's and ah's, too, for the horseflesh on hand for the day, replete with trappings of silver, leather and braid.

Naval Reserve Calls Grizzly Representative

Comment on Admission Day Centennial Parade

By EDWARD J. WREN
Grand President, NSGW

Another glorious celebration of our State's birthday has passed into history. For 75 years our Order has celebrated the Admission of California into the Union; for many years we have looked forward to this Centennial Year—1950.

Our members have given of their time, energy, and financial resources, to assure the success of this great event—100 years of Statehood. Those of us who have been given this heritage and charged with the responsibility of carrying on the great traditions can say to the world, with pardonable pride, no greater parade, no more beautiful pageant, no more enthusiastic week of rejoicing and patriotic devotion has ever been held anywhere.

Our two Orders can be justly proud of this outstanding event. To every member who took part, to the San Francisco Joint Extension of the Order Committee who were responsible for this beautiful spectacle, to the State Centennials Commission, to the San Francisco Centennial Committee, I personally offer my humble congratulations for a job well done. This was a gala day!

We know that many members could not be with us for many reasons, but we also know that they were with us in spirit and that all echoed the wish to have been with us, if only for the day, to add their voices to our great salute, "Hail! Thou Queen of States."

Our three great years are over, and we have a job to do for our Order. We must finish this year of 1950 with our greatest membership gain. It's later than you think. Take just a few hours' time; contact the fellow you work with, the clerk in the bank or store in which you do business. . . . Thousands are just waiting to be asked. . . . Won't you at least do them this favor? This can be our greatest year in membership if each one of us will do his part!

Do you realize that one application gotten by each member would put us in the "50 THOUSAND CLASS" by December 31st? Now, wait! Don't say it can't be done. I know some are too old to get out and get an application; some are ill; and some will have other excuses; but some of us still have the Order at heart, still are proud of our heritage, and want to do something about it, and can get three or four applications to make up for those who cannot, or will not do so.

AS A LAST THOUGHT—Will you stop for a moment or two and offer a short prayer to our Heavenly Father that the people of the world will start thinking of a Permanent World Peace?

The special stamp issued by the Post Office Department in commemoration of California's Centennial has proven popular. Released Admission Day at Sacramento, many Native Sons and Daughters received first day covers. Arrowhead Assembly, Past President's Association arranged for letters to be mailed to all its members bearing the coveted first day cover.

Compton Native Sons make Trip In Ancient Model-T

Compton Parlor No. 273, NSGW, sponsored the Compton Roosevelt Junior High School Band of 66 boys and girls in the Native Sons and Daughters Admission Day parade in San Francisco, the entry winning second prize in its group.

Compton Parlor members, Walter Hopcraft, Ray Olmstead, V. R. Kaiser and Stanley Sargent drove a Model T, 1911 Ford touring car from Compton to San Francisco, entering the car in the parade.

They left Compton at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday morning, September 5, reaching Santa Maria that night by 5:30. Leaving Santa Maria at 9:00 a.m. Wednesday morning, they pulled into Salina at 5:15 the same day. Departing from Salinas at 9:30 a.m. Thursday they drove to San Jose, where they visited the famous Winchester home. They arrived in San Francisco at 4:30 Thursday afternoon.

The boys averaged 22 miles per gallon and their driving time averaged 25 miles per hour. The ancient car had been overhauled for the trip by garageman and brother, V. R. Kaiser, who was a member of the group making the trip. The parts were purchased and the labor donated.

The Union Oil Co. donated two front tires and tubes, also giving Compton Parlor a check for $15 to buy gasoline and oil for the journey.

The members report that the Ford made the trip easily, the only repair being made on the road consisted of the taping of one bare timer wire. Signs on both sides carried the name of Compton Parlor, the group receiving many favorable comments and good-natured banter along the route.

Native Sons Winners Of Livermore Softball Title

Native Sons, "Comeback Kids" of the Livermore softball league, climaxed their late-season surge the last of August by convincingly downing VFW, 5-to-1, to capture the 1950 local softball crown.

The game was a "sudden death" playoff made necessary when the Natives had defeated VFW a week earlier, then downed Coasters to pull into a two-way tie with the Vets at the end of the regular schedule.

The youthful Natives, following the same pattern which gave them a 3-to-9 win over the Vets a week earlier, struck early in the game for their winning tallies.

The victim was Carl Holdener, starting VFW moundsman, who was victimized as much by three errors in as many innings behind him as he was by his own pitching troubles.

Holdener got off on the wrong foot by walking Dario Bobba, to start the game. He followed by striking out Earl Taylor, but then Bob Silva gained a "life" as Ike Dearborn committed an error at first base. Bobba, who had gone to second on a wild pitch, scored on this mistake.

In the second game the Natives sewed up the game with a three-run uprising. Jack Baird was safe on Dean Dickey's error at third and scored as Mario Valperga followed with a two-bagger. Mark Foxworthy walked and scored behind Valperga as Bob Makepeace batted out a double.

The winners' final run came home in the third when Don Frates tripped and came home on a hard hit smash to third by Valperga, which Dickey stopped nicely, then tossed wildly to first.

Meanwhile, Makepeace, who had tossed a no-hitter at the Vets in the earlier game, allowed but one hit, a double by Ev Garbini until the Vets scored their lone run in the sixth.

Hank Nunes led off the inning by walking and after one was out scored on successive singles by Al Alviso and Pete Nunes.

Fifty-Year Native Son Has Outstanding Career

BY FRID GOODCELL

Fifty years of membership in the Native Sons of the Golden West have set lightly on Dr. H. H. Keene, now of Fresno.

He was a charter member of Dolores Parlor No. 208 when it was organized in 1900 and went through the chairs. In 1908 he helped to organize and was president of James Lick No. 242, which has since merged with another San Francisco Parlor.

DR. H. H. KEENE

In 1906 he was asked to run for Grand Trustee, but declined with an explanation that he considered himself too young for the important office. More recently he has been a member of San Diego Parlor.

Dr. Keene comes from a family of Revolutionary War renown. Recently at a special meeting of the board of regents he was elected to membership in the Sons of the Revolution. Five of his ancestors were in the revolution on the side of the Colonists. One ancestor on his mother's side was a lieutenant on the English side.

Captain Johnathon Knight, an ancestor on the paternal side, fired the first shot in the first naval engagement of the revolution and captured the English ship Margareta in Machias Bay. The Queens Arms, captured at that time, are still in the family at Calais, Maine.

Dr. Keene's father, Captain Howard Keene, enlisted in the Civil War in 1864 in the First Maine Cavalry. He was only 14 at the time. His regiment served as guard of honor at Lincoln's second inauguration.

Dr. Keene served as chairman of the Mission Native Sons Relief Committee during the San Francisco earthquake and fire, and had the first three loads of necessities brought into the Mission District of San Francisco.

In addition to membership in the Native Sons of the Golden West and the Sons of the Revolution, Dr. Keene is a member of the Elks, Lions Club and the San Francisco Press Club—and he still practices dentistry.

Both floats portrayed an early mining scene, with miners preparing their meal of coffee and bacon over a real campfire, beside an actual flowing stream of water, where "panning" was also in progress, under the watchful eyes of lurking Indians.

Centennial Parlor also decorated the speakers' platform for the dedication of the new "Skyway" in July.

Tierra de Oro Takes Part In Santa Barbara Fiesta

Tierra de Oro Parlor, Santa Barbara, included in its activities in cooperation with the Old Spanish Days Fiesta this year, the inauguration of a Greeter and Information Service for Santa Barbara's visitors during the four-day celebration. The plan, which was originated by Ardis Bryant, daughter of a beloved early-day Santa Barbaran and former Mayor of the city, the late James E. Sloan, was enthusiastically welcomed by the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce and the Old Spanish Days Fiesta Association as an outstanding contribution to the city and to these two agencies. Booths were established at Santa Barbara's world famous County Court House, at the Lobero Theatre which is one of Santa Barbara's old landmarks, and in the lobbies of two of Santa Barbara's leading hotels, the Carrillo and the Mar Monte. The booths were staffed for four full days by the following members of the parlor, in appropriate Spanish Costumes: Margaret Kenney Tripp, Audrey McKinny, Frances Ames, Bernice Rhodehamel, Barbara Cordero, Dorothy Cook, Dorothy Anne Lee and Dorothy Lee, Barbara Melendez, Eileen Dismuke, Mary Wegener, Dolly Begg, Georgia Campbell, Clover Graham, Mabel Angulo Gail Smith, Audel MacRostie, Beverly Small, Barbara Upton, Palmira Sasso, Rosalie Andra de, Bessie Colville, Mildred Bush, Edith Males, Claire Noser, Margaret Lewis and Ardis Hendry. The plan proved so successful that the Fiesta Association is asking that its scope be expanded in the future to include other places in the city where tourists gather.

Rev. Maynard Geiger, O.F.M., Franciscan historian for all the California missions, speaker of the day, stirred 1000 invited guests with his appeal to present to new Californians lessons to be gained from the Golden State's historical heritage.

Lorraine Shaw Hillebrand, Santa Barbaraborn Native Daughter, was presented as "Saint Barbara" by Miss Josephine Pagliotti's, Reina del Mar parlor past-president and chairman of history. John T. Rickard, el presidente of last year's fiesta was the presiding officer. El Presidente Francis Price, Sr., spoke for this year's Fiesta committee and outlined plans for the entertainment of more than 100,000 visitors during Fiesta days.

Many Activities Outlined By Whittier Native Daughters

Formal party night for September for Whittier Parlor No. 208, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was conducted by the President Lucille Rowland, Wednesday evening at the Whittier Woman's Clubhouse.

During the business session which preceded the party numerous activities were planned for the fall season.

A letter was received by the parlor from past Grand President Grace Stoermer, who at present is Chairman of the Woman's Division of the Chamber of Commerce inviting the members to attend the Investment Course for Women which is to be held in Los Angeles. All members interested in making reservations for this course should contact Miss Rowland at once.

Whittier Parlor is assisting the Grand Parlor in the compilation of the Pioneer Roster for the State. Registration blanks may be secured from members of the parlor for all persons who were born in the State or came to the State prior to 1869. Twenty-three volumes have already been compiled in the San Francisco office, where the records are available for the tracing of ancestry.

It was announced that Mrs. Marjorie Kauffman, Civic Participation Chairman, is representing the parlor at the meeting of the Co-ordinating Council on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

A contribution was sent by the parlor to the Los Angeles Orphanage to assist with their very necessary work. During the Good of the Order the President thanked Maude Burke, Lillian Sambrano and Marjory Kauffman for substituting for officers who were on vacation.

The committee for the evening composed of Chairman Rosemary Boynton, Gertrude Doss, Esther Nelson and Matilda Talbot, served delicious refreshments, followed by entertainment which included community singing, and musical numbers.

Native Sons Dedicate New South Gate Building

The new $350,000 Municipal Auditorium at 4900 Southern Avenue in South Gate was dedicated in colorful rites conducted by Mayor Francis W. Bunnett and State officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Sunday, September 17.

The ceremony officially marked completion of a 10-year building program under which more than $1,000,000 worth of public buildings and recreation facilities have been provided and paid for on completion without extra tax assessment or bonded indebtedness. Most of the money came from sale of tax-deeded property acquired by the city under the old Mattoon Act, the Mayor reported.

Los Angeles Municipal Judge Walter H. Odemar, Past Grand President, acting as Grand President, conducted traditional Native Sons' rites in which a metal plaque was placed in the lobby of the building. The plaque dedicates the structure to truth, liberty and toleration.

The city and chamber of commerce sponsored South Gate Young Bank opened the program before representatives of civic patriotic and fraternal organizations, officials of neighboring cities and Los Angeles county.

City councilman Leland Weaver made introductions. National and State flags for the building were presented by the South Gate American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts.

County Fame Comes To Contra Costa Natives

Elwood Mitchell, chairman of the Contra Costa County Fair Board, August '18, submitted to the centennial committee of Contra Costa Native Sons and Daughters a request that the committee's San Francisco Admission Day parade units be held intact for presentation at the county fair at Antioch.

"The 30-unit cavalcade presentation planned by the lodges would be a decided feature for the county fair," Mitchell told Ernest Arata, chairman of the centennial committee. "The $4,000 John Marsh home float alone would prove a highlight of the fair."

Arata informed Mitchell that he would present his request before the centennial committee, but cautioned that some problems must be met in arranging for cast retention and participation before an answer could be given.

"The county fair request indicates the widespread interest in the parade plans of the Native Sons and Native Daughters," Arata said. "We have been urged to initiate steps to have the $4,000 Marsh home float retained for use in parades in this and other counties and it is being given consideration."

Natives Dedicate Plaque At Old Cucamonga Winery

An outstanding feature of the 1950 Cucamonga Grape Festival was the dedication of California's Statehood. The old adobe building, situated on Foothill Boulevard, was erected in 1839 and is now known as the Thomas Winery.

Dedication ceremonies were in charge of Ontario Parlor, No. 283, Native Sons of the Golden West. Judge Archie D. Mitchell, of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, gave the dedicatory speech. He touched on the policy of the affiliated organizations relative to the preservation of California's early romance through the proper marking of such Historical spots as the Old Winery.

Mrs. Mabel Bach, San Gabriel Parlor, NDGW, supervising deputy grand president of District 38, gave the invocation. Mrs. Mary B. Noerenberg, Past Grand President, of Californiana Parlor, spoke briefly, as well as aiding in the unveiling of the plaque, with Mrs. Helen Poulson, president of Ontario Parlor and Andy Torta, president of Los Ranchos.

Grand Parlor On High Calls Judge Frank G. Tyrrell

Judge Frank G. Tyrrell, 85, a long time member of Ramona Parlor No. 109, Los Angeles, was called to the Grand Parlor on High Friday, September 22.

A former Municipal Court judge of the city of Los Angeles, Judge Tyrrell was born in Ferndale. He was appointed to the Municipal Court bench in 1935 and served 11 years, retiring in 1946. Until late years he was active in Native Sons affairs and served as president of the Native Sons Friday Noon Luncheon Club a few years ago. Recently he was honored by that group on the occasion of his 84th birthday. He was a schooled orator of the highest type and his use of words was envied by all who heard him.

He was well known throughout California and in Missouri, where he was first admitted to the bar in 1887. After practicing law a short time in Harrisonville, Mo., he entered the ministry and was ordained in the Disciples of Christ Church. He held pastorates in St. Louis, Chicago and Pasadena.

Judge Tyrrell returned to Los Angeles in 1906 and opened a law office with William L. Jarrott, a former circuit court judge in Harrisonville. Later Judge Tyrrell's daughter married Judge Jarrott's son, Robert A. Jarrott, a practicing attorney in Los Angeles today.

Besides being a judge and minister, he had served many years ago as a national lecturer with the Redpath Lyceum Bureau of Chicago, and had taught school in Northern California.

THE LETTER BOX

Grizzly Bear Publishing Co.

Gentlemen:

Haig Patigan, Internationally famed San Francisco sculptor, died September 19, 1950.

Many editorials have appeared attesting to the fine character of Mr. Patigan. I enclose herewith copy of a letter which Mr. Patigan wrote me on October 24, 1948, which shows another side to this splendid "adopted son." The letter indicates Mr. Patigan's great patriotism and courage.

The insulting Communistic murals are still on the walls of the Rincon Annex Post Office in San Francisco! If there were more Native Sons and other Americans with the courage of Mr. Patigan, the murals would have been eliminated long before now.

Fraternally yours,
Waldo F. Postal

Mr. Waldo F. Postal 400 Montgomery Street
San Francisco, California

Dear Mr. Postal:

This is with reference to the so-called mural paintings in the Rincon Annex Post Office which I found reproduced in this morning's Examiner with an article expressing the indignation of the Native Sons' subcommittee on Americanism, headed by Messrs. Jesse H. Miller, Joseph I. McNamara and yourself, on allowing such Communistic pictures in a Federal building.

As an artist of almost life-time experience and a patriotic "adopted son", allow me to compliment your Committee for the stand you have taken in the matter.

You have quoted the Communist People's World's statement that these unsightly murals "constitute a monumental series depicting California history". If there has been any doubt that the pictures are nothing but vicious Communistic propaganda, then the above statement should remove all doubt as to that.

The millions that were appropriated toward the W. P. A. art projects went mostly to incompetent or Communistic artists to produce similar filth on the walls of public buildings and, most unfortunately, in public schools to pollute and misguide the minds of our children. It is time that public indignation be expressed on the freedom the Communists have been afforded to spread their destructive theories throughout the land, and as you have stated, "to arouse class hatred".

We should not forget what Stalin and other top Communists have said about Art. They have maintained that ART must play a very important part in the Communist scheme. It must depict misery, conflict, and oppression of the workers by Capitalists, and defame and vilify everything sacred to people devoted to beauty, freedom and good order. And, unhappily, they have succeeded to plant "art critics" in some publications to praise their work and mislead the layman who, seeing a thing in print, is reluctant to express abhorrence for fear that he may betray ignorance!

The murals in the Rincon Annex Post Office are perfect examples of debased Communistic art which insults our peace officers, features the Soviet flag, glorifies criminals and distorts history.

As a fellow citizen, I consider myself under obligation to your group of Native Sons for the stand you have taken, and wish you success.

Sincerely,
Haig Patigan.

"To the Readers of the Grizzly Bear" and those who like to keep on getting news of the N.S.G.W. and the N.D.G.W. and keep the Grizzly Bear going:

You know people advertise to get results and when results do not come from advertising they quit. Well, I have run ads in the Grizzly Bear for five months. How many who were looking for a car came to see me? TWO. Then I suppose they bought their Nash car elsewhere. Now, if you are in the market for a car and a native sells the model and make you want, why not buy from him? It is a known fact he will give you as good a deal, if not a better deal than you could get any place else. So why not support the man who helps support the magazine. I, personally, will look through the magazine for anything I want and naturally buy from a native.

There are a lot of native activities that I like to attend and where do I get the information? Why, from the magazine. And think Brothers and Sisters, I am not alone. So if the Grizzly Bear should suddenly stop its circulation through lack of funds, we would all be hurt. So, let's all patronize the advertisers and keep getting our magazine. Expecting cooperation from one and all—I am,

An Active N. S. G. W.
JOE MURPHY.

Fifty Years Of Service Is Monument To Many Memories

The Modesto Marble and Granite Works of Modesto is observing its 50th year of successful service to its customers throughout the State. It was in August, 1900, James D. Reeves, who was known as an indefatigable worker for the advancement of the monument industry, began operation and during the intervening years he and his son, Frank K. Reeves, have erected thousands of monuments, building a reputation for quality and superior workmanship.

While the underlying principles of integrity, fine materials and honest work on which this concern was founded have never varied many changes toward improvement of equipment and modernization have taken place and the plant today is completely up-to-date with all the facilities for turning out quality work.

Mrs. Mae Reeves, who is a member of Morada Parlor No. 199 NDGW, started her professional career in the monument industry in 1919 when she became part owner with her late husband, Frank M. Reeves, and his father. Mrs. Reeves has her own theories on the subject of memorials. She is a woman with natural talent devoting her every free minute to the development of that talent. She seeks in her work more than a livelihood and sees in it the value that it has for mankind.

"The memorial is made with the idea that it shall stand for all time," said Mrs. Reeves. "Throughout the land, wherever tradition is strongest, a monument is the preferred choice of its citizens and likewise a cemetery of tradition, family monuments are held in high esteem. The Memorial Idea is deeply imbedded in the public's consciousness, and despite high pressure salesmanship, the monument cemetery idea has not been accepted. The memorial idea was adopted as a creed for all those who serve the traditional way of preserving memory. We are the keepers of this fine tradition," she concluded.

Oasis of Maru—"the water place of little rain", known for centuries by the desert Indians. Originally containing 29 native California palms, it gave the name of Twentynine Palms to the famous San Bernardino county desert resort section. This historic spot of ground, long used as a water hole by desert rats and cattlemen, was turned over last month to the government for use as headquarters for the park service at the northern entrance to Joshua Tree National Monument.

It is planned to build headquarters buildings there, construct trails and lay out a picnic grounds. The National Park Service by special care hopes to stimulate the growth of young palms growing there to such an extent that the oasis will again contain 29 large palms instead of the lesser number that are now a landmark for miles around.

This marks the northernmost spot in which these native palms are found. The desert palms are known as "Washingtonia" and the spot was designated Twentynine Palms by Col. Henry Washington, government surveyor, in 1855.—Photo by M. D. Bradshaw.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 25, 1875, had its usual observance in California with church services, shooting matches, turkey dinners and grand balls.

In comparison with the present, prices for edibles were low. Turkeys, dressed, sold at 17 cents a pound, butter 30 cents a pound, eggs 55 cents a dozen, potatoes 11 1/2 cents a pound, by the dozen, ducks were $8.50, chickens $1.50, quail $2.

Herman Gyle, in Tehama County, dressed and shipped to the San Francisco market for Thanksgiving Day 1,000 turkeys. Market hunters in Solano County shipped a ton of ducks, killed in two days, to San Francisco November 6. Peter Suther, at Alameda City, was exhibiting a carrot that weighed twenty-seven pounds.

The steamboat "Pacific," enroute from Victoria, B. C., to San Francisco, collided with the "Orpheus" near Cape Flattery, November 1. The "Pacific" had about 200 passengers and a crew of forty, all of whom, except two, were drowned.

About 200 Indians, ejected from the Temecula rancho in San Diego County, were threatening trouble. The sheriff called on the governor for state troops, but the request was denied. Finally Chief Olegaria was induced to go to Los Angeles and talk the situation over. He claimed the Indian village had been there for countless years; all the tribe were born and always lived there, and were now forced off because White man wanted the land. Instead of fighting, the Indians now wanted the Federal Government to help them.

The railroad from Santa Monica to Los Angeles was opened for business November 30. Passengers were carried without fare the first day.

A Scotch sailor named Anderson climbed to the summit of Yosemite Valley's Half Dome, conveying, on the perilous climb, ropes and spikes that enabled others to follow him. The area of the summit was found to be about 100 acres in extent. An offer of $500 to the first man to achieve this feat had been made.

The discovery of an extensive clam bed near Vallejo proved a bonanza for the lads of that Solano County city. Baskets containing 400 or 500 clams were frequently filled by the diggers and readily sold.

In Kern County, about twenty-five miles from Bakersfield, hunting wild hogs was a remunerative sport. The porkers subsisted on tule roots, hence were in prime condition for marketing. Dogs were used to route them from the tules.

Eighteen miles from San Diego, on the ranch of J. Machado, was reported to be a grapevine of the mission variety covering 4,275 square feet. Four feet from the ground the trunk was thirty-two inches in circumference. Six feet above the ground were six branches, measuring on an average, nineteen inches in circumference. The vine was in a healthy condition, and 100 gallons of wine was produced from the grapes. This year, by actual count, the vine bore 2,058 clusters of grapes, some of them over ten pounds in weight.

A sealion about twelve feet long passed Sacramento City November 8 and continued on his fishing expedition up the Sacramento River, being heard from at Colusa City a week later.

"IT WAS TOLD TO ME"

A novel with Historical Background

All who have visited Bidwell Bar, near Oroville in Butte county, and students of early California history, will find much of interest in the delightful little book just off the press by Florence Danforth Boyle of Oroville, Past Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The author has a fine historical background, having gathered historical data of Butte county since high school days. She has stories of incidents quoted to her by pioneers who have since passed away.

For many years she has given talks to elementary schools, high schools, service and women's clubs, on California history, dealing mainly with Butte county. She served as president of the Butte county Pioneer Memorial Association, composed of members of Argonaut Parlor No. 8, NSGW and Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190, NDGW, which group maintains the pioneer relic building now housing about 7000 historical relics.

This building, pictured in a recent Grizzly Bear, is open to the public every Sunday afternoon. Special hours are given to schools and during the past year, Mrs. Boyle has taken 35 groups of children through, telling them stories of the various relics.

For the past two years the Past Grand President has been giving weekly broadcasts over radio station KDAN, Oroville, on the early history of Butte county.

Mrs. Boyle was born and raised in Oroville. Her paternal grandfather settled there in October, 1849, coming from Vermont via the Isthmus. Her maternal grandparents came to Butte county across the plains from Quincy, Illinois, in 1852.

She is a charter member of Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190, NDGW, Oroville. During 1936-37, she served as Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. She has served as State chairman of the California History and for more than ten years as State chairman of the Pioneer Roster committee of the Native Daughters.

Two of her most recent articles were published in the May and October issues of the Ohio Highway magazine.

We feel sure that all will like to have this little book by an author of such a historical background, in their libraries of California history, as advertised in this issue of the Grizzly Bear.

It may be obtained by writing the author, Florence D. Boyle, P. O. Box 27, Oroville, California, enclosing $1.50 plus 5c state sales tax, and 6c postage, a total of $1.61.

We hope that you enjoy the books as much as we did—LTS.

THE WATER SEEKERS

By Remi A. Nadeau

Another Book filled with the history of the Southwest, issued during the past few months is The Water Seekers, by Remi A. Nadeau. Here, again members of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West march across the pages in this epic story of the struggle for water in the far western states.

In the early days of the start of Los Angeles' Owens Valley project, Harry J. Lelande of Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, and now president of the Grizzly Bear Publishing Co., was city clerk of Los Angeles and considerable space is given to him in this connection.

The Water Seekers is a direct, forceful account of the crucial search for water in the Southwest—a problem which has become a crisis of nationwide importance.

Water is today America's biggest trouble-maker. Southern California, Arizona and the Rocky Mountain states have been feuding bitterly over "the Southwest's last water hole" for many years. Water sources determine the extent to which any community or city can grow. No area of the country is more aware of this than the far Southwest. Remi Nadeau has portrayed vividly and authentically the Southwest's fifty-year struggle for water: the endless conflicts over the Owens and Colorado rivers, with all the rugged details of these famous American episodes and brilliant portraits of the colorful characters who were a part of them.

Water is no longer something to be taken for granted. Sources of supply are of vital importance, not only in the arid West with its growing population, but in other sections of America as well.

Remi Nadeau's dramatic and revealing account of the water crisis in the Southwest underscores the urgent need for corrective measures on a nationwide scale.

The author is a Stanford graduate, now living in Santa Monica and is the great-grandson of Remi Nadeau, a leader in California's development and the man who built the first four story building in Los Angeles—the Nadeau Hotel. He is also the author of "City Makers," a story of Los Angeles and its fabulous growth from a sleepy pueblo to the great city that it is today.

BISCAILUZ

Sheriff of the New West

Seldom in his lifetime does a man become a legend, much less have a book written about him. But such is the case of Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, beloved Native Son and member of Santa Monica Bay Parlor. Busy as he is, running the largest sheriff's office in the United States, for many years Gene Biscailuz has been active in the Native Sons of the Golden West, serving on Grand Parlor Committees and seldom missing a Grand Parlor session.

Now comes a book "Biscailuz, Sheriff of the New West," by Lindley Bynum and Idwal Jones, with introduction by Erle Stanley Gardner, published by William Morrow & Company, New York and released September 20, 1950.

This is a life-size portrait of the public and private life of Eugene Biscailuz, that remarkable and colorful Californian whose solid achievements as Sheriff of Los Angeles County have made him a figure of national interest. A warm, colorful story of a man who, in the words of Leo Carillo, another distinguished Native Son, "Wears a heart instead of a badge" . . .

Born in the State of California, and most devotedly a Californian, Gene Biscailuz, officer of the peace for 43 years, is none the less, in every sense, a citizen of the world. Beyond his gracious warmth, he is an efficient executive and a peace officer with an outstanding record in the fields of penology, crime prevention and rehabilitation, who has created the American equivalent of Scotland Yard.

As Sheriff of Los Angeles County, Gene Biscailuz has inaugurated and developed such reforms as the Honor Road Camps, the Wayside Honor Rancho, and the Youth Facility. He has created in addition, volunteer corps of Mounted Posse, the Sheriff's Auxiliary, the Aero Squadron, to supplement the largest Sheriff's office in the United States. This office, whose basis is an exceptionally loyal and vigilant staff, is the object of study by all serious penologists.

Biscailuz is one of Los Angeles County's best known and best loved citizens. People who have been no nearer to him than a parade line of march regard him as a personal friend and call him Gene.

All Native Sons and Daughters may read "Biscailuz, Sheriff of the New West," with pride.

Charter Oak Parlor Fetes Tulare County Pioneers

"Do You Remember When"—was the slogan recently when Charter Oak Parlor No. 292 NDGW, Visalia, sponsored a luncheon for over 250 Tulare county pioneers. They came from all parts of California to meet old friends. Girls they used to know with hair in pig-tails and boys in knee pants, exchanged greetings while visiting their old haunts and scenes of their youth.

President of the Parlor Fleta Lipscomb, greeted the pioneers with words of welcome, and E. Rufus Connelly, Postmaster, opened the afternoon program with prayer. The Historical Society was in charge of the entertainment.

Western Music and an old fiddler's contest brought many feet on the side-lines tapping to the old-time tunes.

Visalia high school students presented an old-fashioned folk and square dance. Later when the youngsters left, the old-timers took over and danced the kind of dancing you no longer see. A gift was given to Mrs. Jewel Pratt, the oldest Native Daughter of Visalia county. Mrs. Pratt, born January 28, 1868, is a charter member of Charter Oak Parlor.

Mr. Bill Francis of Visalia, the oldest son of the county, was born November 11, 1864. He too, received a gift. Other gifts went to Mrs. Dora Lee, the oldest woman born in Tulare county. She was born December 8, 1863, near Porterville.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

A Grizzly Chased Me

By FRED A. COOKE

Sebastopol, Calif., No. 143, N.S.G.W.

It all happened in 1891 when I was sixteen. The place near Truckee, Nevada County, California, between Lake Tahoe and Truckee.

I was hunting for deer, about six miles up the Truckee river in the mountains. Was armed with a .44 Winchester rifle and a .14 revolver.

Saw something moving through the trees on the hill above me and thinking it may be a deer moved around until I could get a good look at it. Yes it was a Grizzly Bear the first wild bear I had ever seen. He had spotted me about the same time, and he limbed upon a large stump so he could look over the brush and down at me. We were about 150 feet apart.

He was a dark gray and very large, but he was a beautiful and very terrifying sight. I had seen other bears in captivity, but none as large as this fellow. Recognizing that he was a Grizzly, I thought it best to get away from there in a hurry, and started to move off down hill.

He was watching me as earnestly as I was watching him. When I started to move off he started to get down off the stump as though he intended to come after me. Then I stopped and he got back upon the stump again.

There were many trees around, but they were all large ones. I had been told by some of the old pioneers around Truckee, that, if ever you had to climb a tree to get away from a bear, to pick out a small one, because a bear could not climb a small tree that he could put his forepaws around as his claws could not get the proper hold and interfere with his climbing. I did not know how true this was, because I had never tried it with a bear. There were no reasonably small ones around there.

There was a heavy growth of Manzanita brush between us and believing that the Grizzly was coming after me no matter what I did, it would be best to shoot at him while I had the chance. I was badly scared.

Another thing the old pioneers told me, that the proper place to shoot a bear was in the chest or behind his fore-legs. I could not see his chest because he was looking down till at me. So I took careful aim at his mouth which was partly open, and fired.

The bullet seemed to hit him on the forehead. He slapped up his paw as though brushing off a bee. He let a roar out of him and tumbled off the stump. I thought I had knocked him off. He made a terrible racket, growling and threshing about in the brush. I was spellbound and forgot to put another cartridge into the barrel of my rifle.

In a couple of minutes he came tearing through the brush and thrust his head out about thirty feet from me, and was he mad. Then I lit out on a run down the mountain and he after me. I sure thought I was a goner.

Then I commenced to think about what some of the old pioneers had told me in Truckee. About their experience with bears. These old pioneers were many who had settled in Truckee after the Civil War or had come west during the Gold Rush and they had had experience with wild animals.

They had told us boys that if ever a bear chases you and you are in the mountains to look for a steep hillside and run across or around it and never run up or down. That a bear could not run across a steep hillside because his legs were too short and he would lose his balance and would tumble down the hill. Now here was a chance to prove it in person.

Even though I was running down hill I seemed to be getting away from the Grizzly. As this mountain was very steep, I altered my course and ran across it, and as I glanced back I see the Grizzly having a hard time and soon lost his balance and tumbled down the hill. He looked like a big ball of fur as he rolled over and over, trying to right himself.

Now I was beginning to have confidence again and stabilize my thinking. So I stopped and watched the Grizzly to see what he would do next. I loved that steep hillside. When he picked himself up at the bottom of the hill he stood shaking himself in a cloud of dust.

Catching sight of me he again commenced to run along the bottom of the hill in the direction I was going. Then he started up the hill towards me.

He was coming up the hill like a whirlwind, raising a cloud of dust as he scrambled over or around the brush and over loose rocks. Then I started to move off around the hill. He was watching every move I made as he came towards me. I did not care to take any more chances in making him madder by shooting at him. I was now holding a loaded rifle in my hands.

There was a small cliff of rocks between us. He was about 400 feet away, down hill. I got on top of the cliff of rocks and watched the Grizzly. I was glad he did not try to skirt the cliff I was standing on, but headed up the steep hill.

When I saw he intended coming straight up the hill and he would get out of my sight for a few seconds I started running again around the steep hill side. When he had gained my level and started to run around the hill again he lost his balance and started rolling down the hill again.

This time I did not stop running and ran for about two miles on the steepest hills I could find and I never saw the Grizzly again. Guess he gave up the chase.

When I reached the stage road down by the Truckee River, a man and his wife came driving along in a buggy. They stopped and asked me what was the matter for they said I appeared to be badly scared. I told them I had been chased by a grizzly bear. They gave me a ride into Truckee.

That night as I was relating my experience with the Grizzly to a bunch of boys of about my own age, and several men on the street in Truckee. They commenced to ridicule me about my running away from a bear when I had a repeating .44 rifle and revolver in my hands. They almost called me a coward.

This made me mad. Then I dared them to make up a party and I would take them to where the Grizzly had chased me and then they could kill him. But none of them would go or accept my challenge. Then I turned on them and called them cowards. That they were afraid and etc. Finally two men who had been ridiculing me agreed to go with me next day.

I knew a man in Truckee who had a bear hound and he would let me take his dog along. He said the hound was experienced in hunting bears and would keep the Grizzly busy when located and give us a better chance to make the kill.

Next day about noon we arrived at the place where the Grizzly had chased me. Then laughed when I showed them my tracks where I had run down the hill. My foot prints showed where I had taken steps of fifteen feet or more.

We then went into the ravine near by at the bottom of the hill. There was a small stream running down it through the brush and willows which were about ten feet high. There was plenty of evidence of the Grizzly. Fresh tracks, patted down paths and bear droppings.

The bear hound commenced to whine and acted as though scared. My hunter friends became badly scared and would not enter the ravine at all. They said they would have no chance with a Grizzly in that heavy brush. These brave fellows who had called me a coward the night before I sure was enjoying their discomfort.

I felt sure the Grizzly was in that brush as all indications pointed toward it. I felt uneasy myself, but the more scared they became, the more confidence I gained. Then I suggested that the dog and I go down the ravine in the brush along the creek and that each one of them go on opposite sides of the brush.

Then they declared they would not separate and that we should stick together. I finally shamed them into doing just this as I explained I was taking the dangerous chance within the brush. I took the hound, he was not on leash. It was about a quarter of a mile down the ravine with the high sloping hills on each side.

Starting out the bear hound was constantly getting tangled up in my legs, whining all the time. He would not leave me at all to look around. He was getting on my nerves and I was getting more scared every minute. I was wondering what would happen if we met the Grizzly?

However with the tangling hound around my legs and his whining all the time we worked our way down through the brush and did not encounter anything. But there was every indication that we were in the Grizzly's play-ground.

Getting through long before my hunter companions, I sat down on a stump with the hound laying down alongside me. He seemed happy we were out of the brush. I soon noticed one of my companions coming down the ravine on the hillside. He was taking no chances as he had his rifle in his hands and would often stop, listen and kept watching the brush.

He did not notice the hound and me sitting on the stump until he got about 200 yards away. He was startled and raised his rifle and fired in our direction. I jumped up waving my arms. He then approached and said he had become confused, and that his nerves were on end, and was glad he had not shot me.

He said he had been thinking about me telling them in Truckee last night about me seeing a Grizzly on a stump, that when he saw us he instantly without thinking, mistook us for the bear. His shot did not come anywhere near us.

Soon the other badly scared hunter came running as he had heard the shot. Then on our way home in the carriage, the one who had fired the shot, begged me not to tell this about him. I finally agreed, but said I could not keep still about how badly scared they were.

I sure had my revenge for a long time in telling how badly scared these brave men were while hunting for the Grizzly.

I had no use for bears after that chase. Some months later I was fishing up the

A feature of the ceremony was the arrival of a bus decorated as the steamer Oregon, the ship which brought to San Francisco the news that California had been admitted. Aboard the "ship" were Native Sons and Daughters dressed in the costumes of a century ago.

Municipal Judge Walter Odemar, Past Grand President, NSGW, read portions of Seward's maiden speech to the Senate in which he prophetically spoke of the future greatness of California. Paul Devine, assistant to Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard, Superintendent of Schools, represented the school system.

Native Son Sign Application Is Turned Down By Pasadena

According to the Rose Bowl Frontier, official bulletin of Pasadena Parlor No. 296, petition to the City of Pasadena to have a Native Son road sign included among service club signs at main arteries into Pasadena, was flatly rejected. The explanation was that if the privilege were extended to the Native Sons of the Golden West then it would mean that it should be extended to other organizations. The committee was headed by Joseph V. Phelps.

We wonder how many other parlors are running up against this same problem in erecting the official signs adopted at a recent Grand Parlor session.

Plan of Jim Ritchey, of the Native Sons and Daughters Tournament of Roses float committee, to have a booth on Colorado street for soliciting new members was also reported vetoed by the city fathers.

Third Annual Spanish Dinner Is Presented

Third Annual Spanish Dinner given by Whittier Parlor No. 298, Native Daughters of the Golden West, recently at the Whittier Woman's Clubhouse was acclaimed a success by all attending.

Approximately two hundred and eighty-five guests enjoyed the authentic Spanish Dinner served by the Committee in an attractive setting of Spanish shawls and cathedral candles with "Ernestina Enchilada" a life size senorita doll sitting very prettily at the Grand Piano. Menus with "Ernestina's" picture on the front, gave the guests a little trouble when they discovered that the printing was entirely in Spanish.

The Bazaar committee reported a highly successful evening in the sale of useful articles and gifts.

Miss Lucille Rowland, President of the Parlor, expressed the appreciation of the Parlor and the committee to the merchants and friends whose co-operation made possible the success of this affair in celebration of Admission Day.

Native Daughter Notes

Mrs. Herbert Ostrup, President of Californiana Parlor No. 247, Los Angeles, presided at the opening fall luncheon commemorating Columbus Day, October 10.

Mrs. Albert E. Jacob, program chairman, presented Mrs. Eugene D. Hofeller, prominent author and poet and past president of the Southern California Poetry Society. Mrs. Hofeller just completed a Seminar at International Valley and was a guest of the United Nations so her subject was "United Nations."

Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, NDGW, chartered a buss and went to San Francisco on September ninth, to participate in the Centennial parade, accompanied by their Advisors.

Thirty girls wearing blue satin dresses, trimmed in gold, carrying canes with blue and gold pom-poms, made a colorful sight along the line of march. The drill team won second prize for the Jr. Drill Teams.

After the parade, the girls and their advisors enjoyed a delicious dinner at Fishermans Wharf, and thanks to the bus driver, enjoyed a tour of San Francisco and a safe return home.

Grand President Honored By San Francisco Parlors

Anna T. Schiebusch of Los Angeles Parlor 184, Native Daughters of the Golden West, made her first official visit to San Francisco recently. Orinda Parlor No. 56 and Las Lomas Parlor No. 2 jointly received her in the Native Daughters Home, 555 Baker Street.

Chairmen Dorothy Soules of Las Lomas Parlor and Rhoda Crew of Orinda Parlor made elaborate preparations for the evening. The hall was beautifully decorated in a California Mission setting with a large replica of a mission at the entrance, and red roses and mission bells throughout the room.

Presentations were made to the Grand President to be used for the furtherance of her many projects—among them, mission restoration, Veterans' Welfare, and maintenance of the Home for Native Daughters. Miss Schiebusch particularly lauded Past Grand President Orinda Giannini of Orinda Parlor for her continued efforts to aid in the restoration of Mission Soledad.

Among the many distinguished guests present were Senior Past President Mae Wilkins, Mother of Las Lomas Parlor; Past Grand Presidents, Doctor Mariana Bertola of Buena Vista Parlor, Evelyn Carlson, Mae Hines Noonan, Loretta Cameran, Emily Ryan and Orinda Giannini; Grand Officers, Past Grand President Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland and Grand Vice President Jewel McSweeney of San Francisco.

Supervising District Deputy of San Francisco County, Mildred Ehlert, and twenty-two district deputies escorted the Grand President to her seat of honor.

Lorraine Lewis, President of Las Lomas Parlor, and Laura Spitzer, President of Orinda Parlor, conducted the meeting.

Representatives from many parlors throughout the State were reminded of the great efforts made by the Native Daughters to preserve the landmarks of their beloved State.

Now We Start The Second Hundred Years

Editorial in the Los Angeles Times Wednesday, October 18, 1950

"This is the day . . .

"California's wildest and most unrestrained celebration started, precisely at noon, just 100 years ago, on October 18, 1850. At that moment, news of Statehood was received in San Francisco via the paddle-wheel steamer Oregon which had steamed up from Panama City after receiving the tidings from a Washington courier.

California had become a State September 9, when President Millard Fillmore signed the Congressional act for its admission, but it required the 39 intervening days for the news to reach the Coast.

"Celebration of this event today will mark the formal conclusion of California's Centennial Celebrations which have lasted since July 7, 1946, the 100th anniversary of the raising of the American Flag over Monterey.

"Never before in American history has a State made so much of its heritage over so long a period, in a rekindling of patriotic fervor and in emulation of the intrepid pioneer spirit. Literally millions of California's citizens, both old and new, have learned something inspiring about their State's amazing history. Hundreds of thousands of schoolchildren have seen Centennial films and viewed the historical exhibits in the traveling caravan of the State Centennials Commission.

"Gov. Warren is to be congratulated upon his choice of the leaders who guided the activities of the Centennials Commission—Chairman Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, Vice-Chairman Willard Keith of Los Angeles and Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, chairman of the Advisory Committee. All of these saw their hopes in this region carried to full fruition under the direction of Lloyd D. Mitchell, Southern California manager for the commission.

"Every event, from the re-enactment of the gold discovery in 1848, through the commemoration of the gold rush and the Constitutional Convention and the Death Valley trek, both in Northern and Southern California, reflected great credit upon the commission.

"The highlight in this area, of course, was the record-breaking "The California Story," presented in September to 125,000 persons in five nights at the Hollywood Bowl under Mr. Mitchell's supervision. This patriotic spectacle, narrated by Lionel Barrymore, quickened the American faith of everyone who saw it, particularly in the grand finale when Mr. Barrymore proclaimed in unmistakable terms this nation's answer to all Communists and subversives. Tears flowed from many eyes as the great stage came alive with the living symbols of the past, exhorting the America of today to stand true and firm in the great tradition, regardless of radical assaults or skeptic taunts.

"All Californians have a right to be proud of what their State has done during this celebration and of the great record it has set in its first 100 years.

"The splendid lessons of the first century, which have become better understood because of the Centennials, now can contribute to the nurture and upbuilding of an even greater State during the second 100 years just dawning."

An event of the past summer was the dedication of a plaque on the original Mother Colony house of the Marie Horstman Dwyer Pioneer Memorial in Anaheim, Orange county, by Grace Parlor, NDGW and Mother Colony Parlor, NSGW, in cooperation with the California Centennials Commission. A second plaque dedicated by the two parlors formally opened the historic group of buildings, including the Mother Colony house, to the public. Featured speaker for the occasion was L. A. "Faye" Lewis, Past Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks and charter member of Mother Colony Parlor.

Veterans Christmas Party Date Is Set

Present conditions in the world today tend to turn our thoughts from the hospitalized veterans to those seeing active service. We must not forget those who have already sacrificed so much for us.

As the Christmas Season approaches it is hoped that all members will give serious consideration to the Veterans' Christmas Party at the Sawtelle Veterans Hospital sponsored by the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee. This affair each year has been enjoyed by over one thousand disabled, non compensated veterans. Funds donated by the Native Son and Daughter Parlors of Los Angeles County have done much to brighten the Christmas Season of these veterans—for some the only Christmas they knew.

This year the party will be held on Sunday, December 17th, 1:30 to 3:30 in the Domiciliary Quonset Hut, Veterans Administration grounds, West Los Angeles. Verdugo Parlor No. 240, Glendale will have charge of arrangements with Grand Trustee, Phyllis Hirst as general Chairman.

To assure success, John B. Schmolle, President of Inter-Parlor is asking that all parlors share in this worthwhile project by sending cash donations and a list of volunteer workers who will assist that afternoon. Remember the success of this party is completely dependent upon the generous donation of each individual Parlor. Let us live up to our reputation of having the best party of the year at Sawtelle Veterans' Hospital.

California State Picnic Held At Sycamore Grove

First annual California state picnic for Native-born Californians, sponsored by the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee, was held at Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, Sunday, October 15.

Featured was a program of entertainment including a wide variety of dance and specialty numbers by California entertainment troupes. Greetings were brought by Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles and William A. Smith, chairman of the county board of supervisors.

Lee Shippey, famous columnist and author of the Los Angeles Times was the main speaker.

Sack races and other games for the younger set were put on by University Parlor, NSGW. Coffee was served by Whittier Parlor, NDGW.

Among those honored was Willard (Curley) Allen, veteran secretary of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, a member of the Order for 63 years.

John B. Schmolle of Ramona Parlor No. 108, is president of the Los Angeles Inter-Parlor Committee. He was ably assisted by committee members of other Los Angeles County Native Son and Daughter parlors. It is planned to make this an annual event in hopes that it will with the years, grow to be as big in size as other state picnics held each year at Sycamore Grove. That it is of definite value to the Orders is proved by several applications for membership received and the coverage given the affair by newspapers, radio and television.

Two outstanding events in the annals of Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112, NDGW, Etna, took place recently, the first being a special meeting Saturday evening, September 23, to welcome Grand President Anna T. Schiebush on her official visit to the parlor.

A pot-luck dinner preceded the evening's ceremonies. Three new members were initiated in honor of the Grand President.

Sunday afternoon, September 24, the parlor dedicated a plaque marking the site of the old Crystal Creek Church built in 1854; the first church in Scott Valley and the final resting place of Stephen Meek, pioneer hunter and trapper in the valley. Save The Redwoods Campaign Gaining Completion of the program for establishment of the National Tribute Grove of ever-living Redwoods is announced in the newly issued annual Report of the Save-the-Redwoods League. This great grove of more than 5,000 acres is a tribute to all who served in the armed forces of the United States in World War II. It is on the Smith River and Mill Creek in Del Norte County, California, in the Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park.

This, the northernmost California Dedwood Park, is named for Jedediah Smith, referred to as "Bible-Toter," who was the first white man to cross from the Mississippi to the Pacific, in 1826, thus starting the train of events which led to California's entrance into the Union, in 1850—"the 31st star." Jedediah Smith, pathfinder and trader, discovered the Smith River in 1828.

The new Report of the Save-the-Redwoods League records additions to the Prairie Creek and Humboldt Redwoods State Parks, and the establishment of memorial groves.

"More than 300 sawmills are active in the northern Redwood region, in the counties of Humboldt, Del Norte and Mendocino," states Duncan McDuffie, President of the League, "and logging operations have proceeded at an increased pace, approaching primeval forest areas which should be preserved inviolate, before it is too late."

Urging the saving of the finest Redwood forests not yet in public keeping, the League is launching a campaign for new members, so as to expand its conservation activities. Contributions are being sent to the League's Treasurer, Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, 250 Administration Building, University of California, Berkeley.

Truckee river and had caught quite a string and had set down against a log to eat my lunch. I heard some scratching on the other side of the log. Thinking it was one fisherman I had met up the river, I did not pay much attention, but finally so much scratching on the other side I got up to look and a brown bear on the other side poked his head up close to my face and we looked each other in the eyes, then I lit out on a run for Truckee and looking back the bear was high-tailing it in the opposite direction. I never went back for my fish or pole.

I joined the Native Sons when I was eighteen. Old Donner Parlor No. 92 in Truckee. I am now President of Sebastopol Parlor No. 143.

Our Cover

Scenes such as this are common in California at Christmas time, when the fresh green of navel orange trees, with their golden fruit, blends against blue, snow-capped mountains, making a picture worth traveling many miles to see. For at no time of the year are the citrus growing sections of the state more beautiful than at this season.

A heavy snow pack on the great mountain peaks brings both joy and fear to the citrus sections of California. Joy that there will be water in the man-made lakes dammed in the canyons and in the wells to take care of the thirsty groves during the hot summer months. Fear that cold northern air will drift southward over the snow-packs to endanger the fruit.

However, as this is written, a large section is digging out of the mud and debris left by one of the worst floods in history. Heavy, warm rains melted the snow-pack in the Sierras sending torrents down the mountainside to the valleys below.

Even in Southern California, which received little rain from the disastrous storm, the mountain peaks are bare of snow, a condition which perhaps, will be remedied by the time you read this.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

Christmas Day, 1875, came on a Saturday, and while financial conditions, especially in San Francisco, were not as good as in past years, the holiday was observed in the usual happy manner throughout California. Turkeys sold at Marysville, Yuba county, at twelve cents a pound, and everything else necessary for good-cheer was proportionately inexpensive.

December opened with a heavy downpour of rain, and a succession of storms made the month a wet one. The 2nd, at Redding, Shasta county, the Sacramento river rose ten feet in two hours.

Oroville, Butte county, made its first shipment of oranges to San Francisco this month.

General Banning was having a 4,100-acre ranch fronting Newport, then in Los Angeles county, surveyed, with the intention of disposing of it in acre-lots.

Dona Lulalia Guillen, residing near Pomona, Los Angeles county, was claimed to be the oldest person in California. She had reached, it was said, the age of 140.

An oak tree cut down at Holden, San Joaquin county, was found to be 276 years old. In the center of the trunk, fourteen feet from the ground, was found an oval-shaped stone, two inches long, with a groove with a sling and was lost a couple of centuries previous by some prehistoric bird hunter.

The stage-robbing industry opening this month with the stopping of the stage from Chinese camp, Tuolumne county, the first by one masked man who took the express box, with very little in it.

The North San Juan, Nevada county, stage was stopped the 16th by one man who got several hundred dollars from the express box.

The 22nd, the stage from Downieville, Sierra county, to Marysville, Yuba county, was stopped near the famous Dobbins ranch by three masked men, one of whom impersonated a Chinese. They took the express box and robbed three male passengers of $360, but did not molest the two female passengers.

The 28th, near Smartsville, Yuba county, the stage from North San Juan to Marysville was stopped by, it was thought, the same three highwaymen. The passengers were not bothered, but the express box was taken.

A gang of six Mexicans went to Gaskell's store in Campo, San Diego county, to rob it. A battle ensued in which Gaskell killed one of the bandits, wounded three others and was himself dangerously wounded. The Mexicans made their escape into Lower California.

A California Christmas Story

By ISABEL L. FAGES

Former Editor of the Grizzly Bear. (Reprinted from the December, 1943, issue).

Jose Ramon Linares trudged silently along. He watched the trail carefully for if he were to make a mis-step his mother's mare might stumble over a rock or shrub and become frightened. It was growing dark and even the sharp young eyes of the little boy were strained to the point of aching weariness.

Back in Culiacan, Old Mexico, the little village which had always been his home, La Noche Buena was being celebrated by los puebladores (the townspeople). During the evening of each of the nine days preceding Christmas a little party had called at some home and been turned away until Christmas eve which was this very night, when they would be received into the home of some favored family. There, before the nacimiento or manger scene peopled with little clay or wooden carved figures, every one would kneel and pray to the Child Jesus for some much desired favor.

How Jose Ramon Linares longed to be there, for what was Christmas without Las Posadas? (The Inns) He could see the sweet-faced maiden who, because of her many virtues had been selected to take the part of Mary, Mother of God. She would be so thrilled and happy to have been chosen for the coveted part this Christmas! Beside her, leading her reluctant burro would be the good St. Joseph, kindly and protective. He too, would have been selected for his fine characteristics which the spouse of the little virgin should possess.

In all the casas (houses) of Culiacan, candles would be burning before the nacimientos. Each humble, dirt floored room would be swept clean and fresh flowers would be set here and there in little pottery vases.

When the Mother of Jesus and St. Joseph had been received in the home, an evening of merry-making would be enjoyed by all who had followed in the procession, carrying their lighted candles and singing hymns. There was a hymn which was always sung at each of the houses representing the inns the Holy Family had been turned away from and the final verses would be chanted when, at last, they were admitted into the home representing the lowly stable of Bethlehem.

Jose Ramon thought his heart would break, so badly did he long to go back to Culiacan and pray before the image of the little Christ. But he had promised his father he would be a man and help care for his mother and two little sisters on the long journey to California. They had registered with the great Captain Juan Bautista de Anza from the frontier settlement of Tubac who had promised the viceroy of Mexico to lead an expedition of colonists to Alta California, where at the great port of San Francisco, a presidio and mission were to be founded.

Alta California belonged to Spain and to King Charles, the third, but England, France and Russia had cast envious eyes on the territory. Now, Spain who had long delayed colonizing was worried and had sent missionaries to found missions there in 1769. Four had been established, one at San Diego, the second in Monterey and a third and fourth at San Gabriel and San Luis Obispo. Two more were planned to be situated on the shores of San Francisco Bay and the Peninsula. In view of the Golden Gate, the presidio and pueblo were to be founded and Jose Ramon with his father, mother and little sisters were to have a new home there. Somehow on this Holy Night, Jose wished he had a brother with whom he might hunt, fish and explore in the exciting wild country where they planned a happy future! Not that he did not love his sisters! They were delightful playmates at times. But Jose Ramon was tired of playing dolls. He wanted to be a hard-riding captain with an obedient soldier companion to accompany him on his exploits.

Don Ygnacio Linares had told his family how worthy was to be their mission to California. They were all to help the good padres teach the Indians about the little Christ child. Their king expected them to set a good example so their red brothers would learn to obey the precepts of the Church and the ten commandments and become loyal citizens of Spain.

So Jose Ramon squared his manly shoulders and strode along as though he was not tired at all. This afternoon it had been his turn to lead his mother's mare. His mother was ill. Women did not ride astride and in her full skirts, it was difficult for Senora Linares to keep her position as the horse picked her way along the rock-strewn mountain trails.

Jose Ramon heard his father say anxiously, "Surely our captain will give the order to stop and make camp soon, esposa mia, for see, the sun has set and it will soon be too dark to travel. Some of the horses and cattle can scarcely continue, so exhausted are they!"

"The Mother of God rides beside me!" Jose Ramon heard his mother reply. "I shall be patient for did she not ride a burro many miles the day of Our Saviour's birth! Like her, I have not a shelter, nor a bed. Ah, if I could only resign myself to these conditions as did she!"

"Thou has been brave, Gertrudes, mia," praised the father. "Last night when everyone else complained of the cold, you murmured not, but I venture none was more discomforted than thou. Truly, our holy patroness, La Virgin de Guadalupe (patroness of all New Spain and the expedition) rides besides thee, for see, the cavalcade is stopping. I shall waste no time with words but shall go now to see if El Capitan cannot arrange to borrow a field tent for us this night."

Addressing his son, he said, "Look after thy mother while I am gone. If she should become ill, call for help among our good companeros."

"Si, padre mio" (Yes, my father) agreed the boy. Wonderingly he turned and stroked the horses nose and gazed up at his mother. She smiled at him, reassuringly.

Jose Ramon did not have much time to question his father's action, for like a flash he was back, with his two little girls clinging tightly to one another on the back of their father's horse. Brave Captain de Anza rode with them and as he drew rein before Dona Gertrudes, he swept his plumed hat from his head. He bowed and saluted her with the greatest respect.

"I am honored to come to your assistance, Senora, for with what heroism you have traveled this day, even though the trail was rocky and difficult and the cold intense!" said the captain. "But see, I have arranged to have a tent erected near my own so that all my medicines and supplies will be quickly available. One of the women will come and assist you. Nothing we can do for your comfort will remain undone."

"Gracias!" (thank you) murmured the woman. Her smile must have warmed the heart of the leader who had attended the welfare of his people so understandingly throughout the journey! They had truly rewarded him for his trouble with self-sacrifice and bravery.

Jose Ramon led his mother's horse to the tent the captain had pointed out and as she was assisted to the ground by the captain and her husband, the little boy heard a suppressed moan. "Little Jesus!" he whispered. "Have mercy!"

A strange woman came and looked after Jose's mother while he and his father fixed the simple supper over the camp fire. When they had eaten, the father wrapped blankets about the girls and bade them lie close to the fire. His sisters went to sleep right away, but the boy lay quietly, listening to the soldiers singing. A fandango was in progress and the gay tinkling of the guitars and joyous singing filled the night with a festive spirit. Now and then the entire company would chant some ancient Christmas hymn. So homesick and lonely was Jose Ramon that he could not hold back the tears.

At last he fell asleep, warmed by the lively fire and soothed by the rhythm of the music. He dreamed of home and the little Christ in His crib! And he dreamed of dulces—lots and lots of dulces! (sweets).

Suddenly the little boy awoke! What strange sound was that he had heard! There it was again! Was it the wail of a tiny babe? Ah, yes! He had remembered! It was Christmas eve and the little Christ Child had come at last. He lifted himself up on one elbow and looked about. A candle burned in the tent. Or were there many candles? The cry came again. Jose Ramon jumped up, gathered his blanket about his shivering form and ran to the tent. Peering inside, he saw a group gathered about his mother's crude bed. There were his father, the captain, Padre Pedro Font (Father Font, chaplain of the expedition) and the strange woman. They all stood gazing reverently at his mother. In the hollow of her arm, he glimpsed the small red face of

Sacramento Holds Statehood Ball

By FRANK S. CHRISTY

Historian, Sunset Parlor No. 26, NSGW

On October 28, the Sacramento county Centennial Committee held a Statehood ball in the E. B. Crocker Art Gallery, Sacramento. Over 250 embossed invitations were sent to guests throughout the State.

A portion of the gold rush era was relived, as gay young men, in their traditional black and white, swept beautiful ladies across the historic ball room floor to the strains of the romantic Blue Danube.

The General March was led by the Hon. Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President, Native Sons of the Golden West. As the guests glided by, two by two in the march, many of the elders sitting on the sidelines, shed a tear, for it was very reminiscent of their early days. One elderly lady was overheard to remark, "I remember a ball similar to this back in the '80's."

The march was in charge of Edwin Huston of Sacramento Parlor No. 3, NSGW and his wife, Mary, of Califia Parlor No. 22, NDGW, who made a charming couple as they directed the marchers to their left and right as each pair came to the end of the ball room.

Many of the gowns worn that evening belonged to the Native Daughters' grandmothers, a period long gone, but not forgotten. The setting was ideal, for it was in this very same art gallery that many of the early day pioneers of Sacramento danced to similar melodies. One could almost imagine the ghosts of the past standing on the sidelines applauding this, the younger generation of Native Sons and Daughters.

Audrey Brown, Grand Trustee, of Sutter Parlor, NDGW, was in charge of pouring, while Doris Gerrish, also a Grand Trustee, from Liberty Parlor, lent her admirable support where ever needed.

Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West, looked lovely in her pastel yellow chiffon, as she danced with her charming escort, Tom Davis, Elk Grove Parlor. Others who graced the ball with their presence were: Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Past Grand President; Elmarie H. Dyke, Grand Marshal, NDGW; and Armen M. Nishkian, Grand Trustee, NSGW.

Municipal Judge Percy G. West, committee chairman, Sunset Parlor No. 26; Phil Wilkins, Grand Third Vice President, Sacramento Parlor No. 3; J. F. Didion, Sacramento No. 3; Virgil Rominger and Frank S. Christy, both of Sunset Parlor No. 26, were the gentlemen on the receiving line. The ladies were: Mrs. J. F. Didion, committee co-chairman, La Banderita Parlor; Mrs. Edna B. Briggs, Past Grand President; Helen Hanner, Supervising District Deputy Grand President; Myrtes Orr, Rio Rita Parlor and Hertha Westly, Califia Parlor No. 22.

The Statehood Ball will go down in the history of Sacramento as one of the most elaborate social events of the Native Sons and Daughters tri-Centennial years. For it was on October 19, 1950, that Sacramento first received the news of the Admission of California into the Union with the arrival of the river steamer New World at 3:30 A.M.

Imagine, if you will, a small community being awakened by cannon fire at that early hour. When citizens found the reason behind the gunfire, the news spread even faster than the sound of roaring cannon. Within a few

The Famous Sham Duel of Yreka

By FRED W. ZIMMERMAN, Sr.
Historian

From South San Francisco Parlor No. 157
Bulletin.

Yreka, in its youthful day, like most juveniles born to plenty of money and few cares, was a most hilarious village. Street fights were common, and the soft notes of Colt's persuaders often echoed along the streets and among the board houses. But, if the boys were rough, and would fight sometimes, they now and then, by way of rarity, got up some rich scenes. Here is one of them:

One morning, in the summer of 1850, it was whispered that Tim and Tucker, two old friends, both men of well-trying and undoubted courage, had fallen out the night before, and were then prepared to fight a duel at ten o'clock on the hill just east of town—distance, ten paces—weapons, shotguns, loaded with six-shooter balls. Now, for the benefit of weak nerves, we will say here, at the outset, that the thing was made up, a sham understood by but very few and those few were not the selected friends who were to act as seconds. With these worthies, it was to the death—and they made their preparation accordingly. As the hour approached for the duel, not less than five hundred honest miners gathered on the hill selected as the bloody field. The seconds, with their principals, appeared; the ground was measured off; the men took their positions; the word was given, and both men fired simultaneously. The five hundred pale faces turned, if possible, still more ashen. Tim was unharmed. Tucker stood for an instant, then struck his hand heavily on his breast in the locality of which he had secreted a bladder filled with a blood-colored fluid. He burst the bladder, and what the five hundred pale faces could have taken their oath was his life's crimson, gushed in copious quantities from his breast and over his neck and face. The death-stricken man fell heavily to the ground. He was carried into a house nearby, gasped heavily a few times, and (to outsiders) died. The spectators were horrified. Tim had disappeared. Someone, not an outsider, cried: "Let's hang Tim's second." That individual was just leaving the field, however being close enough to overhear the remark and the angry assent of the now thoroughly excited crowd. He broke, rushed breathless into town and ran to a friend who kept a livery stable. Friends hid him away in the hay. The friend, who in the last few moments had been let into the secret, advised him to escape as the searching party was getting closer and his hiding place could not be concealed much longer . . . But how? And where? The town was full of angry and terribly-excited men, determined upon his death.

A plan of escape matured. A woman's dress was procured, also an old-fashioned leghorn hat of the hugest dimensions. In to these, the trembling second was told to get himself in the shortest possible time and without paying too much attention to the details of his toilet. A horse and side-saddle stood ready; the radiating fringes of the leghorn hat were pressed so near together, and held so by a handkerchief, that the lady's focus of vision on the world outside of the hat was limited to about two inches (and that directly over the point of the nose). With much ado, he was seated in the saddle, lady-wise, but almost instantly unseated and flat on his back in the street, owing to the insertion of an old boot under the horse's tail by the stablekeeper which caused the animal to make a sudden and, to the rider, unexpected jump of eight or ten feet. Not too much hurt, he was again mounted; and, in company with a friend on another horse that could go, he set out on a keen run just as an officer on horseback appeared around the corner.

Tam O'Shanter's moonlight ride was nothing to that race! It was terrific. The wild yell of the crowd of "There he goes!" the firing of their pistols and the clattering hooves of his pursuer's horse, were motives amply sufficient to induce the second to urge his animal to the highest possible speed consistent with his maintaining his seat on the lady's saddle. On they went, the pursuer and the pursued, each intent on accomplishing a single object; the one, to capture; the other to escape. For three miles this terrible race continued. Then, as they neared the foot of a rugged mountain and the officer was gradually gaining on them, the friend advised the fugitive to leave his horse and trust to the brush. This was no time for holding a council—promptness was the word. He sprang from his horse and struck out up the mountainside, over rocks and through the most dense kind of chaparral. The officer fired several shots in the direction of the retreating leghorn and cried, "Stop!" But it didn't stop. On the contrary, if such a thing could be possible, it accelerated its get-up-the-mountain proclivity. In short, he traveled fast, without regard to the preservation of his feminine apparel, small bits of which (as long as it lasted) fluttered from every bush.

He was last seen half-a-mile up the mountain, still going it, minus dress, coat, pants, or anything else except the crown of the leghorn. The officer and friend rode back to town. The ruse was explained and everybody, including Tucker, took a drink. But the poor second was kept in the mountains six weeks; and when at last he did return, he looked as though he had lived on pine bark for twelve months.

Statehood Ball

short hours the "City of the Plains" was a solid mass of humanity, all crowded on the levee, as miners, gamblers, politicians, settlers, Indians and ministers alike, gave vent to their individual enthusiasm. Saloons had been closed for several hours, but the proprietors donned aprons over their red flannels and threw open the doors. As the Sacramento Transcript put it, "There was a thousand drinks of congratulations." One auctioneer, R. N. Berry, was so exuberant over the State's Admission that he gave his wares away. At the time he was handling baskets of champagne.

All day and far into the night, huge bonfires lit the surrounding countryside. With the coming of daylight, these hardy pioneers, now Californians all, faced a dawn, lit with hope, knowing in their hands lay the future of this golden land, the Thirty-first State of the United States.

Native Sons

A Message From The Grand President

BY EDWARD J. WREN

Grand President
Native Sons of the Golden West

Let's take the matter of lapsation—it's like a cancer on our Order and something on which we must all work, or else. Have you looked at our gains and losses for the past ten years? Have you taken a look at your Parlor's record? The figures are startling, 1940 to 1950! We cannot control deaths; and, in many cases, resignations are difficult to stop; but lapsation can be controlled to a great extent if we watch it closely.

1—We must realize that lapsation is a Parlor responsibility, as this is the most essential unit of our organization.

2—We must interest each new member. The mistake is too often made in making a new member feel at home the first night and then forgetting him—not acquainting him with our various activities, any one of which he might participate in. Get him interested in committee work; prepare him to take office in the Parlor. Make our lessons of FRIENDSHIP, LOYALTY and CHARITY actualities, not mere words.

3—Our secretaries must realize their responsibilities; our Trustees should watch members in arrears.

4—The parlor should have an active Lapsation Committee.

5—The team must watch and work closely together; make sure members are contacted before they owe large amounts. Just as soon as he owes three months, he must be contacted. When he gets into the fourth month, his sponsor and other close associates in the Parlor should be asked for help. If he is in difficulty and needs assistance, he should be helped. If he has a grievance, every effort should be made to clear it up.

These things must be done at once, not after it is in all probability too late! Take a look at your membership NOW, and do something about it.

Only the members of a Parlor can help the Parlor, and only the members can keep it alive. Don't look to others; it's your responsibility, and only your interest and loyalty will preserve it!

Grand President Wren also points out some good facts regarding the increasing membership. How many members has your Parlor initiated this year? How many applications have you on the desk? If each member will only talk to his neighbor, his co-worker, his oil station attendant, his bank teller, etc., our membership will be increased by hundreds. Won't you try it? Your Grand Officers are ready and willing to help, but they can only help—they cannot do the job.

Your Grand Officers' team is always available for class initiations; your Visiting Grand Officers, the Supervising Deputy Grand Presidents, and your own Deputy Grand Presidents are at your service. We must have new blood continuously, and we must keep what we have. Our Order is only as strong as its weakest link.

Annual Athletic Dinner Held By Arrowhead Parlor

(From Arrow Grams, official publication of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, NSGW)

Arrowhead Parlor's athletes and guests celebrated Columbus Day in a big way by holding their annual Party Night at the Coronet with a Ham Dinner fit for the best and it was the better type of athletes and guests present to consume the best of everything.

The great evening started off with the Parlor's "Guardians" serving punch "a la Native Son Style." There wasn't anything of too much consumed at any time and on the other hand nothing was lacking in making the evening a great affair.

The Annual Athletic Banquet is an annual affair sponsored by the Parlor for its athletes and guests. Although no party can ever compensate these athletes for their time and money spent in telling the world that Arrowhead does sponsor sports, it does go to show the appreciation of the sponsoring organization towards its members. The Athletic Committee had charge of the party.

Past President Shirley Myers was toastmaster and performed a great job of handling the various managers and guests for a word or two.

Past President Don Van Luven highlighted the affair with stories of long, long, long ago. Incidentally, Brother Don is a former Chairman of the Athletic Committee back before the 30's. He might be called the Grand-daddy of Sports for Arrowhead Parlor.

Louie Sorenson introduced the Basketball team and Joe DeSoto did likewise for his Bowlers. Emmett Reed handled the ball players telling of what has been done and what may be expected.

Lloyd Burcham and Ed Heil were introduced as presidents of the Parlor for the year. The two trustees who served punch during the evening, Jesse V. Kerr and Avery "Squirt" Anderson were also introduced.

Eligio "Nip" Zanone, a flashy athlete for the Parlor in former years brought along his One Piece Band and furnished music following the dinner.

Modesto Parlor Celebrates Sixty-ninth Anniversary

Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, commemorated the 69th anniversary of the original institution of Modesto Parlor Wednesday evening, November 1, with a chicken dinner in the banquet room of the IOOF hall prepared by Chuck Boring, Bud David and Kennan Beard.

Following the dinner a class of candidates was initiated honoring Grand 2nd Vice President Louis E. Pellandini making his official visit to the parlor.

A feature of the evening was the awarding of 25-year membership buttons to: Gratton M. Hogin, who joined Modesto Parlor April 16, 1924; Past Grand Trustee Chas. D. Blaine, Recording Secretary, who joined September 3, 1924, on re-instatement from Santa Cruz Parlor No. 90, which he joined in 1902; Raymond A. Alberts, who joined Modesto April 1, 1925 and Leslie B. Schlingheyde, who joined June 20, 1925.

South San Francisco Holds Annual Armistice Event

Annual Armistice Day Celebration of South San Francisco Parlor No. 15, NSGW, was held Wednesday evening, November 8, at the parlor meeting hall. Joseph E. Tinney of Rincon Parlor No. 72, a former Grand Trustee was the speaker of the evening at a fine program which preceded a buffet supper.

Fifty-year emblems were presented to George T. Dolan, John W. Danz, John O'Brien, George H. Richards, Sr. and George Scharetz, Sr. Receiving 25-year emblems were: Charles Biggs, Clarence G. Bond, Daniel J. Collins, Raymond M. Conroy, George L. Cervieres, Harry H. Conroy, Edward J. Cassidy, Wesley B. Chisum, Lloyd J. Doering, Raymond A. DeBono, Benito C. Escobar, John Farren, Clarence T. Graf, Charles S. Haggerty, Matthew A. Johnson, Claude W. Meinert, Lloyd A. Minehan, Peter Macarini, Joseph S. Nerelli, James J. O'Rourke, Joseph Paganucci, Edwin J. Reagan, Francis E. Rojas, Clatus L. Ronan, Thomas J. Reilly, Henry Susna, James J. Sullivan, Arthur J. Sincich, and Henry Thiery. The presentations were made by Grand Secretary John T. Reagan, member of South San Francisco parlor.

Guadalupe Parlor Celebrates Annual Old-Timers' Night

Once again Guadalupe Parlor, NSGW, San Francisco, paid homage to its 25 year members Tuesday night, October 24. Over 300 members turned out to honor the new 25 years members. Borthor Stan Stanfel and his corps of assistants did a great job on the entertainment and refreshment end of the evening's events. The following brothers received 25 year pins: John Beroldo, Carl Clyde, Philip Heglin, Otto Kleyn, Al. Schwarz, Charles Stewart and Bert Verni. A belated twenty-five year member in the person of Bro. Joseph McPhillips turned up exactly five years late to receive his twenty-five year pin. Joe was to have received his pin at the 1945 Old Timers Night but it took him five years before he could find time to make a meeting. Now that you know the location of the Parlor Joe drop around once in a while.

Some of the past twenty-five year members in attendance noticed were as follows: James Mullane, Frank Genolio, Wm. Rovegno, James Murray, Alvin Johnson, Arthur Cavagna, Joseph Boglione, Charles Lambert, Carl Seegar, Henry Regnier, George McDonald, Sr., James Feeney, Ed. Doyle, Oscar Olsen, Ed Kleyn, Richard Matli, Joseph McPhillips, George Hartford and Al Walcott.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE NATIVE SONS

Huntington Park Parlor No. 294, NSGW, initiated 11 new members on Tuesday evening, October 17, the initiatory work being done by its crackerjack team, headed by Art Hulse. The ceremony was witnessed by visitors from University and Los Angeles No. 45 parlors.

Following the initiation members and the guests enjoyed a clever comedy act and a swell spaghetti feed, prepared by Nick Fish and Dick Everhart and served by Bud Remmele.

Members of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, Anaheim, their wives and families, enjoyed a pot-luck dinner at the Knights of Columbus hall Tuesday evening, November 14.

Members of Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW, and their wives, enjoyed a pre-Thanksgiving dinner at Brower's restaurant Tuesday evening, November 14.

Grand 1st Vice President J. Walter Kamb paid his official visit to Stephen M. White Parlor, San Pedro, Friday evening, November 17.

The past presidents' initiatory team of San Diego Parlor No. 108, NSGW, initiated a class of six candidates for Point Loma Parlor No. 313 at a recent meeting.

The Native Sons bowling league of San Diego county parlors got underway Sunday, November 12. All San Diego county parlors, it is reported, have at least one team in the league. Chairman of San Diego Parlor's athletic committee is George Walsh, who reports that league bowling will be on the second Sunday of each month, a full schedule to be announced later.

Ramona No. 109 Plans To Distribute Christmas Cheer

Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, Los Angeles, will again this year carry on its Christmas charity work. Started last year through the instigation of Trustee Ivo H. Lopizich, this year finds the fund for the work bigger and broader in scope. President Caveney, first Vice President Anderson, Trustee Lopizich, third Vice President Wismer and other members of the parlor are planning the ground-work for assembling and distribution.

Those brothers, who last year, climbed dilapidated stairs in worse than worn neighborhoods and brought Christmas cheer in the form of food parcels to those who are among the needy can well account for the worthwhile and practical enterprise of Ramona's Christmas Charity Fund.

Santa Monica Bay Lobster Feed December 12 Event

As announced in last month's Grizzly Bear Santa Monica Bay Parlor's famous Lobster Feed will be an event of Tuesday evening, December 12, at the Native Son hall, 819 Ocean Park blvd., beginning at 6 p.m.

In addition to the delicious lobster dinner, which yearly attracts Native Sons from all parts of Southern California, there will be fun and entertainment for all. Don Hecker, 2nd vice president, is general chairman, assisted by Dick Laventhal.

Santa Monica Bay has scheduled a Christmas party for members and their families for Friday evening, December 22.

Grand Trustee Armen Nishkian of California No. 1, San Francisco, paid his official visit to Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, on Wednesday evening, October 25.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW, celebrated its 66th anniversary with a dinner at La Golondrina cafe, 35 Olvera Street, Thursday evening, November 16. Full details will appear in the next Grizzly Bear.

Chester Bonfiglio was re-elected as president of the Drum and Bugle Corps of Mt. Tamalpais Parlor No. 64, NSGW, San Rafael, at a recent business meeting of the corps. Leno Franzini was named secretary. Members of the Drum and Bugle corps will be honored by the parlor at a dinner scheduled for the near future.

Members of Mt. Tamalpais Parlor and the Drum and Bugle Corps enjoyed a dance Saturday evening, October 21, at the Novato community hall. Joe Mello was chairman of the successful affair. Dancing was to the music of Johnnie Lagoris band.

The parlor will hold a hard times dance January 20 at Novato community hall. A Valentine dance is also scheduled there on February 10.

The Santa Monica Bay Drum and Bugle Corps joined in the Halloween Festival put on by the Pacific Palisades P.T.A. Saturday evening, October 28. The Corps was also slated to take part in the Christmas parade in Santa Monica Thursday evening, November 30.

According to the Observer, official publication of Observatory Parlor No. 177, the Admission Day committee, headed by Irv Lee, will continue through 1951.

Sixty-two Years A Member of Native Sons

Probably Willard Allen, recording and financial secretary of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, Native Sons of the Golden West, attends more Native Sons meetings during the year than any other member of the Order. In fact, you find "Curly" as he is affectionately called, regularly at so many different parlor meetings that sometimes you forget which parlor he belongs to.

"Curly" Allen joined the original Chico Parlor in April, 1888 about nine years after it was organized, being brought into the Order by his father. In 1908 he transferred to Los Angeles Parlor No. 45. Prior to becoming active in the Native Sons of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, he devoted a great deal of time to the activities of the IOOF, but gave it up to devote his efforts to our Order.

During all the years that he has been active in Los Angeles 45, he declined to go through the chairs. However, in the fore part of 1950 a vacancy occurred in the office of president and his brothers named him to fill the unexpired term.

As president of Los Angeles No. 45; he went to the Grand Parlor Session in Chico last May, where he was highly honored for his 62 years of service to the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Willard Allen was initiated into Arrowhead Assembly, Past Presidents' Association, at San Diego, July 16, 1950.

For the past 15 years, with the exception of the brief period that he was president of his parlor, he has been recording secretary, having the reputation of being one of the most able in the Order.

For many years he has been a District Deputy Grand President to one or more parlors. An accountant by profession he has rendered invaluable service to his parlor and to the order as a whole.

Fall River Valley

BY EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

Fall River—Shasta county—Sketched by Emmett P. Joy.

The beautiful Fall river valley is located in eastern Shasta county north of Fall River Mills. The road follows north along the river from Glenburn where a monument is located marking the site of Fort Crook. The fort once stood on a spot which is now a hay field bordering the west bank of the Fall river.

The fort was established by General George Crook about the year 1857 to serve as headquarters for campaigns against hostile Indians who were making depredations upon the early pioneers in that vicinity. To the west of the fort stood Soldier mountain a high bluff which the soldiers used to reconnoiter during their military operations in the valley. The fort had at one time about twenty log buildings placed in the form of an oblong. Twelve years later in 1869 it was abandoned when the soldiers were transferred to Fort Bidwill.

General Crook was one of the most distinguished military officers to serve in California. He was born near Dayton, Ohio, on September 8, 1828. He graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1852 and rose to the rank of major-general. In the Civil war his activities were outstanding at South Mountain, Antietam, Chickamouga and Appomattox. After the Civil war he achieved fame in campaigns against the Indians of Idaho and Arizona. During the summer of 1876 he was engaged in the Sioux war. From 1888 until his death in March 1890 he commanded the military division of the Missouri.

Native Daughters

Bear Flag Is Presented By Los Angeles Parlor

An outdoor California Bear flag was presented recently by Los Angeles Parlor No. 121, NDGW, to the first Women's Marine Recruit Contingent to go from this area during the current emergency. Nine young enlistees were presented the flag through Lillian Stratton, president.

The ceremony was a civic luncheon sponsored by the Women's Divisions of the Los Angeles and Hollywood Chambers of Commerce. Margaret Kerr, Californiana Parlor, Grand Parlor State Americanism Chairman, introduced the Marines. Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer arranged for the presentation and secured the flag as a contribution to Los Angeles Parlor.

Californiana Parlor Enters Candidate In Queen Contest

"A Tribute to Armistice Day" was the theme of the luncheon and program given by Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Tuesday, November 14, with the president Mrs. Herbert Ostrup presiding.

Mrs. Albert Jacob, program chairman, presented Helen Butcher, soloist, and Idell Moye, pianist, in a group of patriotic songs. Mrs. A. J. Oechsel, past president, gave "A Tribute to Armistice Day." Mrs. P. M. Crawford, noted as one of the Parlor's "best cooks" served as luncheon chairman.

One of the important features of the luncheon was the introduction of Miss Betty Mathews, presented by Mrs. Ostrup, and sponsored by Californiana Parlor as their candidate for the Tournament of Roses Parade queen contest. The queen will reign over the year of 1951 and ride on the Native Sons and Native Daughters float in Pasadena, New Years day. This contest is sponsored by the two organizations over the state, and in the final contest, five girls, native born, will compete for queen.

Betty Mathews is a student at U.C.L.A. and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta and Californiana Parlor is very confident of her success.

Columbus Day Celebrated By Copa de Oro Parlor

Columbus Day meeting was observed by Copa de Oro Parlor No. 105, NDGW, Hollister, with an interesting talk on the life of the discoverer of America, by Carol Bryan. Meeting hall decorations featured the Pinta, the Nina, and the Santa Maria sailing over the blue waters on the voyage of discovery.

Hallowe'en formed the theme of the October meeting. Elaborate decorations consisted of witches, jack-o-lanterns, black cats and scarecrows. Legislative chairman, Gladys Jones, spoke of the amendments appearing on the November ballot. November 1 was devoted to the annual card party with a capacity crowd. Many grocery awards were received by high scorers. Special prizes consisted of boxes of apples, dressed chickens and sacks of potatoes.

James Lick Parlor No. 220 Observes 29th Anniversary

James Lick Parlor No. 220, NDGW, San Francisco, celebrated its twenty-ninth birthday with a chicken dinner held in Mt. Diablo hall in the Native Sons' building. Golden California Poppies were the table and room decorations. An American flag graced the table in front of the speaker of the evening, Supervising District Deputy Grand President Mildred Ehrlet of Las Lomas Parlor.

The salute to our flag was led by Marshal Pearl Steelhammer followed by the invocation by Charter Member Evangeline Morris. After a few words of welcome by the Chairman Past President Jaredna Johnson dinner was served the forty-seven members and friends.

Over the coffee all visiting members and friends were presented with a few words from one member of each group. The visiting members were from Las Lomas No. 72, Minerva No. 2; Gabriel No. 139; Presidio No. 148 and Keith No. 137. Also visitors were members from New Century Circle No. 513 C.O.F. of America, South of Market Girls, Inc. As always in the past James Lick is happy to say that among the few who were not members of the Order, two applications for membership have been received.

Two former members of Calaveras Parlor, Adeline Wrede and Marie Dennis were presented with fifty-year pins by Past President Matilda Schimpf also a former member of Calaveras Parlor. Four members, Julia Owen, Sarah Kearns, Lillian O'Leary and Ellen Bell were presented with their twenty-five year pins by Charter Member Margaret Kane. Sister Margaret was very pleased to present the pins, for one of the sisters is her sister, Julia.

As in the past our Chairman Jaredna had a surprise for those present, for one from each of the visiting Parlors were called upon to say a few words. State Chairman of the Extension of the Order Vera Thompson of Keith Parlor spoke on the getting of new members and what it would mean financially to the Parlors who increased their memberships the most. A real surprise was saved for the last when Edna Bishop a 42-year member of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Recording Secretary of James Lick Parlor and Past Grand Chief Companion of the C.O.F. of America was called upon to tell of her work during her long years of membership. Many present did not know that our Edna is a Past Grand Officer of the C.O.F. therefore were really surprised. Edna gave a very interesting talk.

Taking everything into consideration it was the nicest dinner party that James Lick has ever given. Everyone stayed late and went home asking will we do it again next year.

Grand Trustee Eugenia Smith Mourned By Both Orders

Hearts of Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West throughout the State were saddened by the passing on November 10 of Grand Trustee Eugenia Smith of Long Beach Parlor No. 154, NDGW. She was one of the most loyal and ardent workers in the Order, having served on many Grand Parlor and inter-parlor committees. The success of the Long Beach Admission Day Celebration of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West a few years ago was due largely to the many long hours that Eugenia Smith put in as secretary of the Admission Day Committee.

Funeral services, under auspices of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, were held from the Sheeler, McFadyen Funeral Home, 1952 American Avenue, Long Beach. Past Grand President Hazel B. Hansen officiated as past president; Grand Trustee Phyllis Hirst as marshal; Ann Barton, Long Beach Parlor, as president; Bee Nance, president of Long Beach Parlor, as 1st vice president; Past President Grace Poole, Long Beach Parlor, as 2nd vice president and Past President Leola Temby, Long Beach Parlor, as 3rd vice president.

Reina del Mar Parlor Active In Christmas Seal Sale

Armistice and Thanksgiving Days' message from Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch was effectively used by Mrs. Paul Miller, president, to spark the first November meeting of Santa Barbara's Reina del Mar parlor, NDGW. The daughters met at the Native Sons' Cabrillo pavillion and prefaced the business session with pot-luck supper.

After the Grand President's message had been read and discussed the parlor voted appreciation to members who served in the recent successful Santa Barbara Community Chest campaign. Those congratulated for this public service included Past President Griffiths (Mrs. Henry) of the Chest headquarters staff: Mmes. Miller, Harry Heckman, Neil Pier, Edward Parola, Ambert Phillips, Anita Joyal, Richard Riffero and Miss Sally Libke who were active in solicitation.

Mrs. Ambert Phillips, civic chairman, will head Reina del Mar participants in December's Christmas Seal sale. Mrs. Edward Webb and Mrs. Phillips aided the Amvets in their community Hallowe'en party at the high school stadium.

Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, drill team and marching unit, took part in the Armistice Day parade in Oakland. This being their regular meeting day, the girls, though tired, found thirty-three in attendance at their 1:30 p.m. meeting. Mrs. Ragon, mother of the unit, spoke on "Armistice Day" and praised the girls for their fine appearance in the parade and being loyal native daughters. The girls are now busy planning their Junior Jamboree and dance, to be held in the near future. Georgina Williams is in charge.

At their regular meeting on December 1, Pasadena Parlor No. 290, enjoyed a lovely fashion show of winter styles which was presented for the members and friends after the business session and election of officers.

Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, San Francisco, honored Grand Trustee Leslye A. Hicks, with a tea and reception December 3. It was held at the Native Daughter home, 555 Baker street.

Annual county fair, bazaar and dinner of Californiana Parlor, NDGW, was held Tuesday afternoon, November 28, at 927 South Menlo Avenue, Los Angeles. Mrs. A. J. Oechel was chairman of this year's event and Mrs. P. M. Crawford, co-chairman.

Donner Parlor No. 193, Byron, celebrated its charter night Wednesday, November 1, with a pot-luck dinner followed by a regular meeting.

Whittier Parlor No. 298, recently held their Thanksgiving Turkey dinner in the Whittier Riding clubhouse at York field, which was appropriately decorated with Autumn fruits and flowers. The cheery fire in the hearth added to the autumn atmosphere.

Nearly two-hundred members and their families were welcomed by the Parlor President Lucille Rowland. Among special guests of the parlor was Mayor and Mrs. Morris F. Richardson.

The delicious Thanksgiving feast was prepared and served by Mrs. Gertrude Doss, who was very capably assisted by her chosen committee.

December 8, at the regular meeting of the parlor, formal initiation of new members was the feature of the evening.

Mrs. Vivian Harris, left, past president and Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler, center, serving her 24th year as Grand Secretary, were honored recently at a dinner given in their honor at Helmick's restaurant, Oakland, by Aloha Parlor No. 106, N.D. G.W. Tournament of Roses Queen Contest Begins

Members of the Tournament of Roses Float committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, are hard at work upon the contest to pick the Native Daughter, together with her court, who will reign as queen on the Native Sons and Daughters float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses New Year's Day.

In a communication received by the Grizzly Bear from the general chairman of the float committee on November 12, it was learned that up until that date contest entries had been received from only six parlors: Los Ranchos No. 283, NSGW; Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW; Argonaut No. 166, NDGW; Verdugo Parlor No. 240, NDGW; Beverly Hills Parlor No. 289, NDGW, and California Parlor, NDGW.

Bob Hanaford of Project Associated, float builders, has submitted a sketch for the float and approval was expected to be made at the next meeting of the float committee, which was scheduled for November 21.

The committee chairman reported that contributions were slow in coming in from the parlors and unless better co-operation is shown in supporting this float, our efforts will be lost for the sake of a few dollars.

It is the committee's honest desire to have a float worthy of our two Orders and every effort is being made on our part to succeed.

Members of the general committee are: Francis M. Vail, chairman; Ray G. Woods, Native Son co-chairman; Howard J. Butner, general treasurer; Florence Grass, Native Daughter treasurer; Rosemary Connor, secretary. Other members of the general committee are: John B. Schmolle, James T. Ritchey, Grand Trustee Alfred Peracca, Russell Seymour, C. Lewis Edwards, Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoerner, Grand Trustee Phyllis Hirst, Robert Donahue and Past Grand President Walter Odemar.

Details of the contest, together with rules and regulations have gone out to all parlor secretaries, both Native Sons and Daughters.

GRAND TRUSTEE EUGENIA SMITH

To the Officers and members of Long Beach Parlor No. 154, N. D. G. W.

We, your committee appointed to draft a resolution of respect to our departed Sister Grand Trustee Eugenia Smith, submit the following. Once again, the solemn hour has struck and again the golden chain of membership has been severed.

We pause in life's activities to pay tribute to the memory of the one whose companionship and friendship we shall fondly cherish. She gave unselfishly of her time and no distance was too far to travel in the furtherance of the aims and objects of our Order.

Therefore, be it resolved that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to her family, and be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family, a copy inscribed in the minutes and to the Grizzly Bear magazine and to the Grand Parlor.

A Christmas Story

a baby and as he watched, the tiny mouth opened and emitted another shrill wail.

Jose Ramon stood transfixed for a moment and as he moved timidly nearer, his father turned and put his arm about the shoulders of his first born.

"You have a little brother, Jose Ramon!" he whispered and drew the boy closer to the bed.

Jose Ramon stared down at the babe and smiled lovingly at his mother. Then he knelt impulsively and prayed. "Querido Jesusito! Muchas gracias (Dear little Jesus! Many thanks) for sending this little brother to me! If I could have prayed beside your crib in Culiacan, I would have asked you to send him. You have heard my prayer even though I could not come to you in your nacimiento. I know you will hear me now, for it is Christmas—the very best Christmas of all!"

Editor's Note: The incident of the birth of the first white child in California "one minute before midnight, December 24, 1775, is based on historical fact gleaned from Bolton's "Outpost of Empire" and the lengthy diaries of Juan Bautista de Anza and Padre Pedro Font concerning the long journey from Old Mexico to California of an expedition organized for the colonization of San Francisco. Twenty-nine women journeyed thus on horse or muleback over dangerous trails without benefit of wheeled vehicles to be the first of their sex to settle in this virgin land.

THE LETTER BOX

The Grizzly Bear
338 West Center Street
Anaheim, California
Gentlemen:

Some months ago while flying near "The Pinnacles" in San Benito county, California, I noted for the first time on the map a mountain called "Sampson Peak." Since that time I have addressed a number of communications to various persons and organizations, including California Historical Society, National Geographic Society, United States Board of Geographic Names, Department of California History, University of California at Berkeley, and others, requesting information as to the source and historical significance of the name, but without any success whatever.

I am wondering whether or not an inquiry in "The Grizzly Bear" in this regard would be practicable. No doubt some of the "old timers" who are members of our Order have the information desired if we can only contact them.

Thanking you for any information which you may be able to provide in this respect, I remain,

Sincerely,

RICHARD HUNT SAMPSON,

Quartz Parlor Heads Centennial Celebration

Quartz Parlor No. 58, NSGW, Grass Valley, Nevada county, sparked the centennial of the discovery of gold in quartz in Grass Valley recently. All civic and fraternal organizations invited by Quartz Parlor took part in some phase of the celebration and in spite of threatening weather, the event was a big success.

The three-day celebration started with a football game Friday night, followed by a parade Saturday morning, with races and games for the children in the afternoon. A tour of historical spots, such as Josiah Royce's birthplace, Lotta Crabtree's home, Lola Montez' home, the spot where gold in quartz was discovered by George McKnight, a visit to the famous Empire Gold mine and the Nevada City museum, was a feature of the affair.

Saturday evening a fine pageant was presented to a large and appreciative audience.

Speaker of the day at the Sunday ceremonies, attended by Governor Earl Warren, was Junior Past Grand President Dr. Peter T. Conmy. Following this fine address, the large crowd assembled was entertained by visiting and local folk dancers, while Governor Warren was conducted on a tour some 2000 feet into the Idaho-Maryland mine by Brother Whiting, mine superintendent.

Members of Quartz Parlor No. 58 hope that the rest of California will help them to keep the gold mines, so vital to this section of the state, open by giving a free market for gold.

Gentlemen:

Fine thing! Please note page nine of the November issue, lower right corner: a write-up of the activities of the fair esquistiennes of Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288, N.D.G.W., states in part: "The uniforms consisted of white satin blouses, with golden poppies embroidered on the yokes . . ." Do you imply that the good ladies allowed a portion of their breakfast eggs to escape them, and especially onto those lovely white satin blouses? Shame, shame upon your proofreader.

All "yolking" aside, I look forward with pleasure to receiving the Grizzly Bear each month, and I especially enjoy the feature, "California 75 Years Ago." Keep up the fine work.

Sincerely,

WILBUR D. MOFFET,

Member Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW.

Our Cover

A winter snow scene, taken in Yosemite, of Half Dome by the world-renown California photographer, Ansel Adams, and presented through the courtesy of Yosemite Park and Curry Co.

Once a tourist is reported to have asked a ranger, "Where is the other half of Half Dome?"

"Well," said the ranger, "a great awful glacier came down the valley. It plumb froze there a mile-high granite dome. It busted off great hunks, and pushed about a billion tons of mountain down the Merced river and now the farmers in San Joaquin Valley are growing wheat and grapes and even vegetables on the other half of old Half Dome."

And, admiring the cover we would add that Nature did a truly beautiful job.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of
the Grizzly Bear Magazine*

New Year's Day 1876, coming on Saturday, was more convivially observed than for some time, as the celebrants had the day following to "think it over."

A heavy rain put dampness, to some extent, on the festivities. While about eleven inches of rain had already fallen, the wet month was welcome because the state had experienced the difficulties of a dry one. A succession of storms brought the rainfall at the end of the month up to eighteen inches, and every part of the state was soaked.

The records of the Oroville, Butte County, Wells-Fargo office showed that during 1875 gold-dust to the amount of $978,903 had been shipped through that agency. Adam Jackson, prospecting three miles from San Andreas, Calaveras County, struck a vein of decomposed quartz that was yielding three ounces of gold, or about $50, to the pan.

Six miles from Ventura a large ledge of natural soap was discovered. It made a fine lather for shaving and other purposes.

A woman came forward this month with a cure for baldness. It required the hair-seeker to wash his head in a concoction of black tea into which should be poured an ounce of tincture of cantharides.

A miner named Kidder, whose sluice-boxes at Iowa Hill, Placer County, had been robbed several times at night, employed a watchman. Going to his claim at 2 a.m. of January 17 to see if the watchman was on duty, he was shot and killed.

The third annual bal masque of the Eureka Social Club of Sacramento was a brilliant success. At least 600 maskers were on the floor.

Henry de Groat reported having found in Fresno County rocks, several acres in extent, with inscriptions carved upon them. The carving had been done by a prehistoric race.

The agent of a San Jose tombstone manufacturer, in search of orders, was informed by a friend that a certain woman had lately lost her husband. Hastening to the residence, he was informed that the husband had lately eloped and that she would gladly purchase a tombstone when he was buried.

January 24, in one section of Sacramento, the Scottish residents celebrated the birthday of Robert Burns with song and dance, while in another the Chinese ushered in their new year with a salvo of firecrackers.

January 10 a masked man held up the Amador county stage from Fiddletown (now Oleta) to Latrobe, near Plymouth. He got the portable express-box, but overlooked, or was unawares of, the iron safe attached to the stage-bed. The latter contained several thousand dollars, while he got less than a hundred.

January 31 an attempt to hold up the stage from Jackson, Amador County, was made west of Drytown by two masked men. Tom Magee, the express messenger, responded with a shot from his sawed-off shotgun and a passenger began using a pistol. This caused the horses to go on a run, and the bandits made no attempt to stop them.

In a controversy January 13 over road repairs at Glenwood Park, near Grass Valley, Nevada County, Peter Innert was shot dead by Andrew Fryer.

A revolution reported in progress in Lower California caused a company of United States soldiers to be sent from San Francisco to San Diego.

The bank of Temple & Workman in Los Angeles failed January 15. Great excitement resulted, as it was the principal bank in Southern California.

A M. Fryer had invented a process for the reduction of refractory ores. He made a success of it at Grass Valley, Nevada county, and became noted. Mining men and capitalists so besieged him in San Francisco, he had to leave that city. The invention was considered a money-maker.

CAMELS TO CALIFORNIA

Latest in the Stanford series on early Western transportation is CAMELS TO CALIFORNIA by Harlan D. Fowler, Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, published last month by Stanford University Press.

Around desert campfires from Texas to California one hears of the phantom camels. Sometimes the camel is a great red one with a leather army saddle; sometimes it is ghostly and white, moving across the sands into the distance. It may carry a ghostly rider—perhaps a skeleton lashed to its back. Or it may be young and frisky, a hint that somewhere in the hills a herd breeds and multiplies.

Fanciful as these American camels may seem, the stories of their shadowy forms drifting through the deserts ring with more than a little truth. Following the war with Mexico, the United States considered the use of camels to solve the difficult problems of transportation in the arid Southwest. A Navy ship was modified for carrying the heavy beasts and a commission was sent abroad to purchase camels at various Levantine ports. By 1857 two shiploads had been landed in Texas, and in the subsequent years both Arabian and Bactrian camels were used extensively for the carrying of supplies and express and the pioneering of new routes between Texas and California.

But with the advancing times the camel's usefulness came to an end and some were auctioned to circuses. Others carried salt to Nevada mines. Still others were abandoned to fend for themselves on the broad deserts of the Southwest.

In CAMELS TO CALIFORNIA Harlan D. Fowler brings the complete story to publication for the first time. Quoting from historical documents, he traces this experiment in transportation from its inception in the mind of Jefferson Davis, then Secretary of War, thru the procuring and transporting of the beasts, and on to the myths that have grown to the stature of folklore. The camel episode thus becomes one of the most fascinating chapters in western history and a worthy addition to the tales of cable cars, paddle wheels, coastal steamers, wagons and stagecoaches in other volumes of the Stanford Transportation Series.

OUR DESERT NEIGHBORS

For more than forty years Edmund C. Jaeger has explored the North American deserts. On foot and burro back he has visited the most remote areas and made friends with the wild-life.

In OUR DESERT NEIGHBORS, published last month by Stanford University Press, he writes of pocket gophers, dwarf kangaroo mice, coyotes, or centipedes, not in the manner of the stiff, proper, academic scientist, but as their friend—as one who understands not only their ancestral background and habits but their personalities as well. When he tells of his experiences with a pack rat, the little animal becomes a living, breathing character in the play of desert life.

On one of his trips into the desert, Mr. Jaeger came across a "poorwill" perched in a tiny crypt in a canyon wall. "When we had observed the poorwill quietly for more than ten minutes without noticing any motion, I reached forward and touched the bird; there was no response. I even stroked the back feathers, but I could see not even the slightest movement. Was our bird dead, sick, or just deep in some sort of winter sleep?"

Several days later when he returned to the same location, he picked up the bird again, hoping to photograph it. "But to our great surprise it whipped open its wings and flew . . . in perfectly normal flight, as if it had only been playing possum all the time and had now suddenly become alert to danger." This chance encounter with the sleeping poorwill led to one of the significant ornithological discoveries of recent years.

OUR DESERT NEIGHBORS is a series of attractive, intimate sketches of the lives of desert animals. It is based on scientific fact and the personal observations of Mr. Jaeger. On the creosote bush plains, along the margins of saline lakes, and on desert mountains with their dwarf trees, he meets spotted skunks, road runners, midget gnatcatchers, desert hares, lyre snakes, and all manner of little-known denizens of the arid wilderness.

Stanford University Press has previously published two other popular books by Mr. Jaeger: THE CALIFORNIA DESERTS, a visitor's guide to the Mohave and Colorado Deserts, and DESERT WILD FLOWERS, the most complete work ever published on the flora of the North American deserts.

Pacific Parlor Celebrates 69th Birthday Anniversary

Pacific Parlor No. 10, San Francisco, celebrated its 69th birthday anniversary Tuesday evening, November 14, with the officers of the parlor, assisted by a number of past presidents, initiating a large class of candidates.

Grand Trustee Joseph McNamara of Stanford Parlor No. 76, San Francisco, paying his official visit to Pacific Parlor, presented nine 50-year pins to the following: Past Grand President Edward J. Lynch, president 1904; A. McCulloch, president 1907; E. C. Gribble, C. L. Ochs, G. E. McCourtney, F. Stackpole, A. L. Marsh and W. St. John. Joseph A. Teresi, president 1926 and E. A. Wanner received 25-year pins.

Interesting addresses were given by Past Grand President Lynch; Superior Judge Thomas M. Foley, president 1925; Grand Trustee Joseph McNamara. Hugh E. Ryan, president 1936, were also among the speakers.

Among the old-timers who attended this anniversary were approximately 30 past presidents of Pacific Parlor.

Chairmen of the anniversary committee were Frank Medaglia and Bert Paolinelli.

Pacific Parlor also presented another 50-year pin on Tuesday evening, December 19, to William Wertsch.

Observatory Parlor Takes Interest In Public Affairs

Observatory Parlor No. 177, San Jose, has a committee working in the interest of naming the local municipal airport—the Robert Fowler Field, and considerable progress is reported in the undertaking.

Bob Fowler, a member of Observatory Parlor, is a pioneer of flying from way back, reports the San Jose Observer, and his ever keen interest in the development of flying is unmeasurable. It has been said that he spends about three quarters of his spare time flying around the blue horizons and has beaten many a path across the continent.

Members of Observatory Parlor are taking an interest in reports coming from the halls of the Santa Clara County Planning Commission that various roads and streets throughout the county bearing historical names, or names connected with early events or pioneers of the area, are going to be changed.

"It would be sacrilege," reports the Observer, "to see such names as Murphy Road, Grand Road, and many others altered to read: Bide A Wee Lane, Peach Fuzz Road, or some fancy cognomen foreign to our parts."

"It behooves each and everyone of us to make it a point at some time in the future to speak to members of the planning commission and have them renege on their plans. Let's keep the historical names before the public eye. After all, these early pioneers spent many years building up this county—let's not forget them. Just drop in and let the County Planning Commission know you are not asleep."

Ritualistic Contest Is Won By Piedmont Parlor

For the fourth time in contests with South San Francisco Parlor No. 157, on the evening of November 1st, Piedmont Parlor No. 120, NSGW, Berkeley, won the ritualistic contest with a close score of 879 to South San Francisco's 870. William Vargas, president of Piedmont parlor headed his corps of officers.

Piedmont parlor held its annual Christmas party Thursday evening, December 21, following the regular meeting. The main event consisted of Christmas refreshments and the usual turkey and trimmings. Merv Kjer was chairman of the affair.

The Cross on the Hill at San Buenaventura

By J. H. MORRISON
Cabrillo Parlor No. 114

Surmounting a round topped hill which rises above San Buenaventura Mission stands a Cross made of native logs. This is a replica of the Cross originally set up by the Franciscan Fathers in the closing years of the eighteenth century. What is believed to have been the original Cross was blown down in 1875 but the headboard with the crudely carved inscription INRI, has been preserved and may be seen in the Pioneer Museum, Ventura, maintained by Ventura county.

As nearly as possible the present Cross resembles the original. Logs for both were brought from the mountains twenty or thirty miles to the north of Ventura and while modern methods made easy the transportation of the materials now standing, no great stretch of imagination is required to visualize the difficulty of felling and bringing to the site, with Indian labour and ox-drawn caretas, the logs for the Cross raised by order of Father Serra.

This Cross of San Buenaventura, overlooking the town from the site selected by Junipero Serra or his successors, seems to symbolize the works and aims of the Padres for, originally, it served a three-fold purpose. Primarily it announced the establishment of the Church in California; secondly, the traveler on sighting it knew he was approaching a Mission settlement; in the third place, when night fell, lanterns were hung from the arms of the Cross as beacons for such ships as might be in Santa Barbara channel.

Let us take ourselves back a hundred-fifty years and, in fancy, follow a gray or brown-robed friar up the winding path leading to the Cross. As the sun drops below the western horizon it is the daily duty of this Father to hang the lanterns on each arm of the Cross. By these feeble rays the chance mariner or traveler may know he is being guided by the Church in his coming and going.

His duty done, perhaps the Father leans for a few moments on the Cross, resting after his long climb and enjoying the panorama spread before him. To the east may be seen the wonderful play of light and shadow from the late afternoon sun on the Santa Susana, Conejo and Malibu mountains; the Santa Clara valley, yellow with mustard, in the foreground. To the west his vision takes in the coast line nearly to Santa Barbara. Below him and to the north lies the valley watered by the Ventura river and extending to the hills in whose lap nestles the oak-dotted Ojai district. At his feet is the Pacific ocean, the Channel Islands in the mid-distance and, if the air is very clear, the outline of Santa Catalina may be discerned far to the south. Truly a wonderful vista and it may be that the Father is grateful for the appointment as lightkeeper which enables him to enjoy this quiet moment at the end of his day. We can return with him to the Mission feeling that no traveler in search of food and shelter can fail to see the Cross by day or the lanterns by night.

Few, nowadays, appreciate fully the care and thought exercised by these heroic Padres in the planning and building of the Missions. At the time there were few Spanish and probably no English-speaking people in what is now California. All travel was on horseback or by caretta, only the Indian, and possibly the Padre going from Mission to Mission, walked. The Missions were the only inns but there the traveler was always welcome to what there was in the way of food and lodging. In later years, more especially through the forties and fifties of the nineteenth century, this hospitality was an integral part of California life. Even today, among the descendants of those early CALIFORNIANS, the kindly greeting, "my house is yours," is not a mere gesture of politeness.

The Cross therefore, symbolizing the Mission establishment, was an assurance of hospitality. The Church welcomed the stranger and announced her desire and ability to care for his bodily and spiritual needs.

In the hustle and bustle of present day life we are apt to lose sight of the fact that, with few exceptions, every site upon which a Mission Church was established is adjacent to, or has become a prosperous city in a prosperous land. As selectors of townsites the Padres were men of rare judgment, possessed of no mean engineering and building ability. The stone and cement ditch by which water was brought to the settlement from six or eight miles up the Ventura river, no doubt presented to them with what we would consider very inadequate equipment—a problem as great as that of present day water and irrigation projects. The Cross, standing on its hill a little to the east of the still-existent reservoir which was the termination of the ditch, was perhaps the goal toward which they worked. The ditch is still traceable at various points along the hill-sides and nothing short of dynamite will destroy the materials from which it is built; stones from the river and cement from the lime deposits in Matilija Canyon.

Wonderful men were those Padres, too little thought of today. They built that their works might be as enduring as the Cross upon which their Faith was founded. All Californians, Native and adopted, may well take to heart the lesson of the Cross and Mission; Integrity, Hospitality, and Interest, above commercialism in our fellow-man.

Although, as this is written, only a short time has elapsed since the declaration of a National Emergency there is every indication from the material that comes across our desk that parlors of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West are beginning to gear their programs to the various phases of the National Defense effort.

Several important social functions of the Natives have been canceled in order to devote more energy towards the work ahead. Others are being held only because they were too far along in the planning stage to cancel. But the general trend seems to be that large festive occasions are out for the duration.

Activities of the Americanism Committees of both Orders are being stepped up, while members prepare to take their places in Civilian Defense, Red Cross work and the many other projects in support of the mobilization program.

In parlors of the Native Sons, hit by the calling of men to service, the question is again being raised regarding status of members in the Armed Forces. In previous years, the Grand Parlor took no definite action, but suggested that each subordinate parlor take action in accordance with local conditions. All, or nearly all, parlors waived payment of dues until the member was honorably discharged. These cases also provided that benefits would be discontinued during the period of service. No exemption is made on per capita tax to Grand Parlor in such cases.

We note from the bulletins that many Native Son parlors are taking care of this matter by resolutions.

The Native Sons and Daughters made a splendid record in their service to their country during the last war. There is every reason to believe that they will again do so in this period of National Emergency.

Cien Anos Parlor Has Unique Record

Cien Anos Parlor No. 303, NDGW, Norwalk, instituted just one year ago, is to be congratulated on their flag presentations. They were favored among organizations in being asked to present three California Flags to three schools in their areas.

Mrs. John Malcomson, 1st vice president, presented a flag to Ed. C. Lewis School in the Downey area. Mrs. Stanley McFarland, outside sentinel, presented a California Flag to Elmcroft School in Norwalk and the Worthy President Mrs. Jay Stiles, presented the flag to Grayland Avenue School.

The fourth and most spectacular of the presentations was made on Flag Day at the Downey Cemetery. The presentation was arranged by Mrs. Bryan Berry, Third vice president of Cien Anos Parlor. The presentation was spectacular in that over 100 people attended and schools, service clubs, three newspapers, the Downey High School Band, and all youth organizations were represented. The Los Angeles Daily News sent a photographer.

The Downey Cemetery is considered one of the oldest in the Los Angeles area, being about 90 years old and has war dead from the Spanish-American War to World War II. Guests at the presentation were Phyllis Hirst, Grand Trustee and Ann Barton, Deputy Grand President. The flag was presented by Worthy President Mrs. Jay Stiles to Supervisor William A. Smith who accepted it for the county of Los Angeles Supervisors, the cemetery being county property. A number of Native Daughters came in fascinating old costumes.

To culminate a very busy year, the History and Landmarks Chairman, Mrs. Bryan Berry has set January 3, 1951 at 12 o'clock as the time to place a plaque beneath the American Flag in Downey cemetery to commemorate its antiquity.

Fifteen new members were initiated during the events of the evening.

Grand officers present were: S.D.D.G.P. Juanita Porter, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, District 35; Helen Haskell, Compton Parlor No. 258, District 36; Louise Crawford, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, Castenia Cripe, East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, Anita Boodman, Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126, and Phyllis Hurst, Grand Trustee, Verdugo Parlor No. 240.

The overall picture of this gala event was breathtaking as all the corsages and decorations were made of Christmas decorations, silver leaves and glimmering satin ribbon. The Grand Presidents corsage was in the form of a green satin muff with Christmas decorations of tinkling bells.

Gift presentations were made in red and white, while one of the gifts of a white Christmas tree with money wrapper in red cellophane as decorations was presented.

Proceeds from the coin march was divided three ways: Rio Hondo Parlors went to the Veterans Welfare, La Tijera, Restoration of Mission Soledad, and Tierra del Rey, to the Native Daughters' home.

Whittier Native Daughters Celebrate Holiday Season

Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW, celebrated the holiday season with a festive Christmas party December 20 at the Whittier Women's clubhouse.

During the brief business meeting, Welfare Chairman Laura Sanders announced that sufficient contributions had been received from the parlor and its members to fill baskets for two needy families with a week's supply of groceries. Mrs. Sanders also reported on the very successful Veterans Party held at Sawtelle when nearly 1000 veterans were the guests of the Inter-parlor committee of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of Los Angeles county. Members of Whittier Parlor who assisted were Mrs. Grace Tutt, Mrs. Laura Sanders, Mrs. Laura Didier, Mrs. John Anderson, Miss Lucille Rowland, Mrs. Lillian Eldred and Miss Nina Littlefield. Games, refreshments and monetary gifts were presented for the entertainment of the veterans of World War One.

Lillian Sambrano, general chairman of the evening, presented program chairmen of the evening Gertrude Doss and Phyllis Baxter who had planned a full evening's entertainment.

To the tune of "Jingle Bells" Santa Claus appeared in the beautifully decorated room and made his way to the Christmas tree where he found a quantity of gifts that he distributed.

Delicious and appropriate refreshments were served by chairman Lucille Parsons.

Reina del Mar Parlor To Accent Community Endeavor

Mrs. Ambert Phillips has been unanimously elected president to direct the destinies of Santa Barbara's Reina Del Mar parlor, NDGW, in 1951, when accent will be placed on community endeavor and war effort. Mrs. Phillips was installed on December 13 at a meeting which honored Saint Barbara, patron of the city and county.

President Phillips' staff will include three vice-presidents, Mrs. Lillian Fraser, Mrs. Raymond La Pointe and Mrs. Glenn D. Hillebrand, and as trustees Mrs. Geo. A. Tackaberry, Mrs. Roy Miller.

Other officers: Mrs. Nettie Joyle, marshal; Miss Julie Sanchez, and Mrs. Arthur H. Spring, sentinels; Miss Sylvia Ferrario, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Griffiths, financial secretary.

Christmas gifts were collected for distribution by Santa Barbara Council of Christmas Cheer. Former members who had served as Saint Barbara in past Old Spanish Days Fiesta were specially honored during the evening. Rev. Maynard Geiger, O.F.M., Santa Barbara Mission, spoke on the historical significance of the patron saint and Knapp School of Nursing chorus gave program of carols.

Aloha Parlor Has Busy Program Through Holidays

Aloha Parlor No. 106, NDGW, Oakland, sponsored a baked ham dinner November 28. Guests of honor included Miss Inez Hall, teacher at the State deaf-blind home in Berkeley, and three little girls from the home. Margaret Horwath was chairman and chef of the affair.

Aloha Parlor is sponsoring the chess club for the boys at the State Home for the blind in Berkeley. A check for $10 was given Margaret Horwath to present the club as a starter.

Aloha's annual Christmas party was held on the evening of December 26. There was an exchange of gifts and "Santa" himself was on hand to pass them out. It was to be a birthday party for the members who have birthdays in October, November and December. There was a big birthday cake and everything that goes with it to make up a birthday party. Vivian Harris and Myrtle Ransom are co-chairmen. Don Ransom was in charge of decorations.

Christmas Party of Keith Parlor Outstanding Success

At the annual Christmas party recently held by Keith Parlor No. 137, NDGW, the choral group of the San Francisco Junior Native Daughters Unit No. 6 under the supervision of Louise Nau of Dolores Parlor No. 169, took a most outstanding part. These charming young girls were attired in becoming white snow men costumes, with accessories of black hats and brooms, depicting the holiday theme, and included Lorraine Blackwell, Dorene Lewis, Jeanette Reynor, Patsy Green, Shirley Thompson, Maureen Power, Shirley Wagner, Irene Haley, Pat Quigley, and Lorrie Maring. Also on the program were Mae O'Keefe and her accordion, together with Buddy Forney, teen-age talented magician with his bag of tricks to entertain the grown-ups as well as the kiddies. As always, Santa Claus was there with his gifts, goodies, and joy for all. And, this year, as in the past, the ladies of our beautiful home were guests of Keith Parlor, and joined us in a real Native Daughter Yuletide gathering.

Grand President Presents Pin To Fruitvale Member

Late in October, Fruitvale Parlor No. 177, NDGW, Oakland, and El Cereso Parlor No. 207, San Leandro, entertained Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand President, upon the occasion of her official visit.

Mrs. Ethel Casey, a former charter member of Sutter Parlor, Sacramento, who transferred to Fruitvale Parlor was presented with her 50-year pin of membership by Grand President Schiebusch. Mrs. Evelyn Hubbard of El Cereso Parlor was presented with her 25-year pin by Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler.

Sponsored jointly by Piedmont Parlor No. 87, NDGW and Piedmont Parlor No. 120 Drum and Bugle Corps, some 125 couples enjoyed a dance at Herman Sons hall, Berkeley, Saturday evening, November 18. Another such affair is scheduled for February, 1951.

San Francisco County Deputies Hold Breakfast

The dining room of the Native Daughter home in San Francisco wore a green and white dress on Sunday morning, December 10, when the Supervising District Deputy Grand President and Deputy Grand Presidents of the city and county of San Francisco sponsored a Home breakfast.

Greetings were extended to Present and Past Grand Officers of the Native Daughters and to Supervising District Deputy Grand President of the Native Sons, William Hawley and Mrs. Hawley, the guest speaker Lenore Underwood, Deputy Attorney General and the representatives from the twenty-six San Francisco county parlors by Supervising District Deputy Grand President, Mildred Ehler of Las Lomas Parlor No. 72.

The Pledge and Salute to our Flag was led by Chairman, D.G.P. Jaredna Johnson of James Lack Parlor 220 and D.G.P. Ruby Bried of El Vespro Parlor 118 gave the invocation.

Because one of the principles of the Native Daughters of the Golden West is "An Abiding Faith in the Existence of God," the theme of the occasion was "Trees." Our own Redwood trees are the oldest living things on earth and the Titan of Redwoods is a part of the Richardson Grove: This Titan of trees was a real monarch of the forest aged over 220 years when the Three Wise Men were following the Star that guided them to our Christ Child. Irene Boulett of Genevieve Parlor 132 sang "Trees" accompanied by D.G.P. Frances Simas of Oro Fino Parlor 9.

The only table decorations were the miniature trees covered with snow that held the place cards at each of the 110 places. The mantle back of the speakers table was covered with tips from redwood tree limbs; a center piece of redwood tied with white bows adorned the piano.

Guest speaker, Lenore Underwood, Deputy Attorney General, gave a very interesting talk on Duties of the California Attorney General's office staff.

The Deputy Grand Presidents expressed their appreciation to Dr. Bertola, the Home board and to Mrs. Carpenter, manager of the Home for the many courtesies received by having S.D.D.G.P. Mildred Ehler present to Grand President, Anna T. Schiebusch a green bag tied with white ribbon holding a gift to the Home Table Linen Fund.

After presenting the present and past Grand Officers S.D.D.G.P. Mildred Ehler presented each of her twenty-six deputies.

Each member of the committee and the girls who helped serve wore green aprons trimmed with white thus carrying out the theme of "Trees."

Tribute Dinner For Past Grand President Postponed

At the personal suggestion of Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, the tribute dinner planned in her honor for February 27 by Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, has been postponed indefinitely, it is announced by President Lillian Stratton.

Miss Stoermer asked for the postponement, saying that her parlor in this time of National Emergency should place defense of our country ahead of any festive affair.

- RESOLUTIONS -

EUGENIA SMITH

To the Grand Officers,
Native Daughters of the Golden West

We, your committee, appointed to draft a resolution of respect in fond memory of our departed sister, Grand Trustee Eugenia Smith, a member of Long Beach Parlor No. 154, Native Daughters of the Golden West, sincerely submit the following:

Whereas God in His infinite wisdom has given release to suffering that was borne with courage and called to His heavenly home our Grand Trustee Eugenia Smith

Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We come into the world alone, we pass out of it alone, but none of us can live his life alone. Eugenia Smith lived her life with steadfast devotion to the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West she so loved.

She served many years in various offices and committees in furthering the principles of the Order and was serving the organization in her third term as a Grand Officer.

Our Divine Father taketh all away — the Board of Grand Officers will miss her presence, but the love and memory of our departed Grand Trustee Eugenia Smith will live thru time after death.

As the poppies bloom on the hills of her beloved California touched with Spring and bringing a vision of the Resurrection, the spirit and enthusiasm of Eugenia Smith will be remembered by those who knew and loved her.

Therefore, be it resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to her mother, Mrs. Jennie Smith, her sister, Mrs. Margaret Burch, to all Subordinate Parlors and a copy spread upon the minutes of the Board of Grand Trustees.

Respectfully submitted,

JEWEL McSWEENEY,

Grand Vice President

LESLYE A. HICKS,

Famous Native Son Is Honored

By WILLIAM B. ADAMS
San Bernardino Telegram

Numerous speakers last month paid high tribute to Senator Ralph E. Swing's 25 years of legislative service, citing instance after instance when he had greatly aided his city, county and state.

But it was symbolic that the senator himself, in his "thank you" talk mentioned only one act—the redress by the state legislature for a 90-year-old slur upon the character of one of San Bernardino county's pioneer developers.

Calling it one of the things "I felt was worth doing well while I was in the legislature," Senator Swing, a member of Arrowhead No. 110, NSGW, told some 300 men and women from virtually every walk of life how he had removed the blemish that the first state legislature had placed on the character of Col. Isaac Williams of Chino Rancho.

His act was dramatized when, at the climax of the dinner at Arrowhead Springs hotel, a "messenger" dressed in the garb of the day arrived with a copy of the letter that Colonel Williams had dispatched 100 years ago. David W. Stuart, the "early Californian," of Arrowhead No. 110, handed the message to Senator Swing.

Then the guest of honor told how Colonel Williams had petitioned the legislature in 1850 to clear his name of charges he was disloyal and somehow the letter had disappeared until found about 10 years ago at the Huntington library. It was then that Senator Swing had the senate pass a resolution "righting the wrong."

Otherwise, Senator Swing took little credit for his years of work at Sacramento. He said he was motivated by only two groups—the men and women who had influenced him in years gone by and those of the present who continued to return him to his senate seat.

"I want to pass this honor on to those who have gone before and to you who will carry on in the future," he said.

At the same time, he symbolically turned over to his successor, Senator-elect James E. Cunningham, of Arrowhead No. 110, the auto license plate with the red "S36" on it.

"It not only earns for you a salute from highway patrolmen when you pass," he told Senator-elect Cunningham, "it carries the responsibility for serving your people."

As he got up to speak, Senator Swing broke the note of sadness that grew out of the numerous talks alluding to his retirement from the senate. His opening remark was:

"I'm flabbergasted, to tell the truth."

Then he went on to tell how his boyhood in the small town of San Bernardino had influenced him to want to improve it. He added his thanks to leaders of that day who had helped him attain a position of service to the people, mentioning by name Herman Harris, pioneer merchant; Stephen Kelley and A. G. Kendall, political leaders; Byron Waters, prominent attorney, and R. C. Harbison, newspaper editor.

Among the mementoes of the occasion, he received in addition to the copy of Colonel Williams' letter, a plaque from the chamber of commerce, of which he is a past-president; a framed replica of a resolution from the state senate; a letter of appreciation from the citizens of the county, and a certificate of his election as city attorney—in 1903.

The certificate was presented by Mr. Cunningham in his capacity as mayor. Speaking in behalf of the city, Mr. Cunningham told how Senator Swing had drawn up legislation that had demonstrated its worth by remaining law to this day.

He also cited legislation introduced by Senator Swing that has aided the city—and will continue to do so—in its problems of growth.

"We still are reaping rewards of that wisdom of yours," he said.

Chairman Frank H. Mogle of the county board of supervisors declared that among San Bernardino county's achievements is the producing of a number of distinguished political leaders.

"One of the greatest of these is Senator Ralph Swing," he said.

Sam L. Collins, speaker of the state assembly, told how Senator Swing's guidance will be missed by members of that body.

"My personal loss in the retirement of 'Uncle Ralph' is nothing compared to that of the people of San Bernardino and the state in his return to private life," declared Mr. Collins.

Senator Swing's part in founding the National Orange Show in 1911 and his constant work in its behalf, as its early secretary-manager, one of its directors to this day, and in the senate was described by J. B. Shephardson, president of the thirty-sixth exposition.

Speaking as a member of the general public, Jack K. Tibbitts lauded Senator Swing as "a man who has recognized the problems of the common people—not only recognizing them, but also doing something about them."

"He has grown large in stature because he has remained one of us. I have never heard of his being too busy to hear our problems," declared Mr. Tibbitts.

Mr. Tibbitts presented a plaque telling of some of the senators' accomplishments for the county.

James A. Guthrie, also speaking as a private citizen, saw as the veteran legislator's great contribution his "basic consideration of good government."

"He has insisted that the government should go to the people," instead of the opposite policy that used to require those desiring to do business with the state go to Sacramento.

Mr. Guthrie cited 22 state agencies that maintain offices in San Bernardino county as being part of Senator Swing's policy of decentralization.

He also mentioned the senator's fight for the City Creek highway, "the greatest mountain route in America," saying that it took a tough fight to have the road incorporated in the state highway system.

A neighbor from Riverside county, Senator Nelson S. Dilworth, said he came to express the appreciation of that district for what Senator Swing had done for it. He lauded the retiring official as "one of the builders of California."

Cited particularly were the laws Senator Swing wrote, many of them dealing with water and business problems.

"We all have benefited from your judgment," he added.

Senator Dilworth said Senator Swing's career is "unequaled in the annals of the state" and noted that he had served as an adviser to six governors. He presented two copies of the senate resolution, one to be the senator's personal copy and the other to be on display at the county courthouse.

You can't miss the splendid official Native Sons sign erected at the San Diego entrance to El Cajon by Cuyamaca Parlor. It is to be hoped that more parlors throughout the State will follow their example.

THE LETTER BOX

Santa Rosa, Calif.
December 27th, 1950.

Editor The Grizzly Bear:

Have received many compliments on the story "A Grizzly Bear Chased Me," as printed in the November issue of the Grizzly Bear.

Several have expressed doubt about a Grizzly Bear losing his balance while running across a steep mountain, and some have even laughed at it.

As stated in the story, many of my former boy friends and men of Truckee doubted me when I was telling them of how I escaped from the Grizzly, but when I challenged them to go back with me to where the Grizzly and I had the race around the mountain side—they did not want to take the chance of meeting him.

No one since the story was published seems inclined to try out the experiment of trying to outrun a Grizzly. I am still the champion.

One of my clients here in Santa Rosa. (I operate the Santa Rosa Steam Baths), a Mr. M. L. Black was in the U. S. Forestry Service in Yellowstone Park, years ago, and many a time he says he has seen a Bear in Yellowstone Park lose his balance while running alongside a mountain and go tumbling down to the bottom or bring up against some bushes or trees to stop them. I have had others tell me the same thing from different parts of the country.

In October 1950 along with several members of Sebastopol Parlor we attended a Venison feed given by Petaluma Parlor, and among the stories I told the one about "A Grizzly Chased Me." Then after the article appeared in the November issue, I have received many requests to tell another story about the Wild and Woolly California Animals. However this is about the closest I ever had as far as wild animals was concerned.

I have always been a Nut (Hobby) about keeping a record of incidents in a Diary and have had many exciting experiences, not so much with animals as with people.

These experiences of early days in Truckee, California have a lot to do with the activities of the Vigilantes in their efforts to curb lawlessness and my first remembrance was when I was about eight years old, when one morning there were three bodies of men found hanging on the Truckee river bridge, their bodies riddled with bullets—they had been found guilty of plotting and committing murder—by the Vigilantes.

On two other occasions later on an undesirable crook was rode out of town on a rail and tarred and feathered by the Vigilantes.

I have seen many shooting scrapes on the streets or in the saloons in Truckee, and in one instance a deliberate murder committed in a saloon where a fake fight was started and an innocent by-stander killed. The innocent by-stander was the intended victim, because he had become enamored with a prostitute who was the "girl" of a saloon-keeper.

In November, 1904 I joined the Los Angeles Police force (then a member of Ramona Parlor) and resigned in 1910 and kept a Diary of my daily activities and observations. These indicate that there was a lot of graft even in those days.

During World War I, I was sent to Los Angeles for the purpose of keeping track of subversive activities, communists and sabotage. This was really funny because I had to avoid the police—so whenever I saw a Cop or Detective I had to duck up an alley, hurry in to a store or saloon, or turn and hurry the other way. I could not afford to have any of them meet me and say "hello Cooke," especially when any of those I was associating with were nearby.

It soon became nosed around that I was dodging the police and this made me solid with the crowd I was associating with, and I was enabled to turn in many of them as undesirable citizens, and others.

Have now completed my third term as President of Sebastopol Parlor and not being a Democrat refuse to accept a fourth term. But I am starting another term as Commander of General Joe Wheeler Camp, United Spanish War Veterans. I did receive a Medal from the Native Sons when I returned from the Philippine Islands in 1899.

FRED A. COOKE,

Sebastopol Parlor, Native Sons.

- EDITORIAL -

To All Parlors,
Native Sons of the Golden West:

Dear Brothers:

Your Americanism Committee has, from time to time, pointed out the dangers of Communism, and how best to ward off the Kremlin attacks from within. We now feel that it is of equal importance to adopt for ourselves a program of positive action which will tangibly assist our armed forces fighting Communists in Korea. Some of the ways in which we can help are:

1. Every subordinate Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West can assist by cooperating with its local Red Cross Blood Bank Center, in arranging for their special "Native Son Day," when they and their families and friends will contribute their blood donations.

2. We should concern ourselves with civilian defense by volunteering for the service for which we are best fitted, thereby supporting Governor Earl Warren's plan, and putting California in the lead for adoption of measures which will best protect its citizens during the emergency days ahead. Much has been said about Atomic attacks, nerve and germ warfare. This and anti-sabotage precautions are being covered under the State Civilian Defense Program; but nevertheless it is the duty of each of us to acquaint ourselves and our families with the prescribed procedure in the event of atomic bombing.

If in doubt how you can best cooperate, write to Walter M. Robertson, State Civilian Defense Director, Sacramento, California. Request his latest bulletin on civilian defense and home front training.

3. Each member of our Fraternity should form the habit of writing regular letters to our Brothers and others who are serving in the armed forces. Committees can be formed to arrange for the solicitation and forwarding of magazines and books to our heroes who are recuperating in front line hospitals.

4. Fight Communist imperialism; beware of subtle propaganda and learn to recognize those who seek to destroy our American way of life.

Sincerely and fraternally,
ELDRED L. MEYER,
Chairman,

Grand Parlor Americanism Committee.
Committee members: Past Grand President, Serh Millington, Hon. Richard M. Nixon, Waldo F. Postel, Frank J. Collins, Sr., Bernard G. Hiss, Thomas Kelley.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

A succession of heavy storms during February 1876 piled up a record rainfall in California. On the 8th an unusually heavy storm broke over the southern portion of the state. Four inches of rain fell in Los Angeles, making a total of twenty inches for the season.

When crossing Ono Creek, the stage from San Diego was swept out to sea. The horses were drowned, but the driver and two passengers swam ashore. At Wilmington, two vessels were wrecked.

In the northern section of the state, the flood submerged Grizzly Island, in Suisun Bay, and drowned 600 cattle and several thousand head of sheep. The levee broke above Colusa City and a large portion of Colusa County was overflowed.

Lompoc, Santa Barbara county, established as a temperance colony, now had a population of 200 families, with 4,000 acres under cultivation.

Charles Page picked up on Main street, Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras County, February 4, a chispa worth $14 washed out by the rain.

Rich placer diggings, reported found on Cosa Creek, gave Bakersfield, Kern County, much excitement.

Thomas Wagner picked up in El Dorado County a gold nugget weighing seven and one-half ounces, worth $130. A short time previously he found in his placer one that weighed fifteen ounces.

Don Mateo Keller, on the Malago rancho in Los Angeles County, had an oyster bed in a bay there with millions of spawn visible.

A farmer named Nealy, at Healdsburg, Sonoma County, claimed to have raised the champion pumpkin in California. It was six feet eight inches in circumference and weighed 205 pounds.

Spearing salmon-trout ascending the Napa River was one of the amusements of Napa Valley people.

A street orange vendor in Los Angeles who had been buying oranges at fifteen cents a bucket and selling them at fifty cents, sent $4000 to his home-folks to take care of for him.

A cub grizzly captured in Shasta County a year before had now grown to 700 pounds in size. It was shipped February 14 to a Liverpool, England, zoo which purchased it from Captain Burns, its owner.

A fire at Red Bluff, Tehama County, February 7, destroyed several stores, with a $40,000 loss.

Fire at Chico, Butte County, February 22, destroyed a dozen buildings, many business places, and caused a $75,000 loss.

A big fire at San Quentin State Prison February 28 destroyed several shops and caused a loss to the state and the contractors of over $600,000. No prisoners escaped, but a large force of policemen were sent from San Francisco to act as guards.

Thomas Wilson, 75, and Minor Wallace, 14, started on snowshoes for Susanville, Lassen County, from Lassen Valley, February 8, and both were frozen to death on the way.

A young man named Hickey, a ditch tender at North San Juan, Nevada County, February 6 was swept away in a snowslide and killed.

There was a school exhibition this month in a mining town and a description of a part of the exercises, written by one of the young women present and sent to a friend, shows that the talent for exaggerating the importance of small doings was as great then as it is now: "Our dialogue came next. The teacher's eyes shot fire when Nellie Jones coughed to split her sides, and Kittie nearly died from laughter. Nellie recited so loud she nearly knocked the roof off the house, but Ellen was so bashful she nearly sunk through the floor, and Susie thought she would burst a bloodvessel; this made Louis boil over with rage. Bobby's eyes were as large as saucers, and Tommy almost ran his feet off moving about the stage. I knocked down a persimmon when I sang and we brought down the house with a thunder of applause, that, no doubt, you would have given the world to hear."

Historic Los Angeles Plaza

By EMMETT P. JOY

Grand Historian, N. S. G. W.

In the center of a great metropolis surrounded by busy streets is one of California's well known landmarks, the Los Angeles Plaza. The plaza today is covered with green trees which flourish under delightful Southern California skies. People when visiting the plaza gaze upon the statue of Felipe de Neve, the founder of Los Angeles, and then begin to realize the significance of this historic place. From the plaza one can look toward downtown Los Angeles which is only a few city blocks away and gaze upon the tall city hall and towering buildings which solemnly look down on the people below. It is interesting to know of some of the events which occurred in 1781 and how the plaza was first established.

According to Zoeth Skinner Eldredge's History of California, Vol. I, pages 460-461: "The pueblo was founded on September 4th, with twelve settlers and their families, forty-six persons in all. Temporary huts were built, as at San Jose, and the families took immediate possession and began work on their irrigation ditch, and such other improvements as were necessary for planting a crop; but full title to their fields and lots was not to be given them until five years later."

"At Los Angeles the survey was made by Ensign Arguello in August, 1786, who assigned to each settler his lot and lands, and also a branding iron for marking his animals. This brand was recorded as was his deed, or whatever evidence of title to land was given him."

According to Hubert Howe Bancroft, Vol. I History of California, page 344 and 345:—"Governor Neve issued his instructions for founding the pueblo of La Reina de Los Angeles from San Gabriel on the 26th of August. "Of subsequent proceedings for a time we only know that the pueblo was founded September 4th with twelve settlers and their families, forty-six persons in all."

Although September 4th is given as the founding date it is believed by some historians to have been founded some time between September 4th and December 31st, 1781.

Across the street from the plaza is located the church of Nuestra Senora la Reina de los Angeles. "The church of our Lady, Queen of the Angeles." This church was built in 1814-1822.

According to Rensch's Historic spots in California, page 46: "The Southern Counties": "By 1800 there were thirty small adobe homes clustered with pueblo walls."

"That year, floods from the Los Angeles river forced the colonists to abandon the settlement on its banks and to move to higher ground. The new plaza, which remains today, was established, and about it the life of Los Angeles and of Southern California centered during the Spanish and Mexican period."

During the Spanish and Mexican period it became the gathering place for religious ceremonies and celebrations. Prominent families built their residences in the immediate vicinity among which are the Avila adobe, the Lugo adobe and the Pico house.

In 1857 a municipal water tank was placed in the plaza where it was enclosed with a wall, sidewalks were laid out, shrubs and flowers were planted. The hitching posts for visitors which bordered the plaza were often used for rigs and other types of vehicles as well as saddle horses.

Some mention should be given here to the founder of the pueblo of Los Angeles. Don Felipe de Neve, whose statue is seen each day in the plaza. According to Bancroft's History of California, Vol. I, page 447: "Don Felipe de Neve was a major of the Queretaro regiment of provincial Cavalry from its organization in 1766 until September, 1774, when he was selected by Viceroy Bucareli to succeed Gov. Barri in the Californias. He assumed the office at Loreto on March 4, 1775. When the capital was changed he came to Monterey arriving on February 3, 1777. He made a beginning of colonization in 1777, offered his resignation, and was made colonel in 1778."

In July, 1869 the plaza was officially dedicated as a public park therefore becoming the oldest and the first city park in Los Angeles.

Today one can hear, in the still morning air the chimes of the Pueblo church as it echoes across north Main street, between Main and Los Angeles, and the Plaza, it echoes and sounds as it did over a century ago. The scene has changed since the founding of the pueblo in the vicinity of the plaza. The well known attraction next to the plaza is Olvera street with its Mexican atmosphere. But one can not forget that the statue of Felipe de Neve, surrounded in the midst of flowers and trees, is the founder of Los Angeles and to look at the great city from here, the place where he selected the spot for his pueblo, appears to be sometimes a thing accomplished beyond comprehension. Through the years El Pueblo de Nuestra Senora de Los Angeles de Porcincula grew into the large city of Los Angeles.

Bear Flag Presentation Made By Miocene Parlor

In a ceremony last month with the entire student body and staff assembled before the administration building, the Roosevelt school, Taft, was presented the California flag by the Native Daughters of the Golden West. Constance Feliz, president of Miocene Parlor No. 228, NDGW, made the presentation. Mrs. Nellie Williams, principal of the Roosevelt school, accepted the flag. The ceremonies were held January 9 at 12:50 p.m.

Miss Feliz was assisted in the presentation by her fifth grade class at the school. Various members of the class showed the flags which flew over California before the raising of the Bear flag.

Participating in the showing were John Norton, with the Spanish Empire flag, raised in Ventura county on October 10, 1542, by Cabrillo; Darrell Calkins, with the flag of England, raised by Sir Francis Drake, June 17, 1579; Leslie Bristow, with the Spanish National Ensign, raised by Portola and Father Serra at San Diego on May 17, 1789. Portola's was an expedition sent to colonize and occupy California to protect it from seizure by England; Lonnie Gower, with the flag of Russia, raised at Fort Ross, September 10, 1812; (the Russians later sold their claims to John Sutter); Suzanne Brown, with the Mexican Empire flag, raised after the revolt in Mexico at the Presidio of Monterey, California, on April 11, 1822.

The First Bear Flag Americans around Sonoma took over the government there and proclaimed California free and raised this flag. The bear on the first flag closely resembled a pig. Roszona Garner showed the American flag of 1846, the first Star Spangled banner in California, raised at the custom house of Monterey on July 7, 1846.

Erwin Jones, vice principal of the Roosevelt school, led the group in the pledge of allegiance.

Natives Have Beautiful Float In Tournament Of Roses Parade

Every Native Son and Native Daughter had a right to be proud of the float entered jointly in this year's Tournament of Roses Parade at Pasadena New Year's Day. The beautiful entry was a thrilling sight as it moved down Colorado street in the state fair event viewed by over a million persons. Too much credit can not be given the Native Sons and Native Daughters State Tournament of Roses Float Committee, headed by Frances M. Vail, Pasadena Parlor, NDGW, for their splendid work. Handicapped by a very limited budget the entry was one worthy of both great Orders.

Bonnie Despeaux, sponsored by Long Beach Parlor, No. 278, NSGW, was named "Girl of the Golden West" in the finals held Saturday evening, December 30, at the Skaters dance at American Legion Hall, Post 13, Pasadena.

The final scoring of the judges was very close for the three girls in the finals. Betty Mathews, sponsored by Californiana Parlor No. 247, NDGW, Belle Ostrup, parlor contest chairman and Josephine Lauricella, sponsored by Argonaut Parlor No. 166, NDGW, Oakland, Irma M. Caton, chairman, rode on the float New Year's Day with the "Girl of the Golden West." Joseph Sousa was contest chairman for Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW.

The contest for the southern part of the state was held Friday evening, December 8, at Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, at which time two candidates for the finals were chosen. There were six contestants. Miss Bonnie Despeaux, 20, sponsored by Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW, Miss Janet Lynn Horton, age 17, sponsored by Vertigo Parlor No. 10, NDGW, Miss Nancy Lee Heineman, age 17, sponsored by Beverly Hills Parlor No. 282, NDGW, Miss Patricia F. Edwards, sponsored by Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW, Miss Rita Palomares, sponsored by San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281, NDGW, Miss Betty Mathews, age 20, sponsored by Californiana Parlor No. 247, NDGW.

Past Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar was chairman of the judges faced with the difficult decision of choosing the two winners from the six beautiful contestants. Miss Bonnie Despeaux and Miss Betty Mathews were named the winners to enter the finals for the "Girl of the Golden West."

There were two girls in the final contest for the Bay area, Miss Ruth Evans of Berkeley and Miss Josephine Lauricella of Oakland, with the latter being named the winner.

Due to the shortage of contributions towards the Native Sons and Daughters float project, it was necessary to cut the size of the float and to have three girls instead of five ride on the float.

The design of the float featured the California Poppy, with the "Girl of the Golden West" seated in front of the huge poppy. She was attired in a formal, while the two girls in her court wore sports attire to represent summer and winter sports in California.

Conchita Native Daughters Undertake Worthy Project

Conchita Parlor No. 294, NDGW of Newport Beach, has done a most benevolent and unique service to their fellow man in adopting a needy family as their special project to help and protect through a difficult time in their lives.

The parlor and its kind members agreed to provide a complete Thanksgiving dinner and followed up by collecting good used clothing for every member of their adopted family. When Christmas time arrived the girls who had been working and preparing, provided new clothing and shoes, toys and a complete dinner and food to last a while for their entire family. Toys new and used were given by the children of the Native Daughters happily and with much preparation.

These substantial offerings given by the girls of Conchita Parlor in true spiritual thought at some sacrifice and a great deal of work and planning was done in the true spirit of love and kindness and was received with much joy and rejoicing on the part of their family, whom would not have had the needs of Christmas otherwise.

As a member of this Parlor I am proud of our parlor for the spirit invested in its fine members. God bless you girls. You are of the stuff our world needs today.

HELEN MIRKOVICH,
Conchita Parlor No. 294,

Rio Hondo Presents Bear Flag To Mounted Police

December 3, Rio Hondo Parlor No. 284, Native Daughters of the Golden West, presented a parade Bear Flag to the Lynnwood Mounted Police. This event took place at the San Antonio Ranch, home of the Mounted Posse at a breakfast with many dignitaries present.

President Dorothy Campbell of Rio Hondo Parlor, Americanism Chairman Vera Shinnfield and State Americanism Chairman Margaret Kerr of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, were introduced by Lynnwood Chief of Police Paul Kerr.

Vera Shinnfield and Margaret Kerr proceeded to give a resume of California History under the reign of 12 flags. Margaret Kerr State Americanism Chairman illustrated her story with pictures of these 12 flags, following her very interesting talk she then presented the Bear Flag to A. J. S. Johnson, Captain of the Lynnwood Police Department.

Native Sons

Honored For Thirty Years Service To Native Sons

When Secretary J. J. Kelly of Las Positas Parlor, Native Sons, Livermore, recorded in his minutes plans for a dinner preceding the election of officers in December, he didn't give it a thought other than that it was a special event for an election meeting.

But when the dinner got under way he learned that he was the guest of honor and that it celebrated his thirty years as secretary of the parlor.

On behalf of the parlor, Jos. A. Schenone presented him with an engraved silver cigarette case and lighter in recognition of his long and faithful service.

And the menu—in recognition of Kelly's Irish ancestry—was appropriately corned beef and cabbage, with green doughnuts.

Kelly has served as secretary nearly the entire period he has been a member of the parlor, joining in May, 1920, he was elected secretary the following month, and has since served continuously.

Esteemed Member Honored By Californiana Parlor

With a large number of civic and social leaders present, Californiana Parlor No. 247, NDGW, Los Angeles, Wednesday, January 24, presented to the Los Angeles Public Library with appropriate ceremony, the official photograph of their esteemed member, Miss Mary Emily Foy, who was the first woman to be honored with the appointment to the office of City Librarian of Los Angeles.

The presentation was made in the California room of the Los Angeles public library. The ceremony was arranged by Mrs. Mildred Taft Tinkham, civic participation chairman and her assisting committee: Mesdames Herbert Ostrup, president of Californiana Parlor; J. L. Dartt, Peter Kuhl, Eric Lange, C. E. Noerenberg.

Mrs. Herbert Ostrup, as president, presented the photograph to Harold L. Hamill, city librarian, who accepted the gift on behalf of the library commissioners: Dr. Rufus Von Kleinsmid, president; Mrs. Elmer Belt, Mae T. Bland, Timothy Manning, Edward A. Dickson. Miss Mary Emily Foy related some of her experiences as city librarian.

When consulted about the presentation, Miss Foy said, "Please tell the press this ceremony is open to all because the library is always the meeting place of friends. The library has always expanded with the community and met the needs of the community and like the city, has grown from a pueblo to a great metropolis."

With a host of friends and a smile for all, the spirit and enthusiasm of Miss Foy has been a great influence over many of the first century families of Los Angeles and its territory.

Her slogan to her students as a teacher in Los Angeles high school has helped many a young person to find his place in life.—"If you really want to do a thing bad enough, go ahead, let no obstacle hinder you."

Whittier Parlor Hears About State Project

Regular meeting of Whittier Parlor No. 298, Native Daughters of the Golden West, held at the Whittier Women's clubhouse Wednesday evening, January 3, was very capably conducted by President Lucille Rowland, with a full corps of officers in attendance.

A communication was read from State Chairman Orinda G. Giannini, reminding the members of the very important project the Grand Parlor is undertaking this year in reconstructing the Mission Soledad. This Mission which was the 13th Mission established in California is the last Mission remaining to be restored. It is estimated that the cost of reconstruction will be approximately $30,000. The Grand Parlor has set aside $5000 from its special fund, and the remainder will be secured in the form of memorial gifts and voluntary contributions from the individual members of the parlors throughout the State. This is in keeping with one of the primary objects of the order which is the preservation and restoration of Historical landmarks of the state's colorful past.

Welfare Chairman, Laura Sanders, reported that six baskets were filled at Christmas giving two families a two weeks' supply of groceries.

Invitations were received to attend the following Installations: Cien Anos Parlor, Masonic Temple Norwalk, January 10; Ramona Parlor Native Sons, Merchants Hall, Los Angeles, January 12; and Pasadena Parlor Native Daughters, Altadena Masonic Temple, January 19. A large delegation is planning to visit each of these installations from the local parlor.

Announcement was made of the organization of a Choral Group and Musical Group within the local parlor.

James Lick Parlor Honors President Mildred Simpson

With the close of the Centennial years, officers and members of James Lick Parlor No. 220, NDGW, San Francisco, gathered at their annual Christmas party to honor their president for the past 12 months, Mildred Simpson.

During her term of office President Simpson had surprised those present at almost every meeting by serving home-made cake and coffee. The first meeting in July she was hostess to a Fourth of July party, when she surprised all when they entered the lodge hall to see the tables waiting, each decorated with flags, drums, etc.

The September 9th parade unit of the parlor made a wonderful appearance because the president made more than 5000 California poppies to cover her car carrying the parlor flags. The anniversary dinner of the parlor was a huge success due to her untiring efforts to contact all members asking them to attend and bring their friends.

For many years to come the gifts of a large drip coffee maker, plastic cups and saucers, together with three nine-foot table cloths, will be a reminder of James Lick Parlor No. 220, NDGW, to Mildred Simpson, president during 1950, the members of the parlor taking this means of saying to her; "Mildred, we think you are tops."

Stockton Native Daughters Active In Welfare Work

Stockton Parlor No. 256, NDGW, in conjunction with their Christmas party also honored the drill team of the parlor, with President Mrs. Angelo Burlando presiding over the meeting.

Mrs. Al Fairfield, chairman of the Veterans committee, announced that the parlor has adopted a new veteran named Carl Stiner. The members held a silver march, the proceeds being used to buy him a gift for Christmas.

Welfare, chairman, Mrs. Al Schwall, also announced that the parlor planned to make up two Christmas baskets to be given to two needy families.

Election of officers for the coming term was held with Mrs. George Flood being named president. Others to serve with her are: Mrs. Al Schwall, 1st vice-president; Miss Dorothy Francescone, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Albert Bisagno, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. Lee Baker, recording secretary; Mrs. Leo Johnson, financial secretary; Mrs. Tony Wirth, treasurer; Mrs. Anthony Leccardi, marshal; Mrs. Al Fairfield, Mrs. Noman Schultz, Mrs. Louis Starin, trustees; Mrs. Will Miller, organist; Carol Kinser, inside sentinel; Mrs. Primo Ried, outside sentinel.

A Christmas skit was put on by some of the members, followed by Santa Claus and his reindeer, who presented each member present with a gift.

Mrs. Jack Dentoni was chairman of the entertainment and refreshments for the evening.

Grand Presidents' Ball At Biltmore Is Cancelled

Due to present world conditions the Grand Presidents' Ball, originally scheduled for Saturday evening, January 20, at the Biltmore Hotel, was called off by those in charge. As both Orders are basically patriotic organizations, it was deemed inappropriate to schedule such an affair as this in these hazardous times.

Native Daughters Plan For Membership Contest

The Extension of the Order Committee hopes that when Grand President Anna I. Schreback reaches the end of the Rainbow in June, 1951, that the "Pot of Gold" will be an overwhelming gain in membership. Therefore, the Committee on Extension of the Order is conducting a MEMBERSHIP CONTEST and we are urging every member to assume the duty of contacting her personal friends, telling them of the origin of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, explaining its Projects, and inviting them to join.

Here are the prizes to be awarded—we urge the Subordinate Parlor members to study them carefully and then make a concentrated effort to win one of the U. S. Savings Bonds:

Group No. 1—to the Parlor having the largest percentage gain in membership from July 1st, 1950 to May 31st, 1951:

1st Prize	$50.00 U.S. Savings Bond
2nd Prize	50.00 U.S. Savings Bond
3rd Prize	25.00 U.S. Savings Bond

Group No. 2—to the Parlor bringing in the largest number of former members (those who have resigned, withdrawn or been suspended) awards will be given, as follows:

1st Prize	$50.00 U.S. Savings Bond
2nd Prize	25.00 U.S. Savings Bond

Group No. 3—For a SPECIAL MEMBERSHIP DRIVE TO BE HELD DURING THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY, the following will be awarded to the Parlors initiating the largest number of candidates:

2nd Prize	25.00 U.S. Savings Bond

The Presidents of the Subordinate Parlors have been requested to appoint an active Membership Committee and the Chairman of this Committee should confer with the State or District Chairman of Extension of the Order for assistance and suggestions. The Chairman of the Membership Committee must advise the State Chairman not later than June 10, 1951 of the gain in membership by initiation and of those re-affiliating with the Parlor, as prizes will be awarded at Grand Parlor to the three Parlors having the largest percentage gain in membership and to the two Parlors returning the greatest number of former members from July 1st, 1950 to May 31st, 1951. Also the Chairman of the Membership Committee must advise the State Chairman not later than March 10, 1951 of the number of candidates initiated during the month of February, 1951 in order to compete for one of the prizes offered in this group.

The Committee suggests that the Parlors throughout the State sponsor Membership Teas to acquaint personal friends with the work accomplished by the Native Daughters of the Golden West and with the many worthwhile projects sponsored by our Order. Subordinate Parlors are requested to invite Grand Officers, Past Grand Presidents, and State Chairmen, to speak on the Projects of our Order, and to have a program of musical entertainment during the afternoon.

Previous suggestions sent to the Subordinate Parlors have stimulated interest in "increased membership" and the Extension of the Order Committee is grateful for the response and enthusiasm of members throughout the State.

VERA M. THOMPSON,

State Chairman,

Committee on Extension of the Order.

Essay Contest Conducted By Sutter Parlor No. 111

As a fitting climax to the Centennial events in the community, Sutter Parlor No. 111, NDGW, sponsored a California Historical Essay Contest for all Junior High School students (grades 7, 8, 9) in the city of Sacramento.

The contest was conducted through the schools with the help and cooperation of the principals and teachers in much the same way as the annual American Legion "Americanism" contest. The essays were not to exceed 300 words in length and were to be written on any of the following three topics: "My Favorite California Pioneer," "The Significance of Some Event in California History," "California's Hundred Years of Progress."

Three cash prizes were awarded to the three best entries, with the contest closing on November 30, 1950. Nearly 50 entries were received. All marks of identification were replaced with numbers before the essays were submitted to the judges, who were: Past Grand President Henrietta Toothaker, Woodland Parlor No. 90; State Chairman of Education, Margaret Brown, Sutter Parlor No. 111, parlor education chairman; and Frank Christy, Sunset Parlor No. 26, NSGW.

First prize went to Judy Landis, 1301 Weller Way, a 9th grade student at Stanford Junior High School. Her topic was "The Importance of the Gold Rush in California's History."

Second prize was won by Laura Jean Clar, 1681 Park Lane, a 7th grade student at California Junior High School. Her subject was "My Favorite California Pioneer." In this case it happened to be John Clar, her own great grandfather.

Third prize was awarded to Diane Peek, 4501 Parkridge Road, a 9th grade student at California Junior High School, who chose as her topic, "My Favorite California Pioneer, the Prince of Pioneers, John Bidwell."

All of the entries received were very interesting and well written. Sutter Parlor No. 111, NDGW, feels that it has really accomplished something by stimulating the interest of these young people in California's colorful and romantic history. Wilma Guttenberger, Sutter Parlor No. 111, NDGW, was chairman of the California Historical Essay Contest committee.

Postpone Tribute Dinner For Past Grand President

On her own insistence as a patriotic war emergency necessity, the civic tribute dinner in honor of Miss Grace S. Stoerner, planned by Los Angeles Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, has been indefinitely postponed. The dinner had been set for February 1 in the Biltmore Hotel.

Mrs. Jack Stratton, parlor president, and Mrs. Willard Porter, dinner chairman, issued a joint statement that the affair was abandoned at Miss Stoerner's specific request.

Miss Stoerner asked for the postponement, the statement said, because she felt dispensible civic affairs should be shelved at this time of national emergency. She urged instead that all members of the NDGW, oldest women's patriotic organization in California, concentrate efforts and time on projects to help the United States win this war.

The dinner would have paid tribute to Miss Stoerner's record of more than 30 years as a civic leader. During that time she has been particularly active in women's club affairs.

Alturas Parlor Celebrates Forty-third Anniversary

Alturas Parlor No. 159, NDGW, Modoc county, celebrated its 43rd anniversary in January with a southern dinner prepared and served by the 1950 corps of officers.

Only one charter member was able to be present and was honored with a gift from the parlor. Gifts were also sent to the few remaining charter members of the parlor who were unable to be present.

At the business session new officers for the term were installed by Supervising District Deputy Grand President Ruth Asher.

The parlor received a report from its history and landmarks committee, which is arranging for bronze plaques to mark the two new county medical centers to be dedicated by Alturas Parlor in the near future.

Another site to be marked and dedicated soon is that of a fountain erected where once was a pioneer watering trough on the highway over Cedar Pass.

-RESOLUTIONS-

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY

To the Officers and Members of Las Juntas Parlor No. 1, N.D.G.W.

In Memoriam—Sister Margaret McMahon Bartlett.

Another cherished sister has been called from our midst and our hearts are sad at the passing. Sister Margaret Bartlett was a woman of outstanding character, possessing all the attributes of a noble woman. We miss her sympathy from our ranks and extend to her sorrowing family our deepest sympathy.

*We cannot say, we must not say
 That she is dead, but just away
 With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand.*

*She has wandered into an unknown land
 And left us dreaming how very fair
 It must be, since she lingers there.*

We hereby request that a copy of these resolutions be sent the family, a copy sent the Grizzly Bear magazine for publication, and a copy spread upon the minutes of Las Juntas Parlor.

Respectfully submitted,
 KATHERINE LORD,
 ALTHEA PEARL, Committee.

Some Tips On Publicity

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

Large corporations and organizations spend millions of dollars every year through their publicity departments to keep the public informed of what they are doing and building up their prestige throughout the state and nation.

If this is so important to them, then it follows that publicity is of great value in not only building the Orders of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, but in focusing public attention on what we are doing, thus strengthening our power to do a better job in the communities in which the various parlors serve.

Because of the very fact that there are many organizations meeting each day in the larger cities, a routine meeting of a parlor ceases to be news. It is only when an event sponsored by the Orders, such as a public marking, becomes of importance to the entire city, that a parlor stands much chance of getting a story in the metropolitan press.

But a large percentage of our parlors are located in towns and cities served by the smaller dailies and weeklies. Here is a field where most every activity of the parlor is news, if some responsible person will follow a few simple rules in getting the story to the editor.

The Native Daughters in most instances have done well in this. Perhaps, it is because most Native Daughter parlor activities come under the heading of Society News. As a general rule, every paper, whether large or small, employs a woman society editor, as this type of news requires a different style and flourish of write-up from the regular news of the day, a style that is difficult for a mere man to cope with. Then, too, there is apt to be a closer relationship between the society editor of a paper and the Native Daughters, because she is constantly on the look-out for society items to fill her columns. She keeps a list of the meeting dates of the various organizations and calls the publicity chairman the following morning after the meeting.

With the exception of a few instances, we must admit that the Native Sons haven't done so well in getting their news into the papers. Busy with a full days work, it is often difficult to get someone in the parlor with sufficient time to take care of this important matter.

The suggestions in this article are intended to help parlors, particularly of the Native Sons, in getting stories of their activities into the smaller dailies and weeklies of the state.

1. Get your story in as early as possible. Papers have rigid deadlines to meet. For instance, if a meeting occurs on Monday evening, the story should be in the editor's hands by 8:15 Tuesday morning in the case of the small daily, and by Tuesday evening in the case of a weekly. A Tuesday night meeting story should be in the weekly editor's hands as early as Wednesday as possible. In most cases weekly papers are printed on Thursday with a Friday date line. Therefore it is difficult to get a story of an event occurring on Wednesday night or Thursday in that week's paper unless it is written in advance. We can not stress too strongly the necessity of getting your story in as early as possible.

2. If at all possible, typewrite your story on one side of the paper, double spaced, paying particular attention to the correct spelling of names and places, giving titles of persons concerned. In the case of visitors, give the town that they are from. Don't worry too much about your composition. Just tell the story in plain simple language. The editor will put it in shape for you.

3. In this particular field most parlor events and meetings are of news value and generally good for two stories. The first should be written well in advance of the event and reach the editor in plenty of time prior to publication date. In this, tell where and when the meeting is to occur, the outstanding part of the meeting as: "Ralph Beatty of Anaheim will be installed as president of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, Native Sons of the Golden West, at 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening, January 9, at the Knights of Columbus hall, 213 East Center street, Anaheim. District Deputy Albert McMillen of Santa Ana Parlor, will be the installing officer."

Then go on to tell who the retiring president is, followed by the rest of the new officers to be installed.

After the meeting give another story of what occurred.

4. A parlor marking or similar civic event will often make the front pages of the small daily or weekly, if properly handled, as it is really big news to the average community. In this case it is well to contact the editor well in advance, as he will want to help you in proper publicity of this event. Also, he may have facilities for getting pictures. Sometimes, these pictures have to be taken in advance of the actual marking as few small dailies and weeklies have engraving departments and have to send to the larger cities for their cuts. In any event, work in close cooperation with your editor, as it will result in valuable publicity for your parlor.

As an example, if you will pardon the personal reference: Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW and Grace Parlor No. 242, NDGW, marked the Mother Colony House Pioneer Memorial last summer in cooperation with the California Centennials Commission. This resulted in many columns of reading matter and at least a dozen pictures in the local and county press, as well as on the country pages of the metropolitan dailies.

As a crowning climax, when the Anaheim Daily Bulletin published the first of January a full page of pictures of the year's outstanding events in Anaheim the Mother Colony marking was included.

All this came from the committee's working in close cooperation with the various papers concerned, calling their representatives in on the early committee meetings and seeing that they got the information desired.

Appoint some responsible member in your parlor to take care of press relations and we are sure that you will be well pleased with the results. When the community as a whole, knows that you have a live parlor that is accomplishing things, you will have a chance to build up your membership and become an even greater power for good in your area.

HOME-TOWN PRINTERS

Our Cover

Millions of blossoming trees throughout California at this season of the year proclaim that spring is here. Cherry, Almond, peach and apricot lend color to the scene wherever you go, while in the citrus growing sections of the state there is the sweet, heady scent of orange blossoms to quicken the pulse. These flowering orchards, set against the background of green hills, present California at one of its most beautiful seasons of the year.

Our cover this month, through courtesy of the Redwood Empire Association, presents Mount St. Helena at the southern end of Lake county, pictured in a frame of prune blossoms. The mountain is famous as the home of Robert Louis Stevenson who camped on its slopes over sixty years ago and regained his health while writing his "Silverado Squatters."

W. S. Borba, secretary of Sebastopol Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West and Glenn McNeill, president of the Sebastopol Grammar School board of trustees, are shown holding the dedication plaque which figured in the formal dedication of the new Pine Crest Elementary School by Grand Officers of the Native Sons, Sunday afternoon, January 28.

Grand Officers Dedicate New Sebastopol School

Sebastopol's newest public edifice, the $205,000 Pine Crest Elementary school, was officially dedicated to "truth, liberty and toleration" Sunday afternoon, January 28, by Grand Officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West in well attended ceremonies at the school.

Mrs. Bruce Kirkpatrick of the American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Etta Urton of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary; and W. S. Borba of Sebastopol Parlor, Native Sons, presented flags to the school.

The ritual attending the placing of the plaque by the Grand Officers drew the closest attention of the onlookers.

Using silver plated shovels and trowels, the Grand Officers followed the directions of Grand President Edward J. Wren, in preparing the mixture into which the plaque was set.

"Whence comes this cement?" the Grand President asked one of his aides.

"This cement comes from Modoc county, Riverside county . . . and other places in our state where the skill of man has been used to crush the rock for cement," an officer answered.

The same procedure obtained for the water, which came from the state's old Spanish missions, and the soil, which typified the land of California "untouched by man."

The bronze plaque which was placed in concrete at the entrance of the building, says: "This Building Dedicated to Truth—Liberty—Toleration by the Native Sons of the Golden West, January 28, 1951."

Bob O'Neill, second vice-president of Sebastopol Parlor, assisted W. S. Borba, recording secretary, in the arrangements and during the ceremony.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Alturas Parlor No. 159, NDGW, has adopted a plan whereby a committee is appointed each month to provide some form of entertainment for the meeting night and to also sponsor some fund raising project for the month. At the first meeting of the new year the committee auctioned off a basket of groceries, thus adding $15 to the parlor's funds. Plans have also been laid for the purchase and filling of a cedar chest to be auctioned off next autumn at the county fair.

On February 26, Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW, San Francisco, initiated four new members. President Audry Kane appointed Beatrice Nishkian chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the official visit of Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch. Vice-president Elvera Lind is preparing Easter gifts to surprise the children of San Francisco hospital.

At their January 22 meeting Tierra del Rey Parlor No. 300, NDGW, Hermosa Beach, had the pleasure of having Florence Dodson Schoneman as guest of honor and speaker of the evening at a Spanish dinner. Florence, well known throughout the state of California as a gifted speaker, told many interesting and intimate facts about life in this particular area during the early Spanish era. She was escorted to the meeting by Grand Trustee Phyllis Hirst. The dinner was sponsored by the parlor's history and landmarks committee, under the supervision of Barbara Carter, history and landmarks chairman.

Verdugo Parlor No. 240, NDGW, Glendale, held a theatre party at the Hide Away theatre in Glendale, Saturday, February 10.

Portola Parlor No. 172, NDGW, San Francisco, entertained its members at a George Washington birthday party Tuesday evening, February 30. Dorothy Vitalie was chairman of the committee in charge. Co-chairman was Lorane Wilson. The parlor is also making plans for a bazaar in the fall under the able chairmanship of Bernice Spiller.

Officers of Dolores Parlor No. 169, NDGW, San Francisco, were publicly installed Wednesday evening, January 30, by DGP Bernadette Sullivan of Golden Gate Parlor, assisted by Past Grand President Claire Lindsey and members of Golden Gate Parlor. Winnie Otte is the new president and has already outlined a program of activity which includes service to the veterans, civic participation, Red Cross and Missions restoration. Past Grand President Evelyn I. Carlson was chairman of arrangements for the impressive installation program attended by 120 guests.

A grand time was had by the 70 people who attended the New Year's party and hi-jinks of Aloha Parlor No. 106, NDGW, Oakland, Tuesday evening, January 23, with the banquet hall decorated to resemble an old-fashioned barn dance. Co-chairmen Rose Bardin and Myrtle Ransom were in charge of refreshments and Leona Suesman, entertainment. Father Michael O'Brien of St. Joseph's Center for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing was guest of honor, giving an interesting talk on the work of the center.

The veterans committee, Hazel Andrews, chairman, has been busy this term. Before Christmas they went down to the Veterans hospital at Livermore and decorated the big tree and hall. While there, Hazel Andrews, Sallie R. Thaler and Eleanor Kamb visited the parlor's adopted buddy, John Laurie, presenting him with gifts from the parlor. Hazel Andrews, Evelyn Perry and President Alice Abernethy also helped wrap Christmas packages at the Veterans headquarters in Oakland. Two needy veteran families and one from Aloha were given heavily laden baskets at Christmas time. Every Monday night is "Aloha Night" at the Oak Knoll Naval hospital.

On Tuesday, February 13, Aloha Parlor celebrated Lincoln's birthday and Valentine's day, with Americanism chairman, Effie Marshall presenting a short program in honor of Lincoln. Elaine Lunardi and Adrienne Mitchell were in charge of refreshments. Aloha also held its annual rummage sale Saturday, February 10, at the I.D.E.S. hall, Hayward, with Elsie Nunes in charge of the successful affair.

Thirty-five members of Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW, gathered on the slope high above the archery range in Savage Canyon Saturday afternoon, February 17, for the first poppy planting of the parlor. The Native Daughters were welcomed by City of Whittier Park Superintendent Walter Barrows. The planting was preceded by a box luncheon in Penn park.

Twenty members of Fruitvale Jr. Unit No. 22, NDGW, attended the joint installation of mother parlor, Fruitvale No. 177 and Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, NSGW, Friday evening, January 12.

New officers of Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112 NDGW, Etna, were recently installed by Mrs. Reta Campbell, DGP, assisted by Mrs. Bernice Smith. Dorothy Hayden is the new president, while Mary G. Roff is the retiring. The parlor also gave a dance Christmas night in the Municipal hall, which was a great success both socially and financially.

Cleta B. McCord is the new president of Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW. On March 14 the welfare committee of the parlor will sponsor a radio broadcast.

The supervising deputy grand president and the deputy grand presidents of Alameda county sponsored a breakfast at the Native Daughter home, Sunday morning, February 11. Buena Vista Parlor Enjoys Rare Privilege

Buena Vista Parlor, NDGW, San Francisco had the unique privilege recently of initiating twin sisters, Mrs. Ella Smith, whose daughter, Ada Belle Smith, is a member of Buena Vista and Mrs. Nellie Tubbs, whose son, George F. Tubbs, is a member of Los Positas Parlor, NSGW, Livermore.

Not that the initiation of twins may be considered unique, but when those twins wait until their 90th birthday to affiliate with the Order, it provided occasion for comment. They have Petaluma as their place of birth, and the year, it is a privilege to mention, was 1860.

That they would be securely attached to the Order as well as recognized as members thereof, George Tubbs provided Native Daughter emblematic pins, which were presented by Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, whose presence in San Francisco at the time was most opportune.

Members of Califia Parlor Fete Families And Friends

Califia Parlor No. 22, Sacramento, Native Daughters of the Golden West met February 13th, with Virginia Fancher, president, presiding.

Guests of the evening were the families and sweethearts of the members, who were entertained by the following members: pantomimes by Genevieve McPoil, Catherine Kelly, and Goldy Ward; vocal selections by Sylvia Moran, accompanied by Irma Daggett; and dance specialties by Catherine Santich and Evelyn Martinez, which was followed by Bingo games. Mary Huston, chairman of entertainment arranged the program.

The banquet room was appropriately decorated with Valentines for the occasion by Josephine Oliveri and Marion Wills, co-chairmen of decorations.

Hertha Westly and Catherine Kelly, co-chairmen of refreshments served refreshments at the close of the evening.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Los Angeles Parlor To Celebrate 50th Birthday

Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch and her entire corps of active grand officers are slated to be special guests Saturday night, April 21, when Los Angeles Parlor No. 174, NDGW, observes its 50th anniversary in Elks' Temple, Sixth and Parkview Streets, Los Angeles. The occasion also will mark the official visit of Miss Schiebusch to L. A. Parlor.

Members of all parlors in the State have been invited to attend the brilliant golden anniversary ceremonies, announces Miss Grace S. Stoermer, chairman of the event. She expects more than 30 besides the special honored guests.

Although members of Southland parlors will be in the majority, Miss Stoermer says many from the North already have indicated to Miss Schiebusch, they will attend.

The evening's program will begin with a dinner at 6:45 p. m. in the Elks' ballroom, followed by a colorful program in the huge second-floor ritual room. The beautiful NDGW ritual ceremony and initiation of new members will end the evening's program. Mrs. Jack Stratton, L. A. Parlor president, states an effort is being made to initiate 50 in keeping with the 50th anniversary theme.

Governor and Mrs. Earl Warren, Mayor and Mrs. Fletcher Bowron and several others have been invited as special honored guests, including Leonard Schwacofer, editor of the "Grizzly Bear," and Mrs. Schwacofer. All will be asked to remain for the ritual room program which will be highlighted by a colorful entrance march of grand officers and L. A. Parlor officers. Non-members will depart, however, just before the ritual.

The affair will mark, it is said, the first meeting of all NDGW grand officers in the Southland during the last ten years, the last occasion being the Grand Parlor Sessions held at Los Angeles in 1941. Southland parlor members will have the opportunity to meet and welcome the grand officer corps at a reception following the ritual meeting.

Miss Stoermer urges those who plan attending the dinner to send reservations now to Mrs. Thelma Meek, 6367 Church Street, Los Angeles 42. Reservations will be taken at approximately $3.50, Miss Stoermer said. Mrs. Meek will make known the exact price as soon as the figure is known by communicating with those who signify they will attend.

Plans For Future Native Daughter Work Given By Grand President

Greater support of this country's struggle against communism, increased opportunities for smaller parlors, and organization of eight new parlors of the order.

These three objectives, along with other details, have been announced by Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand President of the statewide Native Daughters of the Golden West, as outstanding features of her program for the rest of her term in office.

Her regime as head of the order will terminate in June at Grand Parlor sessions slated to be held in Pasadena. Approximately 1000 California-born women will attend this state convention as delegates or visitors from NDGW parlors all over the state. Meetings are scheduled to be held in Pasadena Civic Auditorium and the Huntington Hotel. Miss Grace S. Stoermer is general chairman of the convention.

Rapid progress, Miss Schiebusch said, is being made in forming new parlors at Pomona, Barstow, La Jolla and Chula Vista. Already, a new parlor has been organized at El Cerrito, Alameda county. Other parlor organization is proceeding at Gilroy, Fairfield, Castro Valley and LaFayette, all four in Northern California. Formation of these eight new parlors will bring the total to 218 NDGW parlors.

The Grand President announced that Mrs. Alphonso Fages, of Pomona, who is organizing the parlor at Pomona, expects to have the new unit instituted April 23. Mrs. Walter Hiskey of Santa Ana, is organizing the parlor at Barstow, date for institution not set; Mrs. Essie Haubert of San Diego, is busy forming the parlor at Chula Vista, which will be instituted March 30, and Mrs. Lester Wittenberg, also of San Diego, is in charge of organization of La Jolla parlor, to be instituted March 31.

Miss Dorothy Salas of Vendome Parlor of San Jose is organizing the new parlor at Gilroy; Miss Doris Gerrish of Sacramento, NDGW grand trustee, is forming the Fairfield unit; Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler of Oakland, grand secretary, the LaFayette parlor, and Dorothy Jordan is organizing the parlor at Castro.

Before starting north last month on another visit to more parlors throughout the State, Miss Schiebusch outlined plans for the balance of her term. She said she already had traveled 12,000 miles in making visits to 92 NDGW parlors since last July, and expects to add 12,000 more miles to the total before next June. She visits as many individual parlors as possible, or in joint groups of three or more.

These visits, she said, have convinced her that the smaller parlors—particularly those in remote parts of the state—are greatly in need of activities and associations which will draw them closer to the statewide work of the organization.

"These smaller parlors," she said, "earnestly desire closer contact with other units. Their members want to widen their acquaintanceships with parlors of the area, and they want wider participation in grand parlor projects.

"Accordingly, I will propose at the June sessions in Pasadena that each of our 16 grand officers be named to supervise a well defined section of the state. Their responsibility will be to see that conferences are frequently held in their areas, to afford opportunity for an exchange of ideas, strengthening of friendships and greater cooperative effort.

"Meetings of this type should be held in the larger cities and heavily populated suburban areas, too. They will stimulate interest and enthusiasm, bring about social gatherings and important discussions for the general welfare of the order."

Already, Miss Schiebusch said, every parlor in the NDGW has turned its attention to projects designed to aid the United States in winning the war and sparing lives of service men.

"Our members are banking their blood," she said. "They are learning first aid, making necessary articles for hospitalized veterans, volunteering for canteen work and serving as hostesses in Army and Navy recreational centers.

"As in the previous war, it is certain many of our younger members will join the services."

Miss Schiebusch declared herself deeply interested in moves, now in progress, to urge that outstanding women be appointed to the higher state and national posts.

"Women should endorse and otherwise boost women of known and established qualifications for office," she said. "In California are many exceptionally intelligent women, with deeply implanted love of community, state and country.

"These are the ones, who seldom seek honors, who should be drafted to serve in the present time of great need. A principle of the Native Daughters of the Golden West is devotion to our country's flag.

"No greater service could be rendered by our organization than solidly to support the right kind of women for the jobs which so urgently need them."

Miss Schiebusch said her visits about the state have convinced her outlying communities are more interested in preservation of historical landmarks than the larger cities.

"I fully support this maintenance of the reminders of our state's historic past," she said. "At the same time I am not unmindful that landmarks so located that they inhibit progress regrettably may have to be removed."

State Song Resolution Now Before State Legislature

The current session of the State Legislature promises the fulfillment of a long cherished dream of Senaida Sullivan, Grand Organist of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and the members of Beverly Hills Parlor No. 287, and the culmination of two years of diligent labor on the part of the group toward securing the state endorsement of "I Love You, California."

In March of 1949, Mrs. Sullivan (then State Chairman of Music) became aware that our Golden State has an official bird (The California Valley Quail); an Official State fish, (The Golden Trout) and of course, the Golden Poppy as the official state flower and the Redwood Tree as the official state tree; we have our California colors, blue and gold, but as yet, no official state song.

She immediately brought in a resolution to Beverly Hills and moved its adoption. The motion was seconded by Rosemary Connor and was unanimously adopted by the parlor on March 30, 1949; the Grand Parlor added its official endorsement in special session on April 4, 1949. It was immediately transmitted to the State Legislature through Senator Jack B. Tenney and after two years of correspondence pro and con, the measure has at last been placed in the form of a Senate concurrent resolution and will come up before this session of the Legislature.

All subordinate Parlors and individual Parlor members of the Native Daughters and Native Sons throughout the State are urgently requested to contact their legislators (State Senators and Assemblymen) urging their support of "Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 29."

Much help has been promised Beverly Hills Parlor. Their local assemblyman Charles W. Lyons has pledged his efforts toward the passage of the measure. The Hearst newspaper lobbyists are working on it in Sacramento; and inasmuch as all proceeds from the song go directly to Shrine Charities, the various Shrine groups throughout the State are supporting it.

The beautiful "I Love You, California" was written by Mr. F. B. Silverwood, founder of "Silverwood's" one of Los Angeles' oldest stores. While in New York on a business trip in 1912 or 1913, he heard "Maryland, My Maryland" and was inspired to write a tribute to his adopted state. Enroute home on the train the words were written and upon his arrival he contacted Mr. A. F. Frankenstein of the Orpheum Theatre who wrote the music; the song was copyrighted in 1913.

It was brought to the attention of MARY GARDEN who stopped a performance of Grand Opera to sing this song on March 12, 1914 (believed to have been in Los Angeles) and it was immediately proved popular. It was sung throughout the nation and 125,000 copies were sold within the first three months after publication, the royalties being sent to the Dayton flood sufferers. It was sung as the official state song (although never officially adopted) at the ensuing Shrine convention at Dallas, Texas; at the national conventions of the Advertising club, Knights Templar, Christian Endeavor, etc., etc. It was sung on the first ship to pass through the Panama canal, and was the official song of the San Diego and San Francisco expositions.

Mr. Silverwood was born in Noridge, Canada, and died March 12, 1924; all of his family are also deceased, and all royalties from the song have always been paid to charities.

Mr. A. F. Frankenstein, the composer, was born in Chicago, March 7, 1873 and resided in California from 1898.

It is the hope of Mrs. Sullivan, and the members of Beverly Hills Parlor, that every Native Daughter and Native Son in the state will get behind this measure and help to insure its passage.

THE OLD ARGUELLO ADOBE

This sad ruin of one of California's once great Spanish homes, stares out over San Diego Bay with sightless eyes, just above the village of Palm City.

Once it was the fine nine room casa of Santiago E. Arguello and family. Built some time before 1846, it was the seat of La Punta Rancho, which with other vast land holdings along both sides of the International border had been given the Arguello family for services to the Mexican Republic, before the Americans came. When the Americans took over Southern California in 1846, it was the only permanent habitation between old San Diego and the Mexican border.

The Arguellos, of whom there were many, were prominent in all political affairs of Mexican California and in the early days of American California. Many of their descendants still honor their memory. —

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

The cornerstone of the San Francisco Stock and Exchange Board building was laid April 27, 1876, with Colonel W. H. L. Barnes as orator. A seat in the stock board sold this month for $40,000.

There was quite a turore in silver speculation in San Francisco during the month. Rumors that silver trade-dollars were being bought up caused violent fluctuations in their value.

A Republican party state convention was held at Sacramento April 26 to select five delegates to the national convention to be held in June to nominate a presidential ticket. The nomination of James G. Blaine for president was favored.

Showers fell on several different days during the month and brought the season's rainfall to over twenty inches in the valleys of the state.

A crop report, published April 21, showed that in nearly every county in the state the grain crop never looked better and that fruit also promised well.

Oranges in Los Angeles were selling at $70 per thousand.

John S. Harris, a sheepman who had a range in San Benito county near Hollister, left for Asia Minor in June, 1875 to purchase and bring to California the best strain of angora goat he could find. He went to Tibet, via China, and returned this month by ship to Baltimore and rail from there to California with twelve angoras. They cost him $7,000 to import.

A shipment of banana plants were received by steamer from Central America, to be planted as an experiment in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

An artesian well in Los Angeles county, bored to the depth of 212 feet, struck pine and redwood logs at that depth and pieces of them were brought to the surface.

Placer county pioneers held a reunion at Badger's park, near Oakland, April 20. General Jo. Hamilton was the orator and Albert Hart the poet of the day.

Don Pedro, emperor of Brazil, visited the state April 25. At his request he was treated as a private citizen and no functions in his honor were given by the public.

The San Francisco street car line raised its fare to 6 cents. This caused a line of busses to begin operation on Market and Mission streets, carry passengers for 5 cents and doing a big business.

The new Catholic cathedral was dedicated in Los Angeles April 30. Archbishop Alemany officiated with a coterie of bishops and priests from different parts of the state. A large procession was formed at the plaza, and the ceremonies lasted nearly all day. A $6,000 organ was given to the cathedral.

April 8 a fire in the snowsheds of the Central Pacific near Emigrant Gap, Placer county, burned 700 feet of sheds and several thousand cords of wood.

In tunnel 5 near Tehachapi, Kern county, on the Southern Pacific, constructing south, a blast on April 2 that had failed to promptly explode went off after the men had resumed work. It killed two white men and fifteen Chinamen.

Los Angeles boys were shocking the neighborhood of Second and Olive streets in that city by bathing, naked, in a pond there. Their antics on the bank and in the water were described scandalous.

An immigrant went into a restaurant in Sacramento, and, telling the proprietor he had but 25 cents, asked to be supplied hot cakes and a cup of coffee to that amount. He sat down at a table and proceeded to butter his hot cakes when he was served. A roll of butter, as was customary, was placed on the table and he proceeded to cut off a chunk. Inserting his knife, it struck a hard substance in the center of the roll. This, upon investigation, proved to be a $40-piece. He at once ordered ham and eggs added to his previous order.

Natives Play Prominent Part In Los Banos Celebration

Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West from all over California look forward to the sixty-first annual "It's May Day in Los Banos" celebration set for May 3rd through May 6th in Los Banos.

Each year the grand officers, drill teams, drum and bugle corps, floats and decorated cars of the Native Sons and Daughters play a prominent part in the success of the spectacular Civic, Floral and Historical Parade the final day of the festival. This year at 10:30 A.M. Sunday, May 6th.

This famous fiesta, originated by Henry Miller, the great pioneer cattle king, has grown through the years until now it attracts some 60,000 persons for the four days. For almost ten years, from 1938 to 1947, the Native Sons sponsored the festival until it became such a huge undertaking a community-wide association was incorporated to manage the fete. Many Native Sons are on the board of directors today.

This year's program includes the Merced County Spring Fair and Livestock Show, the queen's dinner and entertainment May 3rd, a folk and square dance fiesta on May 4th, a kiddies parade and dance May 5th, the big civic parade, chuck wagon dinner, wild western rodeo and dance on May 6th, with a carnival and special features all four days.

San Diego Has Much To Interest Native Son Delegates

By

PHILIP S. RUSH, Publisher, The Southern California Rancher

To the hundreds of Native Sons of the Golden West who will attend the Grand Parlor meeting in San Diego, May 21-24, 1951, there is offered an opportunity to visit and see for themselves the place where history was first made on the Pacific Coast of the United States. Scarcely a chapter in the early story of California can be related without mention of San Diego and its environs, and scattered throughout the local area are numerous reminders of the days of the Dons.

Into San Diego harbor in September, 1542 (just 50 years after Columbus discovered the West Indies) crept the frail vessels of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, bearing the first white men to set foot on the soil of the present state of California. (This statement may be challenged, since Hernando de Alarcon and his two ships forming a sea borne support for Francisco Vasquez Coronado, who was searching for the Seven Cities of Cibola, worked their way up the Colorado river to the mouth of the Gila river in 1540, and it is possible that some of Alarcon's men landed on the California side of the Colorado. However, there is no positive corroboration of this supposition.)

So far as is known, no others visited San Diego harbor until November 1602 when the ships of Sebastian Vizcaino entered the Bay and he gave it its present name. Both of these landings were made near the present Ballast Point Light House, on Point Loma. Near here, at La Playa, many years later were the Boston hide houses, where the California cattle hides were gathered and dried before being shipped around the Horn in the old wind jammers.

The next 165 years is a blank in the story of San Diego. The Manilla galleons made annual trips to the Spice Islands and a few adventurers and explorers sailed up the California coast, but if any entered San Diego Bay they left no record to prove it. Perhaps, sometime, in the dusty archives of Madrid, Seville, or Mexico City, this interval may be filled in from records now unknown, for it seems very strange that no vessel stopped here in 165 years, when the harbor had been designated on early maps as safe from storms and a place where water and wood could be obtained.

In the spring of 1769 two caravans wended their way up the long rocky peninsula of Baja California, and three Spanish ships started up the west coast of Mexico, with soldiers, padres and settlers under order to found pueblos and missions at San Diego and Monterey. They brought herds of livestock, seeds, primitive farm tools, food supplies, trinkets for the natives and church paraphernalia. One ship was lost at sea and never heard from. The other two and the land parties reached San Diego Bay after great difficulties. The leaders of these expeditions were Gaspar de Portola (California's first Governor), Capt. Fernando Rivera y Moncada, Fra Junipero Serra and Fra Juan Crespi.

The first rude shacks built along the San Diego river were soon replaced by adobe huts and earthwork fortifications, at the Indian village of Cosoy, above the river on what is now known as Presidio hill. Here under the shadow of the Junipero Serra Museum which is filled with relics of the days that are no more, a cross designates the site of the first permanent settlement on the Pacific coast of the United States, little grass covered mounds marking the outlines of the first adobe houses of soldiers and padres.

July 16, 1769 San Diego Mission was officially dedicated, but Gov. Portola was in so great haste to carry out his instructions and found another settlement on Monterey Bay that he and some followers, including Fra. Crespi, started overland for the northern post two days before. Six months later, they arrived back in San Diego, having failed to locate Monterey Bay, but accidentally discovering the great inland sea of San Francisco Bay, never before seen by white men. After recuperating from their arduous journey they again started north, and on this second trek found Monterey Bay, which they previously had reached but had not recognized.

San Diego's first presidio and mission suffered such great privations and hostilities from the natives that but for the courage of Fra

Serra and the timely arrival of a supply ship, the site would have been abandoned in 1770. Efforts to grow food stuff along the river and on Presidio Hill were almost a complete failure, and the padres complained that the military interfered with their ecclesiastical efforts—which was no doubt true. So in 1774 and 1775 a new San Diego Mission was started about six miles up the river, at a pleasant fertile inland spot. Here, with almost no protection, the Mission became easy prey for the natives, who attacked and burned the buildings, stole the church ornaments, and killed several persons, on the night of November 4, 1775. Two years later the church was rebuilt on the charred ruins of the first mission, but the new buildings were not completed until 1784, and the final dedication was in 1813. Some time before 1816 a dam was built across the river, and a flume carried life giving waters to the Mission gardens—the first irrigation project in this vicinity. After the secularization, in the 1830's, the property passed to private hands, and when the Mormon Battalion reached San Diego in 1847 it was quartered there. The buildings fell into almost complete ruin, but they have now been restored into a beautiful church open to visitors, and a few miles up the river may be seen the remains of the old dam, which have defied the floods of nearly a century and a half, and still impound a small pool.

San Diego, a peaceful little village, grew very slowly for many years, and passed from Spanish to Mexican rule without excitement. Occasionally a ship put into the harbor ostensibly for supplies, but in actuality as a smuggler or poacher, for the inhabitants wanted New England merchandise, and the Boston ship captains wanted hides and otter skins. In 1825 Gov. Jose Maria Echeandia made the village his capital, claiming he could not endure the climate of Monterey; but it is said that in reality he sought to be near the beautiful Josefa Carrillo, whose unrequited love smote him sorely.

From the earliest times, the padres and soldiers had cattle and endeavored to raise some grain and food. One of the first ranchos of California was El Rancho del Rey (where Chula Vista and National City now are), which was set aside by the Spanish crown in 1795 for presidial grazing grounds, as distinguished from those of the padres around San Diego and San Luis Rey missions. There were no true Spanish crown grants to individuals in San Diego county, but the Dominguez and Los Nietos grants in Los Angeles and Orange counties were made to former soldiers of the San Diego presidio. The first individual Mexican land grant in San Diego county was made to Francis Maria Ruiz in 1823, known as Penasquitas Rancho, extending from east of La Jolla to near Poway. The acreage is still intact, and it is still a cattle ranch. Ruins of the old adobe ranch house give mute evidence of its one time splendor.

The aristocracy of the Southland lived in San Diego—the tiny adobe village at the foot of Presidio Hill—the Carrillos, Arguellos, Bandinis, Pedroarenas, Picos, Osunas, Estudillos, Alvarados, and others, and several of their homes still stand in Old Town (now called North San Diego) near the old Spanish-Mexican plaza, where the American flag was raised in 1846.

In addition to their homes in the village, which numbered only about 300 population at the time of the American occupation, most of these first citizens had vast land grants bestowed upon them for political services or as personal favors by the various Mexican governors.

The Carrillos owned all of the present sites of Coronado and North Island; the Arguellos had tremendous holdings along the International border, around the old mission and in northern California. The ruins of their once spacious homes at La Punta and Caliente still stand. Pio Pico received the grant to Jamul Rancho in 1829, and (restored) his home is now the residence of George Daley and center of a 3,000 acre cattle ranch. Pico also owned the 200,000 acre Santa Margarita y Las Flores Rancho, now Camp Pendleton, the world's largest U. S. Marine base, and the old ranch house supposed to date from about 1823 is a show place. Juan Osuna, San Diego's first alcalde, owned Rancho San Dieguito, now Rancho Santa Fe; and two of the old Osuna adobes still stand. Bing Crosby restored one of them a few years ago, and it is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Howe. The other is now owned by Frederick O'Brien. Juan Bandini, whose home is to be seen in Old Town, owned the Jurupa land grant, where the beautiful city of Riverside is now. The Marrons owned the Agua Hedionda land grant, and the ruins of their home are on the ranch of Mrs. Ellen Kelly Hall, near Leo Carrillo's Rancho Los Quiotes.

The Pedroarenas owned Rancho El Cajon and San Jacinto Nuevo, and their home in Old Town still stands. Most elaborate of all the Old Town homes was probably that of the Estudillos, who had vast ranch properties. Their home is now known as Ramona's Marriage Place, made famous in Helen Hunt Jackson's book, Ramona, and is a show place visited by hundreds every year.

When the war of 1846 came, San Diego's citizens divided their allegiance, but when the United States flag was raised in the Old Town Plaza July 29, 1846, it was without a skirmish. A few days later, however, the Stars and Stripes were torn down and the Mexican banner again floated on the breeze. But it remained only briefly for the Americans came back and Albert Smith climbed the flag pole and restored the American colors, waving his hat at some Mexican patriots who fired at him from Presidio Hill.

The bloodiest conflict of the Mexican War was the Battle of San Pasqual, fought on the early morning of December 6, 1846, when the Mexican lancers led by Capt. Andreas Pico almost annihilated Gen. S. W. Kearny's little army. This battlefield, about eight miles east of Escondido, is appropriately marked. The old Artego-Stokes ranch house where Kearny and his men stayed the night before the battle, just east of Pomona, is now the home of Mrs. Mary Alkire. The Alvarado home where the Americans sought food and shelter after defeat, still stands on the ranch of I. R. Green, just north of Lake Hodges.

When California was organized as an American state, San Diego county became one of the original 27 subdivisions—at that time extending from the Pacific ocean to the Colorado river, and northeasterly into the Death Valley. Parts of it have been carved into the newer counties of Riverside, San Bernardino, Inyo and Imperial, and an effort now is being made to form Palomar county out of the northern part of San Diego county.

The hungry gold diggers of the Mother lode bought thousands of San Diego cattle, but the great drought of the 1860's almost completely wiped out the great cattle business of the Southland. Land manipulations and incoming American settlers ended the days of the ranchos.

From the earliest times, San Diego county was criss-crossed with trails and roads of the pioneers. El Camino Real started here. De Anza's great trek passed through the Borrego desert. Kearny's Army of the West and the Mormon Battalion crossed the desert into San Diego, marking approximately the route later used by the Butterfield stage coaches. Other primitive roads led from San Diego to Fort Yuma, Julian, Los Angeles and old San Bernardino, and several of the old stage stations remain. San Diego had its own gold boom in the 1870's in the Julian-Banner area, where are still to be found a few ruins of some of the old mines and mills.

San Diego also had its land boom and its railroad building excitement of the 80's, then lapsed into the doldrums of despair, but in the last seventy years it has enjoyed a steady growth, with now and then a short lived boom, accentuated during World War I by great navy activity, and in World War II by the tremendous airplane building activity, which is being duplicated now on account of the War in Korea.

There are hundreds of Native Sons and Daughters throughout San Diego county, and there is lots for visitors to see. The latch string is always out—especially for the descendants of those who founded and fostered the tiny pueblo in the days of its infancy, nearly two centuries ago.

Arrowhead Parlor Holds Pioneer Town Rendezvous

A gala program for members of the Order and their families is being arranged for Saturday and Sunday, April 21-22 with Russ Hayden, member of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, NSGW, and the "big gun" of Pioneertown, on the desert, where the old west lives again, having invited the members to hold a "shindig" at the desert rendezvous on the above dates.

Native Sons

New Assembly Governor Known Throughout State

By FRANK S. CHRISTY

Historian Sunset Parlor No. 26, N.S.G.W.

For the first time in the history of the Past Presidents Association in Sacramento, an incoming governor will also have the honor of being a parlor president during the same period.

Dewey E. Houghton, the newly installed president of Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento, can look back with pride on his activities in the Native Sons for the past twenty years.

He joined Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 in 1931. Going through the chairs and becoming their president in 1936 wasn't enough for the old Deacon, (as he is affectionally known by his host of friends in Sacramento) but was also instrumental in forming the first drum corp in the Southern part of the state.

Business reasons compelled him to leave Southern California and move to the Capitol City, where he transferred to Sunset Parlor, and in no time at all showed the brothers he wasn't the type to sit back and rest on his past laurels, instead he rolled his sleeves up becoming an active brother in an active parlor, going through the chairs again and on several occasions becoming a delegate to Grand Parlor.

Another brother whom Sunset Parlor is proud to number among their ranks is William H. Wood; the out-going governor of General John A. Sutter, Assembly No. 10. He also has the distinction of holding two posts at the same time. That of Jr. Past Governor, and being the newly installed secretary of the Past Presidents Assembly.

J. J. Longshore the out-going secretary of the Sacramento Assembly, is retiring after more than twenty years of faithful service.

During the month of December 1928, Brother Longshore with several other Past Presidents decided to form an Assembly in Sacramento. On January 26th, 1929 after several previous meetings the first Assembly was formed with Bro. Longshore acting as exofficio governor. Several meetings later he was appointed to the secretarial post, a position he has held ever since, with dignity and honor. Sacramento Parlor No. 3, one of the older parlors of our Order, is grateful that one of their own could and did preform his duties so long and faithful.

Truly, it is men like these that make the Native Sons what they are. For the great men of the Order today are the Pioneers of tomorrow.

San Francisco Public Speaking Finals April 13

San Francisco finals of the Native Sons of the Golden West Public Speaking contest will be held in the rooms of the Grizzly Bear Club, 414 Mason Street, San Francisco, on Friday evening, April 13, 1951.

All of San Francisco's high schools have been invited to take part, and most have signified their intention of entering a speaker in the contest.

The San Francisco finals will be under the auspices of the San Francisco Extension of the Order committee and will be conducted by Robert E. Halsing, Grand Trustee, chairman of the San Francisco Public Speaking committee.

Inter-Parlor Committee Plans To Expand Its Activities

At a meeting of the Los Angeles County Inter-Parlor Committee held Monday evening, March 19, at Mario's restaurant, plans were discussed to expand the committee to include parlors in the entire southern district, instead of just Los Angeles county. In former years this group was known as the Southern Counties Inter-parlor Committee, and it was felt that such an organization again would benefit both Orders as a whole.

Tentative date for the second annual California State picnic, sponsored by the Inter-parlor Committee was set for Sunday, September 30, the place to be announced later. Grand Trustee Alfred Peracca is general chairman of this event.

Plans were made for an Inter-Parlor sponsored auto caravan for Sunday, April 29, details to be announced later.

The Inter-Parlor Committee meets the third Monday of each month. Next meeting will be April 16, at the old Earle Mansion, 2425 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, at 8 p.m.

Otto Wismer, past president of Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW, is president of the group. Gertrude Allen is secretary.

SAN DIEGO — MAY 21 - 24

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I appreciate deeply the confidence and trust each of you have placed in me, and I sincerely hope I will be able to serve you in a manner which will be a credit to our Parlor and Order.

It is usually customary for an incoming president, in his message, to transmit the highlights of the program for his term, I am sure the Officers and membership will agree with me, in that programs basically are the ideas, suggestions and desires of the membership.

We all realize that no member, regardless of his status, can ever hope to promote any of our projects to a satisfactory conclusion, unless the membership continues to lend its co-operation and support.

You as Officers and members, without a doubt, are proud that you are a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and a member of San Luis Rey Parlor, and further, this opinion is substantiated by the fact that you have the interest of the Parlor at heart. It seems reasonable to assume then, that you desire for your Parlor to become again, a Parlor in which you might be very proud. These desires can be satisfied quite easily provided, each of us share only a little responsibility and work toward increasing membership and abated lapsation and not leave the total responsibility to only a few.

We must realize that lapsation is a Parlor responsibility, as this is the most essential unit of our organization or Parlor.

Further, we must interest each new member, the mistake is too often made in making a new member feel at home the first night and then forgetting him—not acquainting him with our various activities, any one of which he may participate in. Get him interested in committee work; prepare him to take office in the Parlor. Make our lessons of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity not mere words but a reality.

These things must be done at once, not after it is in all probability too late! Take a look at our membership NOW, and let's do something about it.

Only the members of this Parlor can help the Parlor, and only the members can keep it alive. Don't look to others; it's your responsibility, and only your interest and loyalty will preserve it. So my Brothers, may I solicit your continued help, your ideas, your suggestions and your cooperation.

Please continue to attend the Parlor meetings and join in the various activities. Continue to support your Parlor, come and help plan the various events which are for your pleasure. Continue to help in all projects and both you and the Parlor will benefit in prestige, and you, physically and spiritually.

Fraternally,

LEON W. WILLIAMS, President.

Editor's Note: Ordinarily we do not run the text of speeches given before regular parlor meetings. We just wouldn't have the space. However, a speech by an incoming president, such as that above, is rare, and it is printed in response to popular request as it contains ideas that may be of inspiration to others. It is interesting to note that latest reports from San Luis Rey Parlor are that attendance has increased some 75 percent. A committee is working on charter members of this young parlor who have fallen by the wayside, with all officers and active members pushing for new membership.

San Gabriel Valley Presents Drill Team As Surprise

San Gabriel Valley No. 281, NDGW, presented for the first time their new drill team Thursday evening, March 29, when Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch made her official visit to Verdugo Parlor No. 240, East Los Angeles No. 206, La Reina No. 267, Topanga No. 269, Torrance No. 279, San Gabriel Valley No. 281, Beverly Hills No. 289, Pasadena No. 290, and Whittier No. 298 at Los Angeles.

The Drill Team is under the direction of Louise Cash, drill captain, who, together with members of San Gabriel Valley parlor, worked many weeks to get the team in shape for presentation at this event, which had a special significance due to the fact that it was through the work of Miss Schiebusch and Louise Cash, charter president, that San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281 was instituted five years ago.

This is one of the few, if not the first, drill teams ever presented in this area, and this parlor is to be congratulated. Drill Captain Louise Cash worked out the drill herself and with the co-operation of President June Goldie and members of the team, has been able to make the long thought of drill team a reality.

Red Cross Speaker Heard By Californiana Parlor

Gaiety was featured when the members of Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, gathered for a St. Patrick's luncheon Tuesday, March 13th. Mrs. Herbert Ostrup presided at the luncheon and business meeting and brought some Irish wit from "Old Erin."

"But gaiety cannot reign alone in these days of emergencies," quotes Mrs. Ostrup, "and realities must be faced by all." Mrs. Albert E. Jacob, program chairman presented a speaker from the American Red Cross, who outlined some of the "Realities of 1951."

Cleda Alice Mitchell, one of our promising younger singers, was the soloist during the program, accompanied by Mrs. Idell Moye.

Luncheon arrangements and reservations were in charge of Mrs. J. L. Dartt and Mrs. Thomas W. Skinner.

Tierra De Oro Parlor Raises Mission Restoration Funds

Tierra de Oro Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, entertained Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch during her visit to Santa Barbara on official visit last month. Plans included a silver tea and reception, held on Sunday afternoon, March 18th at the Junipero Serra hall. The silver tea was a benefit for the purpose of raising funds to restore Santa Barbara's "Queen of the Missions" to its original beauty.

Santa Barbara Mission is now undergoing extensive repairs, including the complete rebuilding of its beautiful towers, and proceeds from the Benefit Silver Tea will be turned over to Fr. Fabian Gussenhoven Superior of the Mission for use in the rebuilding program. Program for the afternoon included a group of numbers by the St. Anthony's Seminary Choir, renowned for its beautiful choral group, a solo by Miss Miriam Reidy, member of the local parlor. Greetings from Santa Barbara's Mayor, Norris Montgomery, and Paul Stewart, Supervisor from Santa Barbara. Fr. Noel Moholey, O.F.M. was the speaker for the afternoon, tracing the history of Santa Barbara's Mission, and telling of its reconstruction.

The tea and reception honored Grand President Schiebusch who came to Santa Barbara for this affair of historical significance in her honor, paying her official visit to Tierra de Oro parlor at their regular meeting the following night.

Talking over plans for the silver tea which Tierra de Oro Parlor No. 304, NDGW, gave as a benefit for Santa Barbara Mission Tower Restoration, and reception honoring Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, Sunday afternoon, March 18, at Junipero Serra Hall, are Mrs. Frances Ames, center, chairman of history and landmarks committee; Deputy Grand President Jeanne Romero, co-chairman and Fr. Santa Clara County Pays Honor To Grand President

Over one hundred members of the Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West from Santa Clara county assembled at the San Jose Country club, Saturday afternoon, March 10th to honor Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand President, with a luncheon at noon.

Miss Dorothy Salas, supervising deputy grand president of Santa Clara county and her four deputies were in charge of the arrangements. Surrounding Dorothy Salas, at the speakers' table were several Grand Officers and Past Grand Presidents. Mayor Clark Bradley gave an official welcome from the city of San Jose and chairman of supervisors of Santa Clara county, William Pfeifle, also a Native Son, extended the greetings from the board of supervisors.

The Rev. Walter Schmidt, S. J. of the University of Santa Clara was the speaker of the day and his subject "Youth and The Future" gave a word picture of the splendid accomplishments of the new Youth Center in the town of Santa Clara. He described the town as having no recreation center, only one theatre, and no playgrounds six years ago. Today the "Youth Center" supplies everything in the way of recreation for the young people. Rev. Schmidt closed his most interesting address, with "we can't do everything, but we can do something."

Grand President Schiebusch spoke of what the Native Daughters are doing, with "the Future of Our Youth" following the theme of the luncheon. She told of the Junior Native Daughters, the University Scholarships of the Grand Parlor and the Young Womens Activities, supported by the Native Daughters. She spoke of Los Angeles "Broad Acres" and how it has become a reality. Added to the pleasure of the program were vocal selections by Miss Marjorie Duarte, accompanied by Sue Gilman. Piano selections were given by Miss Leanne Bocardo.

At the speakers' table with supervising deputy grand president, Dorothy Salas, were: Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch; Past Grand Presidents, Henrietta Toothaker, of Woodlands; Mamie-Pierce-Carmichael, Vendome Parlor; Margaret Farnsworth, Vendome Parlor; Hazel Hansen, of Glendale; Estelle Evans, of Antioch; Grace Stoermer, of Los Angeles; Sallie Thaler, Grand Secretary; Leslye Hicks, chairman of Grand Trustees; San Francisco; Jewel McSweeney, Grand Vice-President of San Francisco; Fern Rhoades, of Palo Alto, Anna Plasker, Vendome Parlor and Ruth Semichy, San Jose Parlor Deputy Grand Presidents of Santa Clara county.

Other distinguished guests were: Past Presidents' Association State Officers, Dollie Weller, Alice Roll and Florence Ohler. Allan P. Lindsay, Deputy District Attorney, of Santa Clara county, of Observatory Parlor, and John R. Sullivan, of San Jose Parlor.

Scene at the San Diego Municipal Sport-fishing Pier on the final day of the Fourth Annual San Diego $10,000 Yellowtail Fishing Derby, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Fishermen from one of the final day boats proceed up the pier to weigh in their catches.

San Diego is known the world-over for its famous fishing banks which lie off the coast and in the vicinity of the Coronado Islands in Mexican waters. No sport fisherman feels that life is complete without at least a few tries for the fighting Yellowtail and Albacore caught off San Diego boats.

It is from San Diego that many of the big tuna clippers ply to the far southward off the coast of Mexico and Central America for the world's most prized sea fish.

The west coast home of the United States Navy, even with war-time restrictions, there is much to see along San Diego's waterfront, a trip that will be long remembered by delegates to the 74th Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons of the Golden West, May 21-24.—San Diego California Club Photo.

Many Historical Landmarks To Be Found In City Of San Diego

BY EMMETT P. JOY, GRAND HISTORIAN, NSGW

The Seventy-Fourth Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West will be held in the city of San Diego from May 21 to May 24, 1951. Native Sons from all parts of California will be in this historic city to attend the convention. While there they will be interested in visiting some of the landmarks and to learn of some of the events in its early days.

San Diego Bay was discovered in 1542 by Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo and named in 1602 by Sebastian Vizcaino who visited it during that year. Over a century and a half had passed before the ships of the 1769 Spanish expedition landed on its sandy shores.

Four divisions of the expedition left Mexico for Alta California to establish its first permanent settlement which consisted of two land divisions and two sea divisions. The ship San Antonio, with Don Juan Perez as its captain, landed in San Diego Bay on April 11, 1769. The San Carlos with Don Vicente Villa as its commander arrived on April 29, 1769. With the ship San Carlos came Lieut. Pedro Fages, Don Miguel Costanso and twenty-five soldiers. Costanso was an engineer who accompanied Portola on his expedition to discover Monterey bay.

The first land expedition arrived in San Diego on May 14, 1769 under the command of Captain Fernando Rivera. Father Juan Crespi, a Franciscan Missionary, was in this division. The second land expedition arrived on July 1st, 1769 under the command of Don Gaspar de Portola. Father Junipero Serra, the father-president of the Missions of California, came with this group, also Sergt. Jose Ortega.

Some of the members of the expedition established themselves in old San Diego according to Fr. Zephyrin Engelhardt, O. F. M. in "The Missions and Missionaries of California," Vol. 11, page 46 "With the assistance of all men not absolutely needed to attend the sick, a spacious brushwood structure was erected for a chapel, and a large cross constructed on the morning of the 16th of July Fr. Serra then blessed the cross planted in front of the chapel, after which he sang High Mass and delivered a fervent address to the little company present. Such was the beginning of Mission San Diego de Alcala, and its first missionaries were Fr. Junipero Serra and Fr. Fernando Parron." This was the first of the twenty-one missions which were established in California.

Many Indians lived in the vicinity of San Diego bay and gathered about the mission where they were taught to do different things such as cultivating and other arts.

The location of the mission is in old San Diego now called "Old Town," it is about three miles west of the main part of the present city. Here was located the Presidio, the first permanent settlement in California and the first of civilization in the state. Also the first grain and gardens were cultivated by the Spanish as early as 1769. As the years passed San Diego became a seat of industry. Trading ships from the east coast anchored here and were loaded with hides from the vast cattle ranges in the hills nearby. It had its early Fisheries and whaling trade.

San Diego remained under the Spanish flag until April 20, 1822 on which day it gave place to the emblem of Mexico. Under the new regime came the secularization of the missions in California and then the Mexican war. It was on July 29, 1846 that Capt. John C. Fremont landed at San Diego from the U.S.S. Cyane, raised the American flag, and took possession of the pueblo for the United States. The Cyane was under the command of Captain Samuel F. Dupont when it landed with Captain Fremont, and the "California Battalion" of volunteers.

Shortly after the formal ending of the war in California, the Mormon Battalion arrived in San Diego in January, 1847. According to "California through Four Centuries" by Phil Townsend Hanna, page 89, January 29, 1847 "Three hundred and forty volunteer soldiers of the Mormon Battalion mustered into military service July 16, 1846, to aid the operations of the army of the West, under command of Lieut. Col. Philip St. George Cooke, arrived at San Diego."

The discovery of gold had some effect on San Diego as the Panama Steamship line was established in 1849 so from then on people moved more freely in and out of the ports in California. In 1850 San Diego had a population of about five hundred people.

William E. Smythe in the "History of San Diego 1542-1908" page 16, states: "The site of old San Diego was by no means favorable for a seaport town. The presidio was located on the hill above the river, at the outlet of mission valley, merely because the place could be easily fortified and defended against the savages. Old Town grew up the flat below Presidio Hill because it was originally only an overflow from the garrison itself. La Playa took on some size and importance and flourished for a time because it lay close to deep water, but its topography was such as to offer no encouragement to the growth of a large city. San Diego simply could not have come into being with anything like its present consequences and future promise where the Spanish planted the seed of the city in 1769, nor where the seed was wafted and took root, on Point Loma, in the brief day of Mexican dominion."

It was not long after the gold discovery that men of ability and intelligence came to California to start the various enterprises which laid the foundation of the industries in the state. Among these men was Alonzo Erastus Horton.

According to Hubert H. Bancroft "History of California" volume VII, page 745: "To no one is San Diego more indebted for her marvelous development than to A. E. Horton, who has done perhaps more than any other man to make that city what it is today, one of the most prosperous on the Pacific coast. A native of Connecticut, where he was born on the 24th of October, 1813, when two years of age he went with his family to New York, where he remained until reaching his majority. The years between 1834 and 1851 were passed in Wisconsin, where he built up the town of Hortonville, and at the latter date he paid his first visit to California, returning east in 1856.

"In 1861 we find him in San Francisco, where, after an absence of two years in British Columbia, he opened a store on Market street. In 1867 he removed to San Diego and purchased from 800 to 900 acres in what was afterward known as New Town, at the low rate of 26 cents an acre. Then he went to work to build a city. First of all he returned to San Francisco, and opening an office on Montgomery street, began to make known the merits of his prospective metropolis. He then began the building of a wharf, which was completed in three months, at a cost of $45,000. In 1868-9 he erected several large buildings, including the city hall, Horton hall, and the hotel called the Horton house, the last being completed and furnished in nine months, at a cost of $150,000. In 1870 New Town had a population of about 1,000; but it was not until some years later that it began to progress rapidly, under Mr. Horton's energetic management."

San Diego continued to grow into the large city that it is today with a population of over 361,942 people.

Native Sons who attend the Grand Parlor will be interested in visiting Old Town with its historic places. The place where the Spanish settled in 1769, and then through the years grew into a thriving early day settlement. Among some of the landmarks and historic places to see here are: The first Mission in California, Plaza San Diego Viejo, Casa de Lopez, Casa de Bandini, Casa de Carrillo, Casa de Cota, Casa de Machado, Fremont's headquarters site, and the Presidio ruins.

Outstanding Features Set For San Diego

Plans are nearly complete for the 74th Annual Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons of the Golden West, to be held in San Diego, May 21, 24, with headquarters to be held in the U. S. Grant hotel.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Grand President Edward J. Wren of San Francisco, who will preside over the 74th Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons of the Golden West, San Diego, May 21, 22, 23, 24.

A MESSAGE FROM THE GRAND PRESIDENT

DEDICATIONS

I should like once again to congratulate those Parlor who have arranged for dedications of Public buildings and urge all Parlor to keep this important civic function in mind.

Here is a project that every Parlor should keep before its members. The Grand Parlor provides the plaque; the Grand Officers perform the ceremony; the Parlor has only two responsibilities—(1) Arrange for our Order to dedicate, giving the Grand Secretary's office sufficient time to have the plaque made, and (2) See that the community is acquainted with the affair and that a goodly number is in attendance at the ceremony.

City halls, — Libraries — Civic auditoriums — Public schools have been dedicated from one end of the State to the other by our Order, and in every case thousands of people have commended our Order on our impressive ceremony. The publicity received in connection with dedications has been excellent.

PARLOR BULLETINS

Again, thanks to all who have sent these publications to me. I assure you that I have read all of them with great interest and congratulate the editors on a difficult job well done. I say again, however, that we must remember that all of the family, even the children, might read these bulletins; therefore, we must be careful that nothing in them could bring criticism.

COMMITTEES AND PUBLICITY

I should like to thank the Grand Parlor committees for the work they have done for our Order. Some have been very active and have received excellent publicity for the Order. It is important that all events in which the Native Sons of the Golden West participate be properly publicized, and this can be done only by local Parlor and committees.

GRIZZLY BEAR

This magazine is our official organ and deserves the support of our membership. Items of interest should be sent in; subscriptions should be taken by all, and advertisers therein should be patronized. It can be improved, but YOU must do your part.

MAJOR CHARLES LEE TILDEN

I had hoped to say a few words about an outstanding Native Son while he still lived, but the Ruler of the Grand Parlor on High called him before the opportunity presented itself.

The volunteer military organization known as the Nationals was established in 1855 by the pioneer fathers of San Francisco from among the members of the Volunteer Fire Department who formed themselves into one of the companies of the historical Vigilance Committee. This was done to establish and maintain order, as against corrupt officials who were in control of the city government.

This organization rendered service in every crisis in San Francisco and participated in the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, and in World War No. 1.

Major Charles Lee Tilden was born in Mokelumne Hill in July 20, 1858, and joined the Nationals in 1880. He became a Corporal in the first year, and continued until he was Major of the Third Battalion in the Spanish-American War.

The Nationals organized National Parlor No. 118, N.S.G.W. on January 12, 1888, and Charles L. Tilden was elected its Charter President. Down through the years, he was an active member and a zealous worker for his Parlor and for our Order until his death on November 12, 1950. He was elected Grand Marshal at the 13th session of the Grand Parlor; and, on September 9, 1890, Major Tilden was the Grand Marshal of our Parade in San Francisco. He was a delegate from his Parlor to the 12th, 13th, and 14th Grand Parlor sessions. In 1938 the Parlor presented him with a 50-year emblem of honor. He looked forward to participation in our Centennial celebration of 1950.

Major Tilden was an ardent worker for all civic affairs and for our State Park system. A bronze bust of Major Tilden was unveiled at Tilden Park in Berkeley on July 20, 1950, on which date he celebrated his 92nd birthday.

The last two years found him physically unable to attend Parlor meetings regularly, but he was never too busy or unwilling to help in the work of the Order. Pages could be written on what this man did for the Order and particularly for National Parlor. The members of his Parlor knew he has acted well his part, for he gave some 50 years of active service to the Order he loved.

Eternal rest grant unto him, Oh Lord, and may Perpetual Light shine upon him.

Edward J. Wren
Grand President, NSGW

Members of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 enjoyed an over-night trip Saturday and Sunday, April 21-22 to Pioneer Town on the desert, with Brother Russel "Lucky" Hayden of the Hopalong Cassidy films, as host.

Fine Record Made By Richmond Sons

Richmond Parlor No. 217, NSGW, celebrated its first birthday anniversary Friday evening, March 30, with a dinner dance at the Richmond Golf Club. Dancing was from 8 to 12 midnight, music being furnished by the parlor's own orchestra, the Ralph White Serenaders.

This new parlor, taking the number of a former parlor in the area, was instituted March 23, 1950, with 16 members and now has a membership of 81. Recently, it held its first successful annual 49'er dance. Members of the parlor who were on the Centennial Parade committee of Contra Costa county, were responsible for obtaining a donation of $5,000 from the Ford plant at Richmond. They also obtained the Santa Fe streamliner entry for the parade, which was sent up from Los Angeles.

During basketball season the parlor sponsored a juvenile team which held second place in the Class A city league until Uncle Sam started drafting its best players. The parlor now has a juvenile baseball team playing under Richmond Parlor colors.

April 22, 1951, the new $5,000,000 Civic Center of Richmond was dedicated, Richmond Parlor No. 217, NSGW and Richmond Parlor No. 147, NDGW, presenting the State flag along with a bronze plaque reading, "Presented by NSGW, Richmond Parlor 217 and NDGW, Richmond Parlor 147, to those who lost their lives in both World Wars."

At the present time Richmond Parlor is planning an Admission Day ball in the new Civic auditorium. The parlor is also taking a prominent part in the Native Sons Public Speaking contest.

Few parlors established for many years can equal this year's record of the new parlor at Richmond and the Grizzly Bear congratulates its members. May your accomplishments grow with the years.

San Luis Rey Parlor Wins County Bowling Championship

San Luis Rey parlor's bowling team has just finished the San Diego county bowling league, and are the new champions, having won the league trophy, as well as winning all other trophies in which the league had up for competition, in fact if there had been any more the team would have taken them. Brother Harold Clark, the team captain is to be congratulated for his untiring efforts and spirit in the splendid management he has rendered the Parlor in winning the championship for San Luis Rey Parlor, further the entire team consisting of Brothers Joe Redding, Wm. Salisbury, George Fobes, Thomas Williams, and Arthur Clark, are really the boys that knocked the pins down and are congratulated highly for their spirit and brawn in bringing the championship home with them.

The Parlor has gone on record as the sponsor of the newly formed San Luis Rey 4-H club, and are broadening their activities to the extent that plans are being laid and a building committee has been formed and an account has been opened with the Ocean-side Federal Building Loan Association for the purpose of future building of our own home, also at the present time the Committee has several pieces of property under consideration for purchase for the Parlor.

LETTER STATES STAND OF NATIVE SONS

The following letter was sent to Edward A. Dickson, Chairman of the Board of Regents, University of California, by the Americanism Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West. Also, the telegrams quoted below were sent by the Committee to Senators Hugh M. Burns and Jack B. Tenney. Publication is hereby authorized.—Eldred L. Meyer, Chairman.

Edward A. Dickson, Chairman
University of California Board of Regents
Western Federal Savings and Loan Association
600 So. Hill Street
Los Angeles 14, California.

Dear Sir:

The Native Sons of the Golden West Americanism Committee commends you and the Board of Regents for your stand in appealing to the Supreme Court of California the ruling of the State Appellate Court, which reinstated eighteen (18) University of California Professors, recently dismissed for refusing to take the Anti-Communist Loyalty Oath.

The Native Sons' Americanism Committee makes no comment regarding the Court's decision, but does unhesitatingly urge the State Legislature to redouble its efforts to have our antiquated State Constitution amended and brought up to date so that its provisions cannot be nullified by any group who profess to be loyal Americans and yet refuse to subscribe to a simple loyalty oath to which countless thousands of loyal Californians have so proudly subscribed.

The Native Sons have made known their position to State Senator Hugh M. Burns, Chairman of the California Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities and Committee member Jack B. Tenney, and appealed for action at this session of the Legislature, which will give the Board of Regents the legal right to discharge any and all employees who refuse to take the Anti-Communist Loyalty Oath.

Yours sincerely,
ELDRED L. MEYER, Chairman.
Americanism Committee,
Native Sons of the Golden West.

Successful Dance Staged By Whittier Parlors

"Dancing with their darlings" to the Tennessee Waltz as played by "The Rhythmatics," were some three hundred Native Daughters and Native Sons of Whittier Parlors No. 298 and 297, Saturday evening, April 14, at Smith Memorial hall, which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Master of Ceremonies and general chairman for this very successful affair was Matthew Ryan who introduced his Co-chairman Ellen Ryan, and the following members of their committee: Orchestra, Cal Tinker and Matt Ryan; Door Prizes, Esther Nelson, Gertrude Doss and Cal Tinker; Decorations, Francisca Anderson and Cy Morris; Tickets, Bernard Auld and Laura Sanders; Card games, Millard Tinker; Press, Jim Asher and Nina Littlefield; and refreshments, Helen Cooper and Frank Greenhalgh, assisted by Glen Cooper, Ellen Ryan, Carlotta Funk, Margaret Wienshank and Warren Tinker.

During intermission refreshments of delicious homemade cakes and coffee were served and Presidents Lucille Rowland, of the Native Daughters, and Vic Baker of the Native Sons, greeted and welcomed the many guests. Those who enjoyed this first affair are looking forward to similar social functions in the future.

Chairmen For State Picnic Appointed By Inter-Parlor

Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca, NSGW and Hazel Steckel, NDGW, have been named co-chairmen by the Southern Counties Inter-Parlor Committee for the second annual California State Picnic to be held Sunday, September 30. Present plans call for the picnic to be held somewhere in the Long Beach area.

The inter-parlor committee also sponsored an auto caravan Sunday, April 29, to the Palomares Adobe, Pomona, where a picnic was enjoyed by all.

Next meeting of inter-parlor is scheduled for Monday evening, May 28, at Ontra Cafeteria, 8th and Vermont, Los Angeles, at 6:30 o'clock.

Our Face Is Red

Three regrettable errors occurred in the story about San Diego by Philip S. Rush, published in the April issue. First "Ortega" is spelled with an "a" instead of an "o." It was "Ramona", San Diego County, where Kearney stayed the night before the battle of San Pasqual. Last Mr. Green's initials are "L. R." These are the things that give editors gray hair.

GRAND PARLOR PLANS NEARING COMPLETION

All delegates and visitors to the 65th annual Grand Parlor Convention, Native Daughters of the Golden West, should plan their trips to reach Pasadena on Sunday, June 17, announces Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, general chairman of the convention.

For the first time in history of the statewide order, the opening ceremonies with welcomes and greetings from city officials and other prominent Southland citizens will be held that Sunday night. The meeting will take place in the Exhibition Hall of Pasadena's Civic auditorium where sessions will continue through Thursday, June 21.

On the same Sunday evening, the keynote convention address will be delivered by Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch. A brilliant reception for grand officers, delegates and visitors will follow the formal opening. This entire opening event will be available to non-members of the order, and members are urged to invite friends and relatives.

The Sunday night opening session was adopted with approval of Grand President Schiebusch and the grand officers, Miss Stoermer says, to clear the way for important business on the convention docket. To expedite matters, registration will begin at noon, Saturday, June 16, in Pasadena's Huntington Hotel, where convention headquarters will be established. On the following day, Sunday, registration machinery will be moved to the Exhibition Hall.

All should plan now to attend the Grand Parlor Sessions, Miss Stoermer says, as the trip will provide opportunity to transact business of the statewide order and to enjoy a vacation in Southern California.

An extensive program of gay entertainment is being formed by the executive committee, which she heads. These attractions, however, are designed to avoid interference with business sessions of mornings and afternoons. Amusement events will take place evenings after busy work-days in the Exhibition hall, and on the Friday and Saturday following the convention. Therefore delegates and visitors are urged to remain in Southern California at least throughout the week.

As a result of careful planning of entertainment events, it is expected all convention business can be finished before official adjournment Thursday afternoon. By scheduling opening ceremonies for Sunday night, Miss Stoermer says reports of grand officers and special committees can begin early Monday morning with Miss Schiebusch presiding.

Among entertainment events, an outstanding one will be a special performance for NDGW delegates and visitors Tuesday evening, June 19, in the famous Pasadena Community Playhouse. This theater has a national reputation for fine dramatic presentations. Many of its actors take part in motion pictures or appear on the New York stage. When the Playhouse stages a special show, the result invariably exceeds expectations.

On Wednesday evening, a dinner and party, with the theme "A Night in Old California," will be given in the beautifully landscaped garden of Huntington Hotel. Tables will be placed around the pool, in which a spectacular aquatic exhibition will be presented. Many other entertainment features and surprises

DISCUSS GRAND PARLOR PLANS—Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, center, confers with PGP Grace S. are programed. Grand officers, delegates and visitors are urged to attend the dinner in costumes radiating early California atmosphere. The attire is expected to range through Spanish, Mexican and early American periods of the State, with the latter stressing the Gold Rush and early mining days. Prizes will be awarded for the most interesting costumes.

The two "play days," Friday and Saturday, after convention adjournment, will be dedicated to sightseeing, trips to theaters and famous restaurants, and visits to homes of Southland Native Daughters.

On Friday a sight-seeing tour will include numerous scenic spots, places of historic interest and popular tourist Meccas. The Saturday excursion will consist of a sea trip to Catalina Island, with luncheon at the beautiful city of Avalon. The return from the "Magic Isle" will take place late in the afternoon. The committee is arranging the Catalina trip for all who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Thus it is seen that entertainment and opening ceremonies will not interfere with convention business. The one deviation will be the inclusion during business sessions of several speakers on subjects pertinent to women's activities. These speakers, Miss Stoermer says, will have much of interest to say, but their talks will be brief.

Speaking with much convention experience—she having attended all but one grand parlor meeting in the last 41 years, and having served 10 years ago as general chairman when the grand parlor session was held in Los Angeles, Miss Stoermer pointed out that the Exhibition Hall is well ventilated, spacious and equipped with comfortable seats. The building has 15 committee rooms which will be available.

Many meetings have been held by the convention's executive committee and more are scheduled. New convention developments have been worked out and much progress made. The committee's personnel follow:

Miss Grace S. Stoermer, 227 North Rampart Blvd., Los Angeles 26, general chairman; Mrs. Edna T. Neikirk, secretary; Mrs. Florence Grass, treasurer; Mrs. Zilpha Archibald, SDDGP, District No. 37; Mrs. Hazel B. Hansen, Past Grand President; Mrs. Ellen Haskell, SDDGP, District No. 36; Mrs. Edna B. ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Members of Californiana Parlor, NDGW, took an active part in assisting Mrs. Francis W. Sullivan, Grand Organist, in securing "I Love You California" as the official state song, the resolution being passed last month by the California state legislature. Resolutions have also been sent to the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors urging the continuance of "Broad Acres" home for girls.

Alturas Parlor No. 189, NDGW, has re-organized its Junior Native Daughter Unit, with Mrs. Rose Moyer as mother advisor. At their April meeting the Junior initiated 15 new members.

Members of Verdugo Parlor, NDGW, Glendale, entertained their husbands and friends at a dinner Tuesday evening, March 13. A film, "How to Beat the A Bomb," was shown and cards were enjoyed.

The four parlors of district 5, NDGW, held a joint meeting in Redding, Wednesday, March 21, called by SDDGP. Miss Aurelia Shuffleton to exemplify the ritual work. Parlors participating were Berendos Parlor No. 23, Red Bluff, Camelia No. 41, Anderson, Lassen View No. 98, Shasta and Hiawatha No. 140, Redding.

Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch officially visited Dolores and Guadalupe parlors, San Francisco, Monday evening, March 12, at which time five candidates were initiated. The theme was carried out in St. Patrick's Mott with 12 of the San Francisco juniors acting as escorts to the Grand President and other officials. Dolores Parlor conducted the opening and closing ceremonies, while the initiatory work was under the supervision of Guadalupe Parlor.

Checks for the Native Daughter Home and the restoration fund for Missions, Soledad and San Jose were presented to the guest of honor by Past Grand President Evelyn I. Carlson of Dolores Parlor and Rita Rovegno of Guadalupe Parlor, chairmen of their respective parlors.

The junior president, Barbara Mountain, made an outstanding speech in the presentation of the gift she gave to Miss Schiebusch on behalf of her junior unit.

Menlo Juniors are planning for the official visit of Grand Vice President Jewel McSweeney Friday evening, May 11, at Central School auditorium, Menlo Park. A card party for the benefit of their treasury is also scheduled for Tuesday evening, May 15.

Members of Golden Gate Parlor, NDGW, San Francisco, are working on plans for the official visit of Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch early in May. Mrs. Beatrice Nishkian is also working on plans for the annual rummage sale of the parlor to be held in May. With Mrs. Mary Mahoney as chairman, a luncheon was held in April honoring members of Golden Gate Parlor who have been appointed deputies by the Grand President.

Orinda Parlor No. 56, San Francisco, recently held a pot luck dinner at the Native Daughters Home. June O'Connell, president, recently appointed committees for her term. Carrying along her theme, "Do unto others as you would be done by", her main projects for the year will be welfare, especially for the veterans and boys now returning from Korea. Orinda has "adopted" a hospitalized soldier. Helping in the restoration of one of California's historical shrines, Mission Soledad, has also been pledged by the parlor.

The three parlors of district 39, Conchita No. 294, Silver Sands No. 286 and Grace No. 242 were co-hostesses to Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch on her official visit Friday evening, April 6, at the Friday Morning Woman's club house, Costa Mesa, at which a dinner was served to nearly 100 guests, followed by ritualistic ceremonies held in the main hall. Four new members were initiated into the Order. A monetary gift was presented by the three parlors to the Grand President, together with checks of $175 towards the restoration of Mission Soledad, and the proceeds of the coin march to be divided between the Native Daughter Home and welfare work.

Rio Hondo Parlor Presents Books To Huntington Park

Rio Hondo Parlor No. 284, Native Daughters of the Golden West, recently presented a most rare edition of History books to the Huntington Park library. The set consists of nine leather bound volumes, published in 1888 and are the works of Hubert Howe Bancroft, one of the best known authorities on California History.

Seven of the volumes, entitled California History deals with the period from 1542 to 1890. One volume, California Pastoral, period of 1769 to 1848 and one volume, California Inter-Pocula, period of 1848 to 1856. These volumes are very valuable as they are now out of print and very difficult to obtain. They will be used in the brand new library as reference books only.

It was through the efforts of Erma Graham, History and Landmarks Chairman and her committee Frieda Savage and Jennie McLouth, and with the valuable assistance of Miss Carlotta Hoy, Branch Librarian, that these books were obtained. The Committee raised their funds with a rummage sale and plan a card party for April.

President Dorothy Campbell did the honors of presenting the books on March 31 at the dedication of the new building.

EXTENSION OF THE ORDER

The Extension of the Order Committee is happy to report that the second youngest Parlor in the State, Tule Vista Parlor No. 303, Porterville, won first prize for the February Membership Drive by initiating twenty-three members. Morada Parlor No. 192, Modesto, was second with a gain of nineteen members. Rio Hondo Parlor No. 284, Huntington Park, received honorable mention by having a gain of seventeen members.

If every Parlor in the State had put forth the effort that the above named Parlors had, we would have truly reached the goal that our Grand President planned for and we certainly would find the "Pot of Gold at the End of the Rainbow."

We realize that there are many localities that find it impossible to increase their membership by large numbers, but we sincerely hope that each Parlor will strive to have a gain by June 1st, no matter how small.

We are looking ahead with pleasure to presenting the year's first prize of a $75.00 U. S. Defense bond; second prize of a $50.00 U. S. Defense bond, and third prize of a $25.00 U. S. Defense bond. You realize, of course, that these prizes will be awarded on a percentage basis. If your Parlor is small and you initiate a class of candidates which will bring up your percentage you will have a very good chance of receiving one of the prizes.

You will recall in our last circular that there are Special Prizes to be awarded for the return of the largest number of former members to the Parlor, i.e., those who withdrew, resigned or were suspended. First prize will be a $50.00 U. S. Defense bond and the second prize a $25.00 bond. The Extension of the Order Committee suggests that the President of the Parlor appoint a Committee to call on former members of the Parlor and encourage them to return. The gain that has been created by the Membership Drive is offset by the loss in membership throughout the year by suspensions, resignations and withdrawals. There must be a reason! What is it? Are you making your meetings attractive enough to hold the interest of your members? Do you plan socials and entertaining skits for the enjoyment of your group. When a new member affiliates with your Parlor, is she placed on a Committee and given an opportunity to serve immediately? All of the above tend to stimulate a desire to work for the progress of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

It has been most interesting for your Committee to watch the development in the various Parlors through this Membership Campaign and we are hoping for a large increase in membership during the few remaining weeks of our Grand President's term.

Sincerely and fraternally yours,
VERA M. THOMPSON,
State Chairman,
Committee on Extension of the Order.

Golden Anniversary Observed By Los Angeles Parlor

In one of the most outstanding Native Daughter affairs in the southland in many years, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 celebrated its golden anniversary Saturday evening, April 21, at the Elks Temple, with a dinner for some 300 members and guests presenting the regular program held in beautiful Elks lodge room. The event was also a home coming honoring Grand President Anna I. Schiebusch of Los Angeles Parlor.

The spacious Elks lodge room was filled with members of the Native Daughters, Native Sons, and civic officials in honor of the occasion. A full corps of Grand Officers, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was present and the escort team of Los Angeles Parlor in gold formals, added beauty and color to the impressive ceremonies of presenting them.

There were 12 Past Grand Presidents of the Order present, including Mrs. Cora B. Sifford, Senior Past Grand President, of Ventura.

Lillian M. Stratton, president of the parlor, gave a brief history of the parlor's 50 years of service to Los Angeles. Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Ramona No. 109, NSGW, brought greetings from the City of Los Angeles, while Major Howard Earle, acting administrator of the County of Los Angeles and member of Ramona No. 109, represented the county. Judge Walter H. Odemar, Past Grand President, Ramona No. 102, represented the Native Sons of the Golden West, bringing greetings from the Order and also from his parlor, whose early history is closely entwined with that of Los Angeles Parlor. Past Grand President Eldred L. Myer, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, also brought a sincere and brief message congratulating Los Angeles Parlor on its Golden Anniversary.

Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, acted as mistress of ceremonies for the dinner and the program, presenting Charter Member Anna I. Dempsey, organizer of the parlor.

Following the program, distinguished guests and those not members of the Native Daughters of the Golden West were escorted from the lodge room, following which a large class of candidates was initiated, followed by a reception. Mrs. Louise D. Robinson, charter member of the parlor was presented with a 50-year pin. 25-year pins were received by Miss Alta May Allison and Miss Phyllis McNaney.

Grand Vice President Jewell McSweeney made her official visit to Fruitvale Junior Unite No. 22, NDGW, Oakland, Saturday evening, March 17. The Grand Vice-President was escorted by an escort team of 18 girls dressed in formals with green carnations in their hair and carrying shamrocks in keeping with the St. Patrick's motif. Chairman Georgina Williams gave an interesting report of the past year and four new members were initiated.

Sutter Parlor No. 111 and Coloma Parlor No. 212, NDGW, met in a joint meeting in Sacramento Tuesday evening, February 6, to receive Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch on her official visit. Mrs. Helen Pepper, president of Coloma Parlor, conducted the opening and closing ceremonies, while Mrs. Lorain Williams Foote, president of Sutter Parlor, presided during initiation when five new members for Sutter Parlor and one for Coloma were initiated.

Aloha Parlor Celebrates Its 52nd Anniversary

A good time was had by the crowd who attended the 52nd anniversary celebration of Aloha Parlor No. 200, NDGW, Oakland, Tuesday evening, March 27. Aloha not only celebrated her birth, but honored members who had birthdays in January, February and March. Honors were also paid to the parlor's Deputy Grand President, Gladys Donahue of Hayward Parlor No. 122, and Past Deputy Grand Presidents, including Maxine R. Clements and Flora Crockett, Fruitvale Parlor No. 122, Isabel Smithear, Bahia Vista No. 162, Orlinda Karchera, El Cerezo No. 20, Patricia Reardon, Piedmont No. 82.

Other visiting guests included Past Grand President Esther Sullivan of Marysville, President Elizabeth Sheridan of Encinal Parlor No. 130, President Elsie Suske of Bahia Vista No. 16, and Anne Lewis of El Cerezo No. 20. Two members of Aloha Parlor, Maud Mitchell and Cora Abrams, came all the way from Monte Rio for the celebration.

Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler of Aloha, presented 25 year pins to Mrs. Elizabeth Jung and Mrs. Irma Murray as a surprising climax to the evening.

The members then retired to a beautifully decorated banquet room where tables were arranged to represent the letter "H" for happiness. There was a huge birthday cake decorated to represent the months of January, February and March, ablaze with red, gold and white candles around the edge.

Aloha's 52nd Anniversary observance was under the direction of Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and Irma Murray. The birthday party for members was arranged by President Alice Abernathy and Leona Suesman and the deputies party by Evelyn Perry. Others assisting included Hazel Andrews, Mary Diehl, Eleanor Krambs, Honore' Fitzpatrick and Ede Steuer.

A check was sent Father Michael O'Brien of St. Joseph's Center for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, 88 Vernon St., Oakland, in memory of Ruth Trestler's father, Frank Mitchell, and Charlotte Leopold's brother, E. C. Leopold.

Members of the Old Mission Restoration Tea Committee of Tierra de Oro Parlor No. 304, Santa Barbara, Frances Hilton and Dolly Begg, turn over check for $500 to Fr. Fabian Gussenhoven, Superior of Santa Barbara Mission. Work on the restoration of Santa Barbara Mission Towers was halted on March 31st, and work will not be resumed until sufficient funds have been received to complete the restoration.

Tierra de Oro Parlor Aids Mission Restoration Work

Tierra de Oro Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Santa Barbara, had the pleasure recently of turning over a check in the amount of $500.00, representing proceeds from the Old Mission Restoration Tea and Reception in honor of Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, to Fr. Fabian Gussenhoven, Superior of Mission Santa Barbara.

The tea, which was held on Sunday, March 18th at Junipero Serra Hall, was attended by many distinguished members of the order of Native Sons and Daughters, as well as local civic leaders and townspeople. Guests included Past Grand President Cora B. Sifford, of Ventura, who drove up with members of Las Tres Vistas Parlor, headed by President Georgia Strasser, from Oxnard; Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, from Los Angeles; Grand Trustee Sylvia Griffiths, of Santa Barbara; John McCaughey, President of Santa Barbara Parlor, Native Sons; Adolpho Camarillo, Past President of Cabrillo Parlor, Native Sons, Ventura and member of one of California's oldest Spanish families; Santa Barbara's Mayor, Norris Montgomery and his wife; Frances Price, Sr., El Presidente of Santa Barbara's Old Spanish Days Fiesta; representatives of many southland parlors of Native Daughters and members of early Santa Barbara Spanish families.

Mayor Montgomery, in greeting the Grand President, commended the projects of the order as they are carried out in Santa Barbara by the two Native Daughter parlors, and throughout the State.

Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch, in a brief message, told of her intention to allocate to the Santa Barbara Mission Restoration Fund the $50.00 Mission Restoration Fund which it is her privilege to give toward Mission Restoration at the conclusion of her year in office.

Rev. Noel Moholey, Doctor of Theology at the Old Mission, gave an inspiring message, tracing the work of the venerable Padre Serra in establishing the chain of California Missions. Fr. Noel stated that the precepts of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, Love of Home, Devotion to the Flag, Veneration of our Pioneers and an Abiding Faith in the Existence of God, very materially typified the objectives that brought those blazers of the trails, the Franciscans, to California.

The Padre Choristers from the Old Mission presented three of the old songs which the early padres brought to the Indians who once lived here.

Mrs. E. Arnold Alderman, Civic Participation Chairman of the local parlor, acted as Mistress of Ceremonies, presenting the distinguished guests; as well as President Lois Lucking, and History and Landmarks Chairman Frances Ames.

The parlor will sponsor a resolution at the Pasadena Grand Parlor in June to establish a Santa Barbara Mission Restoration Fund, in supplement to the Mission Soledad and San Jose Funds which now exist as major projects of the Order. Santa Barbara Mission Restoration work halted at the end of March because of the lack of funds, and the work will not be resumed on the towers until sufficient funds are at hand to complete the restoration.

The plaque was unveiled by Ellen Stearns, pioneer mother of Centennial Parlor and one of the daughters of Alexander Elliott.

The parlor was also hostess to the district meeting of district 8, NDGW, on March 30, the affair being attended by over 300 members and guests. Americanism was the theme chosen and carried out in decorations, drills and costuming. Audrey Youngs of Centennial Parlor, SDDGP of district 8, presided.

The United States Flag was presented and escorted by the Centennial Drum Corps. This drum corps was the special project of drill team captain, Oleta Finahley and believed to be the first Native Daughter drum corps in northern California.

Stockton Native Sons Proud Owners of New Building

Stockton Parlor No. 7, Native Sons of the Golden West, is the proud possessor of a beautiful new building dedicated in a three-day celebration Saturday, Sunday, Monday, March 10, 11, 12, with many of the Grand Officers, headed by Grand President Edward J. Wren, in attendance.

The event started off with an open-house and dance Saturday night, followed by the formal dedication ceremonies Sunday morning at which a dedicatory plaque was presented by the Grand Officers in behalf of Grand Parlor.

Hamilton Briggs, 1st vice president of Stockton Parlor No. 7, acted as master of ceremonies at the Sunday morning program, introducing Stockton's Mayor, Woodrow LaTeer, who welcomed the Grand Officers to the City.

Henry Bava, president of the Native Sons Hall Association, outlined details of the entire building project. Congratulatory speeches were given by Grand President Edward J. Wren of San Francisco, Grand 1st Vice President J. Walter Kamb of Berkeley, Grand 2nd Vice President Louis E. Pellandini of Sonoma, Grand 3rd Vice President Philip C. Wilkins of Sacramento and Junior Past Grand President Peter T. Conmy of Oakland.

The three-day celebration came to a close with the 70th Anniversary dinner of the parlor Monday evening, March 12.

The completion of the new building is the result of several years of hard work on the part of all members of Stockton No. 7, one of the larger parlors of the Order, and the parlor has a right to be proud of its accomplishment, hoping that it may serve as an inspiration to other parlors.

The forming of the Native Sons Hall Association took place on November 1, 1947 and incorporated December 27, 1947. The first directors were J. E. Wolleson, president; Henry Bava, vice president; W. A. Strong, secretary, Chas. K. DeYoung, treasurer; Louis

The original stockholders for purchasing the lot along with the directors were John Avansino, John Bava, Lawrence Buol, Fred Braghetta, August Calori, Fred Gomez, Frank Piccardo, Dave Sanguinetti, John Solari, Steve Solari, Norman Stockwell and Joseph Zolezzi. The site for the building was purchased January, 1948, at Hunter and Flora streets.

In 1949 a stock selling campaign was under way and a large percentage of the membership invested in this project. In January, 1950, the following officers were elected: Henry Bava, president; Roland Doneaux, vice president; W. A. Strong, secretary; Chas. K. DeYoung, treasurer; Louis Cademartori, Roy Devincenzi, John Gianelli, W. P. Rothenbush, Joe Sacco and J. E. Wolleson, directors.

A committee from the parlor consisting of Joe Zolezzi, Elmer Ferber and Vernon McKee worked with the Hall Association directors in drawing up the preliminary plans. Klar Winterholm, engineer, drew up the plans. On August 5, the contract was awarded to the Nomellini Construction Co. One week later the ground-breaking ceremonies were held. The building was completed on February 1, 1951 and turned over to Stockton Parlor No. 7. Stockton Parlor will sublet it to other parlors and also for special parties.

At present the Stockton Native Sons Hall Association has 200 stockholders, including three Native Daughter parlors, Stockton Parlor having the largest number of stockholders.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

The big event of June, 1876, in California was the Jarratt and Palmer special train. With the scenery and troupe to put on a Shake spearean play at the California theater in San Francisco, it made a nonstop run, except at the terminal points of the roads passed over to change engines and crews and for fuel and water, from New York to San Francisco. While a schedule had been figured for it with the aid of railroad officials, an endeavor was made to find out how quick the run could be made. Crowds enthusiastically cheered the train passing the stations enroute and the run was followed hour by hour across the continent. The run from New York to San Francisco was made without mishap in 83 hours, 32 minutes and nine seconds, the train arriving at Oakland Pier 9.40 a.m. June 5. The arrival of the troupe in San Francisco was announced by the firing of a salute. Hank Small, the engineman who handled the train over the Central Pacific, received as much notice as did the train itself.

June 12 was considered the hottest day on record to date in San Francisco, the thermometer registering 95 degrees in the shade during the afternoon. The heat in the valleys during the week was intense and June 16 a man named Campbell, working on a thresher near Visalia, Tulare county, was killed by sunstroke. This was the first case of sunstroke known to have occurred in the San Joaquin valley.

Grasshoppers made their appearance in myriads in parts of Los Angeles county and were destroying vineyards and the green leaves of trees.

A three-story building at Brannan and Fifth streets, San Francisco, was blown down by a high wind June 17 and buried Mrs. Mary O'Grady and her four children in the ruins. She was taken out dead and all the children were seriously injured.

A boy named roman candles in the fireworks factory of Bernard and Co., San Francisco, June 2, used an iron ramrod instead of a wooden one and caused an explosion that set fire to and destroyed the factory.

The Bay Sugar refinery in San Francisco, occupying a seven-story building at the corner of Battery and Union streets, was destroyed by fire June 20. It burned for nearly two days and caused a $400,000 loss.

Early History of Pasadena, Home of Tournament of Roses Parade

By JIM RITCHEY

Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW

The Mission San Gabriel was founded in 1771. It was from here that began the chain of historical events that 103 years later became the start of the city of Pasadena, where the 65th Grand Parlor Convention, Native Daughters of the Golden West, will be held June 17, 18, 19, 20, 21.

It was then that the long sweeping slopes with their hills, from the base of the (Sierra Madres) San Gabriel mountains to the beautiful mission, lay undisturbed in their God-given beauty, views unobstructed, carpeted with wild flowers and having an abundance of wild life. The pleasing sounds of the mission bells and the roar of the Arroyo Seco waters carried to the heart of this area, a paradise for the Indian clans that lived here, each with its chief, happy in their sun-drenched wonderland and solitude.

One clan was located in the Arroyo Seco, near the point now known as Devil Gate dam. Another in Millard canyon, north of Altadena. Another on Raymond hill, where South Fair Oaks avenue cuts through to South Pasadena and the fourth clan on Oak Knoll, near the foot of Lake avenue. These clans came under the influence of the Mission. They found here a new and strange life, only after years to return to their primitive way and wander on to other new areas.

Dona Eulalia Perez de Guillen, born in Lower California in 1735, migrated with her husband to this mission area about 1800. She was loved by every one for her benevolence, understanding and helpfulness. When the mission lands were secularized by the Juanta of Mexico, Fray Zalvidea, then in charge of the mission, deeded to her the northwest corner of the mission's lands. This was on Easter

Day, 1827. Thus came the name Rancho San Pasqual, meaning "Easter Day Ranch," an area of some 14,000 acres. It covered all the section from the west bank of the Arroyo Seco to Lamanda Park on the east; northward to the mountains and southward to the reserved mission area, (including South Pasadena, later part of the Wilson ranch and the present Huntington place of San Marino).

The Mexican law required any grant to be livestocked. This Dona Eulalia could not afford, so probably that is why she did not record her deed of conveyance. Her domain reverted back to the government when she was 92 years old. She died in poverty January 8, 1878 at the age of 143 years, survived by four daughters. One married Ora Lopez, son of Clandeia Lopez, builder of the "Old Mill" for the padres, 1810-12. Part of this old mill was incorporated into a residence in Mill canyon and remains so today.

In 1839 the first adobe house was built on San Pasqual ranch by Jose Perez, a cousin to Dona Eulalia, who tried to revive title. It stood where what is now called the southeasterly foot of Raymond hill. It was this house that served first as the home of the next ranch owner's foreman and then as headquarters for General Flores and his staff during the Mexican disturbance with the United States. It was from here negotiations were opened for the surrender of this country by General Andres Pico, the governor of Southern California to Col. John C. Fremont. A Col. Manuel Garfias, attached to the staff of Micheltorena, one of the governors of California, fell in love with the beautiful Senorita Luisa Abila, the toast of pueblo Los Angeles. He had no title and this stood in his way to the marriage of the Senorita. General Micheltorena went to the aid of his good friend and paid a visit to Governor Pio Pico. Rancho San Pasqual was deeded to the newlyweds as a wedding present. This made Garfias, by virtue of his estate, a Don in 1843.

Don Garfias soon became an American citizen and in 1850 was a councilman for Los Angeles, later becoming county treasurer. In 1853 he built the hacienda adobe on his domain at the bank of the Arroyo Seco and moved there with his wife. Thus did Dona Luisa become Pasadena's first lady "Chatelaine." Two sons were born to him at his hacienda, the first white births on the rancho. The Don wanted to live in a fashion befitting his title, for at heart he was neither a rancher or stockman. He borrowed to build his hacienda from Dr. John S. Griffin of Los Angeles. The loan was for 4 per cent monthly interest compounded. When the Don's debt rose to $26,000, the capitalist took over the ranch.

In the year 1858 Benjamine S. Eaton brought his first wife to California for her health. He took charge of San Pasqual ranch for his friend, Dr. Griffin and moved into the hacienda adobe. A few months later his wife died and the hacienda was abandoned. With the passing years it fell into decay and ruin.

In August, 1873, a group of men in Indiana, wishing to seek their fortune in California, banded together and formed an association they named the "California-Indiana Colony." The association immediately appointed a committee, which they dispatched to California to select a location. While on their search the financial panic of 1873 hit the nation and knocked the props out from under the committee. However, D. M. Berry, J. H. Baker and Calvin Fletcher of the Indiana Colony did not give up the fight for a location.

Meantime, other fortune seekers had been arriving in Los Angeles. Benjamine S. Eaton met the above named men and became interested in their plan. Eaton felt that the San Pasqual ranch was what they were seeking and it was. The price of the land, however, was far beyond what the colony planned to pay and also, the original plans had become unusable. This necessitated a reorganization.

On November 13, 1873, a meeting was called at Berry's office. At this meeting the "California-Indiana Colony" was changed to "San Gabriel Orange Grove Association." Directors for the new company were chosen and the purchase of Dr. Griffin's interests decided upon. December 15, 1873, the agreement on boundaries was concluded and the land purchased December 26, 1873, for the sum of $25,000, an area of 3,933.35 acres. Thus the San Gabriel Orange Grove Association on January 27, 1874, became a reality. This was destined to become a very important day historically for Pasadena, as yet un-named.

These pioneers had met for a common purpose, pooling their fortunes and talents. They gathered around their president, Benjamine S. Eaton, over a map, took their cue, scattered over the lands, each to choose his particular spot. What a thrilling day it must have been?

February 6, 1874, A. O. Bristol's was the first house to move into. J. H. Baker was next. The growth continued and even to the present day, it has never stopped.

The postoffice department thought it was about time for the association to select a name, for the mail was being sent to Los Angeles and picked up by most anyone. Names were suggested, such as New Grenada, Indianola, Muscat, Orange and so on. Tuttle Smith thought a name of Indian derivation would be appropriate. He wrote his father in the east and explained about the area. His father, Prof. George N. Smith, knew Indian translations. Tuttle received a reply from his father, dated

Miss Anna T. Schiebusch of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, who will preside over the 65th Grand Parlor Session at Pasadena, June 17-21.

Pasadena Ready For 65th Grand Parlor

Splendid entertainment features, a brilliant reception, important business discussions, many far reaching resolutions, changes in the Ritual, revision of the Constitution and the opportunity for a vacation in Southern California.

All these factors are combining to draw heavy attendance for the 65th annual Grand Parlor Convention, Native Daughters of the Golden West. The event will be held June 17 through 21 in Pasadena, with sessions in Exhibition Hall of Civic Auditorium, and convention headquarters in Huntington hotel.

In addition, two days of sight seeing tours and other events will follow on Friday and Saturday, June 22-23. At request of Grand Officers, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, general chairman, announces there will be no entertainment features during daytime sessions to take delegates away from their deliberations. Therefore all are urged by her to prolong their stays to accept sight seeing tours and a trip through Huntington Library as guests of the general committee on Friday.

Also at request of many delegates, Miss Stoermer announces a trip to Catalina on Saturday. All wishing to go, she says, should notify her immediately of their intentions.

Grand President Anna T. Schiebusch is understood to have many recommendations in mind for the good of the Order. She will present these at business sessions, and may hint at some of them when she speaks Sunday night, June 17, at the convention's formal opening program in Exhibition Hall.

To enable all to attend the Sunday night program, registration desks will be open June 16 and 17 at Hotel Huntington.

At the formal opening Sunday night, greetings and welcomes will be extended by civic officials. W. Ballentine Henley, distinguished educator, will speak on "How to Live in a Frustrating World." After the Grand President's address, a brilliant reception will be given to honor Miss Schiebusch, other Grand Officers, delegates and guests. Refreshments will be served and musical entertainment provided.

With preliminaries concluded, the convention will swing into its four days of business sessions Monday morning, June 18, with Grand President Schiebusch presiding. That evening the Order's ritual work will be exemplified by a selected team of officers from 16 of Los Angeles County's 22 subordinate parlors.

Three supervising district deputies, Mrs. Juanita Porter, Los Angeles Parlor; Mrs. Zelpha Archibald, Placerita, and Mrs. Ellen Haskell, Compton, will be in charge of the ritualistic team and ceremony. On the same evening, a large class of candidates will be initiated.

Tuesday's meetings will be highlighted by nomination and election of officers. That night's special entertainment will be a stage show, "The Swallow's Nest," featuring the stage and motion picture star, Billie Burke, and a splendid cast. This dramatic presentation will be seen in Pasadena's Community Playhouse, with delegates and friends having an opportunity to attend.

Grand Officers of NSGW will officially visit the convention Wednesday afternoon. A report on Junior NDGW activities and proposals for expansion of this work will follow; after which the annual public speaking contest will be held. Mrs. Evalyn Wilson, Verdugo Parlor, State Chairman of Public Speaking, announces Mike Schon, Pasadena College, and Bart Dempster, City College, San Francisco, will compete.

As Grand Officers have recommended eliminating the grand ball this year, Miss Stoermer announces that Wednesday evening's entertainment event, a colorful dinner and party radiating the theme, "A Night in Old California," will be held around the pool in the ornately beautiful gardens of Hotel Huntington.

Diners will be urged—but not obligated—to wear costumes reminiscent of the State's pioneer, Mexican and Spanish eras. Costumes will be judged and prizes awarded. Typical California entertainers will add gaiety and music to the enjoyable evening.

On Thursday evening, newly elected grand officers will be installed. As it is customary for the Grand Vice President to succeed to the highest post in the order, the general understanding is that Miss Jewel McSweeney, San Francisco, will be installed as Grand President.

Miss Stoermer advises that hotel reservations be made immediately by every delegate planning to stay in the convention city. Although many reservations have been reported, she states numerous rooms still are available in Pasadena hotels and motor courts.

Travel instructions have been sent to subordinate parlors by Loretta Schwaertzer, Transportation Chairman. Delegates traveling on Sunday, June 17, by Southern Pacific from the North have been notified to detrain at Glendale. They will be welcomed there by members of the Convention Executive Committee. Buses have been ordered to take delegates direct from Glendale to Pasadena hotels.

Southern California Native Daughters, says Miss Stoermer, are delighted at having the delegates again in Southern California after a 10 year absence of the Grand Parlor Convention. Many reunions of old friends are projected, and many informal get-togethers are scheduled.

Expected to be a gala event of Grand Parlor in Pasadena is the Country Parlor Luncheon, (the Original "Hicks from the Sticks" luncheon) to be held the first day of the Native Daughters Grand Parlor Convention, on Monday, June 18, 1951 at the famous Pasadena Athletic club at 12 noon. Tickets for this gala luncheon will be on sale from Saturday noon on at the beautiful Huntington hotel, the tariff $2.50 including tax and tips. Unusual feature is the combined successful efforts of Northern and Southern participation. Southern Chairman Ruth Munz Etz, fresh from the farm, Munz Ranch to be exact, was one of the few Southern gals to ever attend the "Hicks from the Sticks" luncheon (last year at Santa Cruz) which originated in the far Northern parlors. Assisting Ruth Etz of Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288 of Lancaster, is Milda La Berge and June Gold of San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281. Northern Chairman is P.G.P. Florence D. Boyle of Oroville.

Membership Trophy Builds Membership For Santa Rosa

Membership Trophy of Santa Rosa Parlor No. 217, NDGW, Santa Rosa, presents a novel idea that might be used by other parlors. For the first new member that a member brings into the parlor she is given a place of honor on the trophy, her name being engraved thereon. For each additional member a star is engraved after her name. Perhaps the member will become a five-star general—it is possible because the field is large and many are only waiting to be asked to join the Order.

The inscription on the cup to date, with new names to be added in May, is as follows: Santa Rosa Parlor No. 217, N.D.G.W., Membership Trophy, presented by Regina Reeves, president and Willow Borba, past president, March 15, 1949; Ethel Jamison, Ida Losch, Grayce Bargwell, Alta Oimsted, Lenora Guth, Hilda Pickrell, Mae Cummings (star), Hazel Heller, Jimella Cook (star).

Regina Reeves is the daughter of Willow Borba, who was Grand Trustee for four consecutive years, past state president of the General Association of Past Presidents and publisher of the Loyalty Cook Book, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Much Progressive Legislation is Passed at San Diego Grand Parlor

In a spirited contest with Grand Trustee Bob Halsing of South San Francisco Parlor No. 157, Dave Stuart of Arrowhead No. 110, San Bernardino, was elected Grand Third Vice President at the 75th Grand Parlor Session of the Native Sons of the Golden West in San Diego, May 21-24. Bob Halsing, in moving that the ballot for Dave be declared unanimous, announced that he will be a candidate again next year.

There were eight candidates for the seven Grand Trustees with incumbents Alfred P. Peracca, Los Angeles No. 45; William H. Metzger, John Bidwell No. 21; Joseph I. McNamara, Stanford No. 76 and Eugene F. Cerqui, Redwood City No. 66, being re-elected. New members on the board of Grand Officers are: Arthur F. Hulse, Huntington Park No. 294; Larry LaFleur, Eden Parlor No. 113 and Lewis A. Giegerich, Pacific No. 10. William S. Burke, Observatory No. 177, was the eighth candidate.

Other Grand Officers named were: J. Walter Kamb, Berkeley No. 210, Grand President; Louis E. Pellandini, Sonoma No. 111, Grand First Vice President; Philip C. Wilkins, Sacramento No. 3, Grand Second Vice President; John T. Regan, South San Francisco No. 157, Grand Secretary; Almon J. Walcott, Guadalupe No. 231, San Francisco, Grand Treasurer; Walter Brandt, Santa Monica Bay No. 267, Grand Marshal; Earl L. Covey, Quartz Parlor No. 58, Grass Valley, Grand Inside Sentinel; Virgil K. Rominger, Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento, Grand Outside Sentinel.

Grand President J. Walter Kamb re-appointed Emmett P. Joy, San Francisco No. 49, Grand Historian and named Al Weber, Sr., Piedmont No. 120, Oakland, Grand Organist.

The installation was ably conducted by Past Grand President Richard F. McCarthy, assisted by a corps of Past Grand Presidents.

A great deal of progressive legislation was enacted including the allotment of $5,000 for the Public Speaking Contest to put it on a par with public speaking contests conducted by other fraternal and service club groups. One of the most discussed projects was legislation to establish what is to be known as the Charitable Trust Fund of the Native Sons of the Golden West, this matter to be submitted to the Board of Grand Officers to carry out the principles of the resolution with power to make any necessary additions or subtractions. The object is to give the Order a charitable project to replace the Homeless Children work which was given up by the Native Sons at the Sonoma Grand Parlor Session in 1949, and which is now in the process of being liquidated.

The per capita tax levy adopted by the Grand Parlor was set at $2.39, due and payable 60c June 1st, 1951; 60c September 1, 1951; 60c December 1, 1951 and 59c March 1, 1952.

Under direction of General Chairman, C. H. Rasmussen, Ferndale Parlor No. 93, finals of the Public Speaking contest were conducted on Tuesday afternoon, May 22, with Anthony Fuller, a student of Grossmont High school, San Diego, representing the Tropical California District, being named the winner. Second place was won by Don Wilson of Fremont Union High School, Sunnyvale, representing the Coast Counties and third by Daniel Fraire, Merced Union High School, Merced, representing the Great Centray Valley district.

Fresno was selected for the 75th Grand Parlor Session in 1952.

McCloud Parlor Gives Old Stage Coach To State

A page out of the storied West, still within the memory of many living resident of Shasta county, was relived when the Cannonball Express, last stage coach to make the run between Trinity Center, Trinity county, and the railroad connection in Lamoine, Shasta county, rolled again for the last time to its final resting place.

McCloud Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, Redding, donated the coach to the state and ceremonies were held at the Shasta State Historical Monument, Sunday, May 20, where the coach will be enshrined adjacent to the restored county courthouse of bygone days.

A company of 100 mounted horsemen and women headed by Nolen Glahn, captain of the county sheriff's posse, escorted the coach over the seven mile Middle Creek road, original stage coach route between Reading, as Redding then was known, and Shasta, county seat and transportation center and regarded as the Queen city of the North in the 1850's. The stage was pulled by four horses.

In Shasta, Superior Judge Albert F. Ross presented the coach to the state as a relic of the coach era.

According to old timers, the Cannonball Express was built in Modesto and used originally on the Yosemite Valley run. It later was purchased by the Northern Trinity Stage company and ran between Trinity Center and Lamoine until World War I when it was discontinued. McCloud Parlor brought it in 1927.

Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West of Alameda County held joint memorial services Sunday, May 27, at the Chapel of the Chimes, with Past Grand President Richard F. McCarthy as chairman of the committee in charge.

J. Walter Kamb of Berkeley Parlor No. 210, Berkeley, installed as Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West at the 75th Grand Parlor Session held in San Diego May 21-24.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As we start this new Grand Parlor year, I, as your Grand President earnestly seek the support and cooperation of every member of our Order. It is my hope that our Order will prosper during this year and it can and will if every member will do his part. If you are an elected officer of your Parlor it is your duty to perform the duties of your office to the best of your ability at all times; if you have accepted an appointment it is also your duty and responsibility to perform to the best of your ability and if you are just a "rank and file" member of the Order it is your duty and responsibility to assist and support your officers and committeemen. You, the members of this Order have the force and the power to direct the destiny of your Parlor and our Order by your interest and continued support. I assure each and every member of our Order that I will do everything in my power to work for the best interests of the Native Sons of the Golden West. I fully realize that there is a great deal of work to be done, however I can't do it alone—I solicit, most humbly, your thoughts, ideas, programs, assistance and support. I deeply appreciate the opportunity to serve as your Grand President; I sincerely appreciate the trust and confidence you have placed in me, and I hope that I may be able to serve you in a manner which will be of credit to our Order.

Sincerely and fraternally,

J. WALTER KAMB,
Grand President, NSGW.

Grand Parlor On High Calls Grand Trustee R. W. Muller

Hearts of Native Sons and Daughters throughout the state were saddened with the news of the passing in San Francisco on April 16 of Robert W. "Hi" Muller, Grand Trustee, Native Sons of the Golden West.

A member and past president of Tuolumne Parlor No. 144, NSGW, Sonoma, Hi Muller served as general chairman when the 12nd Grand Parlor Session was held there in 1949. In that year he was elected Grand Trustee and re-elected at Chico at the 3rd Session.

An active member and officer of the Sonoma Lions Club and Tuolumne county Chamber of Commerce, he was one of the original incorporators of Columbia State Park, and was a member of the recently organized Lair of the Bear, of the University of California at Pincrest.

He served several years as a director of the Tuolumne county Gold Centennial Celebrations Committee and from 1947 to 1950 served as Grand Humbug of Matuca Chapter E. Clampus Vitus.

A native of Tehama county, "Hi" Muller attended grade schools in Red Bluff and graduated from Red Bluff high school. He later attended the University of California at Berkeley.

He was first employed by the P. G. & E. in 1912 as a draftsman. Progressively he became a surveyor, electrician, and power-house operator at Drum and Electra power houses and foreman of Electra power house.

He left the P. G. & E. for two years from 1918 to 1920 to go to the Panama Canal Zone where he was power house operator and line foreman for the United States government. While there he twice walked from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean while inspecting power lines.

He and his family came to Sonoma on the Mother Lode in 1941 from Red Bluff where he had been for 18 years as electric superintendent of the West Side and Shasta Division of P. G. & E.

At the time of his death, "Hi" Muller was district manager of the Humboldt division of P. G. & E. with district headquarters in Eureka.

Funeral services were held in Red Bluff under auspices of officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West and the Masonic Lodge of which he was a member. Interment was in the Tehama cemetery at Red Bluff.

Surviving are his widow Mrs. Evelyn Muller of Eureka; a daughter, Mrs. Earl Miller of Palo Alto; a son, Robert M. Muller of Angels Camp; and three grandchildren, Chriss Miller of Palo Alto; Beth and Bruce Muller of Angels Camp.

In lieu of flowers, the family asked that contributions be made to the American Cancer Society in memory of the deceased.

Louis Del Chiaro, Presidio No. 194, born San Francisco, August 11, 1911; died April 18, 1951.

Peter Nerio, Guadalupe No. 231, born San Francisco, September 27, 1891; died April 21, 1951.

John C. Cappelmann, Fruitvale No. 252, born San Francisco, February 22, 1876; died April 27, 1951.

History of Pasadena

April 13, 1874, giving three names to consider.

By vote of 17 to 4 the name "Pasadena," meaning "Crown of the Valley," seemed appropriate and soothing.

Now for a postoffice. Lawson D. Hollingsworth proposed the construction of a building for a store and postoffice on the northeast corner of what is now Fair Oaks Avenue and Colorado. This was the nearest spot on his ranch to the colony. Hollingsworth had purchased his property from the B. D. Wilson estate adjoining that of the colony on the east. When Wilson heard of these plans he handed Hollingsworth a deed of five acres on the opposite side of the street for school purposes. The store with its postoffice was opened for business in September, 1876. Thus began what has since become one of our most beautiful and famous cities.

Founders Hall Is Marked By Whittier Daughters

Whittier College has built a culture capable of encompassing all of God's children, Dr. William C. Jones, president of the college, stated in accepting a bronze plaque marking Founders Hall, presented by Whittier Parlor, NDGW, Sunday afternoon, May 27.

The plaque was presented by Miss Lucille Rowland, president of the parlor, and as master of ceremonies, David W. Stuart, Grand 3rd Vice President, NSGW, said, one of the "most native" of all Native Daughters since her paternal ancestors came to California in 1769. She is a descendant of Sheriff Rowland who captured the bandit Vasquez.

The presentation was preceded by talks by Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President, NDGW, and Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca, NSGW. Both stressed that love of state, nation and God are the foundations of the Orders and that they are stressing education of Native Sons and Daughters, both "making and marking history."

Dr. Herbert Harris, only survivor of the original faculty of four of Whittier Academy, later known as Whittier College, and author of "The Quaker and the West," recounted the history of Founders Hall, the first stone of which was laid without ceremony on August 23, 1893. He pointed out that women have played an important part in the history of Whittier College and for that reason, it was most fitting that the Native Daughters should be the ones to place the plaque on the landmark.

Victor Baker, president of Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, led the Flag Salute.

Master of Ceremonies, Stuart paid tribute to the pioneer builders present: George Hunnicutt, John J. Jessup, Arthur Weed and Harry Williams, and other pioneers: Mrs. Iva Hunnicutt and Mrs. Eva Cash, granddaughters of Jonathan Bailey; Mrs. Martha Milhous Gibbons, Miss Alberta Chawner, daughter of Prof. John Chawner; Miss Anna Tomlinson and Ashton Otis, present chairman of the board of trustees.

Miss Rowland unveiled the plaque, assisted by Victor H. York. Chairman of the day was Francis Anderson, chairman of the history and landmarks committee of Whittier Parlor, NDGW.

Joseph R. Knowland Is Named To Historical Society Office

At a meeting of the board of directors of the California Historical Society recently in San Francisco, officers for the ensuing year were chosen.

The members of the Board of Directors, in addition to the officers, are Kenneth K. Bechtel, Garner A. Beckett, Anson S. Blake, Mrs. William Cavalier, Allen L. Chickering, Ralph H. Cross, Sr., Mrs. Susanna Bryant Dakin, Dr. A. T. Leonard, Jr., J. Ward Mailliard, Jr. The Society's Managing Director is Mrs. Edna Martin Parratt.

Headquarters of the California Historical Society, with its library and museum, are at 456 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

The Society offers membership to any person or institution wishing to receive its publications and to share in its activities, to all those who welcome an opportunity to encourage interest in the history of California.

The Lone Cypress at Midway Point along Del Monte's famous Seventeen Mile Drive, as photographed by Julian P. Graham of Del Monte. This region on the Monterey Peninsula, is one of unsurpassed beauty. The Seventeen mile drive skirts the shore—which has been called by a famous artist, "the finest meeting of land and water in existence." There are long strips of white sandy beach, clear glistening sand dunes and rocky headlands. The weird and beautiful Monterey Cypress grow to the water's edge. Along the entire strip of water-front there is fascinating animal and bird life—sea lions in great numbers barking vociferously, the small leopard seal, cormorants, pelicans and gulls; and emerging from the forest, timid deer and an occasional elk. The land rises from the water line to almost one thousand feet in the course of a mile or two.

While most of the area is heavily wooded there are beautiful open glades and park-like sections that have been utilized in the designing of three famous golf courses, Cypress Point, The Dunes and Pebble Beach.

Threats to Our Constitution and Our American Way Of Life

By WALDO F. POSTER

Past President, Stanford University, N. G. S. A. G. W.

The Constitution of the United States, which is in imminent peril of destruction, was adopted for the purpose of preserving a race of free men. It may be divided into two parts: Part One, providing for our form of Government, the main features of which are the Federal System and the structure which establishes the judicial, legislative and executive departments; and, Part Two, the Bill of Rights.

The Constitution was the result of the joint efforts of 55 of the most intelligent men in the country after over three months of free service. George Washington was the Chairman of the Convention. The document was signed September 17, 1787, and went into effect June 21, 1788.

The Constitution through its Bill of Rights, contrary to general belief, did not create, but reaffirmed the liberties and freedoms which were achieved by mankind over a period of many centuries. These freedoms include — freedom of religion, freedom of the press, the right to trial by jury, the right to assemble, and other cardinal rights.

The American people take these rights for granted. They go further than that. Without knowledge of the facts, they take credit for the establishment and promulgation of these freedoms. Western Europe, not America, was the cradle of liberty. For over a thousand years the people of Western Europe struggled and fought against the tyrants of their day and time, and one by one, and step by step, at a great loss of life and property, these rights and liberties were accomplished. They were transplanted to America. How fortunate this was. These freedoms and liberties are now non-existent in the lands wherein they were achieved. It may well be said that the transplanting of these freedoms was in accordance with the preordained destiny of America. Had they not been so transplanted, they would be non-existent today.

Our Constitution is a contract. A contract is an agreement to do or not to do a certain thing. The Bill of Rights is a contract protecting even the smallest minority, yes, even a single, lowly individual, against any infringement of his rights as set forth in the Constitution.

The greatest advance made by the Constitution over and above the guarantee of the Bill of Rights was the protection of minorities. The humblest individual, regardless of race, color or creed, is so protected. This was unprecedented in history.

We feel sure that our liberties and freedoms will never be taken from us. We forget that to preserve these liberties and freedoms we must have the same moral fiber, moral foundation and courage of those who secured them, of those who signed the Declaration of Independence, and of those who framed the Constitution of the United States. Do we have that moral fiber and courage?

The martyrs of old died for spiritual causes and not for material gain. The Pilgrims who came to this country forsook all, home, family, friends and property, for the sole purpose of protecting and safeguarding their right to worship God in the manner they saw fit. They did not come here for material gain. Would we do the same today?

In America, up to the time of the Civil War, in public as well as in private life, the spiritual dominated the material. Our people really believed in the precepts set forth in the Declaration of Independence, in the preamble to the Constitution of the United States, and in the inviolability and sacredness of the Bill of Rights. After the Civil War there was the opening of the West and the discovery of gold in California and silver in Nevada. Land was free, profits were big. Everyone was interested in security for himself as large a share of the new wealth as he could. Spiritual ideals gradually faded, perhaps disappeared as far as the general welfare of the nation was concerned.

It takes the land, to hastening its prey, "Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Have we decayed? I think we have. The moral fiber of Americans today is not the same or equal to the moral fiber of the martyrs of old, to that of the Pilgrim Fathers, or to that of the men and women of Revolutionary days. Today we are more interested in our property, our home, our automobile, our bonds, our money in the bank, and other material possessions, than we are in the preservation and safeguarding of our liberties and freedoms. In yesteryear, one's neighbor's freedom and rights were just as important as one's own. Does the American of today care if his neighbor is unjustly treated or deprived of his constitutional rights? If he does care, does he do anything about it? Would he fight against that injustice? I think not. We have decayed.

Today the Communists threaten us from within and from without. The Communists would destroy all the rights and freedoms which have been achieved through the ages, including the right of independent religious faith and observances, free speech, the right to assemble, freedom of the press, and all others as set forth in our Constitution.

Native Sons

Native Sons to Honor Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland

NEWS FLASH! Just as we went to press word was received by the Grizzly Bear that the 1951 Admission Day celebration will be held in the city of Oakland on September 8, 9 and 10.

To Members of the
Native Sons of the Golden West:

There is living today a man who has contributed greatly to his nation, his state, and to the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West. We refer to our Brother and Past Grand President, the Honorable Joseph R. Knowland. For over forty years he has served as Chairman of our Grand Parlor Landmarks Committee, and under his capable leadership hundreds of historical markers have been erected throughout our State, in every section, from San Diego to Eureka and from the Mother Lode to the Coast. His historical and civic work has always been for the entire, united, State of California, a fact vividly brought to a realization in the recently completed work of the California Centennial's Commission of which he served as Chairman. This work alone involved a three year period of time and in all instances every courtesy and full recognition were extended the N.S.G.W. by reason of Brother Knowland's personal interest in our Order.

We wish to honor Past Grand President Knowland while he is with us and still very active in behalf of our Order. Too often a great man is honored after his passing. The State of California has recently acquired a 453 acre park in the City of Oakland. As a tribute to our member, this park has been named "The Joseph R. Knowland Park." The State Park Commission, in recognition of Brother Knowland's interest and activity in our Order, has granted the privilege of officially dedicating the Park to the Grand Officers of our fraternity. This ceremony will have national and state-wide significance and has been tentatively set for Sunday, September 9, 1951, Admission Day.

Our Order has been granted permission, and plans have been formulated to erect a bronze bust of Brother Knowland in a place of prominence in the Park on the dedication day. The bust, completed by two renowned sculptors, will cost $2,500 and with a fitting pedestal the total cost will be about $3,400. The Park Botanical and Zoological Society is contributing financially to the pedestal and the landscaping.

We are asking individual members of the N.S.G.W. to help finance a portion of the total cost of the bronze portrait so that this project will have a state-wide scope. No contributions will be solicited or accepted from anyone other than individual N.S.G.W. members and Parlors as this is an Order Project.

A complete accounting of moneys received and spent will be filed with the Grand President. No one will receive any monetary compensation other than the actual professional workmen. The postage, printing, etc., will be kept to an absolute minimum, we assure you.

Remember, this Project is an Order Project and will represent all N.S.G.W. members. We must have the participation of all N.S.G.W. members to accomplish this goal.

We trust that we can count on you in any amount you feel free to contribute so that our entire Order can receive credit for a worthy task well performed. Please make your check payable to the "N.S.G.W. Knowland Portrait Committee."

With thanks, we are

Cabrillo Parlor Members Guests At Cardona Home

Members of Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, and their wives were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. G. Cardona at their Rancho de Paz, on June 19th. Chile con carne, frijoles, and tortillas served hot off the griddle as fast as Mrs. Cardona could turn them out, made up the menu and the 40 or 50 guests ate everything in sight.

After dinner the ladies adjourned to the house for canasta while President Al Mehn called the Parlor meeting to order in the patio. Henry M. Borchard reported on the San Diego session of Grand Parlor and Bro. Mehn outlined the Parlor program for the year and announced committee appointments. Adolfo Camarillo, who became a member of Cabrillo Parlor in December, 1887, spoke briefly on the early days of Native Sonism in Ventura county when there were parlors at Ventura, Santa Paula and Hueneme.

Cabrillo Parlor plans a similar meeting in July at Steckel Park, Santa Paula, and others in August and September.

Pasadena Parlor Plans For Big Bear Outing

Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW, will hold a big outing and barbecue at Big Bear lake, San Bernardino county, Saturday and Sunday, July 28, 29, it is announced. Saturday will be devoted to swimming, horse-back riding, hiking and other amusements at this mountain resort area. Saturday night there will be a camp-fire with all the fellowship that goes with such an event at the Shirk brothers lodge. Sunday is the day for the old-fashioned beef barbecue. Reservations must be made with George Shirk or Harold Davis of Pasadena Parlor, as early as possible as cabins and rooms in this area are scarce at this time of the year.

Beloved Native Son Called To Grand Parlor On High

Willard F. Allen, veteran secretary of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, Native Sons of the Golden West, was called to the Grand Parlor on High early last month. While his parlor loses one of its most loyal and hard-working members, "Curley" Allen, as he was affectionately known, might have been called a member without portfolio of many parlors in Southern California. For there was hardly a night in the week that "Curley" did not attend a Native Son meeting some where. Whether it was a new parlor institution, a birthday celebration, or whatever affair the Native Sons and Daughters might sponsor jointly, "Curley" Allen was there.

At the first annual California State picnic sponsored at Sycamore Park last year by the Inter-Parlor Committee, he was awarded the trophy for the oldest member of the Native Sons present.

"Curley" Allen joined the original Chico Parlor in April, 1888 about nine years after it was organized, being brought into the Order by his father. In 1908 he transferred to Los Angeles Parlor No. 45. He devoted a great deal of time to the activities of the IOOF, but gave it up to devote his efforts to our Order.

During all the years that he had been active in Los Angeles 45, he declined to go thru the chairs. However, in the fore part of 1950 a vacancy occurred in the office of president and his brothers named him to fill the unexpired term.

As president of Los Angeles No. 45, he went to the Grand Parlor Session in Chico May 1950, where he was highly honored for his 62 years of service to the Native Sons of the Golden West. He was again honored at the 74th Grand Parlor in San Diego last May.

Willard Allen was initiated into Arrowhead Assembly, Past Presidents' Association, at San Diego, July 16, 1950.

For the past 15 years, with the exception of the brief period that he was president of his parlor, he had been recording secretary, having the reputation of being one of the most able in the Order.

For many years he was a District Deputy Grand President to one or more parlors. An accountant by profession he rendered invaluable service to his parlor and to the Order as a whole.

Mt. Tamalpais Parlor Has Part In School Dedication

Mt. Tamalpais Parlor No. 64, NSGW, San Rafael, recently had a part in the dedication of the new Greenbrae elementary school. Among those present were DDGP Arthur B. Hecht and Recording Secretary M. A. Andrade. The district deputy presented four sets of flags, American and California Bear flag to Principal James Jordan of the unit to be placed on each teacher's desk, in the four rooms dedicated at this ceremony.

Robert U. Ricklufs, superintendent of the school district, stated that when the unit is completed, some time early next spring, Mt. Tamalpais Parlor will have charge of final dedication ceremonies with Grand Parlor officers laying the plaque at the main entrance to the school.

One of the biggest Native Son events in Southern California during June was the 64th birthday celebration of Ramona Parlor No. 102, Los Angeles, held Saturday evening, June 9, at the Nickabob restaurant. Native Sons and their wives from many southland parlors were in attendance. Frank Collins was chairman of the event.

Members of Riverside Parlor No. 299, NSGW, their families and friends, enjoyed a barbecue dinner and swim at Frank Heron's Plunge, Tuesday evening, June 19.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 157, NSGW has scheduled its annual picnic for Sunday, July 22, at Skippers Park, near Woodside, San Mateo county. Elaborate plans have been formulated to make it an outstanding event, one at which there will be much entertainment for the young and old. The committee reports the park ideally set up. Barbecue pits, many tables, a good dance hall, plenty of space for games, lots of shade trees and excellent parking space. Games are being planned for the kids, dancing for the grownups and a lively ball game.

Huntington Park Parlor No. 294, NSGW, now meets the 2nd and 4th Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., 3665 East Florence Avenue.

Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, NSGW, held its 47th Annual Barbecue July 4th at Crestline. There was dining, dancing, music and fun for everyone.

Dick, Gardner, John Castellucci, Ralph Bove and John Amabile, members of Los Banos Parlor, NSGW, were recently elected to the board of school trustees.

Compton Native Sons To Establish Scholarship

At its June 7 meeting Compton Parlor No. 273, NSGW, voted to establish an annual scholarship for a Native Son at Compton college. Raymon Gonzales, member Compton Athletic Commission and a member of the parlor, took the floor and thanked Compton parlor for its help in obtaining for the city a $50,000 Athletic Stadium. Walter "Hoppy" Hopcraft reported on results of the 74th Grand Parlor Session, Native Sons, at San Diego.

Eugene H. O'Donnell of San Francisco, wields the broom for good charity's sake at closing session of 74th Grand Parlor, NSGW, in San Diego.

74th Grand Parlor Sidelight

Resolution No. 23, unfavorable recommendation. Its sponsor the one and only Eugene H. O'Donnell of Dolores Parlor No. 208, San Francisco. Bro. O'Donnell rose and solemnly walked to the "mike." He gave forth in all his dynamic oratorical splendor, said he "all I am asking for is $75.00 for a bear flag for the Juvenile Guidance Center, courtroom just opened at San Francisco. You can give 6c to Pasadena, but all I am asking for is 3/8 of a cent for a bear flag." On and on he pleaded to no avail.

But the above statement got the two delegates from Pasadena riled, for the 6c was for the State as a whole. These delegates got a box, fixed up and marked "gag box" for O'Donnell's flag, and started it circulating thru the hall. It came back with $20.52 plus match covers, beer checks, price tags, I.O.U.'s, and many other sundry items and a flash firecracker that later went off in poor Bro. O'Donnell's hand before he could get rid of it.

On the last day however resolution No. 32 our new charity set-up was adopted. This changed the outlook again on Bro. O'Donnell's flag, now he had a "charity." So Grand Trustee Al Peracca made an eloquent presentation speech to Bro. O'Donnell with strings attached to the gag-box contents. Bro. O'Donnell made the acceptance and then continued "now that we have a charity and no money back of it, I wish to present to the Grand Secretary this money $20.52."

With that coins literally showered upon the floor. The Grand Marshal presented Bro. O'Donnell with a janitor's broom. No sooner did he sweep the floor clean when another deluge of coins hit the floor. Again and again 'till the meeting was called to order by Grand President Wren Sam Kirk, the alternate delegate from Pasadena had his flash ready and snapped several candid pictures. At the end of the day Bro. O'Donnell rose and presented the Grand Secretary with $83.16, the amount being more than he asked for his flag.

Weaverville Native Son Holds High Position

Justice Arthur Paulsen, past president of Mt. Baldy Parlor No. 87, Weaverville, has been named honor this year upon his election as Grand Master of Masons in California.

Justice Paulsen was born in Weaverville, Trinity county, on May 4, 1890, the son of P. M. and Barbara Paulsen, early pioneers who came to California in the days of the Gold Rush. He was admitted to practice law in California on March 12, 1917. He became District Attorney of Trinity county in January, 1923, and Judge of the Superior Court in January, 1933, which position he still holds.

It is interesting to note that Gen. A. M. Winn, founder of the Native Sons of the Golden West, had much to do with the original organization of the Masonic Grand Lodge in California, which is now over 100 years old. For the first fifty years no Native Son was ever Grand Master.

Quartz and Hydraulic Parlors Hold Joint Memorial Services

With Quartz Parlor No. 58, Grass Valley, Nevada county, as host to Hydraulic Parlor No. 56, Nevada City, joint memorial services were held Monday evening, June 4. George Calanan gave a masterful eulogy reciting "Thanatopsis" like a Shakespearean actor.

In the banquet room a mammoth birthday cake, made and decorated by Ruth Covey, wife of Grand Inside Sentinel Earl Covey, with 87 lighted candles was presented to Dr. C. W. Chapman of Hydraulic Parlor. Written on the cake was "66 years a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Greater faithfulness and loyalty hath no man."

Native Daughters

Miss Jewel C. McSweeney of El Vespero Parlor No. 118, San Francisco, named Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at the 65th Annual Grand Parlor Session held in Pasadena, June 17-21.

Grand President's Inaugural Address

By JEWEL MCSWEENEY

Happiness as I have never known fills my entire being as I stand before the delegates of the 65th Grand Parlor as Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. I have been lifted to a new plane of understanding.

Mere words cannot express the deep feeling of responsibility that my office as Grand President of this outstanding organization gives me. I only know that with all my heart I pray that you, my friends, will not find me wanting. It fills me with a sense of responsibility because this is my State—this is my America and our organization serves State and Country. I see the members of the Native Daughters of the Golden West as part of the depth of that responsibility and I see our starry former leaders and the great contribution they have made to our organization. I see a panorama of California women—as they move down through the years, led by the colorful ones and the ones who work to keep our order alive. I see the children of America as they reach their tiny hands to us for help. It is America I really see.

Today we are all deeply moved by a sense of what it is to be an American. We realize America has asked much of our generation and again we are facing a grave crisis. We ask ourselves whether a nation so founded can endure and I pity those who come to this crisis shaken in the belief of democracy.

As the administrator of the program for the Native Daughters of the Golden West in the term to come I will lend my every effort to make our organization the nucleus in our State for the building of better citizenship; developing a program, an educational program for those unknowing of the rights and privileges accorded by American citizenship and attendant responsibilities. A program that will promote a deeper appreciation and understanding of the importance and dignity of the individual in the American philosophy of government.

I realize we are living in a changing world and our program must be geared to meet the demands of time. We may be asked to fulfill many obligations but the task is easier for those who love it, and so I face the term ahead with an open mind, an open heart, an open hand. We must be determined to make our community a better place in which to live, from community to county, county to state, state to nation, because civic alertness is the welfare of the community.

One of the most valuable assets of a Native Daughter is an honest desire for worthy achievement coupled with a willingness to serve. Our form of government, "of the people, by the people, for the people," is the greatest form of government in the world and no sacrifice that we may be called upon to make will be too great for Native Daughters of the Golden West. Our religious and educational policies have been forerunners of our progress and we have just cause to be proud of the contribution made by our organization in the social and cultural development of our State. From the trail of California Missions, to our scholarships and public speaking programs for the youth of today, our child welfare work, civic participation, legislation and Americanism programs, Junior Native Daughters, Veterans Welfare and our own Native Daughter home we have expressed interest in every phase of American life, the home, the child, the church, school, city, state and nation.

I publicly express not in awe and exaltation, but in simple understanding the joy and appreciation in service to my State. I have assumed the office reserved as the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Native Daughter of the Golden West and I ask our Heavenly Father in sincerity that I be granted the grace and wisdom to accept the great honor with humility and when I lay down the mantle of my office I pray that my successor may find the Order better and stronger, more firmly planted in the principles of truth and unbounded love and further advanced in its sphere of usefulness.

Junior Native Daughters Unit Instituted At Napa

A unit of Junior Native Daughters was instituted by the members of Eshcol Parlor, NDGW, Napa, on Saturday night, March 3.

The girls have chosen the name Esholita, which is quite fitting in respect to their senior parlor.

The members of Napa Parlor, NSGW, had been invited to attend the ceremonies and a good number were present to witness the beautiful and impressive ceremonies.

Refreshments and dancing concluded a very delightful evening.

Congratulations to Eshcol Parlor for sponsoring this fine organization and congratulations and best wishes to Esholita Unit.

Californiana Celebrates Twenty-third Birthday

Mrs. Herbert Ostrup, president Californiana Parlor, NDGW, Los Angeles, presided over the twenty-third anniversary luncheon of the parlor, Tuesday, June 12, held at the Catholic Woman's Club, 927 So. Menlo Avenue.

"We feel proud," said Mrs. Ostrup, "of our heritage which gives us the privilege to belong to the oldest and first patriotic woman's organization in the state of California. Every native-born California woman should feel an obligation to join such an organization which has accomplished much in the social, civic and educational development of our state."

June 12, 1928, Californiana Parlor was instituted as the first afternoon parlor in the state. Founded upon the principles of Love of Home, Devotion to Our Flag, Veneration of the Pioneers, and An Abiding Faith in the Existence of God, and with projects which suffice the needs of every woman.

The parlor was the first in the state to pay its loyalty pledge toward the Native Daughter home in San Francisco; first to dedicate a room in this home to Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, who helped to institute Californiana Parlor; first to assist in establishing the Redwood grove in Humboldt county; first to furnish and dedicate a statue which now stands in the Plaza, the statue of Philippe de Neve, founder of the city of Los Angeles. The parlor marked the San Gabriel Mission and Plaza Church, and restored a room in the San Fernando Mission.

The La Brea Pits, Battle of Dominguez at Dominguez Hill, Sanches Adobe, Centinella Adobe, Harrington Adobe, Las Tunas Adobe and Verdugo Adobe are among the historical landmarks marked with bronze plaques by Californiana Parlor.

The parlor has a war record which is undisputed; besides adopting over 30 homeless babies under the Homeless Children Work and furnishing several rooms at various veterans hospitals.

Grace Parlor Is Busy In Many Activities

Grace Parlor No. 242, NDGW, Fullerton, recently honored SDGP Edna Restovitch of East Los Angeles Parlor and DDGP Alma Thompson of Conchita Parlor, Newport Beach at a party. Other guests were Genevieve Hiskey of Santa Ana parlor, deputy to Silver Sands parlor, Huntington Beach; Olive Hadley of Santa Ana parlor, deputy to Conchita parlor; Mary Jarmis of East Los Angeles Parlor and Callie Horton of Santa Ana parlor.

Reports on the Sister Kenny polio foundation work were given and a check was sent to the foundation. Lena Lawson reported on taking clothing and magazines to the Norwalk State hospital. Each deputy present received a ceramic figurine.

Following the business meeting the members enjoyed a fashion show.

Grace Parlor held a pioneer party at their June 7 meeting, members coming dressed in old-fashioned dresses and bringing a sack lunch. At this meeting it was voted to do sewing and mending for the Sister Kenny Foundation. Plans are also going forward for a bazaar to be held in the fall.

Myra Bemis has been named president for the new term.

65TH ANNUAL GRAND PARLOR CONVENTION NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

By ANN MORGAN

"The finest convention we ever had!" This opinion was repeatedly and unanimously voiced during a week of business and play-packed sessions of the delegates and visiting members of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at their 65th Annual Convention, in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium beginning Sunday, June 17th.

Registration began on Saturday morning, June 16th, at the Hotel Huntington, official headquarters and continued through Sunday and Monday. Pasadena's charming and appealing hotel supplied the hospitality and beauty which Southern California so ardently desired for the state-wide conclave.

The first feature was the Formal Civic Opening of a carefully scheduled, event-packed program which was planned by the popular Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President and General Chairman of the 65th Convention. Miss Stoermer's presentations are always outstanding and include purpose, history and colorful entertainment. Veteran members mindful of many other annual conventions pronounced this program to be the "finest" of them all. Throughout the many features, her ingenuity and superiority indicated the wisdom of selecting her as General Chairman of this important Convention.

Sunday night found the spacious Exhibition hall of the Civic auditorium bedecked with the most beautifully arranged flowers, with interwoven and colorful pastel ribboned decorations floating overhead carrying out the convention theme of the Rainbow. Conspicuously fluttered the Star Spangled Banner and the California Bear flags.

As General Chairman Miss Stoermer formally opened the Convention and the Melody Maids of Pasadena City College furnished the music. After the presentation of colors and the Pledge of Allegiance, the audience joined in singing the Star Spangled Banner. As is customary the National Flag played a conspicuous part in all the meetings.

After the Invocation by Reverend William Vita, Assistant Rector of Saint Andrews Church, Grace S. Stoermer, paused then with dignity, yet in a truly friendly California manner, proclaimed greetings to the honor guests, city officials, the Grand Officers, delegates, visitors and friends. Being the only session open to the public, this was a very important occasion for the non-members who came to honor the Native Daughters and enjoy the opening program of the oldest women's organization in California. Mary E. Noerenberg, Chairman of Hospitality and Hazel B. Hansen, Chairman of Reception, both Past Grand Presidents ably assisted Miss Stoermer on this brilliant and festive occasion.

The Honorable A. E. Abernathy, the Mayor of Pasadena, extended a hearty welcome to the Native Daughters and expressed admiration of the stirring, happy visitors honoring Pasadena, and also presented the Grand President with the key to the city of Pasadena.

Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand President smiled happily as she sounded the keynote speech of the evening, "Our Contribution to California." Her audience listened carefully as she touched upon their busy year of activities on behalf of California's welfare and defense.

The lovely Jeanne Determann, lyric soprano rendered vocal selections and was accompanied by Mr. George Mahoy. Miss Determann's vibrant voice was in keeping with the high spirit of these descendants of the Pioneers whose forefathers had insured plans in which song and music also would be fostered and encouraged.

In his usual spell binding delivery, Dr. W. Bahennine Henley, civic leader and one of the foremost speakers in America, presented the topic, "How to Live in a Frustrating World." His dynamic personality and natural charm added to the scholarly presentation of conflicts, urges, social restraints and differences arising in our society with suggestions on what individuals and groups can do about them. Dr. Henley emphasized man's need to re-think one's relationship with the Infinite of God.

A brilliant reception on the veranda followed this unparalleled formal civic session. The guests were reluctant to leave the auditorium at a very late hour as the refreshments were delicious and the gaiety and neighborliness were so rare and enjoyable.

Early Monday morning, many delegates and visitors crowded the Foyer at the Civic auditorium for late registrations. Miss Stoermer was on hand aiding her committee and assigning other committees to their seats for the first business session of the 65th Annual Convention. Native Daughters gowned in pastel hues of the rainbow carried out the convention theme of the Rainbow.

These happy and carefully selected delegates who represented the far north, central and southern sections of California were eager to begin the important business of reports, deliberations, interchanging of ideas and comparison of their own parlor activities with those in other sections. One could easily pick the newcomer and the veteran because there was an understanding and a special effort made to make everybody feel at home.

The opening ceremonies of the morning soon over, Grand President, Anna T. Schiebusch, greeted the audience as she welcomed and complimented them on their work during the past year. The Prayer and Allegiance to the flag were fervently performed before the General Chairman, Miss Grace S. Stoermer expressed friendly greeting after which Anna Schiebusch thanked the delegates for their enthusiasm and most sincerely expressed appreciation to Miss Stoermer and her committee for the tremendous task accomplished. With a note of emotion she continued to explain the endless hours of planning and work spent by the beloved general Chairman who so unselfishly had dedicated a part of her brilliant career to the work of the organization. A few appropriate words from Miss Stoermer, with her natural reticence and brevity as she received terrific applause. Here was a recognized, exemplary Native Daughter, and, you could feel it as Grace retired to give over to more important business than her deeds. Yet the Native Daughters took this opportunity for a public tribute for work well done, to one who had made their principles her standards of living, and Native Daughter's progress a part of her career.

The Grand President continued with her detailed report on their work for Veteran's Welfare, Americanism, Mission Restoration, Native Daughter's Home and other pressing deliberations. She was direct and brief. The delegates warmly expressed their satisfaction with the report and listened intently to the reports of the Grand Secretary, Sallie Thaler and Agnes Curry, Grand Treasurer. These reports were also gratifying and the Grand President commented on the tremendous amount of work and fine cooperation of the members of the entire organization.

As the day continued business reports and deliberations enkindled the ardent pioneer spirit of the delegates—this was a tense day with issues of importance which evidenced the urgency of defending California's citizens if freedom and the pursuit of happiness were to continue. Stressed also, was the tremendous need of statewide aid to charitable causes for children, old age, veterans and the handicapped. The great Exhibition Hall was filled with a thousand quiet delegates and visiting members who sat in rapt attention, listening to learn what other groups were doing, to report on their own activities and to take back to their respective parlors, new ideas on Legislation, Welfare, Americanism, Civic Participation, California History and Landmarks, Young Women's Activities, Native Daughters' Home and ideas from so many other reports listed in the beautiful program. This was an elegant and simple twenty-one page booklet outlining the business to be conducted and the names of the Native Daughters and others in the various activities.

Late in the afternoon, the Grand President made a few final remarks after the announcements and communications were given and with adjournment came a big sigh of relief, exclamations of satisfaction, restrained side-conversation and then a rush to greet old friends; laughter and little jokes and shrieks of delight at a few timely quips! By no means was it a dull meeting, there was history in the starry eyes of the Native Daughters and on some of the high official's brows there were lines of determination. There also was a wholesale rush on the Press room for approval of news releases by the Publicity chairman. As a Herald-Express reporter remarked, "These girls surely were full of business!" An old-timer winked playfully and replied, "You haven't heard anything yet." This, of course was quite true, for the reports were many and usually most complete—the meetings were not open to the public, so the reporters were securing their news from the State Chairman of Publicity, Leslye Hicks and her excellent committee members.

On Monday evening there was the Grand Officers' dinner at the Huntington Hotel after which the Civic auditorium was the scene for the Exemplification of Ritual. Many compliments were expressed at the work of the Ritualistic team and the Balloting March which was under the supervision and guidance of S.D.D.G.P. Mrs. Juanita Porter and her able assistants Mrs. Zilpha Archibald and Mrs. Ellen Haskel, also Supervising D.D.G.P. Choral groups were: East Los Angeles, La Tijera, Pasadena and Placerita Parlors. Drill Leader Louise Cash of San Gabriel Parlor and her Drill Escort team furnished a fitting close for the momentous evening session.

On Tuesday, bright and early Anna T. Schiebusch presided and the delegates enjoyed Community singing led by Alice Geishen of La Tijera Parlor, Inglewood. After opening ceremonies, Seats of Honor and Reading of Minutes and the Nomination of Officers caused much stir and interest. Reports on Education, Civic Participation, Scholarships, Pioneer Roster and History and Landmarks followed. Meanwhile much activity was evidenced by the scrapbook contestants and promoters for the "Hicks from the Sticks" luncheon at the Athletic Club. The luncheon committee was chagrined at the over demand for tickets—it seemed that more "Hicks" came out of the "Sticks" than was estimated but the resourceful blond Ruth Etz from Joshua Tree Parlor was an able Chairman. She finally evidenced the Pioneer trait of taking care of every one assembled.

The afternoon session began at 1:45 p.m. with the Grand President's call to order, community singing, the appointment of the Election Board and Introduction of Candidates for Grand Parlor Officers. While she has long been a favorite of the Grand Parlor it was at this meeting that Jewel McSweeney's star began to rise. Truly she is everything wrapped up into one lovely, able, loyal young woman, the incoming new Grand President from El Vespero Parlor, 118, San Francisco! Jewel was Chairman of Laws and Supervision.

Voting for the other candidates started and the smooth, harmonious, yet exciting balloting evidenced the importance of this election to every delegate in the session. In a determined spirit to elect their candidate much campaigning had been going on and most original campaign literature appeared around the hotels, auditorium foyer or was pinned on enthusiastic delegates. For a time there was a tie between Ann Barton and Ann Boyer for Grand Trustee and the final election was as follows:

Grand President, Jewel McSweeney, El Vespero Parlor No. 118, San Francisco.

Grand Vice President, Elmarie Dyke, Junipero No. 141, Monterey.

Grand Marshal, Leslye Hicks, Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, San Francisco.

Grand Secretary, Sallie R. Thaler, Aloha Parlor No. 106, Oakland.

Grand Treasurer, Agnes M. Curry, Portola Parlor No. 172, San Francisco.

Grand Inside Sentinel, Edna B. Heartt, Pasadena Parlor No. 290, Pasadena.

Grand Outside Sentinel, Betty Carpenter, Annie K. Bidwell Parlor No. 168, Chico.

Grand Trustees: Audrey D. Brown, Chairman, Sutter Parlor No. 111, Sacramento; Doris M. Gerrish, Liberty Parlor No. 213, Elk Grove; Norma Hodson, Phoebe A. Hearst No. 214, Manteca; Emily Welch, San Diego Parlor No. 208, San Diego; Phyllis Hirst, Verdugo Parlor No. 240, Glendale; Irma M. Caton, Argonaut Parlor No. 168, Oakland; Ann Boyer, Marguerite Parlor No. 12, Placerville.

Business reports followed and three names of outstanding women were added to the Roll of Honor. They were women who had performed some signal service for the state of California and were not eligible to membership, in the Order of the Native Daughters, as they were not born in the state of California. To date the Honor Roll Committee has honored twenty-five distinguished California women since it was established in 1910 and only five survive. Those so honored are:

Mrs. Spencer Tracy for her children's welfare activity and as founder-President of the John Tracy Clinic.

Mrs. Mary Logan Orcutt of Canoga Park for her civic activities children's welfare, especially, community welfare and recreational and tree conservation interest.

Mrs. Bertha W. Rice, newspaper woman of San Jose Mercury Herald. She is active in San Jose child welfare and an outstanding professional woman who has devoted her life to the progress of California. Later she wrote feature articles for the San Francisco Chronicle. She is now retired and is writing a Biography on California Women from 1832-1854.

The afternoon session met at 1:45 p.m. when the Grand President called the meeting to order and the Chairman on Education delivered an excellent report showing present interest in schools and the encouraging of study and research. Civic participation reports demonstrated continued interest in cooperation with all groups and organizations for Civic Betterment. The scholarships to Universities were announced and recent activities of the History and Landmarks Committee were reported. The Pioneer Roster was emphasized and these reports lasted until adjournment.

An evening of entertainment had been planned by the Program Committee at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, which presented Miss Billie Burke in "Swallows Nest," the Los Angeles County Parlors being hostess for visiting officers, delegates and members. Mrs. Harriet Logan acted as Chairman of this interesting feature. Billie Burke was charmed with the audience and after the show waited to meet many delegates who were interested in complimenting her.

On the next morning, after the opening ceremonies, the Community Singing was more happy and less strained. The reading of the minutes and the report of the election board brought out the keen interest in the Grand Officers election and an expression of independent thinking from the various sections of the hall. The Publicity Report by Leslye Hicks was of tremendous interest and many other reports followed in quick succession.

Here one witnessed how wisely and effectively the Native Daughters had organized each parlor and how harmoniously Grand Officers were cooperating with each other. Matters of finance, ticket-selling, transportation, publicity and many other details that go together for a successful convention program were so specifically delegated that Native Daughters from various sections repeatedly commented on the enjoyable and satisfactory experience they received on being convention delegates.

The Junior Native Daughters were a credit to the order and to the principles for which all Pioneers stand, since they appeared modestly dressed, well behaved and well educated, yet charming and vivacious. Their readings and song selections were beautifully rendered consisting of wholesome sentiment.

The Annual Visit of Grand Officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West, bearing greetings from the Grand President J. Walter Kamp to this 65th Convention was truly thrilling and they were enthusiastically greeted and seated on the platform.

Since the finals of the state-wide Public Speaking contest were also important they were presented early in the afternoon. The two contestants selected after district and zone contests were Bart Dempster of San Francisco City College, who spoke on Father Serra and the California Missions and Mike Schon of Pasadena City College whose subject also was on Father Serra, So Rang the Bells. The splendid speakers were most able and gave excellent presentations of their speeches. Prizes of $50 and $25 were the awards for first and second places. Mike Schon won the first prize. Many delegates voiced their appreciation of the fine speakers and were sympathetic with the losers since it was a difficult contest to judge. Naturally the Pasadena delegates were overjoyed.

The report on Mission Soledad Restoration was made by Orinda Giannini, Past Grand President, who pleased and surprised the audience when she reported the present fund had increased to $7,000. She also announced the intention of a proposal that the Native Sons contribute a fund toward Soledad Mission Restoration. Grand President J. Walter Kamb, N.S.G.W., extended greetings and pledged the cooperation of the Native Sons. He complimented the Order of the Native Daughters for their activity and cooperation with all worthwhile groups in the state.

When the Honorable Joseph R. Knowland was called upon to speak, he sincerely praised the work of the Native Daughters especially emphasizing the Mission Restoration Project. A past Grand President and leading citizen he is recognized statewide for his generosity in talent and fortune. Mr. "Joe" Knowland emphasized the historical significance of the California Missions where Serra and the Pioneers had sown the seed of this great sovereign state of California. He remarked that some call us sentimental about Mission restoration projects but he paused, then added reverently, "We look upon it as historical!" Being the last of the Missions which had not been restored or copied, he voiced enthusiastic approval and stated, not to be outdone by the other Grand Officers he would start the Mission Soledad Native Son's Fund with a contribution of $500.00. Of course the audience paused to be sure it was hearing correctly, then broke out in clamorous applause. Mr. Knowland is the second oldest living Grand Officer of the Native Sons and served the Grand Parlor forty years ago. More than his donation stirred these grateful Native Daughters—it was the spirit of the Pioneer so evident in this famous newspaper publisher and father of California's United States Senator William Knowland who reflects the inherited spirit in his fight for adequate defense of the West Coast against Communism. This was indeed a splendid demonstration of California Pioneer heritage which the speaker and audience share.

Announcements followed by the Grand President and then the meeting was adjourned.

A Night in Old California was the climax of the evening at the Huntington Hotel under the Chairmanship of Miss Grace S. Stoermer. High government officials, delegates, guests and visitors were requested to come to the dinner in California Period Costumes. Prizes were awarded based on costume authenticity and beauty. California's famous leaders and artists assembled to make this favorite feature memorable and entertaining. Gowned superbly and charming in her gay befeathered hat, Grace S. Stoermer welcomed the beloved guests: Eugene Biscailuz, Mary Foy, Joseph Scott and the incomparable Florence Irish. Jose Arias and his Troubadors, played, danced and sang enchanting music which was all so familiar to Old Californians. Also four numbers were finished through the courtesy of Rafael Vega of Cafe Caliente.

Happy descendants from North, South, East and West thrilled for they also represented part of the great symphony of Pioneers—a concert of men and women, memories of their forefathers who toiled, struggled and played together many years ago.

The menu was perfect. They felt safe with Sheriff Biscailuz, secure with the Honorable Joseph Scott, sentimental with the historical narrations of Mary Foy and cheerful with the smiling Florence Irish, proud of the Grand Officers of the Native Sons and Daughters and grateful to Grace S. Stoermer for presenting the colorful, poignant California banquet. The aquecade, a swimming novelty was staged at the pool and presented beauty of motion and comedy relief. The Compton Girl's Swimming team added a gay finale for this phase of the 65th Convention.

Thursday promised to be an equally busy day, hence Grand President Anna Schiebusch called an extra early session at 8:15 a.m. The important reports on Adoption Agency, Inc., Centennials Committee, Native Daughter Home, Grand Historian, Board of Control and other report deliberations continued until adjournment was pronounced by Grand President.

The afternoon sessions included a spirited discussion on Rituals, Oratorical talent and the determined spirit of the Pioneers were highlights of their early presentation. Later when the poised Legislative Chairman, Grace S. Stoermer, presented her recommendations the usual serious and quiet attention cloaked the audience. The business of perpetuating basic principles of the Pioneer and sound government were the objectives. Then followed considerations of Americanism, aiding the unfortunate victims of the Soviets who are forced to live behind the Iron Curtain, supporting sound legislation, opposing waste and the checking of tremendous relief costs.

Then other considerations were the aiding of necessary education, urging a state-wide adult education program in Geriatrics, by helping those who desire to help themselves live longer and add life to their years, and, aid to Veterans and child welfare.

The clear, important report was quickly accepted by the Grand Parlor officers and delegates—a befitting reward for the long hours of research and courageous leadership of the committee under their experienced Chairman.

An announcement of the Scrap Book winners also stirred the Convention because this was another difficult contest to judge. The activity and visual content sections were worthy of a great exhibit for there were many beautiful scrap books, silk, satin, hand carved copper incrustated metal covers with art decorations, included photographs, priceless newspaper clippings, luncheon favors which the different parlors had presented, all were indicative of love and pride, sectional activity and ideals. Only definite regulations and groupings according to population enabled the judges to justify their selections for awards.

The awards were: Group 1—1,000 to 5,000 population:

1. Fairfax Parlor No. 225, Honorable mention, Oakdale No. 125.

Group 2—population 5,000 to 10,000.

1. Centennial Parlor No. 295. Honorable mention Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288.

Group 3—Population 10,000 to 50,000:

1. Tierra Del Rey Parlor No. 300. Honorable mention, San Fernando Mission Parlor No. 280.

Group 4—50,000 to 250,000 population.

1. Tierra del Oro Parlor No. 304. Honorable Mention Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126.

Group 5—250,000 and over:

1. Los Angeles Parlor No. 124. Honorable mention Aloha Parlor No. 106.

1. Menlo Park No. 10. Honorable mention Argonaut Cubs Parlor No. 3.

A few more deliberations followed, then flash announcements, and adjournment until 9 o'clock, when the newly elected Grand Officers were installed.

The brilliant Installation Ceremonies marked another historical event when Jewel McSweeney of San Francisco became Grand President of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. Surrounded by Grand Officers and Trustees she beamed gracefully assuming the highest office in California's oldest women's organization.

On Friday the sightseeing trip to historical sites and famous places ended at the Huntington Library and Art Galley and on Saturday many delegates prolonged their stay to enjoy the last feature on the program, a sea trip to Catalina Island where Emma Osborne, the chairman awaited them.

The 65th Convention now over, left many tired but happy Grand Officers and delegates, who ardently pronounced this Convention the best—the finest they ever attended! Miss Grace S. Stoermer smiled well pleased but thoughtfully answered, "They always say that about every native Daughter of the Golden West Convention we've ever had—I suppose it's a proof that we grow better each year."

Inter-Parlor Group Presents Flags

The greatest nation on earth Thursday, June 14, paid tribute to the greatest symbol of freedom on earth—the United States Flag. It was "Flag Day," the anniversary of the adoption by the freedom-loving Continental Congress of the national emblem June 14, 1777.

In Los Angeles the city-wide observance began at the Hall of Justice, where the Inter-Parlor Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, presented American and California Bear Flags to Star Post American Legion and Los Angeles county officials.

Representing the county in the commemorative program were Roger W. Jessup, chairman of the Board of County Supervisors and Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, member of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, NSGW.

ADA SPILMAN

To the Officers and Members of Argonaut Parlor No. 166

Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your committee, submit the following resolutions in loving memory of our beloved Charter Officer, Ada Spilman, who on the fourteenth day of May, 1951, was called by our Heavenly Father to her eternal reward.

*"The minutes have been written—
 The record book is closed."*

In October, 1908, our beloved "Spillie" joined Argonaut Parlor as its Charter Third Vice President, later becoming its President. For more than thirty-eight years she guided the Parlor with wisdom and understanding as Recording Secretary, retiring from that active office a few years ago, only after she had collapsed at her duties during a Parlor meeting. Though never fully recovered from her serious illness, she accepted the office of Trustee and continued to serve the Parlor in any small capacity within her limited strength.

For over forty-two consecutive years she gave unstintingly of herself, loyally and unflinchingly serving her Parlor and the Order, accepting every duty of office or committee with a willingness seldom encountered and performing these tasks capably and well.

We have lost a true friend, a loyal and devoted member. The sunshine of her smile, her deeds of gold, her handclasp so warm, will live in our hearts forever, a cherished memory of one whose presence made the lives of each of us a little better, a little sweeter, and a little closer to that Heavenly Home where some day we shall all meet again.

We therefore resolve that our sincere sympathy be extended to her son, Herbert, her sisters and grandchildren and that a copy of this resolution be sent to them, a copy spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, and sent to the Grizzly Bear magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.

IN MEMORY OF GRACE MESMER

To the Officers and Members of Tierra del Rey Parlor No. 300, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your committee, appointed to draft a resolution in loving memory of our departed sister, Grace Mesmer, Charter Organist of our Parlor, submit the following:

WHEREAS, our golden chain of membership has been broken and our beloved sister, Grace, has been called to her heavenly home,
*"O Jesus! the very thought of Thee
 With sweetness fills my breast;
 But sweeter far Thy face to see
 And in Thy presence rest."*

WHEREAS, We shall miss her friendship, gracious manner and devotion to our Order.

THEREFORE, be it resolved that we extend to her husband and family our deepest sympathy. Be it further resolved that a copy of this tribute be sent to her husband, a copy spread upon the minutes of our Parlor and a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,

Two More Native Son Parlors Join Grizzly Reader Family

Two more Native Son parlors joined the Grizzly Bear family of 100 per cent subscribers this past month, Calico Parlor No. 309, Barstow, San Bernardino county, and De Anza No. 312, Brawley, Imperial county. Yes, "De Anza" Parlor is correct. It was changed at the 74th Grand Parlor Session in San Diego as the Imperial County parlor is composed of members from most of the Imperial Valley cities and it was felt that the name of the intrepid Spanish explorer would be more suitable.

Your editor is particularly happy to welcome these two new parlors into our list of subscribers. In the roster of Calico Parlor, named for the ghost town of Calico, recently purchased by that illustrious Native Son, Walter Knott, we see many names familiar to us. The same is true of De Anza Parlor. We sojourned in El Centro 1937 to 1940, and we can vouch for the fact that this parlor's membership list reads like a "Who's Who of Imperial county."

Other Native Son Parlors joining the Grizzly family of subscribers recently are Plumas Parlor No. 288, Taylorsville, Plumas county and Pleasanton No. 244, Alameda county.

Because of many inquiries at the Grand Parlors and by letter recently, we outline briefly the plan under which some 37 Native Sons parlors and 35 Native Daughter parlors receive their magazine at $1.00 per year per member, whereas the individual subscription rate is $1.75. The recording secretary of these parlors furnishes us with a list of those members entitled to receive the magazine. These names are added to our master mailing list. Then, the first of each month, the parlor is billed 8 and one-third cents a copy for the number of names we have it credited with on our mailing list. The number billed for each month may vary from month to month, as it is the duty of the secretary, before the 15th of the month preceding date of issue, to notify the magazine of any changes of address (giving old and new address) any suspensions, or any new members to be added. At least once a year he or she should send us a new mailing list for checking against our master list.

We will be glad to answer any further inquiries with regard to information on this subscription set-up if you will just drop us a card.—The Editor.

South Calaveras Grove Preservation Program Gains

In the summer issue of its Bulletin, the Save-the-Redwoods League tells of progress in the program for preservation of the South Calaveras Grove, Tuolumne County, California.

"The Save-the-Redwoods League initiated the present preservation program for South Calaveras Grove," says the Bulletin, "by requesting the California State Park Commission to allocate $500,000 for this project. This was done, and later the allocation was increased to $1,000,000 with the usual provision for matching from sources other than the State.

"Now the Save-the-Redwoods League is in a position to state that through the League a sum of $250,000 will be available for the South Calaveras Grove acquisition in accord with the official program of the California State Park Commission, provided this sum of $250,000 is matched in equal amount in funds from sources other than the State.

"Since the Save-the-Redwoods League has assurance that when $250,000 is raised, it will be matched with an equal amount and since this total of $500,000 in private funds in turn will be matched by the California State Park Commission from Park funds, this will make a total of $1,000,000. This should go far to assure the success of the move to preserve the Big Trees (Sequoia gigantea) in the South Calaveras Grove, since Governor Earl Warren and the California State Park Commission have enthusiastically supported this program, and have indicated that at least $1,000,000 of State funds is allocated to it. A substantial beginning has been made, through the cooperation of the U. S. Forest Service, toward acquiring lands surrounding the Big Trees basin which contain many giant sugar pines, yellow pines, and other important species of trees. This is in addition to the 30,000,000 board feet of sugar pine found within the South Grove.

"It will be remembered that for the acquisition of the North Calaveras Grove, $100,000 was contributed through the Save-the-Redwoods League, and $37,500 through the Calaveras Grove Association, these sums being matched in equal amounts by the State Park Commission. The North Grove now constitutes the Calaveras Big Trees State Park, to which presumably the South Grove, when acquired, will be added for administrative purposes.

"In order to take advantage of definite pledges in the amount of $250,000 that have been made to the League, an equal amount in other private contributions will need to be obtained."

Alturas Parlor Takes Part In Naturalization Program

Superior Judge A. K. Wylie invited Alturas Parlor No. 159, NDGW, to participate in the naturalization ceremonies held in the Superior court of Modoc county, Wednesday, June 20, at which five candidates received their certificates of naturalization.

In the absence of the parlor's citizenship chairman, Past Grand President Irma W. Laird, Dorothy V. Gloster welcomed the new citizens in a patriotic address in which she stressed not only the privileges and blessings of citizenship, but also its obligations.

Katie Doolittle presented each candidate for citizenship with a copy of "The American's Creed" and led them in reading it in unison.

Mildred Boyd presented each new citizen with a United States flag, while Miss Gloster explained the symbolism of the stars and stripes and colors in the flag. The ceremonies concluded with the pledge to the flag.

Our Cover

View of Oakland's skyline with beautiful Lake Merritt in foreground. It is to Oakland that the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West will go this year to celebrate California's 101st birthday, September 9th and 10th. Here on September 9th they will dedicate Joseph R. Knowland State Park, honoring a Past Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, who has probably done more in his lifetime for his beloved state than any other man, and has labored ceaselessly through the years to keep both Orders before the eyes of the public.

The story of Joseph R. Knowland is that of a boy born in Alameda, California, who has become one of the foremost journalists of today, publisher of the powerful Oakland Tribune, a great force for the good of our State. As Grand President and as Past Grand President, Joseph R. Knowland has served the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West well. It is fitting that all Natives gather in the city of Oakland, on the shores of San Francisco Bay on Sunday, September 9th to dedicate a state park in his honor and to take part in the Admission Day Parade, Monday, September 10, 1951.

California 75 Years Ago

*As compiled from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

The Southern Pacific opened its line south to Mojave, Kern county, August 8, 1876. The San Fernando tunnel was so nearly completed that an engine passed through August 12. At the end of the month but a fourteen-mile gap existed on the line between the two points, and preparations were being made for driving the last spike during September with the usual ceremonies.

The sub-treasury in San Francisco advertised to redeem $50,000 in currency with silver at par August 10, and the announcement brought a motley crowd of investors, who began forming a line the evening before. When the redeeming began, most of those in line got left, as the fund was exhausted before they reached the cashier.

Three veins of good coal were uncovered near Corralitis, fifteen miles from Santa Cruz City, and development work was begun upon them.

There were at this time 9,230 school children in Los Angeles, according to the census of that county.

The San Francisco mint coined $4,636,000 during August. It was the largest month's coinage on record in the world.

Minerva Parlor Wins First Place Again At San Rafael

For the second time, first prize for Best Ladies Marching Unit was won by the members of Minerva Parlor No. 2, NDGW, San Francisco, at the San Rafael Mission Fiesta Parade, May 27.

First prize trophy was awarded to the marching unit last year on the same occasion, in addition to trophy for best decorated car.

Antioch Parlor Joins Grizzly Bear Family

Antioch Parlor No. 32, Native Sons of the Golden West, Contra Costa county, has joined the list of parlors subscribing 100 percent for their members since last issue. We hope to hear a great deal in the future from this new parlor to our growing list of readers, as well as from its sister parlor, Antioch No. 223, NDGW.

Margaret Johnson is the new president of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW, San Francisco, being installed Monday evening, July 9, in the Grizzly Bear Library, 414 Mason Street, San Francisco.

1951 Admission Day Celebration Scheduled at Oakland Sept. 8-9-10

By EMMETT P. JOY,

Grand Historian, N. S. G. W.

Oakland will celebrate on September 8-9-10, 1951, commemorating the one hundred and one anniversary of the admission of California into the Union.

Native Sons and Native Daughters from all parts of the Golden state will participate in this colorful event.

Marching units, drum corps, floats and other features will add to the parade. Other events are also being planned to make California's 1951 statehood celebration a notable one.

One hundred and one years ago much of the area which makes up the metropolitan city of Oakland was open fields, colored by oak trees and cattle grazing on the landscape. To the east arose the high hills while to the west the fields were bordered by the restless waters of San Francisco bay.

H. H. Bancroft—History of California, Vol. VI, Page 475 states "In 1850-3 the greater portion of the Peralta grant, from Point Isabel to San Leandro Bay, was bought by different speculators, yet not until the most desirable section of Oakland had been occupied by squatters, who were mainly instrumental in giving a start to the place and procuring town and city charters." The rush of the squatters which in 1850 set in for Oakland was headed by the lawyers A. J. Moon and Horace W. Carpentier, and E. Adams."

A. J. Moon laid out the town of Oakland so named from the many oak trees which grew in the open plain bordering the bay. The city was incorporated in 1852.

Carpentier was elected the first mayor of the city. The original site of the city was located on one side of the San Antonio Slough while on the opposite side were two small settlements. Clinton, among whose first settlers was Moses Chase, then there was the small settlement of San Antonio. These places constituted the town of Brooklyn in 1856. In 1870 Brooklyn was incorporated with the city of Oakland.

Bancroft Vol. VI page 476—"In early times large numbers of wild cattle roamed here, which led to the establishment of tanneries and regular slaughter yards for the San Francisco market. An occasional steamboat service was soon replaced by a ferry, the Hector, followed by the E. Corning, of the Contra Costa Ferry company. The first public school was organized in 1853 at the corner of Market and Seventh streets about the same time that H. Durant opened the Oakland College School preparatory to the College of California, which was incorporated in 1855 and organized in 1860, to merge before the end of the decade into the University of California." Oakland continued to grow; its waterfront was developing which gave impetus to its steady growth.

The first train over the newly completed railroad across the country arrived in Oakland on November 8, 1869.

By 1870 states Bancroft's History of California Vol. VI, page 477: "By 1870 the population had risen to 10,500, strong enough to begin the struggle in earnest for the county seat, which was won in 1874, by 1880 the census showed more than 34,500 inhabitants, including Brooklyn, with all its appurtenances of a well regulated city, and with certain harbor advantages, procured by deepening the outlet of San Antonio creek through the mud flats."

Brooklyn which in 1872 was annexed to Oakland, as its east suburb, was a landing place in 1849 for lumber cutters in the redwoods five miles inward. The dwelling of the Peralta brothers stood nearby, and a Frenchman kept a dairy about Clinton Point for a time."

According to Historic Spots in California counties of the Coast range by Mildred Brooke Hoover: "Lake Merritt, containing 160 acres of water, is unique in that it is a wildfowl sanctuary in the midst of a populous city. It was named in honor of Samuel B. Merritt, a graduate from the medical department of Bowdoin College, who died in 1890. Dr. Merritt served as councilman and was chosen mayor in 1868. He furthered many projects favorable to the development of the young city."

Many well known personages in early California days lived in Oakland; among them being Ina Coolbrith, later California Poet laureate, and Oakland's first librarian. Bret Harte, Joaquin Miller and Jack London.

The port of Oakland developed from its early days into a waterfront covering many miles. The first airplane flight from the United States to the Hawaiian Islands started from the Oakland airport June 28, 1927, when Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hagenberger, took off, this was one of Oakland's historic events.

Oakland which is named for the sturdy California oak tree grew from the days of the gold rush to be one of the largest cities in California.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S -----MESSAGE-----

As time draws closer, we are rapidly approaching that time in the year again, when we as Native Sons of the Golden West will be celebrating Admission Day, our 101st Anniversary, on September 9th. This year the parade and celebration will be held in the city of Oakland, and will be a three day event. The Alameda County Native Sons and Daughters Committee, headed by Brother Frank P. Smith of Piedmont Parlor No. 120, is meeting weekly and are busily engaged in rounding out a well planned and balanced program. A dinner dance is being planned for Saturday night, September 8th at the Hotel Leamington; The Grand Officers will dedicate the Joseph R. Knowland State Park in Oakland on Sunday, September 9th; and of course our annual Admission Day Parade will be held on Monday, September 10th. I urge every member to attend and every Parlor to have representation on this occasion for it is one time during the year, that we as Native Sons of the Golden West can pay tribute and honor to those great men and women who established this great State of California. We also have the opportunity to honor our Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland in taking part in the dedication ceremonies of the State Park named in his honor.

Brother Knowland has done and is doing a great deal for our Order as well as for his community, his State and Nation and it is a fitting tribute that he should have one of our State Parks named in his honor. His loyalty, interest and devotion should serve as an inspiration to all Californians. Let us all plan to attend to make this event the most outstanding in our history for our Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland.

Sincerely and fraternally,

J. WALTER KAMB, Grand President.

Install 300 Officers In Sacramento Rites

Historic Sacramento Fort became the site Saturday evening, July 14 for the largest installation of officers ever held in the 6-year history of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

The event, held just after sunset under the stars of the Fort grounds, drew more than 1,000 persons from throughout California.

Nearly 300 officers from parlors of the two organizations in Sacramento and nearby counties took part in the installation ceremonies.

The event was also a tribute to Joseph R. Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune and chairman of the California Centennials Commission during the recent celebrations, a longtime member and former grand president of the Native Sons.

As a high light of the ceremony, he was presented with a pair of bronze book ends marking the dates of historical markers the two organizations have placed at points of interest throughout California. They were given to Knowland by Mrs. Genevieve Dixon, of Sacramento, chairman of the Native Daughters' centennial committee in that area and co-chairman of the evening.

First to pay tribute to the Oakland publisher was Governor Earl Warren who told of their friendship of some 30 years.

"No man devotes more of his time to his community and his state," Warren said. He then pointed to Knowland's service as chairman of the State Park Commission in which "he has been so careful of the people's money he has had some to turn back at the end of the year."

After remarks by Governor Warren, who headed the group of dignitaries present, Sacramento Municipal Judge Percy G. West introduced the grand presidents of the two organizations, Jewell McSweeney, of San Francisco, head of the Native Daughters, and Walter J. Kamb, of Berkeley, Native Sons' leader.

Philip C. Wilkins, of Sacramento, grand second vice-president of the Native Sons, gave a brief biographical sketch and introduced the guest of honor.

Active for more than 50 years in the Native Sons, Knowland said that "frankly I must admit that this is the most disconcerting of all the many functions in which I have participated."

But he held that the honor given him was only symbolic.

"This affair can be taken as a mass recognition of those inspired with the California spirit who have labored unselfishly to preserve its history, uphold its traditions and to pay deserved homage to the pioneer mothers and fathers of California and to laud their fortitude and self-sacrifice," the publisher declared.

He said that the setting of the ceremony was an appropriate place for such a tribute. The historic landmark was saved through efforts of the Native Sons, Knowland said. He praised the work of Harry Peterson, the fort curator for more than 15 years.

The speaker then traced the efforts of the Native Sons and Daughters and the State Park Commission in preserving places of significance in the history of California.

The two patriotic groups, Knowland declared, laid the groundwork during almost 50 years of work for the centennials celebrations of the past three years.

To briefly appraise the result of the centennials, Knowland declared, "it is but necessary to recall that 1,000,000 citizens of our

Threats to Our Constitution and Our American Way Of Life

By WALDO F. POSTEL

Past President Stanford Parlor No. 76, NSGW

Let us look at the picture abroad. The Communists started the war in Korea. The Koreans have been underrated. The average American regarded them as perhaps the least to be feared of any race in Asia. Yet see what they have done. It has been demonstrated that any of the Asiatic peoples, properly armed, properly trained, and properly fed are equal in warfare to the fighters and soldiers of any other nation or continent. Does this mean anything? Korea is such a small place compared to our large domain. However, look at the map, or better yet, look at a world globe. We are practically surrounded by Communists and Communistic countries comprising over a billion people! Contemplate what Korea, or only a part of Korea, has been able to do. What will happen when a billion Communists are on the march? Our population is only one hundred fifty million. The Communist nations include Russia and Siberia, the Russian satellite countries, densely populated China and, as it looks now, India. Further more, Stalin, if and when he desires, could cross Europe to the Atlantic in less time than Hitler did. Believe it or not, we are on a beachhead! A very serious beachhead indeed because we have no place to go. We have been gradually hemmed in. We have underestimated the power of the Chinese, of the Indian nation, and of Russia and her allies. Looking at the globe we find that the only large areas outside of the United States which are not Communistic are Africa, South America, Canada and Australia. From these areas we can secure no great military aid. Furthermore, we cannot escape to them.

How did we get into this position? I say, and say it without the fear of successful contradiction, that the politicians and office holders and no one else are to blame. True it is that these men loudly proclaim that America has always successfully emerged from any crisis. That may be so, but the politician did not get us out. It was the man on the street, the mother and her sons, the sons themselves who gave their lives, and the people who gave their money who accomplished the successes of the past. We won in spite of the politicians.

Unfortunately, in America today, the office holder and the politician has as his primary objective his reelection to office. His second objective is the success of his Party. This is all wrong. The primary interest of any person seeking or holding public office should be the interest and welfare of the nation. This should come before his own self-interests.

He should lead and have the courage to lead; he should not be swayed by masses in a temporary frenzy or in a hasty mood. Instead, he should be calm, cool, deliberate and bold, and work only for what he thinks is for the best interest of his country, regardless of the fact that his action might result in his defeat at the next election. His defeat is not important. The welfare of the country is. We hear much of Fifth Columns; what we need are spinal columns! It has been said that we have too many Republican Senators and too many Democratic Senators, whereas what we need are United States Senators. The same is true all along the line from the smallest municipal office holder up.

The present Communistic threat with its now powerful and menacing organization and its billion adherents would never have grown so strong had our so-called leaders stood their ground, at least since the First World War. A Theodore Roosevelt or a Grover Cleveland would have handled the situation in its earlier state. Neither would have let anyone push us around. We know and have always known that Russia is fomenting there world-wide disturbances, that Russia has encroached upon and taken over heretofore independent countries, and that the doctrine of Communism contemplates the destruction of all who do not believe in it. Russia intends to destroy us. This is a "Holy War" to destroy the "infidel," and all who are not Communists are "infidels."

Marx, Lenin and Stalin have stated that the world cannot exist half Communist and half Capitalist. That should be plain enough. In other words, it is either that Communism will absorb the world or that Communism must be destroyed. What is your answer or decision? Abraham Lincoln said that the nation cannot exist half free and half slave. The Civil War was fought and the nation is now all free. Are we so blind that we cannot see, and so deaf that we cannot hear?

Years ago we should have told the Communists to stay where they were. We should have told Russia to get her spies and propagandists out of this country. Grover Cleveland had courage in the Venezuelan situation and told Great Britain to keep her hands off. Later Theodore Roosevelt did the same thing with Germany also as regards Venezuela. At those respective periods Great Britain and Germany were stronger and more militant than the United States. These two Presidents had the courage to protect America against any further advancement of European powers because of the threat to American independence. They were unafraid. They were "All Americans."

In 1823, over one hundred years ago, President Monroe without any precedent whatsoever formally announced to the world the Monroe Doctrine, to the effect that the United States would regard as an unfriendly act any attempt on the part of European powers to extend their systems in the Western Hemisphere. Here was real courage and love of country. There was no thought of "what will happen to me" or "will it hurt my Party." There was no precedent for this. It was a bold stroke and it paid off. We did not own the Western Hemisphere, any part of South America, Central America or North America outside of our own boundaries. The Monroe Doctrine was promulgated to keep any possible threat away from the United States. As against this, look what our "leaders" have allowed to happen. Today, and in a time of swift and long-range aircraft, we are surrounded.

In these matters we should be guided by history. The American colonists pleaded with King George. They pleaded and pleaded without result. What followed? They took action and the Revolutionary War gave us our freedom and independence.

We should fight the enemy where we find him. If there are ants in your house you find the nests and destroy them. If there are snakes or other pests upon your land, you find their breeding places and destroy them. The same with disease. When you deal with individual cases, you find the source of the disease and cleanse it. When one has a communicable disease he is isolated. A Communist has a communicable political disease.

The question is, are we too late? Perhaps. We are now practically surrounded. We stand one hundred fifty million against a billion or more. Should the Korean situation be cleaned up, would there not be similar incidents, in Indo-China, in Tibet, in Yugoslavia, or some other far away place? Would we not be continuously spending billions and losing our boys in any place or area selected by Russia, and would we not be killing off the flower of our manhood and spending our sustenance by going hither and thither at the whim and pleasure of Mr. Stalin? Will not the people become so disgruntled and so worn out with the slaughter of their sons and unprecedented taxes that they will be a fertile field for Communism?

It is always easy to set forth a problem. What we want is a solution. I do not think anything will be accomplished by sending messages or propaganda through or behind the Iron Curtain. There has been too much propaganda in Russia against us and the Russians would not believe us. As against your own race and kind and your own countrymen would you accept a radio propaganda message coming from France, Germany, Spain or Russia to the effect that your Government was all wrong and their Government all right? You know the answer.

I do not believe that speeches or editorials full of platitudes, with which speeches and platitudes we all agree, accomplish a single thing. We must have action and we ourselves must be entirely changed. Changed spiritually to such an extent that we are willing to sacrifice all, yes, all, for our ideals, our liberty, our freedom, and, above all, our religion.

I maintain that there must first be a political and civic Reformation among our own people somewhat similar to the religious Reformation which swept Western Europe in the 16th Century. At that time men were beginning to think for themselves, as they had not done for centuries before. The American people, and I mean all of the American people, including especially the politicians and the office holders and office seekers, must put country before self. They must put their rights, their liberties and their freedoms above all things. They must be ready to sacrifice and fight for them. They must learn the value of what they have. They should teach it to others at home and abroad. But, and this is a primary point, they should first demand patriotic endeavor and self-sacrifice from their office holders and office seekers. They must demand that they be leaders and put country above self. Office holders must understand that reelection to office is not important and that if they perform their duty to the nation that should be sufficient reward. This in itself would no doubt result in reelection if that is what they so much desire. We need office holders of greater caliber, men of "sterner stuff."

We should immediately demand of our Government a definite, patriotic and bold stand in the Russian situation. We should give Stalin an ultimatum to get his agents out of this country, to stop undermining our country from within, and to keep out of other countries. Give him six months and no more. We still have our Monroe Doctrine. Let this be our Freedom or American Doctrine! Stalin is out to destroy us. That is admitted. Shall we stand idly by? Must we wait for him to act at his own time and convenience? Shall we let him gun us down? Are we to be continually pushed around? Let us have a showdown. Let us get tough. Let all of us put country above self.

We have a sacred trust. We must account to posterity for our inheritance. Will our suc-

Native Sons

Native Sons, Let's Take A Look At Ourselves

By LEON W. WILLIAMS
San Luis Rey No. 809

This article is written and so intended, that each and every officer and member of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, may visualize along with me, why the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West could and should be, the largest and most influential Order of our great State of California.

Now, let's take a look into the past and future, first let's take note where our boundaries of the State are situated, on the North we have the neighborly State of Oregon, on the East the neighborly States of Nevada, and Arizona, on the South we have the neighborly government of Mexico, and the Pacific Ocean on the West.

Within these boundaries we have the most mysterious, fascinating, rich and healthful State within these United States, superbly the wonder vacation land of the universe. The State of California has an amazing story; it has a part in the chronicle of many nations, and the Gold Rush made the State symbolic of a promised land of plenty.

A century ago tens of thousands of adventurous souls traveled from all parts of the world to work this Western paradise, it was an Odyssey of heroic mold. Many found their hopes realized, some in the Golden sands of the Mother Lode, others in fields which proved more profitable. These were the builders of the foundation of our great commonwealth. In recalling their courage and vision we may possibly find a new inspiration for the future of our Order of Native Sons.

But apart from the thrill and interest in reliving the dramatic scenes of early California, there lies within the Order a splendid opportunity for the development of a greater Order of Native Sons, spiritually, with more brotherly love throughout the state, a more neighborly co-operation which will instill to make a better Order, more aware of its heritage of the past, more appreciative of the fellow members, within and throughout the Order of Native Sons, within the entire State as a whole.

In order to bring the Order of Native Sons of the past, up to the present time and date, it has taken an enormous quantity of painstaking energy and sacrifices of the Grand Parlor Officers of the past, in order for each individual officer to reach his own individual goal, each striving for the enlargement and betterment of the Order, this should be symbolic to the Grand Parlor Officers of the future in prescribing a future for the Order which will eventually make our Order the most outstanding and influential Order within the boundaries of the State of California.

This my Brothers is not wishful dreaming, but could be a reality of the future if each officer and member of the Order from top to bottom, would concentrate on one of just a few things, namely more Brotherly love and a spirit of co-operation amongst the officers and members of all the parlors within this wide state of ours, also to help solve your neighbor parlors difficulties by offering a helpful hand in hours of distress, a hand in time may reward you for your offer by keeping the Parlor from being dropped from the rostrum.

Now let's scrutinize into the population of our Great State for a comparison of population with the Order's membership rolls, and see what the future could hold for the Order, not having the latest in figures for the year of 1951, we note in 1940, we had 21,567 members enrolled in the Order, and going back to the year of 1930, when we had 17,305 members, a period of ten years duration, this makes an increase of approximately 4,162 members, or approximately 21% membership gain each year for the span of ten years.

Now for comparison with the growth in population of our State, in 1940 we had according to the U.S. census, 6,907,387 population. In 1950 we have approximately 12,000,000 population, for a gain of 5,092,613 for the entire state as a whole. Going a little further on the matter of population within the State, I believe that the figures quoted were conservative, and that the largest influx in population has been into Southern California.

This would make approximately 509,261 population increase each year for the past 10 years. This increase in population should make you realize what is in store for the future of the Order state wide.

But for the sake of comparison, we will say the figures are correct, now supposing that we just take 3,000,000, population from the 12,000,000, that we will say represents the Native Sons within the State and prospective members for the Order, in future years to come.

Also before going too far with the figure of 3,000,000, prospective members, let's assume we have 2,000,000, Native Sons of California that for sundry reasons would or could not become members of the Order in the Future, this would leave the figure of 1,000,000 Native Sons eligible for membership in the Order and should be on the membership rolls of the Grand Parlor now.

Of course there are reasons for everything, but in order that any organization may survive, it must have some type, or types, of programs for its future, possibly the reason why we have not 1,000,000 on the membership rolls of our Grand Parlor. Possibly when reading this article you have commenced to realize the reality and need for some type of long term project, plus a long term program of membership organizing state wide, in strength we have the future of the Order of Native Sons.

You possibly wonder how can all this come about, I personally can realize several ways in which this could be a basis for accumulating the foundation for the projects of the future. Of course understand right here, I would not even attempt to give an overall solution of the projects, but I would bet that you would be able, and would give your part, to the solution if given that chance.

Here is how I would accumulate the ideas and suggestions for the foundation of the projects and programs. First, and assuming the Grand Parlor officers would sanction such a step on their part. Create a general questionnaire in printed form, asking various questions of all the members of the Order, leaving plenty room on the questionnaire for any idea or suggestions which the individual member would care to put in the space supplied for him. The Grand Parlor should ask printed questions pertaining to such items as, what changes should be made in the ritualistic work, financial, etc.

By so doing it in this manner, you would allow each and every member of the Order an opportunity to feel he has contributed his part in paying a foundation of the Order for the future. I'm sure the results of these questionnaires would bring forth unheard of results in amazing amounts. The questionnaires could then be distributed through the Subordinate Parlors with instructions that only paid-up members within the particular Parlors should be allowed a questionnaire.

If the Grand Parlor officers so desired, I would gladly and voluntarily free of charge, process all the questionnaires, with one exception, that I could compile them in my own home, and be of no financial loss to myself. I would deem this an honor and privilege for my part in a desirous bigger and better Order.

I feel sincerely that the questionnaires will bring forth many wanted changes, and more faithful goodness than what appears on the surface at the present time, possibly even financial assistance would be offered from untouched sources that is just waiting for the Order to prepare for the future betterment of the Native Sons, WHO KNOWS, its worth a try.

As processing proceeds from month to month, all progress should be publicized in our only publication The Grizzly Bear, in this way each and every member will be kept abreast of the results, and feel he has had a part in laying the foundation for future betterment of the Order.

Brother members I personally feel its all worth a try, what do you think? I certainly would be grateful in hearing from you on the subjects, and any communications you wish to forward to me kindly do so to Route 1, Box 34, Oceanside, California.

Santa Monica Bay Plans For Future Events

A full program is lined up for Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, which began with a closed installation of officers on Tuesday evening, July 24, by District Deputy Anthony Racine.

On Friday evening, August 17, a dinner is planned under the chairmanship of Don Hecker, 1st vice president, for the purpose of raising funds for the hall and grounds improvement. A class initiation and special event night is planned for October 9 to be known as "Gene Biscailuz Night" honoring charter members and Past President Eugene W. Biscailuz of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, famous sheriff of Los Angeles county. Past President Hal Baida is in charge of this event.

Grand Marshal Walter Brandt will be in charge of his parlor's birthday dinner October 20, commemorating its Silver Anniversary.

Santa Monica Bay's widely known Lobster feed will be an event of November 20. Past President Orv De Yoe heads the committee.

Tentative plans have also been made for the annual Christmas party for the children of members in December. Detailed plans of all events will appear from time to time in the Grizzly Bear magazine.

Crack baseball team of Guadalupe Parlor No. 281, NSGW, San Francisco, last month flew to Elko, Nevada, to play a double header. This is thought to be the first time that a Native Son baseball team has traveled out of the state to play a game.

Native Son Program Is Outlined To Deputies

By JIM RITCHEY

In one of the series of similar meeting held throughout the state, Grand President J. Walter Kamb, NSGW, called a dinner meeting in Los Angeles Friday evening, June 22, for the purpose of a full discussion of the program of the Native Sons of the Golden West during the ensuing year.

Grand President Kamb clearly and concisely expressed his views and laid out the work to be accomplished. He particularly urged his officers, supervising and district deputies and appointees to inform the Subordinate Parlors of the fine program the 74th Grand Parlor delegates gave to him and to acquaint every member of the Order with it.

He also stated that during his term all installations of the officers of Subordinate Parlors would be the responsibility of the district deputy grand presidents and that no Grand Parlor officer would be permitted to do this work. Each district deputy will be supplied with the regalia of that office.

The Grand President also emphasized that each district deputy should at all times carry with him his book of the constitution and by-laws, and wear his lapel button. Further, that those who have accepted their respective appointments, have also accepted the responsibility to so conduct themselves as Grand Parlor representatives in such a manner as to lend dignity and honor to the Order.

David W. Stuart, Grand 3rd Vice President; Alfred P. Peracca, Grand Trustee; Walter Brandt, Grand Marshal; Walter H. Odemar and Eldred L. Meyer, Past Grand Presidents; Bernard G. Hiss and Donald E. Van Luven, each delivered short talks.

Evaluating the entire proceedings of the evening, it can be summed up under one caption "Successful." Also, that in our Grand President J. Walter Kamb, we have a fine leader who inspires confidence and cooperation. With a program that we have long waited for and long needed, what are we waiting for? Everyone to work from now on and let's put it over.

The affair was arranged by Alfred P. Peracca, chairman of the Board of Grand Trustees; Roscoe Neiger, supervising district deputy and Walter Brandt, Grand Marshal. Roger Johnson, Past Grand Organist, of Los Angeles No. 45, enlivened the dinner hour with his fine music. SDDGP Roscoe Neiger presided as chairman.

Arrowhead Assembly No. 14, Past President's Association, met Sunday, July 22, at the Hotel Marlin Inn, San Diego. Following the dinner the assembly met for initiation, election and installation of officers.

Joint installation of officers of Napa Parlor No. 62, NSGW and Eshcol Parlor No. 16, NDGW, took place Saturday evening, July 14, at the Native Sons' hall. New president of Napa Parlor is Paul Loeffler and heading Eshcol Parlor is Rosemarie Clarke.

How One Welfare Committee Works

By EUNICE EMERSON

Chairman Welfare Committee
Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW

Editor's Note: Because many parlors have complained about not being able to find welfare work to do, we present the welfare committee report of Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW, as sent in for the Grand Parlor reports, with the thought that it may be of help to others.

Because the membership of Pasadena Parlor No. 290 was vitally interested in Welfare work, several members made a survey in the immediate area to obtain information regarding organizations or groups into which we could direct our philanthropic work. The survey disclosed a Girls' Club being organized in the tenement section of East Pasadena. It was actually two young girls who started the Club by their repeated requests. They had visited Besse Park where the East Pasadena Boys' Club meets and realized that considerably more supervised recreation is offered boys than girls. WHY? Do girls not need a Girls' Club where they can seek supervised recreation, instruction in crafts as well as boys?

This question played heavily upon the mind of Mrs. Lucile Irwin, a member of Pasadena Parlor, and the mother of five children. It was through her investigations and far-seeing eyes that the Girls' Club of Pasadena is what it is today.

In November of 1948 the Club was organized with the original meeting place the Wilson Junior High School gymnasium. The age bracket 6 to 16 years. No girl has ever been barred from membership because of race, color, creed or financial background. The requisite for membership is a desire for friendly wholesome association with other young girls. Pasadena Parlor No. 290 became the first Women's Organization to sponsor the Club. When first organized financial assistance was unnecessary, but hundreds of hours have been spent by our members chaperoning and furnishing transportation on all night camping trips, picnics or sight seeing trips to nearby points. Also in assisting Hazel Bailey, Executive Director, in supervision and instruction in cooking, sewing, knitting, leather tooling, dancing, clay modeling or any other line the girls might want or need. The older girls were instructed in make-up and hair styling.

Membership grew by leaps and bounds. (January 1, 1951 Hazel reported 364 members.) Needless to say the High School gymnasium was very inadequate for a club room. By this time other Organizations in the area had heard of the wonderful work being accomplished, and offered volunteers and financial aid. Early in 1950 the Board of Directors asked for specific pledges from sponsoring Organizations in order that proper facilities might be obtained. We were among the first to make our pledge in the amount of $500.00 to be paid in quarterly installments.

The Board of Directors secured property at 42 North Lotus Street in East Pasadena which had two buildings on the lot. The front structure a new four room office type building and the rear a garage and shed so decrepit it was about to fall down. Our 1950 President, Muriel Fabrick, assumed the enormous responsibility of Housing Chairman with the outstanding assistance of Lucile Irwin. It is impossible to recount the time donated by our members, their husbands and families in cleaning, painting, gardening and any other task necessary to make the new quarters ready for occupancy.

Presentation of American and California Bear flags by Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW, to the Girls' Club of Pasadena at the club house, 42 Locust Street, was a May event, the American Flag being presented by Clela McCord, president and the California Bear Flag by Muriel Fabrick, past president. Back row, left to right; Muriel Fabrick, past president, H. J. Perault, member board of directors Girls' Club; Clela McCord, president. Front row, Patty Pember, Donna Holman and Pauline Hedlund, who accepted the flags on behalf of the club.—J. Allen Hawkins photo.

Mrs. Fabrick secured the donation of an electric refrigerator from the L. C. Taylor Company, and Mrs. Irwin a range and water heater. A local restaurateur donated silver, dishes, glassware and cooking utensils. The result: a modern and fully equipped kitchen. Pasadena Parlor No. 290 furnished the girls lounge completely including furniture, lamps, drapes, even flower bowls and nick nacks.

Past President Muriel Fabrick and Trustee Lucile Irwin have just completed serving two years on the Board of Directors, Mrs. Irwin having served as Secretary-Treasurer one year and Treasurer the second year. Our Second Vice-President Hazel Bailey has just completed two years as Executive Director of the Girls' Club, and the Parlor made the final payment on the pledge in December 1950. At a recent meeting the Parlor voted to present the Club with an American and a California Bear Flag. These were presented on Sunday May 27, 1951 by our President Mrs. Clela McCord and Past President Muriel Fabrick.

Words will never express the pride and esteem the Parlor feels for Hazel in the wonderful job she has done. The outstanding publicity the Parlor and our Organization has received through our association in the Club could hardly be achieved through any other medium. We have been publicly commended at Civic affairs for our outstanding efforts. Mrs. Bailey has appeared three time on radio on behalf of the Club. On Monday, May 21 on radio station KWKW in Pasadena on a Girls' Club program, approximately six minutes of the program was used in announcing the Flag presentation and relating the many ways in which Pasadena Parlor No. 290, Native Daughters of the Golden West, had helped pioneer the Club.

In addition to the Girls' Club work, our committee has paid one years dues in the Parlor for three members in unfortunate circumstances and at Thanksgiving and Christmas made up baskets and delivered to needy members in order that they would share in the warm friendship we in Pasadena feel.

Through the efforts of several of our members and our President Clela McCord, a committee of investigation has been set up to keep our President informed of the needs of our members. Financial assistance will be given these members after approval by the committee. Some instances this will be in the form of a donation, others in the form of a loan to be repaid when the member is able. Funds for this project will be supplied by our committee.

Our funds are raised through projects like any other Parlor. PLAIN HARD WORK. On March 14th, we appeared on radio station KHJ on the program "Women are Wonderful" and came back with $50.00 to credit to our account. Our next project to spend money will be the purchase of equipment for Roosevelt School for handicapped children. We will spend about $50 to $60 but at present the exact purchase is unknown.

Some 73 women attended the luncheon and card party of Fruitvale Junior Unit No. 22, NDGW, recently.

Threats To Constitution And American Way of Life

...we have the freedoms and liberties which we enjoy. Remember, we did not create them. We did not even earn them. Are we worthy of them? They were given to us by others who fought dearly for them. What will be left when we are gone? Many species of birds, beasts and vegetation have disappeared from the earth because the last seed was gone and there was no survivor. Liberty and freedom have been eradicated from the rest of the world. They are still here. Will they be destroyed here as elsewhere?

Let us nobly and bravely do our part so that liberty and freedom shall not perish from the earth.

Plans Advanced For Big Drum and Bugle Corps

Promotion of an all Southern California Drum and Bugle Corps, to be sponsored by the Native Sons of the Golden West, is announced by Sam Kirk, past president of Pasadena Parlor No. 296. It is desired to recruit at least 60 members for this project at once. Each parlor is being asked to survey high schools and other sources for prospective members for the corps. Uniforms and instruments are available at once for 60 members. It is quite possible that work of organizing the corps will be coordinated through the Southern District Inter-Parlor Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. Additional information may be obtained by writing Sam Kirk, 646 West Sierra Madre, Sierra Madre.

California Events Preceding Statehood

By EMMETT P. JOY,
Grand Historian N. S. G. W.

Commodore John D. Sloat proclaimed California free from Mexican rule at Monterey in July, 1846. He also proclaimed it a territory of the United States. He informed the people that until the United States should erect a government in California it would remain under the authority and protection of military laws and assured the people their rights of property and suffrage would be respected. California remained under military government until 1849. During that year Brig. General Bennet Riley, the last of the military governors, arrived at Monterey on April 12, with instructions from Washington to assume the administration of civil affairs in California. On June 3, 1849 Governor Riley issued a proclamation recommending the formation of a State Constitution or plan of a Territorial Government.

In pursuance of Governor Riley's proclamation forty-eight delegates were elected to the Constitutional convention to be held in Colton Hall, Monterey. Dr. Robert Semple was chosen president of the convention and held its first meeting on September 1, 1849. The labors of the convention were successful. The constitution was unanimous in accepting among its provisions that the ideas of Slavery should be forbidden, that the coast from Oregon to Mexico should be one state, and that California be admitted into the Union. It was a Constitution remarkable for the wisdom and liberality of its provisions and was adopted shortly afterward and ratified by the people. As soon as possible after the adjournment of the convention on October 13, preparations for a general election were made, candidates for the various offices took the field.

According to "Political Conventions in California" by Winfield J. Davis, "The first political mass meeting in California assembled at San Francisco, October 25, 1849. It was composed of democrats, and was called in view of the election to be held November 13th following to vote on the question of the adoption of the Constitution, and for the selection of governor, lieutenant governor, members of Congress and of the legislature. John W. Geary was the presiding officer. The attendance was so large that the meeting was compelled to adjourn from a hall to the public square."

"On October 25th a meeting was held at Sacramento to "talk about the new Constitution" and the candidates to be voted for at the November election.

"On October 29th, a large political meeting called "without distinction of party" was held at Sacramento," to hear the report of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention, and to consider matters with the approaching election. A public meeting was also held at Monterey on October 30th.

The election was held on November 13th and the constitution was ratified. Peter H. Burnett was elected California's first state governor. John McDougall was elected lieutenant governor, and Edward Gilbert and George W. Wright were chosen as representatives to Congress.

On December 18th the state legislature met in joint convention in San Jose and Governor Burnett proclaimed the constitution, formed at Monterey, the Constitution of California. G. W. Gwin and John C. Fremont were elected as United States Senators.

The state government was established months before California's admission into

California State Picnic Long Beach Recreational Park, September 30

Members of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, together with their families and friends, are eagerly planning for the Second Annual California State picnic to be held Sunday, September 30, at beautiful Recreation Park, Long Beach, under sponsorship of the Southern District Inter-Parlor Committee, with Grand Trustee Alfred P. Peracca as general picnic chairman.

Each family will bring their own basket lunch. Coffee and soft drinks will be for sale at a nominal charge. There will be games, prizes and entertainment for old and young alike, with something doing all the time. There will be no charge for registration.

A tentative program released by the committee as we went to press was as follows:

11 a.m. to 12 noon Children's games.

12 noon to 1:30 p.m. picnic

2:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Platform program, with speakers, entertainment, introduction of California dignitaries, honoring of oldest Native Son and Native Daughters present, as well as recognition of the Native Californian traveling the greatest distance to attend.

3:30 to 4:30: Games for all.

Although under the sponsorship of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, it is stressed that the California state picnic is for all Californians, their families and friends, whether members of the Orders or not.

Picnics of former residents of other states have long been famous in California, drawing immense crowds every year, but until last year Californians had no state picnic of their own. The plan for such a picnic was advanced and sponsored last year for the first time by the Inter-Parlor Committee and the first annual picnic held at Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, being attended by visitors from as far away as Santa Barbara and San Diego.

Spurred on by the success of last year's event, the committee chose Recreation Park, Long Beach, as being ideally situated.

Besides, bringing Californians together from far and near, for their own picnic, the affair offers a splendid opportunity to obtain names of prospective members for the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

If you haven't already done so, plan now to attend the Second Annual California state picnic at Recreation Park, Long Beach, Sunday, September 30, with your family and friends. Come early and stay late. It will be a day that you will long remember.

Ide Park Fund Is Paid To State, Project Nears

The Ide Adobe State Park came a step closer to realization recently with the announcement that the balance of the required local matching funds had been turned over to the state.

Rawlins Coffman, acting for the William B. Ide Parlor No. 15, Native Sons of the Golden West, announced that he had mailed to the office of the state attorney general checks totaling $4402.35 from the county of Tehama and the city of Red Bluff.

The action followed receipt of a letter from Walter S. Rountree, deputy attorney general, containing a revised estimate of the cost of acquiring the historic property north of Red Bluff.

As the result of the judgment in the condemnation trial held here this year, the total cost of the property was set at $23,624.70. Of this total, the state is obligated to pay $11,812.35 and the city and county the same amount.

Local funds already deposited with the state totaled $7410—$2211 from the city of Red Bluff and $5199 from Tehama county—leaving a balance of $4402.35 which was covered by the checks. This final payment represented $1500 from the city of Red Bluff and $2902.35 from the county.

The next step, according to Coffman, will be to ask the Legislature to appropriate funds to restore the adobe and put the property in condition for operation as a park. This cannot be done until the next session of the Legislature. Under terms of a contract with the state, the county of Tehama and the city of Red Bluff are to have charge of the management and operation of the park for the next 20 years.

Depositing of funds for the acquisition of the park marks the culmination of some 16 years of effort on the part of various groups and individuals. Among those who played prominent roles in the early stages of the campaign were former state senator Jack Metzger, George Gowney, Sr., and Dr. Fred B. Godbolt.

When the local parlor of the Native Sons was formed in 1947 it took as its main project the campaign to have a state park made of the historic adobe constructed by one of the key figures of the Bear Flag Republic.

Famous Bear Flag Returned To Stephen M. White Parlor

The famous Bear Flag presented 20 years ago to the Texas Oil Co's Tanker "California" was recently returned to the parlor through the courtesy of Dan Dobeler, marine superintendent of that company, according to the Stephen M. White Log. It was his thought that when this noble ship was retired with the flag having traveled over a half million miles, that Stephen M. White should have it. The flag was presented on behalf of the Texas company to the parlor by parlor member, C. V. Peterson, port engineer (San Pedro Harbor) for the company. Joe Ivelia, newly elected president of the parlor, accepted the cherished flag.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Now that we are all rested after our summer vacations, and our families are once again united, it is time to give some serious thought and assistance to our Order. Our Parlor officers are looking for your support and assistance and especially your attendance at all meetings. We have several projects presented to us this year and we must give them serious consideration and support. Our Public Speaking Contest Committee has met and is hard at work preparing the rules and regulations for this year's contest and all the literature regarding this program will be in the hands of all concerned no later than the second week in September.

Our Charity Foundation Committee has met and is busily engaged in drafting its plans, however you can start your plans for raising funds for this worthwhile project. Get your Athletic Committee working and encourage inter-Parlor competition in bowling, soft-ball, hard-ball, basket-ball, horse shoes, or whatever you?

We have several public dedications to perform during the month of September, perhaps there is a new building in your community awaiting our services. Also, how about a class of candidates for the Grand Officers to initiate? How about a fund-raising affair to aid the Native Daughters in their Mission Soledad restoration project and/or our float to be entered in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day? Has your Parlor looked into the possibility of organizing a Junior Order in your community? We have many projects so let's not delay but start today.

J. WALTER KAMB.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

To the Officers and Members of Subordinate Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Dear Sisters:

Tonight, as I gaze upon my calendar and count the days that pass, the twenty-fifth of September stands out as a beacon of light, of dreams and of vision, because on that day in the year of eighteen hundred and eighty-six, Lily O. Reuchling Dyer, of Ursula Parlor No. 1, founded for us the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

It is time for Native Daughters everywhere to recapture the dream and vision of that little band of women who founded for us and the State of California a patriotic association, builded upon the cornerstone of devotion to the Flag of our country, love of home, veneration of the pioneer and an abiding faith in the existence of God.

As I travel the highway today as your Grand President, I count a thousand memories. Some of them are close to me and some are far away. I talk to friends and strangers and share with them their sorrows and their happy hours, too. I share with them their opportunities, their pride—and each and every memory is one that helps my humble heart live a better life.

I contemplate tonight the blessing that is ours in membership in so fine a society and I see reflected down through the years the plans, the thoughts, the tears. I see, too, the smiles, the prayers, the progress and those occasions when we've lightened some ones cares.

These wants and desires have made us a great organization and as I travel down memory lane, they all wend their way back to the founding of our Order.

I trust that no Parlor in our State will let our sixty-fifth anniversary pass without special recognition. Plan a program for your Parlor—a civic tea, a dinner, a luncheon, or a radio broadcast. In some way impress upon your members and the citizens of your respective communities that the members of our Order are proud of their great heritage and pay tribute to the foresight and courage of the little band of women who founded for us the Native Daughters of the Golden West—an outstanding organization for outstanding women.

Sincerely and fraternally yours,
JEWEL McSWEENEY,
Grand President.

Let's all go for an outing we'll long remember. Long Beach, Sunday, September 30. We'll be seein' you.

Sailing Of The Good Ship Jewel McSweeney

On July 19, 1951, Grand President Jewel McSweeney made her first Official Visit in the state to Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, San Francisco. The meeting was held in the Native Daughter home, and the meeting hall was filled to capacity with every seat taken and many members standing and sitting on the platforms.

The theme of the evening was unique, indeed, as a nautical theme combined with Americanism was used. Life-savers about the room indicated that the good ship McSweeney was about to set sail. The climax of an eventful evening came, with the marching in of an escort team, in authentic Navy White Sailor suits, to "Anchors A-way," the Grand President, a vision of beauty in white net, with a lovely red carnation lei, was escorted. She acknowledged in gracious manner, the salute of the sailors, returning a commanding officer's salute in return.

The preliminary part of the evening included, the escort of the Grand President; "Bless this Home," a solo by Leslye Hicks to pronounce the Order's principle "Love of Home," a beautiful "Tribute to the Flag" by Martha Field; dedication of a new California Bear Flag by Grand President Jewel McSweeney.

Five candidates were initiated. Many parlors throughout the entire state were represented. The following Grand Officers were escorted, Grand Vice President Elmarie H. Dyke; Grand Treasurer Agnes M. Curry; Grand Marshal Leslye A. Hicks; Grand Outside Sentinel, Bette Carpenter; Grand Trustees Audrey Brown, Doris Gerrish, and Irma Caton; The following Past Grand Presidents were in attendance: Mae B. Wilkin, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Cora Sifford, Evelyn I. Carlson, Estelle Evans, Mae Himes Noonan, Ethel C. Enos, Orinda G. Giannini, Loretta M. Cameron, May Boldemann, Margaret Farnsworth, Anna Thuesen, and Henrietta Toothaker. Supervising Deputy Mary C. Mahoney and Deputy Grand President Edna Erney, both of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, were escorted.

The officers headed by Harriet Cole of Buena Vista Parlor, gave an excellent exemplification of the ritual ceremonies and a fine report for the year's activities was prepared and read by Margaret Barrett. Under presentation of gifts, in addition to the personal gift to the Grand President, Buena Vista Parlor presented a check for $25.00 the initial start for a new project of Grand President Jewel McSweeney, for a Native Daughter Home Foundation Fund. This fund will eventually become a fund for the use of the women living in the Native Daughter home who may need care over and above that now offered by the home.

Grand President Jewel McSweeney gave a stirring address and the evening was one of friendliness and good fellowship, combined with serious thinking for the future, made the first Official Visit a pleasant and outstanding one.

Bon Voyage—Jewel McSweeney as we set aside your ship on the loveliest night of our year.

Native Daughter Notes

Aloha Parlor No. 106, NDGW, Oakland is extremely proud of the fact that one of its hardest working members, Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler was re-elected Grand Secretary at the recent Grand Parlor Session and is now entering her 25th year in this important position. May the Grizzly Bear also extend its congratulations.

Dolores Parlor, San Francisco, held a delightful picnic at Shangri-La Park, Woodside, last month, which was enjoyed by all. Myrtle Bottini, member of Dolores since 1911, is now state president of the Past Presidents' Association.

Auburn Parlor No. 233, NDGW, has had as its project for the past year or more, sponsorship of two patients at Weimar Joint Sanatorium, Weimar. Veta Owen, financial secretary and Leona Leak, another member of the parlor, are Gray Ladies at Weimar and faithfully make the trip every Wednesday bringing cheer to all they come in contact with. Hundreds of magazines are brought in by the members for distribution. The parlor has also contributed cash for little gifts for the patients.

Berryessa Parlor, NDGW, took first prize in the recent Lamb Derby contest at Willows.

An interesting feature of the installation ceremonies at Mount Lassen Parlor, Bieber, recently, was the initiation of six candidates, all related. There were three sisters, daughters of two of the sisters and a cousin.

Alturas Parlor is concerned with the report that the bronze bear on the top of the Modoc War Battlefield monument in the lava beds has been removed by vandals. The monument was erected and dedicated by Alturas Parlor, NDGW, in 1926.

Many Grand Officers, together with three Past Grand Presidents, were present for colorful ceremonies that marked the installation of President Madaline Reber and her corps of officers of East Los Angeles Parlor recently by DGP Ellen Wilson and her group of installing officers.

Drill Team of Bonita Parlor, Redwood City, placed fourth in the July 4th parade in that city and also took second place honors in the Gilroy Gymkhana parade July 13th.

The joint committee of Whittier Parlor No. 298, NDGW, and Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, is hard at work on plans for their first annual Barbecue Sunday, October 7, at Streamland Park.

RESOLUTIONS

HAZEL POOLE DRIGGS

To the Officers and Members of Luzoma Parlor No. 141, N.D.G.W.

WHEREAS, the previous ties of love, friendship, and fraternity once again have been suddenly severed and our hearts are filled with sorrow in the loss of one of our sisters, Hazel Poole Driggs. These sudden breaking of golden threads are only another of the many mysteries that surround us, but we are assured that for each mystery there is a key and that sometime we'll understand.

IT IS RESOLVED that we extend to her bereaved family our sincere sympathy. May they find much comfort knowing that the world was made better by her living in it, and the spirit of kindness she exemplified in her daily walks of life will stand as a monument that time cannot erase.

Goodbye, till morning comes again.

We part, it part we meet with pain.

But night is short and hope is sweet.

Earth tells our hearts and wings our feet.

And so we sing the old refrain.

Goodbye, till morning comes again.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this Resolution be sent to her family, to the Grizzly Bear Magazine, and that it be spread upon the Minutes of the Parlor.

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE,

MARGARET BOEHM, Chairman

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that this Resolution of Respect to the memory of our beloved sister Mattie Parks-Toland be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, that a copy be sent to the surviving relatives and a copy to the Grizzly Bear Magazine.

the galaxy of states. John C. Fremont and Gavin with the representative to Congress left for Washington to request, in the name of the people, that California be admitted to the Union.

In Washington the question of the admission of California had become the chief topic. Many debates were held regarding resolutions which continued for many months, by the end of July, 1850, they had been so altered and amended that nothing remained of their original features.

It was during the midst of this conflict that the California delegation arrived and added to the excitement.

Ultimately, the President requested that the California delegation make a joint communication to Congress upon the necessity of admitting California aside from other considerations. The request was complied with and the problem of California was laid before both houses. The struggle was maintained until August 13th when the bill for the admission of California passed the Senate by a vote of 34 to 18. On the 7th of September, the House of Representatives passed the California bill by a vote of 150 to 56. The act was approved on September 9th, 1850 and California was admitted to the Union as the thirty-first state.

Past Grand President

Charles A. Thompson Injured

Past Grand President Charles A. Thompson, Santa Clara Parlor No. 100, NSGW, was severely injured in an auto collision on August 15 on the Bayshore highway near Palo Alto and has been confined to the Palo Alto hospital since the accident.

He suffered a fracture of the right leg and right wrist, and was placed in a cast. Reports at press time indicate a good recovery with about three more weeks confinement in the hospital before he will be moved to his Santa Clara home.

Uninjured and the driver of the car in which he was hurt, was Robley Morgan, also of Santa Clara parlor.

Judge Thompson retired from the bench about a year ago and has re-entered the private practice of law.

By the time that this goes to press local contests by the parlors to chose their candidates for the "Girl of the Golden West" should be nearly completed so that plans can soon be made for the five district contests. We do not have information on all parlors

State co-chairmen of the float committee, Jim Ritchey and Edna T. Neikirk, report that we have a beautiful float designed for this year which should be worthy competition for the theme prize, if the executive committee of the Native Sons and Daughters Tournament of Roses float project has the money to spend. Theme of the float is "Reign of Peace."

Chairman John Anderson states that all surplus from the Grand Ball will be added to the float fund for the Native Sons and Daughters entry in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade New Years Day.

My Pioneer Ancestry

By HELEN VANGULPEN HARRIS
Aloha Parlor No. 106, NDGW

The inspiration to write this story of a proud heritage came to me on February 22, 1951, the anniversary of the birth of my beloved father, George Washington Van Gulpen. Indeed, it was entirely fitting that I should have begun this narrative that day, when memories of my father so occupied my mind.

My paternal grandfather, Carl VanGulpen, was born in Aixla-Chapelle, Germany, was educated at University Heidelberg and later became an officer in the Prussian army. Like many other pioneers to whom life in the "old country" was distasteful, he emigrated to America, coming to San Francisco, California, around the Horn by sailing vessel in 1850. During the early eighteen-fifties he became an active member of the Vigilance Committee. Aside from his general education, Carl VanGulpen was a celebrated pianist and preeminent among local pianists in the major musical events of 1850-1852 in San Francisco. His interest in music and musical artists led to his marriage with Matilda Korsinski, a noted Polish prima donna soprano from the San Carlos Opera Company of Naples, Italy. They had two sons, of whom my father was the elder. He was born in San Francisco in 1858. A tintype made on patent leather showing my paternal grandfather and grandmother holding my father as an infant was presented by me to Sutter's Fort Historical Museum in June of 1945. My family connection with the Sutters will be mentioned later.

On November 2, 1850, there appeared the following announcement in the Alta California, the only daily newspaper published at that time:

"Jenny Lind Theater (Parker House), sole proprietor, T. Maguire; manager and director, M. A. Sweet. The following ladies and gentlemen have been engaged. Mme Korsinski Von Gulpen of San Carlos, Naples, and New York Theatres; xxx M. Pascal, the celebrated violinist; Herr C. Von Gulpen, the celebrated pianist, xxx. Admission $2. Doors open at 7. Performance at 7:30."

This was the first important announcement concerning theatrical or musical news following the conflagration of May 4, 1850, which destroyed most of San Francisco, including the greater part of the amusement and business district. It is to be noted that the "Von" instead of "Van" in the surname of my grandparents was, no doubt, the name under which my grandfather was born. However, the ancestral family was Holland Dutch, and the "Van" in the original name was again adopted by him sometime after he came to America seeking freedom from a militaristic Germany.

On or about February 8, 1851, San Francisco heard grand opera for the first time, when the entire opera "La Sonnambula" was given. It was such a success that it was repeated the next night. According to the Alta California, "On the evening following these two operatic concerts there took place another musical event of major proportions, namely, a concert given by Mme. Korsinski Von Gulpen, imported by Tom Maguire for the Jenny Lind Theatre, and who hailed from the San Carlos Opera of Naples, Italy." The advertisement in the Alta California announcing this third concert included a complete program, as follows:

"Program

Solo for flute on melodies from "Sonnambula" and "Puritani," executed by Mr. Bigot de Premeneau, first flutist from Paris.....Remusat
"Ernani, Ernani in voa me," cantate from the opera of "Ernani," sung by Mad. von Gulpen
.....Verdi

Intermission

"Je suis de Bayadere," the much admired French chansonette, with accompaniment of the tambourine, Mad. von Gulpen.....Bochsa Polonaise for flute and piano, composed and executed by Mr. Bigot de Premeneau.

"The Last Rose of Summer," Mad. von Gulpen
Comic air from the opera "L'Elisir d'Amore," sung in costume by Mr. Benedetto.....Auber Solo for violoncello and piano, Mr. Ehrish.
The celebrated Buffo duet from "L'Elisir d'Amore," Adina, Mad. von Gulpen, Dr. Duca-mara, Mr. Benedetto, sung in costume.....Donizetti."

At the end of the program, there was a line which read "Tickets at Atwill's Music Store." This is the first record of the existence of any music store in San Francisco. Also, for the first time, the performance was announced to begin at 8 o'clock, instead of 6, 6:30, 7, or 7:30 o'clock, as formerly, after

No cover that the Grizzly Bear has run in recent years is a source of greater pride than the tail face view of the bronze bust of Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland on the front of this issue.

The monument presented by the parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West throughout the state, was unveiled at the dedication of the Joseph R. Knowland State Park in Oakland, Sunday, September 9th, the ceremonies being detailed at length elsewhere in the Grizzly.

Listed on the plaque are several of the many accomplishments of Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland.

The Past Grand President is one of our state's most distinguished citizens having devoted a life-time to the advancement of California and the Native Sons of the Golden West. It is most fitting that the Order should have taken this opportunity to so honor him for the great service that he has rendered on behalf of all Californians.

California 75 Years Ago

*A compilation from the files of the
Grizzly Bear Magazine*

The political presidential campaign was red hot in California during October 1876. Marching clubs paraded nightly and political meetings followed in halls, rooms of in the open air, in the principal cities and towns. The Democratic slogan was, "Turn the rascals out," while that of the Republicans was, "Keep the Copperheads out."

The centennial anniversary of the establishment of Mission Dolores in San Francisco was celebrated October 3. Archbishop Alemany officiated in a pontifical mass and delivered a sermon in Spanish, after which a large procession formed and paraded through the principal streets. The military companies, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Pioneer Association and several thousand citizens were in line. The procession was over three hours passing a given point. They marched to the capacious Mechanics Institute pavilion where, on account of the jam, thousands who desired to do so could not enter. Governor William Irwin was president of the day. Hon. J. W. Dwinelle delivered an oration in English and General M. G. Vallejo followed with one in Spanish. B. T. Oliver read an original poem and the mayors of San Francisco and San Jose delivered addresses. The cornerstone of a new church was laid at the Mission Dolores in the afternoon.

J. Mittis, near Downey, Los Angeles county, made a shipment of five tons of walnuts to San Francisco. The product was from his English walnut tree grove and attracted wide attention.

Juan Valenzuela, in Los Angeles, was the father of his twentieth child. The children ranged in ages from 50 years down.

A company was formed in Los Angeles to plant eucalyptus trees. It had bought 400 acres of land and planted 10,000 trees and was preparing to plant 40,000 more. It expected to harvest a big supply of cordwood for fuel purposes in the distant future.

The cigar factory of the Consolidated Tobacco Company at Gilroy, Santa Clara county, was burned by an incendiary October 23, causing a $200,000 loss. The tobacco-raising industry of that section received a solar plexus blow.

Californian Finds Easy Way To Prevent Forest Fires

Asa T. Jefferson, teacher at Vallejo, has won the hearty endorsement of forest fire experts for his idea as to how to prevent cigarette fires starting forest fires.

He uses a Cary an empty cartridge of .38 or .44 caliber caliber on cigarette trips. Put the growing end of the cigarette butt in the cartridge. The cartridge is slowly around the cigarette and will snuff it out in a fraction of a minute.

Jefferson sent a letter to Frank Jefferson, the editor, chief of California region of the U.S. Forest Service. Jefferson tested the idea successfully, and recommends it to smokers as an additional safeguard in forest and range areas where smoking can be done safely in accordance with legal requirements.

The forester pointed out that smokers were the No. 1 cause of wildfires in California last year.

NESTLED IN A GROVE of giant pepper trees, this original adobe house has withstood the ravages of time for more than a century. Known as La Casa de la Centinela, the historic landmark is located west of the new Freeman boulevard link and just north of Florence Avenue, Inglewood. Property will be dedicated as an old California landmark through the efforts of the La Casa de la Centinela association. It is known that the adobe existed in 1844. Members of the La Tijera Parlor No. 282, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Inglewood, are greatly interested in the preservation of this historic adobe.—Photo Lindburg Studio.

La Casa de la Centinela

La Casa de la Centinela—a beautiful name for an even more beautiful early California home. It is one of the very few adobe buildings constructed more than a century ago still proudly standing as a reminder of our colorful past, the only one in all of Centinela Valley.

Some of our more prominent California adobes are no lovelier, nor do they have any more exciting background than the Casa of the Rancho Aguaje de la Centinela. The Rancho itself lay around the bubbling Centinela Springs. Their name was derived from the use of the springs by those guarding the little pueblo, now grown to be the great city of Los Angeles. At one time, when pirates were raiding the coastal regions, guards were placed along the Playa del Rey hills to warn residents of the approach of danger. The only fresh water available to them was five miles inland. Hence their camp was made at the gushing springs, the springs of the sentinels, Aguaje de la Centinela.

The builders of the Casa chose the most desirable spot in the vicinity. Located west of the springs, it crowned a rolling hill above Centinela creek where marshy damp ground could not damage its thick adobe walls!

White men used the area for pasture since 1871. As the Spanish soldiers left the army and settled in this new land, they were granted land in reward for their services. One of these was Don Francisco Avila, whose home still stands on Olvera street, in Los Angeles. A son, Antonio Avila, was granted the large Rancho Sausal Redondo, covering the entire Centinela Valley. However, Ygnacio Machado claimed the northeast section of this vast rancho, and in 1844 Governor Micheltorena of Mexico granted him title to that small portion. Because of a ruling that no land grants would be made unless there was a house built on the land, it is known that the adobe was in existence at that time. In 1845, Machado, tired of ranch life, traded his rancho to Bruno Avila, brother of the owner of Rancho Sausal Redondo, for a small adobe house in Los Angeles.

In 1856, Avila borrowed $900, giving the rancho as security. He agreed to pay interest at the rate of six per cent per month, or seventy-two per cent a year, and defaulted in payment. The rancho was sold at sheriff's sale to Hilliard P. Dorsey for the sum of $2000. Fifteen months later Dorsey sold the rancho to Francis I. Carpenter for $1000. In 1859, Carpenter sold it to Joseph Lancaster Brent, the first president of the Los Angeles Board of Education.

Brent was not able to stay at the ranch for long, for in 1860 he sold his holdings to Robert Burnett of Scotland in order to join the Confederate Army, with whom he fought until his death on the battlefield at Gettysburg.

Robert Burnett occupied the old Machado-Bruno Avila adobe for thirteen years, and operated the rancho as a sheep ranch. In 1868 he purchased the Rancho Sausal Redondo reuniting the two under the name of Rancho Centinela. The rancho again spread over the entire Centinela Valley, reaching from what is now Centinela Avenue on the north, Prairie Avenue on the east, almost to the Palos Verdes hills on the south, and west to the Pacific Ocean.

Death in the family making Robert Burnett heir to the ancestral estate required his return to Scotland in 1873. It was then that Daniel Freeman, who had come from Canada for his wife's health, leased the ranch with option to buy. Although Mrs. Freeman lived only a year after coming to the ranch, Daniel Freeman remained in the Casa and raised his family there. During this time he made the wooden addition to the original adobe structure plainly visible today. It was not until 1889 that he moved from the adobe to a new mansion on Grace street near Hillcrest Boulevard. Daniel Freeman, founder of the city of Inglewood, was the second president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Of the many people who have lived in the adobe since Daniel Freeman, none have shown as much interest as Mrs. Martha Crawford. She so desired to save the building that she wrote to the United States Department of the Interior. This department sent out surveyors who conducted a comprehensive study of the building and submitted detailed plans and reports. As a result, this adobe is now listed as a Historic American Building worthy of preservation and so recorded in the Library of Congress.

It seems impossible to believe that a building of such beauty and historical significance can possibly be lost to posterity. How many times have we expressed regret over losing something of great value because we did not act soon enough? Thousands of dollars are spent to construct replicas of historically famous buildings after the originals are destroyed or lost through neglect.

With the above in mind a group of civic minded citizens of Centinela Valley have recently perfected a non-profit corporation, named "The La Casa de la Centinela Association," with the purpose of purchasing this property by popular subscription and dedicating it as an outstanding historical landmark of the Centinela Valley for the benefit of present and future generations and particularly of historical interest to the children being educated in our schools. The group has begun the restoration of the adobe and grounds to as near its original condition as possible, and it is open to visitation by the public on Sundays and Wednesdays from 2:00 to 4:00 P.M. Special groups, such as Clubs, school children and Scouts, may make arrangements for visitation on either Tuesdays or Thursdays by contacting the secretary of the Association, Mrs. George Eberle, 2500 West 84th Place, Inglewood 4, California, phone: THornwall 2164. The adobe will also include a collection of manuscripts and articles of historical significance to the Centinela Valley.

The furniture with which the large bedroom on the Centinela adobe is furnished comes from the Rancho home of the Sepulvedas of Los Palos Verdes. It was imported from Spain about 1802 to Dolores Sepulveda, great grandfather of Mrs. Florence Dodson Schoneman who is well known in Native Daughter circles. Both Mrs. Schoneman and her mother were born in the bed which is included in this group. Many personal belongings displayed with the bedroom pieces were originally owned by Maria Ygnacio Avila de Sepulveda and used by her in the Avila house on Olvera street, in Los Angeles, which was the family home before her marriage to Dolores Sepulveda.

Mrs. Schoneman is known as the godmother of Olvera street and is an authority on the History of the State of California and of the early Spanish California families. She has

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Joseph R. Knowland Honored At Admission Day Ceremonies

California was 101 years old September 9th and its biggest birthday present was a 153-acre state park.

The Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West formally dedicated Knowland State Arboretum and Park at 98th Avenue and Mountain Boulevard, Oakland, at ceremonies attended by more than 2000 persons.

Governor Earl Warren was the principal speaker of the two-hour dedication program honoring Joseph R. Knowland, former grand president of the Native Sons and chairman of the State Park Commission for the past 10 years. The ceremonies were the main Admission Day celebration in the state.

The park, formerly the Alameda County Zoological Gardens and before that Durant Park, was acquired by the state two years ago but there had been no formal recognition of the change of ownership or of naming. Sidney Snow, director, said. A long-term development program is being planned to bring hundreds of unused acres into recreational use, he declared.

Edward T. Schnarr, past grand president of the Native Sons and an Alameda County district attorney's investigator, presided over the dedication held on the main lawn in the center of the park.

A roasting sun drove most of the gathering under the shade of nearby trees. The speakers and honored guests weren't that fortunate.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Richard Hammond was the first of the speakers to pay tribute to Knowland for his years of service to the state. In his invocation, he prayed that "his kind will increase and multiply."

Oakland's Mayor Clifford Rishell cited Knowland's "important contributions in helping citizens of the state reaffirm their beliefs in traditional American ideals."

Miss Jewel McSweeney of San Francisco, grand president of the Native Daughters, took over the speaker's stand. U. S. and state flags were run up for the first time on new flagpoles of the park. The standards were the gift of her group.

Alameda County Supervisor George Janssen termed Knowland "the first citizen of this county." He recounted his early career in the state Legislature and national House of Representatives.

Warren paid similar tributes and called attention to his friendship of 30 years with the publisher. The state's Chief Executive unveiled a bronze bust as the high point of the program.

"The present state park system," Warren declared, "would not be complete without some lasting recognition of Mr. Knowland's efforts. No man has done more to benefit the people of this state."

"He is rightly considered one of Alameda County's most useful citizens."

The bust, gift of Native Sons parlors over the state is the work of Holger Jensen and Helen Webster Jensen of Santa Monica. It rests upon a foundation of concrete from every cement plant in California mixed with water from each of the 21 missions.

The legend on the plaque below the bust reads:

"Erected by members order Native Sons Golden West in honor Past President Joseph

R. Knowland, leader for half century in preservation California history and landmarks. Chairman State Centennials Commission 1945, 1949, 1950; newspaper publisher; author; former national and state legislator; outstanding civic leader. As chairman State Park Commission, largely instrumental acquisition this property by State for public enjoyment and use.

In thanking his fellow Californians for the tribute, Knowland noted that he had attended innumerable functions in nearly a half century of public activities. "I must frankly admit," he said, "that this moment is the most disconcerting within my memory."

While the tributes paid him were not easy to accept, he said he could accept them only as a tribute to the public service rendered daily by countless others.

"It during a very active and busy life it is felt, I have, like so many others, rendered service of any value to my Nation, state or community," he said, "I accept this honor under my interpretation that I merely symbolize the concept of fellow citizens that public service should be recognized, which should be an inspiration to all engaged in civic activities and prove an incentive particularly to the younger men and women—the citizens of the future."

And as a senior citizen, he made these observations:

"This occasion demonstrates to me, as it must to countless who have passed middle age, that Sir William Osler, noted Englishman, was dead wrong when he once declared that all men over 40 should be chloroformed. I will even venture so far as to contend that the Old Testament erred in failing to anticipate what medical science would accomplish toward the advancement of longevity and which has rendered obsolete the biblical prediction that the span of life was three score and 10 years.

"I stand here, with others no doubt in the audience, as one of the exhibits and as a demonstration of the dangers of venturing into the realm of prophecy concerning life spans."

He traced the steps in acquiring the park for the state from the time he had the idea some years ago. This was while Baldwin Park in Los Angeles was under consideration for a state arboretum. He recalled that the former country estate of shipping and lumber magnate F. C. Talbot had been planted with trees that his ship captains brought from throughout the world.

"This property, then known as Durant Park," he declared, "was under foreclosure with no apparent prospect of obtaining the funds to save the 453 acres." He brought fellow members of the State Park Commission here for an inspection and the property was purchased after an independent appraisal.

"It has been the consistent policy of the State Park Commission, in the administration of all its 75 state parks, to make no admission charge, a policy recently reiterated by the commission and upheld by an opinion of the Attorney General. Charges can be made for the use of certain facilities and for concessions and such a policy will be later worked out."

J. Walter Kamb, Berkeleyan and president of the Native Sons, convened an extraordinary session of the 75th Grand Parlor to formalize the dedication.

Dignitaries who spoke included Lawrence C. Merriam, regional director of the National Park Service, and Charles Kasch, State Park Commission member.

Others present included U. S. Senator William F. Knowland and J. R. Knowland, Jr., the publisher's sons, Congressman John J. Allen, District Attorney I. Frank Cookley, Oakland Park Superintendent William Mott, State Controller Theo. B. Kachel, and members of the Board of Supervisors and City Council.

Santa Clara University Celebrates Centennial

Piedmont Parlor Bulletin, NSGW
*Dedicated to Past President H. Raymond Hall, Alameda Santa Clara President of Parlor
January, June, 1925*

One hundred years ago most Californians still scratched the earth for gold. San Francisco wallowed in its bawdiest period. Boom towns near the gold fields were at their height and the states crops lay rotting in abandoned fields. While miners delighted in gold and the riches it brought them, one man, Archbishop Alemany, was unimpressed.

He saw, instead of gold, a golden opportunity to further Christian teachings in California. He ordered a small group of Jesuit priests to found a college. The site chosen was near the old Mission Santa Clara, founded in 1777 by the famous Franciscan Fathers.

Today, the University of Santa Clara, the West's oldest university, stands amid the vineyards, orchards, gardens and homes that have made Santa Clara one of the world's ten richest agricultural counties. But 100 years ago it was only pasture land, dotted by a few adobe huts.

The early development of the University of Santa Clara is attributed to its real founder Father Nobili. He had only $150, a handful of teachers and 16 anxious students when he first opened the school in 1851, but by sheer devotion and enthusiasm, he developed the school into one of the state's leading educational institutions. Within five years, enrollment jumped to 130 students, and a library, new classrooms, additional grounds, dormitories and a gymnasium were added to the campus.

Juana Maria of San Nicolas Island

By MARGARET ROMER, (M.A.)

There she lived alone, a real flesh-and-blood Robinson Crusoe on the wind-swept desert island of San Nicolas fifty-three miles off the coast of Southern California.

All was silence save the sound of the wind as it howled and hissed in the caves at the foot of the hill below, and the distant pounding of the surf on the wind-gnawed shore.

Yes, Juana Maria was deserted there with her baby, and for twenty years she lived there alone.

Little wonder she almost forgot her language, and at first she almost lost her reason, but she soon became resigned to her abandonment and became self-reliant, resourceful and keen. Her survival depended upon her own efforts. She ate the native herbs, berries, nuts, small animals and fish. Sheltered from the wind and sand ten months of the year and from the torrents of rain in January and February, she lived in a hut made of whale bones and roofed with brush.

She wove colorful baskets from the grasses and made dresses of bird skins sewn together with fibers for thread and with needles made of fish bones. She made pets of the wild dogs and of baby otters.

All this was nearly a hundred years ago, and it happened this way:

The Channel Islands off the coast of California (of which Catalina is the best known) were formerly inhabited by large numbers of healthy and fairly prosperous Indians. But fur-traders over-ran the entire western country, both by land and by sea. The islands were especially rich in otter whose skins brought high prices in Europe. Naturally, the natives defended their shores and their hunting grounds. Naturally, too, the fur traders persisted in their profitable hunting. The resulting battles decimated the native population.

Finally, the Mexican Government sent Captain Sparks, skipper of the "Better-Than-Nothing," to bring the remaining natives and their possessions to the Santa Barbara Mission for their protection. But the little schooner was not large enough to carry everything on one trip, so the Captain planned to bring the people on the first voyage and then make a second trip for their possessions.

Now, tiny tots have a provoking way of toddling off and disappearing at most inopportune times. So, one of the Indian babies wandered off just as the boat was about to lift anchor. The infant's distracted mother frantically searched for her baby. Meanwhile, everyone else was aboard and the wind was blowing at the speed of a gale. Captain Sparks found it practically impossible to hold the little craft in-shore. Knowing he was to make a second trip anyway, he let go and set sail for the mainland.

Meanwhile, Juana Maria found the baby and ran toward the boat just as it was slipping out to sea. The passengers saw the panic-stricken woman standing on the beach crying out, "Mane-quanna, Mane-quanna!" But the Captain either could not, or would not, turn back.

On unloading his passengers at Santa Barbara, the "Better-Than-Nothing" was ordered to sail for San Francisco at once. The Captain could return to San Nicolas for the natives' possessions when he came back from the more urgent voyage. But he never came back. The ship and all its crew were lost in a storm. Shortly thereafter, the island natives were removed from Santa Barbara to San Pedro, and Juana Maria and her baby were forgotten.

Back on the Island, Juana Maria watched day after day for the ship that was to return for her people's belongings. Bye and bye she gave up her hopeless vigil. She was young and strong, and she survived by her own keen wits. But the baby was weak and soon sickened and died. Then Juana buried the little human bundle . . . the last with whom she would speak for twenty years.

Time passed.

Otter hunters who occasionally visited San Nicolas, reported evidence of human habitation there, but their stories were discredited. They never saw Juana Maria because she hid from them. She was afraid because it was their kind who had killed so many of her people.

Now, Padre Gonzales of Mission Santa Barbara was a kind man, so he began to investigate the rumors. Searching in the records of some twenty years previous, he found Captain Spark's notation of the woman and child who had been left behind. He thought that there might be a chance that the rumored inhabitants were the woman and child. This was about 1850.

So Padre Gonzales sent Captain Nidever to San Nicolas to make a thorough search. Two trips failed utterly in finding the woman, though he reported that he was sure some one lived there.

But the good priest Gonzales and Captain Nidever would not give up. They believed the "lost woman" was afraid and was hiding from them. So, on the third attempt they took Indians in the searching party on the theory that she would not fear people of her own race. Nidever started at one end of the island and spaced the men a few hundred feet apart, and they slowly marched the entire eight mile length of the island. This time, Juana Maria had little chance to escape her rescuers.

One of the Indians came upon her. She was skinning a seal, and her dog growled as he approached. According to the pre-arranged signal, the Indian raised his hat on his gun. The search was over. The word was quickly passed along the line of searchers, and they gathered around her. The men knelt and crossed themselves. Juana Maria showed no fear but offered them food from her supplies.

The party remained on the island a month longer to observe the "last woman's" way of life. They found her in excellent health and with an abundance of food consisting chiefly of fish abalone, and other shell fish. They marveled at her lovely bird-skin garments, her woven baskets and her pottery. But they thought her manners "queer." But, was she really queer, or was she the natural result of twenty years of solitary, self-reliant living?

After a month, she packed her belongings and willingly went with her rescue party to the mainland.

Although Juana Maria had been utterly without fear of anything but otter hunters on her native island, she was frightened by the rough sea during the voyage. But she was delighted when they passed other islands of the group. She seemed to recognize them and had names for them in her own language.

The mainland held a myriad of new experiences for this product of a lonely isle. She was afraid of men on horseback and terrified at cattle. Childlike in the simplicity of her pleasures, she went skipping and dancing around . . . always dancing everywhere she went. Good-natured and fun-loving, she won the hearts of all.

But no one could be found who understood Juana Maria's language, nor could she understand Spanish nor the Indian dialects spoken around Santa Barbara. But this did not deter her from getting along happily with every one she met.

Captain Nidever considered her his special charge. Himself in comfortable circumstances, he fed and clothed her and wanted her to be happy for the rest of her life. He was offered a large sum of money to contract her to a traveling show because of her unique experience but, to his credit, he refused the offer and left the poor woman free.

But Juana Maria's new happiness was destined to be brief. Captain Nidever sent to San Pedro for the other San Nicolonians only to learn that they had all sickened and died. This was a crushing sorrow to Juana Maria who had anticipated seeing her people again.

Then, too, the food of civilized man did not agree with her. She developed digestive trouble which grew steadily more serious. Her dancing slowed down; her gaiety ceased. She became increasingly ill. In spite of the best efforts in her behalf, she gave up the unequal struggle and passed away some half dozen weeks after her rescue.

LETTERBOX

September 24, 1951

Hon. Francis E. Walter, Chairman
Sub-Committee House Un-American Activities
Federal Building
Los Angeles 12, California.
Dear Congressman Walter:

The Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West, representing some 20,000 California citizens, hastens to commend you and the members of the Sub-Committee for the exemplary manner in which you are conducting the current investigation of Communistic activities in Hollywood.

The many courtesies extended by Chairman Woods and your Sub-Committee, to those suspected of subversive activity are too many to cite in detail. It will suffice to say that no congressional authority conducting public hearings looking into criminal conspiracy has taken greater precautions to safeguard the rights of those so suspected, than your Committee.

The Native Sons' Americanism Committee salutes you and knows that the Committee's investigation conducted thus far has already enlightened many good citizens to the fact that a real Red menace exists in Los Angeles. We hope that the House Un-American Activities committee will continue to expose disloyal citizens and cause their arrest whenever possible.

Very truly yours,

ELDRED L. MEYER, Chairman,
Grand Parlor Americanism Committee
Native Sons of the Golden West.

Committee members: Seth Millington, Frank J. Collins, Bernard G. Hiss, Hon. Richard M. Nixon, Benjamin C. Jones, and John P. Welch.

Mrs. P. M. Crawford, program chairman, selected "Our Founders Lay the Foundation" as the theme of the day and requested members to dress in costume. Mrs. Belle-Sisson Maguire gave "The Tribute to Our Founders."

Mrs. Clarence E. Noerenberg introduced to Californiana Parlor for the first time, the three women, Mesdames, W. W. Orcutt, Bertha Rice and Spencer Tracy, voted at the last Grand Parlor in June to be placed on the honor roll of the Native Daughters for their outstanding contributions to California.

Enjoyed was a little skit "How We Used to Play," directed by Mrs. Crawford and illustrated with bathing suits of 1885. Music was furnished by Adele Moye, while Mrs. Louis P. Drake handled the reservations.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West was founded September 25, 1886, in Jackson, Amador County, by Lily O. Reichling Dyer. She traveled by horseback and invited thirteen women to organize the first patriotic women's group in the state. The name "Ursula" was selected for the first parlor and strange as it may seem, a man presided at the first meeting, Judge Curtis H. Lindley. The principles chosen as the foundation were: Devotion to the Flag, Love of Home, Veneration of the Pioneers and an Abiding Faith in the Existence of God.

It is reported that the 1952 Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will be held in Sacramento, that being the decision reached by the board of Grand Officers meeting on September 8.

Grand Treasurer Heads Past Deputies Group

Miss Mary E. King, Grand Treasurer, was elected as Past President of the Past Deputies Group, Deputy Grand Presidents, and Past Grand Presidents. The group will meet on November 1st at a post-summer dinner and will hold its meeting at the Berkeley Hotel. The Past Deputies Group was organized by the new president into a group called the "Baby Past S."

The group was organized by Mrs. King, District, April, 1951, at the Palace hotel with 15 past supervising deputies in attendance who signed the roll as charter members. It was organized as a united group only to further the general welfare of the Order and to promote and enjoy the mutual bond of good fellowship, strengthened by ties of a common interest, that of serving as a past supervisor.

Mrs. Mae H. Noonan was the first supervising deputy of San Francisco County, under the regime of Grand President Miss Sue Irwin, so was chosen first president of the organization.

San Francisco Daughter Heads Women's Chamber

Mrs. Frank Kilsby of Yerba Buena Parlor, NDGW, was recently installed as president of the San Francisco Women's Chamber of Commerce, presiding at her first meeting Wednesday, September 5, at the Palace hotel.

Guest speaker was Val King, confidential secretary to Mayor Elmer E. Robinson. Consistent with the international recognition that San Francisco has attained in being selected as the seat for the signing of the Japanese Peace Treaty, his subject was, "San Francisco, the City that Knows How."

Women of the San Francisco Women's Chamber of Commerce assisted in staffing information booths during the Peace Conference and furnished automobiles for pleasure drives for the wives of the visiting delegates.

The chamber was also to consider a resolution endorsing the immediate construction of the monastery of Santa Maria de Oliva in Golden Gate Park as a memorial to the late William Randolph Hearst, a member of Sea Point Parlor No. 158, NSGW, through whose great generosity the monastery was obtained.

Several members of the board and a large percentage of the membership of the San Francisco Women's Chamber of Commerce are affiliated with the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Early California Mission Music Available On Records

Mission music of early California which the Franciscan Padres sang and taught to their Indian choirs has for the first time been made available to the general public in record form, according to Father Noel F. Moholy, O.F.M., S.T.D., of the Old Mission, Santa Barbara. Released last month, the two-record album entitled "Songs of the California Missions" features the voices of the internationally known Padre Choristers of Santa Barbara Mission, under the direction of Father Owen da Silva, O.F.M., outstanding authority on early mission music. Produced by RCA Victor, the album is under the auspices of the Cause of Padre Junipero Serra, pioneer priest of California and candidate for sainthood.

"In recent years there have been countless requests for recordings of these old songs, as sung by the Franciscans of today," explained Father Noel, American Administrator of the Cause of Padre Serra. "In this album the Padre Choristers, linear descendants of the first missionaries in California, revive a few selections of the earliest music which can be regarded as California's own. Created or arranged for the most part by the missionaries themselves, these compositions lay for over a century in the dusty silence of mission museums and archives. In 1930 Father Owen da Silva, O.F.M., then a student at the Santa Barbara Mission, began to examine the Golden State's musical heritage as it found it preserved in these old manuscripts. He transcribed the ancient notation and, as he arranged the sample, haunting melodies, he taught them to the Padre Choristers.

In 1941 Father Owen, now stationed at Saint Francis Retreat House, San Juan Bautista, California, published his compilation of rare manuscripts under the title "Mission Music of California," and it is considered the authoritative work on the subject. Several of the songs that appeared in this volume are now brought to life in the new recordings by the 25 voice choir under his own direction. The eight selections heard include motets, hymns and plainchants that were once popular throughout California, and were sung by Padres, Indians and colonists alike.

Native Daughters Home Built In 1928

We have all heard about the Native Daughters home at 555 Baker Street, San Francisco, but we feel that our readers might be interested in a few comments taken from a little folder recently sent to us by Dr. Mariana Bertola, chairman of the Native Daughter Home Committee.

The home is owned and supported by the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West and managed by the Native Daughters of the Golden West Home Committee.

The corner stone was laid in 1928, with Dr. Bertola giving the dedication address and Bishop Hanna the blessing. The home is a four-story steel and concrete building. The first story containing the foyer, committee room, dressing room and auditorium, which is also used as a meeting hall.

The second story contains the lounge, dining room and kitchen. In the center is the court garden.

The decorative scheme throughout is most pleasing. The stencil work on the walls deserves special mention, as it is of old Spanish design in rich tones of red and green.

Often the question is asked as to why we are placed on this earth. The answer to that is that we are here to be of service to the world; to enlarge our horizon and personality by helping others; to give as much happiness and joy to our fellow-beings as we possibly can.

This must have been the thought that prompted the establishment of the first Native Daughters home, over forty years ago, so that a place of rest and security might be provided for those members who wished to reside within its walls.

It is a refuge where members of the Order may be cared for when home ties are broken and families scattered. At the present time, according to Dr. Bertola, about 30 Native Daughters reside at the home. A Native Daughter must have been a member of the Order for 15 years before entering the home and must be able to care for herself, as it is not run as a hospital. Mrs. Grace E. Carpenter is manager of the home.

The purpose of the home may be summed up in a few words. That is to conduct a real home for members of the Order; to give self-supporting girls a place that is safe, where they find good food, home-like atmosphere and pleasant companionship.

Members of the Order living out of San Francisco may stay at the home, at a nominal cost, while visiting in the locality. The bedrooms are ample in size and well furnished. Every room is bright and sunny.

The home is also an admirable place to entertain friends with luncheons, dinners, dances or card parties. Reservation can be made by communicating with the director of the home, 555 Baker Street, San Francisco, phone WALnut 9829.

My Pioneer Ancestry

the European fashion. The next days Alta California had the following comment:

The concert arranged by Madame Von Gulpen took place last night at the Astor-Plaza Theatre. It was exceedingly well attended and by those, too, who could hardly appreciate the character of the music, as well as, the ability of the performers.

It is evident from these records of early musical events in San Francisco that my paternal grandparents were an integral part thereof, and that their names will ever remain enshrined in the history of pioneers in music in that fair city. By early 1852, a new era of music was launched in San Francisco and the pioneer withdrew from the spotlight. Madame Van Gulpen also sang in the old adobe building in Monterey, which was the first theater in California having been built in 1847.

Carl Van Gulpen was a close and confidential friend of General John A. Sutter. After the death of Madame Van Gulpen, he married Pauline Sutter, the young widow of the General's youngest son, William Alphonse Sutter. She had one child, Alphonse Sutter, who was then, (1866), three years old; my father was eight years old at that time. The two boys were raised by her as brothers, and the bond between them could not have been closer had they been natural brothers. Alphonse Sutter died on October 18, 1927, and my father passed away on March 12, 1934.

Pauline Sutter Van Gulpen was the only grandmother I ever knew. Her son, Alphonse Sutter, grandson of General John A. Sutter, was always my favorite "Uncle," known to me as "Uncle A." I was the first girl in the family and my beloved pioneer grandfather, Carl Van Gulpen, together with my grandmother, Pauline Sutter Van Gulpen, lavished their affection upon me, leaving an indelible memory of grandparents unsurpassed. Carl Van Gulpen, after his early residence in San Francisco, moved to Los Angeles, where he became a member of the original company which founded the town of Anaheim. He returned to the northern part of the state in his later years and died in the city of Alameda.

SHASTA

(Courtesy P. G. and E. Progress)

Shasta and Redding represent two major eras in the history of Shasta County and California. Shasta, or what is left of it, exemplifies the sudden wealth and mushroom growth of the "days of gold." Redding typifies the lasting, more normal development and prosperity that followed the hectic mining period and that still continue.

Shasta came into existence in the spring of 1849 and one of its charter members was Major Pierson B. Reading, a native of New Jersey, who came to California in 1843 via the Pit river gateway. In 1844 he received from the Mexican governor a grant of 26,633 acres near where Redding now stands and the settlement he established there became, in 1850, the first county seat of Shasta county. He participated in the Bear Flag Revolt at Sonoma in June, 1846, and took part in the Mexican War as a major in Fremont's California Battalion. Following the discovery of gold, he mined in several areas and he did the first prospecting on the site of the town of Shasta. For a few months the place was called Reading's Diggings and then, because of the springs that gushed from the hillsides, the name was changed to Reading's Upper Springs. But that was too long for the miners and, at a public meeting on June 8, 1850, the community was rechristened Shasta.

The seeds of Shasta were the tents of a party of Oregonians who were headed for the much-publicized gold centers farther south. They pitched camp there for a night and, while looking around, struck pay dirt. So they remained. News of their good fortune attracted throngs from all directions and, as one chronicler wrote, "they found gold glittering here, there, and everywhere."

Within a few months Shasta was a bustling camp of between 500 and 600 persons and in 1855 the count was "considerably more than 3,000." Among those pioneer Shastans were some who achieved wide fame in various fields. Joaquin Miller, "The Poet of the Sierrra," found inspiration there for several of his best works. James R. Keene, famous New York broker, picturesque millionaire and world-renowned turfman, grew up there.

Shasta's growth in population brought a corresponding increase in the number of substantial buildings. The first frame structures—two hotels—were erected in 1850. Two years later the town boasted seven hotels, three banks, and a three-story "skyscraper" called the California Exchange. In 1855 the business district contained twenty-eight brick buildings, some of which are still intact.

Several factors contributed to Shasta's prosperity and importance. The diggings were fabulously rich and by 1853 the shipments of gold averaged more than $100,000 per week. Also the town became a great marketing and transportation center. It was the chief source of supplies for Trinity and Siskiyou Counties and Southern Oregon. It was the headquarters of stage lines serving those regions and others operating to and from Colusa, where there were connections with Sacramento river steamers. It succeeded Reading's Ranch in 1851 as the county seat and retained that distinction for 37 years.

Shasta has had a prominent part in the history of Masonry. It is the home of Western Star Lodge No. 2, F. and A.M., the charter of which is dated May 10, 1848. That charter was issued to Peter Lassen, the famous pioneer, for a lodge that he planned to establish in Benton City, a townsite he laid out in Tehama county in 1847. However, Benton City never got beyond the blueprint stage and in November, 1851, the lodge charter was transferred to Shasta. The first Western Star Temple was destroyed by fire, but its successor, built in 1854, still is in regular use.

Like many gold towns, Shasta flourished for a couple of decades and then began to decline. When the Central Pacific railroad built its Sacramento Valley line in 1872, the new town of Redding became the trading and transportation center for the region. By 1878 most of the gold deposits had been worked out and a large percentage of the miners left. Today many of the old buildings are in ruins, but the town has a new lease on life as the dwelling place of between 300 and 400 persons.
